O'Conor Asks for Parley On Blue Crabs

Governor O'Conor Monday proposed a conference to save the Chesapeake Bay blue crab.

In a letter to Governor Colgate W. Darden, of Virginia, O'Conor suggested a meeting of the Governors and conservation officials of the two States and the Secretary of the Interior in Washington to discuss measures to restore the blue crab industry.

O'Conor wrote that "the decline in supply of the Chesapeake Bay blue crab, which according to the best information available, seems to have been as much as sixty per cent in the past two years, has been a cause for great concern on the part of those engaged in the industry in this State as well as to the conservation officials."

Noting a joint Virginia and Maryland interest in the crab supply, O'Conor said "the curtailment of off-shore fishery brought about by the war situation and also to the existing stoppage of the importation of Japanese crab meat" made it "of the utmost importance to insure at this time the greatest possible production of such an important item of seafood as our Chesapeake blue crab."

O'Conor predicted that a rapid recovery in the crab supply "might readily be accomplished. In fact, it seems likely that this recovery might be brought about with sufficient rapidity to be a factor in contributing substantially to the food supply of our country during the continuance of the present national emergency.' '

The Governor urged the conference be held soon.

Chicken Pot Pie

BentztownBard in the Baltimore Sun gives the real receipt for chicken pot pie:

"The only true chicken pot pie is that of our country mothers in Maryland, who cut the chicken up into single pieces, as they would for a picnic fried chicken, brought out the big stew pot, put into it first a layer of chicken, then a layer of potatoes in halves or quarters, then a layer of dumpling, cut in two-inch squares, then another layer of chicken, another layer of potatoes and another layer of dumplings. Just the slightest, tiniest edge of one slice of onion should be used, a big pinch of parsley, salt and pepper and a great hunk of real butter. This should boil and simmer on the stove until the potatoes are done and the chicken almost falling from the bones, and then you've really got a chicken pot pie. The giblets go in with the pie, and the quantity can be made enough to feed a family or an army, according to requirements."

To Our Subscribers

Your subscription is due to THE NEWS, January 1, and it is necessary that you must send in a remittance if you wish THE NEWS to reach you regular.

You all know that Uncle Sam is asking us to save waste paper, iron, tin, etc. If we continue to send you THE NEWS without pay we are not living up to the wishes of Uncle Sam and his postal officers will see that our supply of paper is cutoff and perhaps second-class mailing rates.

We are endeavoring to give you your money's worth and we hate to part with old friends, but, if you don't remit a donation in the near future we'll have to take your name from our list.
If your label reads January 1, 1940, you only owe three years, which will make your donation only three bucks.

We will swap for anything you have, chickens, meats, potatoes, corn, or wheat or what have you at the highest market prices.
A check, Uncle Sam's paper money or a personal note on any bank in the county will keep THE NEWS coming to you every Friday morning, as we are friendly with all the Cashiers who will be pleased to have us on the credit side of the ledger instead of the debitor side.

Please don't compel us to send you a bill, but remit promptly, so that we can pay the paper, ink and labor folks.
