Dear Sue.

Yours of the 7th is now before me - and after such a long-going silence on your part. I really began to imagine that you also had forgotten me - happy was I to discover that such was not the case and I now show how much I appreciate your kindness. Ever I kill and think for many minutes at a time - how this time one short year ago - we used to go out on the water - how we would sail all around the harbor - you would sing and have good hearty laughs would ring out on the quiet air and awaken echoes on the surrounding shores. Such thoughts give me the worst stages of the blues and I must say I do get really down hearted. I was sorry I did not see Mart. the other day - he did not wait long enough to let anyone see him so I imagine he really feared the small pox - I do not get home from the hospital until about 2-3 P.M. sometimes I am out all day. It is dreadful business I can assure you.
Johnny called the other day as usual I was not at home so he
