

has to tell her. I pretend that I know all about it - but must not divulge any thing. So - Miss Mullan has returned, ah! she did not stay away so long after all - I imagined she was there yet. it is none of my affair anyhow.
For I have no occasion to enquire as to her whereabouts - time or place.
I at times think I have been a fool - and I really believe others think the same. See - I am in luck this week - Three days ago a young lady presented me with a massive gold ring - and I prize it above all others.
You will see it some of those days and will agree with me in saying that it is lovely; but let me add - that it can not compare with the donor. See do you know of any family or number of young ladies from Annapolis to the Tournament at Queens town - if you can find
