SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1906.

Harry Thaw is the twentieth on the list of accused murderers in the Tombs and yet a public official in New York city asks whether that town is to be reduced to the level of a mining camp to furnish a record equally as alarming.

Wonders will never cease. Soon after the announcement that a Kansas man has refused an appointment as a United States senator comes the report that a New York actress has refused a matrimonial offer from a millionaire. She either is a remarkable woman or she has a remarkable press agent.

The democrats of the First Congressional District renominated the Hon. Thomas A. Smith, of Caroline county, at Ocean City on Thursday, for Congress. Mr. Smith is too well-known to our people to need any lengthy eulogy. He has proved by acts in the late Congress that he is the man to represent the masses.

Philadelphia is going to arrest the head of a big ice company and has arrested a number of butchers for selling bad meat. The pure food campaign of the Quaker City is proceeding on the most practical kinds of lines and with a swiftness which some of the critics of her habitual slowness would do well to imitate.

A wife beater in Indiana was beaten to death by his enraged neighbors. This, however, is carrying the homeopathic remedy of curing like by like a little too far. A better way for the wife-pitying neighbors would have been to see to the passing of a law legally but not fatally lashing the human brute, and then seeing to its enforcement by all due process of law.

A blackmailer in New York has been pardoned on condition he leaves the state. The pardoning power is much abused in its exercise, and in no respect more than in an unloading of the criminals of one state upon the people of another. If the man in question is not fit to remain in the state, he certainly is not fit to let out of prison. There should be organized protests against this violation of all interstate courtesy.

As will be noticed in our local column, the board of county commissioners has not found their office a bed of roses. The first jarring they got was, when the grand jury investigated the payment of a lawyer for services at Annapolis in the interest of the Kent Narrows' bridge. They had hardly recovered from that shock, before an injunction was served on them to make their assessors cease work until the court could decide if the assessment at this time is legal. Well, it matters not how the court decides, the taxpayers must pay the freight. The Independents are getting some of the same sauce that they dealt out to the regulars last fall.

In his salutatory last Saturday, Brother Bright of the Record certainly used good judgment in picking a winning card and, as the "bookies" would say, it looks like a straddle as to the political course of the paper. One of his paragraphs will better explain:

"The Record shall exert its best efforts to give to the public and its readers as newsy and instructive a paper as we are capable of getting out, and shall endeavor to uphold and command the right in all matters, social, economical and political, and with equal force to condemn the wrong, irrespective of party affiliations, whether such wrongs or abuse of public trust be committed by Democrats, Republicans or Independents."

The movement against the principle of trusts and against business corruption, which is showing activity on all sides, may disappoint the impatient by not accomplishing important results at once. But like all such movements, it is merely the disturbance on the surface which shows the potent and permanent changes going on below. It is impossible for the state of things which has been laid bare by private and official exposures to be remedied in a day, but the publicity thrown upon it is the beginning of its end. Many significant things have been developed since these investigations and exposures have been under way, not the least important of which is the fact that there is law enough, if enforced, to remedy the majority of the crying evils.

Some one has said that the best day in the year was July 5th because it was the farthest removed from the approaching Fourth.

An inquest in Colorado was rudely interrupted by the fact of the corpse's sitting up and asking what was going on. There is now a nice legal point as to whether the corpse did not commit contempt of court in coming to life when he had been judicially pronounced dead.

A university professor in New York is warning the American public against the danger of fortunes beyond a five-million-dollar-income limit. His arguments may seem sound, but the timid may be reassured by the assertion, easy of proof, that this danger is far from being of general happening.

Capt. Thomas W. Kendall Killed by a Fall.

Captain Thomas W. Kendall, of Centreville Landing, fell from the third-story window of his home last Sunday morning and was instantly killed. He was in the sitting-room talking to his wife and her sister. After leaving them, he went to the third story presumably for the purpose of seeing if his vessel was on its way to the Landing, and in opening the window lost his balance and fell. In fifteen minutes after the captain had left his wife, Mrs. W. G. Hobbs, of Baltimore, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Kendall, went out in the yard and found the captain lying on the ground with his neck broken. He was 82 years of age and leaves a widow and four children: Amos T. Kendall, of Centreville; Omar C. Kendall, of Pittsburg; Mrs. John Graham and Mrs. Charles Graham, both of Wilmington, Del.

Captain Kendall was born in Kent county, March 24, 1824, and was a son of Horace Kendall, a native of Kent. He obtained his education in the schools of Kent county, which he attended until he was 16 years of age and then went to sea, enlisting in the United States Navy. For two years he was in the service during the Mexican war and was on the schooner, Flirt. On his return home he became connected with the bay trade and was the owner of a schooner which sails between Baltimore and points on the Eastern Shore. For many years Captain Kendall was engaged in the grain transportation business with the late Captain John Ozmon, of Centreville, under the firm name of Ozmon and Kendall. They made regular shipments of grain from the Chester and Corsica rivers to Baltimore.

Assessors Must Take a Vacation.

A writ of injunction has been filed in the clerk's office, signed by Chief Judge James Alfred Pearce, restraining the assessors in the several districts of Queen Anne's county from continuing their work of assessment of real and personal property. The plaintiffs, among the most prominent men in the county, are James Brown, Wm. J. Price, William H. Newnam, James Merricks, Jr., Jos. E. George, Charles A. Busteed, Wm. R. Wilson, W. Hopper Gibson, E. M. Forman, Alfred Green, Jas. E. Kirwan, Jas. Bordley, Charles F. Rich and P. T. Forman. The solicitors for the plaintiffs are Edwin H. Brown, Jr., J. Frank Harper, T. J. Keating and Madison B. Bordley.

This writ was immediately served upon the board of County Commissioners and the assessors appointed by them, and all assessment work was at once suspended, pending a hearing of the case, which will probably come up at the July term of court. The return day is the first Monday in August.

The petition states that a new general valuation and assessment of real and personal property at this time is illegal, and that it can only be made at a great expense to the taxpayers of the county, which will unnecessarily and unlawfully impose upon them an increased burden of taxation, especially in view of the fact that an entirely new general assessment of personal property must be made in the year 1908, under chapter 320 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed at the session of 1906.

Old Chronic Sores.

As a dressing for old chronic sores there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Salve. While it is not advisable to heal old sores entirely, they should be kept in a good condition for which this salve is especially valuable. For sale by B. E. Cockey & Co.

REPEATING SHOT GUN
NEW MODEL No 17

Here is the cheapest good gun yet made. By the omission of the take down feature we have been able to greatly reduce the cost of production and at the same time have kept the gun up to the famous high Marlin standard of strength, safety and durability. Notice the clean simplicity of this gun. The workmanship and finish are perfect. The weight is only 7 pounds. The full choke barrels are especially bored for smokeless as well as black powder and so chambered that 2¾ inch or 2½ inch shells may be used. Several improvements in the operating parts make it the easiest, most reliable and best working gun in existence. We are glad to make it possible for every lover of guns and bird shooting to get this high grade repeating shot gun at so low a price.
