SATURDAY, JULY 28, 1906.

With Harry Thaw on trial next fall and Russell Sage's will in contest, the New York lawyers would be able to stand the rise in the price of coal.

The Ohio judge who decides that a woman's age is her own affair regardless of lawsuit interrogations has the courage of what should be any court's discretion.

A Southern jury told the court it would serve no longer unless furnished baseball bulletins and the court, recognizing that jurors are entitled to all the necessities of life, hastened to comply with the demand.

Philadelphia doctors made a balloon ascension, taking with them instruments to test the effect of high altitudes on the lungs and heart. These experiments may be useful when automobiles and grade crossings drive the ordinary pedestrian off the face of the earth.

The Chicago meat scandal has put an idea into the head of Sir Thomas Lipton. He is talking of establishing a packing plant at Winnipeg, in an effort to capture the trade of Great Britain. Sir Thomas ought to remember that he has already tried several times to beat the Americans.

A new hotel for women has been built in New York whose management announces it will not receive any guest over thirty-five. With a certificate of youth thrown in with board and lodging, of course, the new hostelry will have a steady demand for accommodations exceeding the supply.

That corporations are not soulless, as alleged, is demonstrated by the announcement that the American Tobacco Company will provide a death benefit of $500 for all employes who do not receive over $50 a week. This is to be taken from the company's treasury without asking anything in return in the shape of dues. It is said that this is the first time that such a plan has been proposed by a corporation.

Wilmington (Del.) will have a professional mourners' bureau. Richard Murphy intends to furnish men and women who will sob and wail at funerals as loudly as may be required. "It is a hardship for business men and society women to attend funerals," said Mr. Murphy, "and these are the people I will reach. The substitutes can impersonate per at a distance, their hire being less than the cost of entertaining these friends."

The spectacle of a leper being shipped hither and thither in a railroad box-car, and hounded from place to place by the zealous health officials of various communities because, forsooth, there is none charitable enough—not even Baltimore where the leper now is—to afford him isolated asylum, is a fine commentary upon the Christian civilization of the twentieth century in what we boastfully refer to as the most enlightened country on the face of the earth.

In Syria, whence came this miserable unfortunate before he was stricken with the dread disease—benighted Syria, whither we who thank God that we are not as other men send our money and our missionaries for the advancement of Christianity—he would at least have been cared for by his friends and relatives. In Baltimore, like other cities, every man's hand is against him; he is turned back at the gateway to every community, or shouldered upon the next, lest he should become a charge upon its public treasury, and meanwhile housed in a freight car, and occasionally permitted to roam at large in search of food like a wild beast, possibly to spread the scourge among those who are ignorant of the nature of his affliction.

In a case like this, when the inhumanity of the state or city authorities inflicts unnecessary suffering upon the victim of disease and finally endangers the general health, it is plainly the duty of the federal government to intervene. The government has facilities for caring for [illegible] authority to deal with the [illegible] the machinery to exer[illegible] authority. The atrocious [illegible]atment to which this Syrian leper has been subjected is a blot upon our Christian civilization which can only be wiped out by prompt action on the part of the national health officials.

The National Republican Congressional Committee has decided to ask for contributions of $1 to the campaign fund. This is a bold and underhanded plagiarism from the dollar-dinner idea.

That New York clerk who by investing in a postage stamp obtained an option on $5,800,000 worth of government bonds, it is said, will make $25,000 out of the transaction. Russell Sage was a very good financier, but there are others.

There is a convict in Paris who wants to be guillotined to give the people a free show. The only parallel to this that can be imagined would be that of a dishonest officeholder asking to be "fired" as an example to other offenders.

A sweet breath adds to the joys of a kiss. You wouldn't want to kiss your wife, mother or sweetheart with a bad breath. You can't have a sweet breath without a good healthy stomach. You can't have a healthy stomach without perfect digestion. There is only one remedy that digests what you eat and make[illegible] breath as sweet as a rose—[illegible] that remedy is Kodol for dys[illegible]a. It is a relief for sour stom[illegible] palpitation of the heart and other ailments arising from disorder of the stomach and digestion, Take a little Kodol after your meals and see what it will do for you. J. S. Denny and Wye Mills drug store.

A Tragic Finish.

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Seadyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth McIver, of Vanceboro, Me., permitted a little cold to go unnoticed until a tragic finish was only averted by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by a neglected cold; but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure, at J. S. Denny. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

Try a little Kodol for dyspepsia after your meals. See the effect it will produce on your general feeling by digesting your food and helping your stomach to get itself into shape. Many stomachs are overworked to the point where they refuse to go further. Kodol digests your food and gives your stomach the rest it needs, while its reconstructive properties get the stomach back into working order. Kodol relieves flatulence, sour stomach, palpitation of the heart, belching, etc. J. S. Denny and Wye Mills drug store.
