A woman in Maine is suing a physician for damages on account of an attack of lockjaw which she declares resulted from an operation. She wants fifty thousand dollars, and any impartial jury will agree that it is a mo'erate amount to a woman for the damage.

"We are a restless people," says an exchange. "Ever thin woman longs to be fat. Every fat woman wants to grow thin. Every town man longs for the time when he can retire in the quiet of the country, and every farmer hopes to some day quit work and move to town, when he can take life easy. Country newspaper men would like to try their hand on a city daily. The fellows on the big dailies dream of a time when they can own a paper of their own. In youth we long for maturity, in age we yearn for the happy days of childhood. There is no excuse for it other than we seem to be built that way. The grass seems to be just a little bit greener and thriftier most any direction from the place you occupy right now. Contentment is as near happiness as you can get in this world."

The plan of the 20,000-ton displacement battleship, costing $10,000,000 or thereabouts, which Congress conditionally authorized, has been submitted. Immediately a discussion has started among the naval men and ship architects as to whether that is just the ship we want, and whether, as was intended, it will be the mightiest craft afloat, and will stand as a challenge to England, France, Germany, et. al. to beat it if they can. Some naval officers are free to declare at the outset that in building this ship the United States will show itself about two years behind Great Britain and very far behind Japan, which is said to be now building a warship of 22,000 tons displacement, which is to have an armament more powerful than any ship of any navy has. So our attempt to get ahead is thwarted at the very start.

Thus, this big navy business has become a rivalry among the nations to see which can spend the most money It is a wrestle of revenues, to be decided finally upon the question which nation is willing to exact from the people the most taxes. We do not believe that national glory lies in that direction. It lies in the character of the nation, its sense of justice and its disposition to act fair. A nation stalwart in its virtue, its liberty, its high purpose is stronger than Dreadnoughts can make it. A nation that tries to build up its naval strength on the rivalry plan will fall short of its purpose as long as another nation has a stronger navy.

Next Tuesday the Pure Food law will go into effect. It was passed at the last session of Congress and its administration has been placed in the hands of the Agricultural Department. The agitation for such a law continued for a number of years before Congress finally took action. That it will produce good results is not doubted but it would be easy to exaggerate the benefits which will be derived from this legislation. An expert in New York, who has made an investigation of conditions in that city, asserts that New Yorkers pay every year $117,500,000 for "imitation foods that are worse than no foods at all." With a thorough enforcement of the law he estimates that there will be a marked decrease in the death rate. The law provides for a staff of food inspectors, who will be selected according to civil service rules and appointed only after they have passed thorough examinations. Officials of the Agricultural Department are confident that in time the law will result in the general purification of food products. Dr. Wiley, the chemist of the department, states that "we hope eventually to make it absolutely safe for any one to purchase in the market any kind of prepared food or drug that goes into interstate commerce." While the Agricultural Department is charged with the administration of the law, the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice will take part in its enforcement. This legislation was secured only after repeated representations that the health of the nation would suffer if it was not enacted. It is legislation of the highest importance, and great good will be accomplished if it produces the results which are expected.

One hundred million dollars has been added to the wages of railroad employes during the last three months. Now let the railroads follow up that by investing in a few million dollars' worth of safety devices that will really save life and property.

The latest "didn't-know-it-was-loaded" excuse is that of the train operator who didn't know that his watch had stopped, and who, as a consequence, had made no provision for an oncoming train. The consequences in the wreck that followed were of the usual deadly variety, also.

No trust prosecution—not even that against the Standard Oil Company—will arouse more general interest and sympathy than the one which the State of New York is now instituting against the American Ice Company. It has long been charged that the price of ice in New York and other cities has been screwed up to abnormal rates by monopolistic devices. Commercial extortion practised in the supply of such an indispensable commodity as this is peculiarly outrageous. It is not merely squeezing out the money of the people, but also their health, and even their lives. In the severe heated terms to which American cities are liable, shortage in ice supply or restraint through inordinate charges may readily mean death for many.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE
Makes Kidneys and Bladder Right

A man in Indiana bought refuse grease from the Chicago packing houses at eight cents per pound, used some coloring and sold it to housewives as butter for 30 cents per pound. He has been arrested for violation of the oleomargarine law and will doubtless find he has well greased his way to the penitentiary.
