

I Dartmouth.

May 19th 1871

Dear Luc:

Your note was handed me this morning before I fairly had my eyes open, and upon reading its contents I immediately turned out of my room, and got ready for the expedition. After breakfast Mrs Garrison and myself started on a round to the different furnishing stores, ^{and} finally wound up from our place of shopping. Swin's suits are nothing but light cotton, and materials, and expensive as that, stuff goods, are but little made up, and the commonest white suits for $15.00. to $25.00.
Mr Black, didn't have a dark one on hand, so I left the order for a brown suit, which he will send this afternoon, along with a
