STAR

OR,

EASTERN SHORE GENERAL ADVERTISER

EASTON: TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 15, 1808.

We have seen a letter from Washington, to a gentleman in this county, dated on Thursday last, which says, that the negociation between Messrs. Madison and Rose, had not closed, but was expected shortly would, and that the result would be unfovorable to Peace between the two countries—which account very much corroborates with the London accounts in this mornings paper—though nothing certain has yet transpired as to the result, yet we have the fullest confidence in the government, in protecting the interests of our common country.

The Washington paper of Friday last, is silent as to the pending negociation, from which, when the event does transpire, we may expect a more correct detail, than probably from any other source. Our own impressions are, that the present enthusiastic madness of the British Ministry is more bent on war, with all the world, than an amicable adjustment with any nation. Americans will do well therefore, in preparing to defend their lives, property, and country, against all invaders.

We have received by the way of Baltimore, an address to the People of the United States, signed by seventeen members of Congress, in opposition to the late Convention, relative to the next President and Vice-President—among the subscribers we find the name of John Randolph, Esq. which can but be a source of regret to those who have always appreciated his talents, that at a crisis more momentous to this country, than any since the peace of '83, he should be aiding domestic feuds, as to matters (at present) of little import, instead of promoting union, and the best defence against the enemies of his country.—The People of America have a right to look for better treatment from their representatives.

New-York, March 4.

General Moreau arrived at New-Orleans on the 22d of January, and was to take passage from thence in a few days for Charleston. His lady, according to accounts received by the Pamptico, was detained at Bordeaux, without being permitted to proceed to Paris to make the family arrangements which her mother's death had rendered indispensable. Accordingly, she was settling her affairs at Bordeaux as well as circumstances would allow her to do, and she intended to take passage in one of the first vessels for New-York.

Annapolis, March 10.

ELECTION.

At an election held on Monday last in this city, for nine directors of the branch bank at Frederick-town, the following gentlemen were elected—John Tyler, John M'Pherson, John Hoffman, Richard Potts, Roger Nelson, George Baer, Henry Kuhn, John Grahame, and Abraham Shriver.

One hundred and two shares were taken in this city on Monday and Tuesday last, in the Association of the Union Manufacturing Company of Maryland.

From the Charleston City Gazette.

Messrs. Printers,

Since you have been good enough to publish my explication of the word embargo, in reply to the federal construction of the word, I now send you other explanations, which are equally incontrovertable.

VERITAS.

A federal paper asserts that Britain will not suffer by the Embargo, for that when the importation of supplies ceases, they will consume what they have on hand.—This is up to Paddy's declaration, that when the principal of his money was gone he would live upon the interest! [*Trenton T. March 9.

Extract of a letter from Judge Rossell, dated Mount Holly, March 1st, to Aaron Kitchell, Esquire.

"In compliance with one of the enclosed resolutions, I with much satisfaction forward the proceedings of a republican meeting, convened at this place, and composed of the greater part of the members of our county court, as well as of a number of other very respectable gentlemen of this county. I beg leave at the same time to express my individual approbation to the meeting at Washington, and of the gentlemen recommended as President and Vice-President of the United States."

At a meeting of republican citizens of the county of Burlington, in the state of New Jersey, held at the house of Joseph Hatkinson, Innkeeper in Mount Holly, on Wednesday the 10th of February, A. D. 1808.

DAVID WRIGHT, Esquire, was appointed chairman, and ABRAHAM BROWN, Secretary.

When the proceedings of a meeting of the Republican representatives of each House of Congress held at the city of Washington, on the 23d ultimo, for the purpose of rscommending persons to the citizens of the United States to fill the offices of President and Vice-President of the U. States being read, it was unanimously

Resolved, As the opinion of this meeting that, at this momentous crisis of our national existence, when foreign enmity joined with internal conspiracy threatens, to destroy our liberties, more than ordinary vigilance is necessary to preserve us from the machinations of our enemies—and that no means more sure to prevent the success of those machinations can be pursued, than to place the government of the country in the hands of men, whose talents fit them for the arduous trust, and whose integrity and attachment to our republican institutions are a security against their improperly using the power delegated to them.

Resolved, As the opinion of this meeting, that the persons recommended to the citizens of the United States by the said meeting to fill the offices of President, and Vice-President are from their talents, integrity and attachment to the principles of our government, worthy of the trust and that this meeting highly approves as well the manner in which this recommendation is made, as the persons recommended, and will use all proper means to secure their election.

Resolved, That the honorable Judge Rossell be requested to communicate to the members in Congress from the state of New Jersey, a copy of these resolutions, signed by the Chairman and attested by the Secretary.

DAVID WRIGHT, Chairman.
Attest.
ABRM. BROWN, Secretary.

A violent earthquake, of more than half an hour's continuance, had been felt throughout the coast of Barbary, particularly at Algiers, which had done considerable damage.

An article from Hamburg announces the intelligence that an English squadron, under the command of admiral Hood, had presented itfelf before Morstrand, a city of Sweden, and demanded the occupation of that port and fortress, with what success does not appear but the inference is palpable, that England expects Sweden will be compelled to join the continental coalition.

To the Editor of the Star.

It is a considerable gratification to me as a citizen of this place, to see that one step has been taken towards raising a fund for the purpose of procuring a Fire Engine, and its necessary apparatus—But however laudible I may acknowledge the design and praise-worthy its abettors, yet I have my doubts as to its execution: For I am afraid you will be lulled into a kind of fatal security, by simply thinking you have money enough subscribed for the above purposes; but you must not stop here; I would propose that a meeting of the contributors be called, to form themselves into a company, and appoint two or more (if necessary) of its members to draught a constitution, and appoint the necessary officers, who in the course of the several meetings will learn their official duty, which undoubtedly is necessary to be known, so soon as the nature of the case will admit of—The peculiar situation of this town requires every exertion that can be made by its inhabitants, that in the hour of danger every man may know his post, which cannot be calculated on with any degree of success without the proper organization of such an association: Do not, therefore, wait for the arrival of the engine, from which to date your commencement as a company, but be prepared to manage her when she does come; by frequent meetings you will get yourselves acquainted with the movements and duties of a fire company, without which your property will never be in any kind of security. Why then this state of apathy? why sleep at your post in the hour of danger? "It is too late after the steed is stolen to shut the stable door." To avoid the dilemma, take time by the forelock, and push the business on.

EXAMINER.

Easton, March 14.

The objections made to Mr. Madison amount to this: he is, what all the world have taken him to be, a firm, consistent, and able patriot—he is no stranger to our public affairs from he begining: he has been upright in every trust, and wherever, in the United States may be the place of his residence or birth, he is a friend, as well as a citizen of the United States. He is upon every account designated as the most proper person for the office of President, and what all have long known, his friends have readily and publicly announced.

HAYTI.

The act interdicting the trade to Hayti, (says a Boston paper) will expire at the end of the present session of congress; and it is said to be intended not to renew it.

From a Petersburg, (Russia,) paper of November 18, 1807.

News, very interesting to neutralists, has been received here from Irkutsk, in Siberia. Mr. Adams, who went out as a companion to the ambassador to China, has seen and examined the carcase of an enormous animal, near the mouth of the Lena, whose marks all manifested it to be a mommoth. The carcase was, as yet, covered with its hide, which retained the whole of its hair, and it had lost but little of its flesh.

From these appearances, it is very probable, that the race of the mammoth, which was believed to be extinct, still exists.

5093 Shares were subscribed in the city of Baltimore, on the first day, in the Union Manufacturing Society, of Maryland. The number subscribed in Easton, and Talbot county, we are informed did not exceed 50.
