

Am you anyway alarmed, at the amount of contagious diseases on record? Small-pox seems to have taken a foothold in some parts of our city. Cholera and yellow-fever is confined to the locality near the water.
See, Mrs Lorraine returns many thanks to Mr. Rouse for his kind donation, handed her by him.

I am sure for one, that I should be glad to visit you in your room. I am glad to hear of that, it is lots to see you. if she can come up, then we are just a man, hand on she has finger and toes. No doubt there will be a big time at the Academy when the "Duke" visits the ancient city, so far there is no talk or preparation of our officials. But I suppose they will extend the hospital of the city, as is the custom.

Forgive my rudeness for not returning your letter, for the note is kind.
I enjoyed them, it seemed like old times they were splendid. If I keep on, you will surely be for getting a cup of tea or coffee to amuse yourself after such a stupid visitor. All unite in sending love to you and the family with my usual share to all in general and Nan in particular, write soon and believe me the same old Lorraine
