

Schoolroom. Receipt.
March 3rd 1872.

Dear Mart.

If I ~~do~~ am not set crazy before it by the noisy children will give you ^{an} answer as to where we will go this eve'g.

Nannie sends many thanks for your kind invitation, but a previous engagement will prevent her acceptance. I will go with you as this promises to be a clear evening. Is it not an elegant morning? except the wind blowing so hard. I send you the "Man in black" presume you will have leisure to read it to day. Gramatical errors are numerous in this but knowing your kindness of heart will not write it over, but beg you to overlook them.

How is Mollie today. Better I hope.
As it is time to call the 'Childers' to
