

6
They were both made - to add to Man's happiness - And Man is the instrument to Cultivate and protect Woman to encourage and gladden Man in his labors and successes but tho so frail and delicate - yet in time of trouble, she is the stronger of the two, and then it is that woman shows her great magnificence and assistance she is to man - At those times the weaker becomes the stronger - At that critical moment, Man would fall were it not for her - She then bears the burden and not only stands up under it her self - but is the prop on which man leans to sustain himself also - And I never knew a man in that hour, who trusted to woman that at last he did not come out victorious, that is if he followed her council and did all he could - Don't misinterpret my words, I