STAR.

General Advertiser.

EASTON:—TUESDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 4, 1810.

Easton, August 28, 1810.

Agreeably to notice in the Star of this morning, a number of Democratic Republicans having convened at the Court House in Easton, to appoint a committee to meet the committees from Queen Ann's and Caroline counties at Hillsborough, on Wednesday the 5th September next, to nominate a suitable person to represent the 7th Congressional District in the 12th Congress of the U. States—Col. Wm. Hayward was called to the chair, and Dr. Wm. E. Seth appointed secretary, when the following persons, viz. James Nabb, Dr. William E. Seth, Samuel Tenant, Solomon Dickinson, Thomas P. Smith and John M G. Emory were nominated and approved unanimously

On motion—

Resolved, The aforegoing proceedings be signed by the Chairman, and attested by the Secretary, and published in the Republican Star.

W. HAYWARD, Chairman.

FROM GIBRALTAR.

Arrived yesterday schooner Industry, capt. Harris, 31 days from Gibraltar. Capt. H. has furnished us with Gibraltar papers to the 21st July, but they afford no political news of any novelty.—The accounts from Spain and Portugal make no mention of the reported battle between the French and Portuguese:—they however confirm our previous accounts of the French armies in Spain—of the continued and successful incursions of the Spanish peasantry—and of the increasing hatred which is manifested against the French in every quarter. A Spanish gentleman arrived at Gibraltar from the environs of Seville states—that the French were attacked near Seville from the 1st to the 6th of July, by the divisions of Ballesteros and Capon, with great success; that great numbers of dead and wounded were seen carrying into Seville; and that when he came away, the firing of cannon and musquetry was still continued. The papers also state, that king Joseph had returned to Madrid, and had dismissed from his life guards all the Spaniards who had been employed about his person.

Baltimore, Aug. 29.

The Council of the regency at Cadiz, have issued a proclamation dated at Cadiz, June 11, calling a meeting of the Cortes on the island of Leon, in August. They are convoked in the name of his majesty Ferdinand VII.

Gen. Sarrazin who so singularly abandoned his post at Boulogne and went to England, it is said designs coming out to America.

A compromise is stated in a London paper of the beginning of July, to have been permitted between the captors and owners of American vessels and their cargoes in two French ports, (we think Nantz and Boulogne) by which the captors get one half, and the remainder to be delivered to the suffering owners.

Capt. Whitney, of the ship Erato, arrived at New York from Havanna, informs us, that a Spanish vessel had arrived there from Montevideo, with intelligence of that port having declared itself independent.

FULTON's TORPEDOES.

It will be recollected, that our wise heads at Washington, granted $5000 to Mr. Fulton for the purpose of exhibiting sundry sub-marine bombs and trigger torpedoes, which it was stated would be an ample means of national defence. Now what will the good people of America think, when they are told, that the said Fulton sold to England, for a large sum, the means of defence against his torpedoes? This appears to be the fact from an assertion made in the British Parliament by Lord Stanhope; that the sum of 10,000 pounds was first awarded him for the discovery of the torpedoes; and afterwards £15,000 for supplying the British shipping with the means of counteracting their destructive effects. Boston Gazette.

Hear both sides and then Judge.

The real question in this case, is—Who's the dupe?

"Now what will the good people of America [and England] think when they are told that the said Fulton," (in the elegant and lawyer-like language of John Bull's advocates) on receiving the £15,000 aforesaid, and being asked for the specification of his counteracting means by Lord —— one of the board of admiralty, significantly pointed to England and America on a chart before his Lordship, placing between them a strip of paper on which was written—

"Meumet tuum."

This being unintelligible dead letter to H. M's servants, and being pressed for his specification—Mr. F. gravely took pen ink and paper and sat down and wrote:—

"The infallible and only certain means of defence for his majesty's ships against torpedoes is in keeping their distance from those ports that employ them for their defence."

"One story is good till another is told." Let John Bull's advocates make a better one if they can, out of the WHOLE CLOTH.——[Bost. Pat.]

FROM THE AMERICAN.

A report is in active circulation, which, if it has its foundation in truth, must remove every particle of suspicion that has been, and now is professed to be entertained by them, as to the criminality attached to General Wilkinson, in connection with the Spanish intendant, and others at New Orleans. It is not fair to attempt to prejudice a public servant, who is arraigned at the bar of public opinion, on a charge of high crimes and misdemeanors, be the accused ever so guilty; but more especially, if it may be so said, pendente lite (during the trial.) Justice requires, and unquestionably, the penal code of our country sacrifices the rules that every man charged with a crime, is presumed to be innocent, until proved to be guilty on due enquiry and just examination. Let General Wilkinson's accusers have fair play; but in the name of all that is valuable in a free state, let the party charged, have like play. It will astonish some men, to whom a certain communication has been made, (years ago) if General Wilkinson should in the course of the pending enquiry, produce certain stubborn documents, in the hand writing of an illustrious deceased benefactor of the United States, which, will not only justify certain acts done by Gen. Wilkinson at New Orleans, and other places; but which acts, if Gen. Wilkinson had not such documents in his power to produce, would amount to a crime of the deepest dye; and, which must be acknowledged, when the documents alluded to, are laid before the public eye, to have been not only justifiable, but to have been done in pursuance of, and in obedience to, a power, a command to him given by the illustrious deceased, as above referred to—General Wilkinson, no doubt, will apply to the high department in whose custody certain documents were deposited for safe keeping, at a period of the late administration of the general government, when a most violent attack on him and others appeared in a paper called the Western World, to produce said documents; when produced, and produced they will be; then the highly meritorious services which General Wilkinson has more than once rendered to the United States, will be duly appreciated by the great body of his fellow citizens, who have been, comparatively speaking, heretofore in a state of darkness, as to this mysterious business; but, on which, it is confidently asserted, the General will throw a body of light, which will raise him to a towering height, in the judgment of his grateful countrymen. Fellow citizens! be patient; wait a little longer, before you make up an opinion and bring in a verdict in the case "Magna est Veritas et prevalebit." Truth is all-powerful, and will prevail.

SARATOGO.

Washington county, Maryland, August 23, 1810.

N. B. The foundation on which the above is bottomed, was laid by John Beckly, Esq. the late clerk of the House of Representatives, in a personal communication made by him to Saratoga, on his return from the Berkley Springs, a short space of time before his decease; in consequence of having been in a large company in a western county of this state, when and where General Wilkinson was held up to view, in very unfavorable colours.

Federal Decency. The last Connecticut Mirror, edited by Theodore Dwight, very modestly & charitably calls Messrs. John Adams, John Quincy Adams, William Loughton Smith and Wm. Gray, for having left the federal party, traitors and deserters. Does this patriotic libeller and hireling slanderer and defamer recollect how high these gentlemen have hitherto stood in the political world? and that it has been the boast of federalists that these same characters were invulnerable to such paper shot as his? Or has he ever heard of a certain Mr. Dwight, who professed to be a republican, until Mr. Burr discovered that he would never make an eminent lawyer, and then went back to Hartford, made a bonfine of his republican books, pamphlets and newspapers, and declared himself a federalist, and is now a champion of the party, and abuses infinitely better men for having merely done as he did? And is this Mr. Dwight, for this, a traitor and deserter? Or are we quite mistaken in our enquiries? Columbian.

WEAVING.

The following extraordinary day's work was performed at Mr. Russell Bronsons Manufactory in Clinton, Oneida county, state of New York, by a young man by the name of Erastus Butler, 17 years of age, (American born) who, on the 18th instant, wove 50¼ yards of Cotton Shirting rising ¼ yard wide of yarn No. 11, spun at the Whitestown Cotton Manufactory—He commenced at 5 o'clock in the morning and terminated his day's work at 7 in the evening, making 14 hours, including all necessary intermissions. The cloth which is of an even, beautiful texture has been inspected and measured by the subscribers, who can attest to the above facts.

On the 20th inst. the same young man wove one yard of the same kind of Cloth in precisely ten minutes.

Spartan Matrons—Ancient history often glows with the heroic spirit of the Lacedemonian ladies. But America can boast their equals. An old gentlewoman in Connecticut told a traveller, that she had sent five sons and eleven grandsons to Boston, when she heard of the engagement between the provincials and regulars. The gentleman asked her if she did not shed a tear at parting with them? "No, (said she) I never parted with them with more pleasure." But suppose, said the gentleman, they had all been killed. "I had rather (said the noble matron) this had been the case, than that one had come back a coward." Freeman's Journal.

EASTERN POLITENESS.

When Mr. Perceval waited on the Persian Ambassador, to compliment him on his arrival in England, he was fearful that the season of the year would make an unfavorable impression on the mind of his Excellency, Mr. Perceval, therefore, desired Sir G. Ouseley to tell his Excellency, that this was the middle of winter, when the sun was frequently hidden from view several days together. His Excellency answered—"The ruddiness of your countenance is sufficient to illuminate the atmosphere, & in your presence the absence of the sun need not to be regretted. You are the great star which sheds its influence over England, (perhaps his Excellency meant the Treasury.) You are the ruby of delight, the pearl of pearls, the brilliant of brilliants, and the diamond of diamonds, and your presence is more agreeable to the senses than otto of Persian roses.*"—On this shower of Eastern compliment, Mr. P. was nearly overcome, and after making an Eastern obeisence, with great difficulty, (for he was near falling, he bowed so profoundly) he slid away out of Ardul Mirza Hassan's presence. (Lon. pap.)

* This was the express word used by his Excellency.

It has been confidently reported for several days past, that Commodore PORTER has resigned his command on board the frigate Essex, to which he was lately appointed. (Spirit of '76.)

The London papers state, that several of the Princes are extremely angry with Mr. Cobbett in consequence of his harsh animadversions on the German troops. the profits of Cobbett's Register, netts him clear £4000 sterling per annum—equal to $17,760.

A letter from Havanna, dated July 31, says, "No flour having lately arrived, I suppose a cargo of Philadelphia would now bring from 33 to 34 dollars per barrel."

DIED, on board the U. S. brig Vixen, of which he was commander, Lieutenant JOHN TRIPPE, on his voyage to New-Orleans.

It has become so much a custom to ascribe in unbounded panegyric to the dead, virtues and talents which their lives did not exhibit, that an impartial notice of the character of this gallant officer, may be, perhaps, classed by those who knew him not, among such unmeaning and prostituted eulogiums—yet it is due to the cause of human nature, that such an example should not be unknown; and it is essential to justice, that such virtues should be imbalmed in the memory of his countrymen——One, therefore, who knew, and I trust appreciated his worth, may be permitted to bear to it this sad and sincere testimony.

At an early age he entered the navy, then rising into eminence, and soon distinguished himself by that spirit of subordination, which best displayed his future fitness to command—though by nature violent in his passions, his affability and gentleness endeared him to all—his heart was noble and liberal as the day, and to distress "his pity gave ere charity began." His courage when aroused, was dreadful as Heaven's vengeance; to the vanquished, his mercy was gentle and reviving as its dews.—It would exceed the limits of this paragraph, to follow him in his career of honor—bright indeed was the path, though full of danger. He was enamoured of glory, and at the price of his best blood was admitted to her embrace—nor did his health ever recover from the multiplied wounds, which sealed his victory over the pirates of Tripoli In private life, his modesty but added lustre to his other virtues; ever careful to avoid any mention of his own exploits. and shrinking from the most justly merited eulogiums, he was always the first to observe and applaud the merits of others. He was cherished by his friends with no common affection, and his sincerity justified its warmth—but he is gone, and to them are left unavailing regrets—yet long, very long, shall he be remembered—"recorded honors shall gather round his monument, and thicken over it; it is a solid fabric, and will support the laurels that adorn it."——(N Y. Amer. Citizen.)

DIED, on the 27th ult. after a long and painful illness which she bore with christian fortitude, Mrs. Susan Emory, relict of the late Robert Emory, jun. of Queen Ann's county.

—— On Thursday last, Mrs. Mary D. Roberts, the amiable consort of Mr. Samuel Roberts, of this county.

—— On the same day, Mr. James Hunt, of this town.

LAND FOR SALE.

JAMES WILSON, (of Daniel.)

HAVING lately conveyed to me as a Trustee, the lands on which he lives, for the purposes expressed in the Deed, which may be seen by having recourse to the Records of the county—This is therefore to give notice to his creditors, and to all those who may be disposed to buy the said lands, that they will be sold at Public Sale, on the premises, on Saturday, 1st September next, at 12 o'clock

Those lands are handsomely situated on Choptank river, about a mile above Kingstown The greater part of the arable land is very good, well adapted to all kinds of grain, and may be made extremely valuable at a moderate expence—There is a valuable marsh attached to the farm and several pieces of good meadow ground; the buildings are such as suit common farmers—Presuming that each one disposed to buy will view the lands previous to the day of sale, any further description of them is deemed unnecessary. The precise quantity of land is at present unknown, but an accurate survey will be made and a plat exhibited, designating the wood land, arable land and marsh, and shewing the quantity of each kind We think there will be between 300 and 400 acres altogether.

About one half of the purchase money will be required on the day of sale, and the residue within such periods as shall be found to be most agreeable to those who are concerned in the sale, of which due publication will be made on the day of sale.

JOHN GOLDSBOROUGH.

☞ The above sale is postponed till Wednesday, 12 h of this month (September,) by which time it is expected Mrs. Wilson will have released her right of Dower. The terms of sale will also be more favorable to the purchaser than th se mentioned on the first day of September on the premises.
