NAPOLEON'S WARS.

Against England are two fold;—against her commerce, and against her armies. The policy of burning her goods, wherever found appears to us no less wise than strong. It truly resembles the annual practice in some of the interior states of Africa, of setting fire to the grass, furze, weeds and brush in order to scorch the snakes, asps, &c. to Death. Besides defeating the intentions of England to draw money from the continent, the burning of her goods will put the people of Germany, &c. &c. to the necessity of manufacturing for themselves,—the straight road to wealth and independence.

The war in Spain has assumed a Fabian character,—intentionally, we doubt not; as its delays subject England to an expence of three millions per month for troops, provisions and transports. The reader may amuse himself in comparing the degrees of destruction by which each species of warfare differ. America may profit by the example before her. Whig.

CENSURE.

Mr. Pickering, having read a document in debate (on the Florida subject) in the senate, confidentially communicated to that body, Mr. Clay offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the public perusal in the Senate of certain papers, with open galleries, by the gentleman from Massachusetts, (Mr. Pickering) in his seat without a special order of the Senate, removing the injunction of secrecy, which papers had been confidentially communicated to the Senate by the President of the United States, was a palpable violation of the rules of this body.

[The document is said to have been a letter from M. Talleyrand; which intimated that France being the ally of Spain, would resent an attempt on our part to wrest possession from her by force.] Ibid.

EAST LOUISIANA AFFAIRS.

By the following paragraph, which we find in the Natchez Weekly Chronicle of December 3, it will be seen that Governor Claiborne reached Natchez on the 30th ult. and promptly proceeded to carry his instructions into effect. Nat. Intel.

"His excellency governor Claiborne and major G. C. Russel, arrived at the cantonment, Washington, from the seat of government, on Friday last, and yesterday an order was issued for the embarkation and movemeut of the army. A strong detachment under col. Covington will sail this day, and the remainder, under col. Pike, will follow, with the least possible delay. It is understood that the army will be joined by general Hampton on the river, who is hourly expected by way of New Orleans, and from whom they are to receive further orders and probably a developement of the object of the expedition. It is further said that governor Claiborne has ordered out the whole body of the militia of the Orleans territory, and we presume the detachment governor Holmes holds in readiness from this territory, will receive marching orders."

The following article from the same paper as the above is the latest information we have from our southern frontier. It appears possible at least that some blood may have been spilt before the American forces, or even an intimation of their intention, shall have reached the scene of action.

"West Florida.—A gentleman from Pensacola and Mobile, direct, informs that both those posts were in an excellent state of defence and well filled with troops—that governor Folch was at Mobile, where he was expecting a reinforcement from Havanna, when he intended advancing for Baton Rouge—that colonel Kemper, in the service of the convention, was on the Alabama river, with 300 men, where he will probably remain until he receives a reinforcement; the standard of independence had been reared by major Kennedy, in the vicinity of Mobile, where the cause has many friends.

"We learn from St. Francisville, that the legislature assembled there last week, under the new constitution, and elected FULWAR SKIPWITH, Esq. governor—& that in consequence of despatches from col. Kemper, a detachment of 1,500 men (with a suitable train of artillery) under the command of colonel Kirkland, marched from St. Francisville for Pensacola, on the 24th ultimo.

"By a gentleman from New Orleans, which place he left on Monday last, we learn that whilst he was at Baton Rouge, the squadron of gun boats, which sailed a short time since from this place, passed and exchanged a salute with the fort. Great military preparations were going on in Florida, from which our informant supposed some enterprize of consequence was in contemplation."

New Orleans, Nov. 20.

BATTURE

Of the Fouxbourg St. Mary.

On this morning, at 10 o'clock, the Marshal of the United States, for this District, by virtue of an order issued by the Attorney General of the United States, for the same District, proceeded to the Batture for the purpose of confirming and maintaining the taking of possession which had precedently been effected in the name of the said United States. He was accompanied with his Deputy Marshal and several other respectable citizens; & being arrived thereon, he ordered to an individual named Joseph Arnauld who had slept in a hut erected on the said Batture, and who had been established as a guardian in the name of Edward Livingston to go out immediately of the property of the United States.

On the same day at one o'clock, by virtue of a reiterated order from the Attorney General, the Marshal proceeded again to the said Batture upon which then stood Mr. Livingston, and there the Marshal in presence of several notable citizens who accompanied him, notified to the said Mr. Livingston to go away from the hut abovementioned as belonging to the U. States, and Mr. Livingston having answered that he would not do it, unless compelled by force. The Marshal then called upon the posse commitatus and Mr. Livingston was formally expelled from the property of the United States.

The arrivals at New York of the Golden Fleece, Thompson, from Tonningen and Lucies, Gibbs, from Liverpool, furnish dates from Hamburgh and London as late as the 7th and from Liverpool as late as the 9th Nov. The Trianon Tariff of 50 per cent. was extending over the North of Europe. All American property in Holstein was said to have been put in a state of sequestration, the owners being obliged to declare within 48 hours whether they wish to enter their goods at Hamburgh according to the new French Tariff, & pay the Danes an additional duty of 6 per cent; or if not, to pay instantly the Danish duty for home consumption with an additional duty of 1-4th. The Golden Fleece was hurried away with only 2-3ds of her cargo on board, to avoid detention as another embargo was apprehended.

The princess Amelia, the youngest daughter of the royal family of Whelps, died on the 2d Nov. She was born Aug. 7th, 1783. The London papers speak of her in the highest strains of eulogy.

The king was still ill, which created much interest among the persons attached to the court and ministry. A regeecy was spoken of. The privy council had ordered a form of prayer for the restoration of the king's health. Daily reports on the state of which is issued from St. James. The court would go in mourning for the princess, six weeks, and the Theatres in London are closed.
