FROM THE TRENTON TRUE AMERICAN.

Do as you would be done by.

DO federalists act as they'd wish us to do,
If they were the many, and we were the few,
If we were expell'd from the administration,
And they were re-placed at the head of the nation?
—Would they think it right, while they did all they could
To preserve public peace and promote general good,
Should we heap on them daily the vilest abuse,
The fairest of characters foully traduce.
If their projects succeed, to the merit lay claim,
If defeated, on them throw the whole of the blame;
Their motives for even wise measures distrust,
Nor fail when we could to attribute the worst,
Denounce them, in toto, as villains or fools,
'The former the tyrants, the latter their tools;
Should we year after year as a phalanx unite,
To oppose all their plans from mere envy and spite,
And when we lack strength to defeat them, perplex
All our wits to embarrass, dishearten and vex;
Take part e'en with Traitors to answer our ends,
And the foes of our country embrace as our friends,
Or would they without hesitation declare,
'Twas unjust and unwise, and absurd and unfair?
