SONG

FROM MISS BALFOUR's POEMS.

Tune—Mary do you fancy me.

THE hawthorn trees all were in blossom,
And green was the fields and the grove,
When Mary I pressed to my bosom,
And first spoke in accents of love.

Hard by where the eglantine closes,
While thrushes sung sweet from the spray,
I brought her a garland of roses,
And chose her the queen of the May.

Oh Mary, though years have rolled over,
And others thy wrinkles can see,
No change in thy face I discover,
For still thou art lovely to me.

That face with benevolence beaming,
The absence of beauty supplies,
And the tear of humanity streaming,
Fresh lustre imparts to thine eyes.

With health & with pleasure when glowing,
Our grand-children play round the door,
My heart with delight overflowing,
Looks back on the days that are o'er.

Those days which now swiftly are wening
Have left no regret on my breast,
Nor a wish, oh my Mary! remaining,
But to sink on thy bosom to rest.

IN CHANCERY, March 28, 1811.

James M'Cotter,
vs.
Ann. Walter & Henrietta Massey & Wm. Fountain, Easter, Solomon, William, Elizabeth & Sarah Frampton, Ann Fountain & Thomas Cooper

THE object of the bill is to obtain a conveyance to the plaintiff of part of a tract of LAND called Wilson's Desire, or Ferrisses Farm, a sale of part thereof and a deduction from the price. The bill states that William Fountain sold the land to the complainant for $2500, and a division was made between them: Frampton died without having paid any part of the purchase money, leaving the defendants of that name his heirs at law. Fountain also died, when a suit was brought by his administrators, Ann Fountain and Thomas Cooper against the complainant for the whole purchase money. The bill also states the land was sold free from all incumbrances, but the widow, Ann Fountain, has sued for and obtained a judgment for her dower, an which account the deduction is claimed. It also states, the defendants named Fountain are the heirs at law of William Fountain, and that the defendants reside out of the state. It is thereupon, (on motion of the complainant,) ordered, thas he cause a copy of this order to be inserted at least once in each of three successive weeks, in the Star, printed at Easton, before the 12th day May next, to the end that the defendants may have notice of this application, and of the subject and object thereof, and may be warned to appear in person, or by a solicitor, on or before the 12th day of September next, to shew cause (if any there be) wherefore a decree should not pass as prayed.
