stroy it if they could, it is impossible to doubt. Under such circumstances it is the bounden duty, as well as the evident interest, of every friend to Liberty, to give our republican system his hearty and steady support—and to use all his care and skill to prevent any contention and heal any disunion that may injure or endanger the republican cause.

STAR.

General Advertiser.

EASTON :—TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 21, 1811.

The last mails having furnished a press of late and interesting Foreign News—we have therefore devoted a large portion of this Star to detail; but confined limits compel us to borrow the following summary from a New York paper, by which we possess our readers with the heads of what is passing a broad.

New-York, May 14.

By the fast sailing ship Orbit, Captain Vose, the editors have received London papers to the evening of the 15th ult inclusive. These papers are filled with the particulars of the retreat of the French army under Massena, together with the various skirmishes in all of which the British were more or less successful.

In a despatch from Lord Wellington of the 27th of March, dated Goveia, he states, that,

"Devastation and slaughter, useless havoc and murder, continue to mar Massena's retreat. The prospect before our advanced guard was always that of burning villages, of plundered cottages, of murdered peasants, the roads were covered with the dying and the dead. with cannon, baggage and ammunition, which the enemy could not carry off; with mutilated cattle, with every thing in short, that could create horror and disgust that could make the heart feel sentiments of indignation against the barbarous enemy, and pity for the suffering and ravaged nation."

At Falma, on the 10th of March, Ballasteros surprized General Ramona's corps, and took 500 prisoners, near Cadiz.

The Imperial Guard in the North of Spain, had been ordered to France.

Marshal Beresford, previous to his capture of Ney and his army, had taken 16 pieces of cannon and killed & wounded 600 men.

General Zayas had reinforced Ballasteros near Ayamonte with 6000 men,—and it was expected that the siege of Cadiz would be raised.

The Star of the 15th ult. says, "another force will be speedily embarked for Portugal. The 1st battalion of the 60th 1000 strong, has arrived off Cowes, and is immediately to proceed on service.' Some uneasiness was excited in England on the publication there of our last non-importation act; and it was said to be in contemplation, to pass a similar act against the U. States.

Count Lauriston, Ambassador to Russia, left Paris the 6th ult for St. Petersburg.

The king of England continued as well as usual, and walked several hours on Windsor Terrace on the 14th of April.

Both houses of Parliament adjourned on the 11th of April, to meet again on the 24th of the same month. The report of the Queen's council upon the king's health, was presented to both houses the night previous to their adjournment.——The report states, that the king's health is not yet restored to such a state as to be capable of resuming his royal authority; but that his physicians continue to express their expectation of such recovery.

The king of Naples has arrived at Paris, to see the infant king of Rome.

A battle was fought near Olot, on the 5th of March, between the Spanish General Milans, & a French force of 3000. The enemy retreated with the loss of about 1500. The Patriots lost in killed and wounded, only 110.

At a court of the Prince Regent, held on the 11th ult. Mr. Foster had an audience, and took leave of the Prince Regent, previous to his departure for America, on his mission. We understand, by the passengers in the Orbit, that Mr. Foster was to sail about the 20th ult.

It was expected in England, at our latest dates, that the court of St. Petersburg would, on the arrival of the Baltic fleet, open its ports, freely to English commerce. No express declaration had been made by any of the northern powers as to the line of policy they intended to pursue—More than one or two of the Baltic states are favorably disposed to Great Britain; and it is said that a Danish messenger had arrived at London, with a proposition for England to garrison Zealand and its capitol with 10,000 men. It is certain that the squadron under Saumarez was to be augmented.

The emperor Alexander, it is said, has come to the resolution of declaring to Europe, his decided neutrality.

At Hamburg, 101 cannon were fired on the news of the birth of the young Napoleon.

Lord Wellington writes, that he shall send his prisoners home in the transports, as they were no longer necessary.

The French official account of the battle of Barossa, is not, says the Statesman, so gross a prevarication of the truth, as the original notice of it in the Moniteur.

By a late French decree, the poor Hamburgers are compelled to give up their arms, ammunition, &c. to the French government.

The United States frigate Essex, sailed for France the 1st ult for dispatches—but was to return to Cowes for Mr. Pinkney.

Lord Wellington's head quarters on the 27th of March, was at Goveia, near the frontiers of Portugal

The gallant col. Graham his officers & soldiers, have received Parliamentary thanks

A letter from Vienna, states, that the emperor's brother, the Archduke Francis, had embarked for England, with 3 millions, in money, jewels, &c His absconding occasioned a great bustle.

It was rumoured in England, that a revolution had broke out in Sweden, and that Bernadotte and his supporters had been overthrown.

Died at London, on the 9th ult. the Turkish Envoy to the British court.

Private letters say, that the intended retaliation, by the British government, will be to forbid the importation of American produce, except in British vessels

The French fleet in the Scheldt was ready for a start. Privateers and fishing boats have been stripped of their hands to man them.

The British government were about giving 100,000 pounds for the relief of the distressed in Portugal, who had suffered by the war.

Daily bulletins were issued in Paris, relative to the health of the Empress and her infant king—both continued in health.

The next mail for America, was to be sent out in his Britannic Majesty's ship Paz.
