Ralph Hance Dies After Fall.

On Thursday afternoon of last week, Ralph Hance, about 30, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kinsey M Hance, of Prince Frederick, sustained injuries in a fall from an electric light pole at Solomon's, while he was at work drilling a hole in the exterior wall of the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory, from which he died the following afternoon at 3:45 o'clock at the Calvert County Hospital, where he was taken immediately after the accident In falling from the pole, which is over 15 feet tall, his head struck on some concrete steps. Dr. Earle Gontar was the attending physician, and on Friday at the Hospital an operation was performed by Dr. Charles Bagley, eminent brain specialist of Baltimore, in an effort to save the patient's life.

The sudden death of this young man was a great blow to his devoted family and a shock to his many friends. He was very well known, and by his genial nature and kindness of heart he was very generally liked, and will be greatly missed.

Mr. Hance is survived by his parents a sister, Mrs Charles Simmons, and three brothers, Ray, Claude and Vernon Hance.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon last at 2 o'clock at Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. S. Paul Schilling, assisted by Rev. H. Kearney Jones.

Struck by Lightning.

Richard C. Carroll, 29, of Cassoda, a suburb of Greenwich, Conn., was struck by lightning, and instantly killed, on Thursday afternoon of last week at Solomon's while he was coaching a boat crew of the Standard Oil steamer now at anchor in the Patuxent River at Solomon's. The crew was at practice on the river off Solomon's when a fairly brief electrical storm developed, and Carroll, who was standing in the bow of the boat when he was struck and killed, fell over the side of the boat and sank. Charles Ross, of San Diego, California, who was standing beside him and all of the crew men, were stunned by the bolt for some seconds, but when they recovered two of them dived overboard in an effort to rescue their unfortunate companion.

On Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Elbert Bryan, of 5939 Falls Road, Baltimore, a junior assistant scoutmaster of Mount Washington Boy Scout Troop No. 185, who with his troop was camping at Solomon's, while out fishing in the river, found the body floating out very far from the spot where it went down, after all the repeated efforts had been made to locate it by dragging the river. Bryan towed the body ashore and after state's Attorney Arthur W. Cassell was notified, a coroner's jury was summoned by Justice William W. Dowell, with George Price, Sr., as foreman, and a verdict was rendered that "Richard C. Carroll came to his death as a result of being struck by a bolt of lightning."

Mr. Carroll was a graduate of Columbia University, and since 1935 had been coming to Solomon's each summer to direct the boat crews of the Standard Oil crews. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helen Carroll, of number 7 Strickland Road, Cos Cob, Conn., and his parents, who live at Stamford. The body was taken to Connecticut for interment

Meeting to Discuss Farm Erosion.

Probably one of the greatest problems that we as a group of farmers in Calvert county face is that of preventing loss from soil erosion. A great many farmers in this county can remember when fertilizer was hardly needed to grow crops at all; when the soil lost some of its fertility and failed to grow good crops it was only necessary to take a new land and permit the other to go. We find each year that our soil is becoming weaker, requiring more and more fertilizer to be used. Statistics indicate that the use of fertilizer is rapidly increasing from year to year. During the past two years we know that our soil losses have been tremendous We know that water in a controlled state is one of the most wonderful gifts that we have, but in an uncontrolled state can be most destructive.

There are quite a few inexpensive methods of preventing some of these tremendous losses from soil washing each year. You, as an interested farmer in protecting your soil, not only for present crops, but for the young boys who will be farming it in future years, are invited to attend a field meeting on the farm of Mr. Grover Cleveland Young, at Prince Frederick, on Monday, August 15th, at 2:30 P. M. There will be a brief discussion in the class room of the Agricultural Department of the Calvert County High School before the field tour begins.

Killed by Fall Down Cliff.

Charles A. Straining, Jr, 13, son of Charles A. Straining, of Bowie, Md., died at the Calvert County Hospital on Sunday evening about 11 o'clock, as the result of injuries received earlier the same evening in a fall over the cliff at Randle Cliffs, in this county. The boy was visiting at the home of friends at Randle Cliffs, and, with another boy, was playing on a fence at the top of the cliffs, when the fence gave way, and he fell the length of the cliff, 100 feet at that point. His back was broken in the fall, and he also suffered from being submerged in the water at the base of the cliff. Dr. Page C. Jett attended him when he was taken to the Hospital. Straining is survived by his parents and a sister.

Jobless-Aid Board Stirs Farmers.

The Unemployment Compensation Board has run afoul of the wrath of Southern Maryland farmers, and has decided to change its policy in that area to keep from disrupting the traditional economic system, it was revealed recently by William Milnes Maloy, chairman.

Mr. Maloy said the board had started paying benefits this spring to workers laid off in Calvert county oyster packing houses, only to find that they were subsidizing the farmers' usual summer labor supply.

"Oyster packing is not a seasonal business under our law because it operates for more than twenty weeks a year," Mr. Maloy explained. "Consequently, when these packers laid off their men, we began to pay them unemployment compensation.

"Then we began to get complaints that men were receiving checks and at the same time holding employments. We also got complaints that many men were refusing to accept jobs because they were drawing checks from us.

"We sent two men down there to investigate the situation and found that it was a part of the accepted order of things for men working in the packing houses in the winter to work out as farm laborers in the summer. Consequently, we have decided to cut off their benefits and no longer consider them unemployed, since there is farm work for them to do. We didn't know about this until we investigated, because farmers are not covered by our system and do not make reports to us.

Mr Maloy said he did not think any of the workers who applied for and received benefit checks intended to do anything illegal, but merely failed to understand that they were entitled to the money only if they were unable to get unemployment.—Baltimore Sun.

F. F. A. Boys at Central Camp.

A group of students of vocational agriculture of th Calvert County High School attended Central Camp at the University of Maryland during the week-end of the 5th, 6th and 7th. On Friday the boys visited Beltsville Experimental Farms where they saw dairy cattle, beef cattle, sheep and swine belonging to the United States Department of Agriculture. The remainder of the day was given over to softball and movies of the University of Maryland and the United States Department of Agriculture The group left College Park early Saturday for Washington, where the entire day was spent sightseeing. The boys visited the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Smithsonian Institute, the Washington Monument and the Zoo. Probably the most thrilling event of the day was a boat trip down the Potomac River as far as Marshall Hall. Following a brief form of morning service on Sunday morning, conducted by Rev. Mr. Plumley on the lawn of the University, the group returned to Prince Frederick.

Tournament at Prince Frederick.

The management of the tournament to be held at Prince Frederick, for the benefit of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, has decided to change the date from Friday, September 2nd, as announced last week, to Saturday, September 3rd, owing to the fact that Saturday will be a more desirable day for the tournament for the majority of persons during the Labor Day holiday. The tournament will, therefore, be held on Saturday, September 3rd John B. Morsell is chairman of the tournament committee. William W. Duke is chairman of the ball room committee The judges will be A. Claude Turner, Arthur W. Dowell and Stewart C. Gibson, John W. Buckmaster and William A. Parran are in charge of refreshments on the field Grounds committee—George H. Turner, Thomas I. Weems, Jr., and Clement Dorsey. Advertising—Benjamin Hance. Decorations—Miss Frances Hagner, Rev. H. Kearney Jones, George B. Gray and Thomas F. Linsby. Liberal cash prizes and crowns for queen and twelve maids are offered, and the riding will be in three classes, professional, amateur and novice.

Mow Pastures Now

Pastures should be mowed now so as to free them of weedy growth. To do this will prevent the production of weed seeds, and free desirable vegetation so that it may get more air, water and soil nutrients. Evidence shows that weeds are stronger feeders than pasture plants.

Seed Alfalfa Now.

August is the month that a great many of our successful alfalfa growers seed their alfalfa. This crop is on the decrease in Calvert county. In 1910, 9 acres were seeded, 1930, 115 acres; 1930, 175 acres, and in 1935 it had decreased to 131 acres. Since it is such a wonder ful hay and soil building crop, it would seem that careful consideration should be given to increase its acreage again. Those who are considering the seeding of alfalfa would want to select deep loam with open porous subsoils, and also use a heavy application of lime. For details visit the agricultural department of the Calvert County High school.
