Included in the additional attractions are the two very handsome silver trophies the Parran cup and the Goldstein cup, to be contested for the first time, the former by airplane, the latter by local riders on a jump. The prizes are so liberal, cash and twenty crowns, as to attract riders from many parts of Maryland. In addition to the speakers for the afternoon and evening, respectively, Mayor Howard W. Explanation of Second Choice Vote.

The average voter seems to be somewhat confused in his interpretation of the Maryland Primary Law, which gives him the right to exercise and vote a first and second choice where there are three or more candidates seeking the same nomination. The voters know that they may vote for one candidate as first choice and another as second choice, but do not seem to clearly understand the way to effectively exercise their right and to use it for the benefit of the candidate they feel is most qualified for the nomination, but who, apparently, because of lack of organization or "machine" support is making a non-factional fight.

Our Primary law protects such a candidate and the voters by assuring both that a vote for the candidate of their choice cannot possibly be wasted if they will exercise the second choice as between the "machine" supported candidates. Because of the fact that if the candidate of his choice does not receive as many or more first choice votes than one of the "machine" supported candidates in the county or legislative districts in which the voter resides, the non-factional candidate will be dropped from the count and the voter's second choice vote will go as a first choice vote to one of the "machine" supported candidates. By thus exercising this right the voter is given the opportunity to really express two choices in casting his ballot.

If the non-factional candidate is not successful in receiving the required number of first choice votes, the voter's choice of the candidates from among those having "machine" support has lost nothing because he will finally have received the ballot as a first choice vote.

It cannot be justly said that the fight is between two of the several candidates. All of the candidates are assured a fair deal by the primary law. In voting for any one of the candidates, even though there is a disposition on the part of some of the electorate to feel that a certain candidate does not have an equal chance, a voter never throws away a vote by voting for such a candidate, because by voting for a second choice, who might be regarded as the probable winner because of certain political lineups, if the first choice candidate fails to come through, the second choice candidate then becomes the first choice candidate of the voter and it is not possible for him to be prejudiced in the convention by the action of the voter in having indicated him as second choice in the primary election.

The present primary system is a distinct improvement over the old system and should be used by the voters of Maryland and applied intelligently. Under the old system, in a three-cornered fight, a minority of say a little more than one third of a county (or legislative district) could carry a county.

The second choice system, if the voters use it by marking two candidates, one for first and the other for second choice, largely prevents minority control, and compels a real majority choice in every county and legislative district.

Hog Cholera in Calvert.

One of the most serious outbreaks of hog cholera in Calvert county for years has developed, and in a very short time spread with amazing rapidity, having its start recently at Broomes Island, it has extended to Island Creek, Walville and other parts of Calvert. Dr. J. J. Jones, Veterinary Inspector for Southern Maryland, has been in the county this week, making examinations in an effort to determine the extent of the disease, and Dr. E. P. Pattison, of Hughesville, Md. and Dr. Clyde L. West, of North Beach, Md., practising veterinarians, have visited the various farms and administered the necessary serum to hogs. County Agent John H. Morsell advises all hog owners whose hogs show symptoms of the disease to make an immediate report to him

Dr. Mark Welch, State Veterinarian, visited Calvert this week also, and he recommends that all hogs be given the serum at once. Since the effects of the treatment extend from six weeks to two months, they would be immunized until well towards butchering time. He says also that owners of sick hogs should get in touch with the County Agent at once. He says the early symptoms of the disease are not eating as well as usual, and walking with some difficulty, while later developments are a high temperature and the skin underneath the hog taking on a red tint, which eyes much inflamed. The serum should be administered in the early stages, as soon as possible. He says the disease can be spread 4 or 5 days before it is noticeable to the owner, and sick hogs die from 5 to 10 days after the disease develops. The carcasses of hogs which have died of the disease should be buried at once.

Tournament September 3rd.

The arrangements for the tournament to be given at Prince Frederick on Saturday next, September 3rd, sponsored by the vestry of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, and for the benefit of the church, are progressing very favorably. Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer will make the address to the knights on the field in the afternoon, and at night in the Prince Frederick Town Hall the coronation address will be delivered by Willis R. Jones, of Baltimore, Democratic candidate for Attorney General. The list of cash prizes is very attractive, and there will be crowns for a queen and thirteen maids. Riding will be in three classes, professional, amateur and novice. Following the tournament, a Southern Maryland supper will be served on the grounds of the Calvert County High School adjoining the tournament field by and for the benefit of the Parent-Teacher Association of the school.

Calvert County Fair.

County Agent John B. Morsell announced Wednesday that the annual Calvert County Fair will be held at Prince Frederick the week of October 24th. The effort will be made to make it a bigger and better fair, with possibly the accent on live stock, including hogs, for which there will be a sometime increased amount in money for premiums, including the boys department. It is hoped to stage a horse-pulling contest on the most important day of the Fair, and that should be a very interesting feature.

The announcement of the date of the Fair at this time enables our farmers, homewives, boys' clubs and others to prepare for their exhibits.

Death of Useful Citizen.

Wilson Mason, colored, who for a number of years past has been the janitor of the Court House and also of the Prince Frederick Elementary School, died at his home at Prince Frederick on Sunday afternoon last at 1.30 o'clock of a heart attack superimposed by pneumonia. Wilson was one of the most useful members of his race in the community, as well as one of the most energetic and obliging. He will be missed alike by his own race and his white friends here. In addition to the employment mentioned above, he had also been an undertaker here for several years He was aged 59 years, and is survived by his wife and two daughters. At his funeral at Carroll M. E. Church, Barstow, (colored) on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, there were present, in addition to the large assemblage of Wilson's race, quite a few of Wilson's white friends, two or three of whom made brief and appropriate remarks by invitation.
