Feed the Birds.

The sleet and snow storm, which arrived in Maryland terrorizes on Thanksgiving Day and another snowfall in Southern Maryland on Saturday evening last, with bitter cold nights, is very severe on wildlife and unless fed in a great many sections we will not only lose our wonderful supply, which has been reported in practically all counties of the State, but our livestock for next year as well, says E. Leslie Gentry, State Game Warden.

We will appreciate the cooperation not only those who hunt but every person who is interested in wildlife in trying to establish feeding stations and have grain and green-feeds supplied at the dinner tables. In this manner thousands of pieces of wildlife will be saved as it is impossible for them to reach the dirt in a great many places and grit is very essential to birds of all species.

The open season for the taking of male deer with two or more points on one antler opened on December 1 and will continue through December 8th.

Prompt Returns Asked for Seals.

Prompt returns for the tuberculosis Christmas Seals were asked by the Maryland Tuberculosis Association as the thirty second annual sale of these Seals got under way last Thanksgiving Day in a attempt to provide the necessary ammunition for another year-round anti-tuberculosis program in Maryland.

"If all who receive Seals in the mail will pay for them promptly and then use the Seals, they will be doing extra service in the campaign," William R. Matthews, managing director of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association said. "Prompt returns are most beneficial in the Seal sale—especially to the chirons of the local associations," he continued. "Earl, payment for seals saves time, energy and money, and we hope the people of the counties will continue to respond promptly as they have always done. Just how far the Christmas seal cause will be able to spread its light depends on how many Seals all of us buy and use on our holiday mail."

Nearly 20,000,000 Christmas Seals were mailed last week to the people of the State.

In Maryland the Christmas Seals make possible such activities as the Miracle House, diagnostic clinics, medical research, health education, X-ray, and tuberculin testing.

A teaching clinic in tuberculosis diagnosis is also maintained for colored physicians. The association is also instrumental in organizing and advising local associations in many of the counties.

Md. Will Plan Host to National Guard Association.

Maryland will plan host to the 1939 convention of the National Guard Association of the United States, it was announced this week by Major General Milton A. Reckord, General Reckord, the Adjutant General of Maryland and Commanding General of the Twenty ninth Division, recently returned from the 1938 convention of the Association in San Francisco. Delegates to that year's convention accepted his invitation to hold the 1939 affair in Baltimore.

The National Guard Association has sponsored legislation that over a period of years has transferred the Guard from an almost unorganized militia to its present military efficiency. Commending on the place of the National Guard in the American plan of National Defense, General Reckord said:

"Although we have National Guard units in 25 cities and towns of Maryland there are none of our citizens, I am afraid, who do not realize the vital importance of the organization.

"Under the National Defense Act, passed after the World War, the National Guard has become a major link in our chain of National defense. The troops of the Maryland National Guard, numbering approximately 9,500, form a part of the 210,000 well trained citizen soldiers of the National Guard that can be mobilized within thirty days at any threatened point in the country upon a single order of the President.

"With our small regular army scattered at many stations both inside and outside the constitutional limits of the United States, the National Guard constitutes the largest fighting force available in a period of emergency.

"The National Guard today is a different organization from the standpoint of efficiency than it was in the pre-war days. At least we have taken the advice of General Washington and have no need a really trained and organized militia."

Within the next few weeks General Reckord will name the members of the various committees that will plan the 1939 convention of the Association and will bring members of the National Guard from all sections of the country to Maryland.

Paint Changed on New Auto Tags

Because colors on some of the present auto license tags have faded, making numbers barely discernable, a new brand of paint is being used on this year's 1939 plates. Next year's plates will be white with green numbers.

Attaches at the Penitentiary, where the markers are being manufactured, from one or two shipments of the paint on the present tags went "bad."

They pointed out that samples of the paint had passed a weather test but that it was not until later that the faulty shipments of paint were received.

More than 2,000,000 pairs of tags, approximately half the number that will be issued, already have been manufactured. The new markers will be the same size and weight as the present ones.

Manufacture of the 1939 tags began last spring and will be completed early in March. Approximately 2,000 pairs are made daily.—Baltimore Sun.

IN MEMORIAM.

Pitcher—In honor of my dear mother, Sarah E. Pitcher, who passed away 5 years ago, November 25th, 1933

There is a sad but sweet remembrance,
There is a memory fond and true;
There is a token of affection
And a heartache still for you;
There is not a day, dear Mother,
But I do not think of you

Loving daughter, Mrs. E. Harrett.

"ORPHANS OF THE STORM"

Fleeing a tornado near Clyde, Texas, parents of these babies were killed, their automobile tossed a quarter-mile away. Hours later a telephone lineman heard a child's whimper in a roadside ditch. There he found 3-year-old Jesse Donald Rutledge, water up to his chin, holding his 3-months-old brother Daryl's head above water. Relatives being unable to care for the orphans, Red Cross workers arranged a maintenance fund to support them until they are 16. A Texas college promised scholarships and ranchmen started a herd of cattle for their benefit. The Red Cross will help the boys make adjustments as they grow older.

Red Cross Seeks Cut in Accident Toll

1,725,406 First Aiders Trained Since 1910

Cognizant of tremendous losses in human lives and of permanent injuries resulting from accidents in homes, on farms and highways, and around industrial plants as well as in the basement workshop, officials of the American Red Cross have been directing a systematic fight against what they term "this economic waste."

As part of this nation-wide effort to reduce deaths and permanent injuries from accidents, a recent statement from Red Cross headquarters in Washington reports that during the past 12 months certificates have been granted to 295,023 persons completing courses in the administration of Red Cross first aid.

Holders of these certificates have followed detailed courses of study and have been taught how to splint fractured limbs, stop flow of blood, treat poison sufferers, care for victims of heat, electric shock, and handle other common emergency situations. The courses emphasize methods of caring for patients until professional medical aid can be summoned to scenes of accidents.

Since 1910, the report reveals, 1,725,406 persons have received this training from qualified Red Cross instructors, and at the present time 20,429 persons are qualified to give such instruction.

Bringing help wherever scenes of possible accident, 2,454 emergency first aid stations have been established in strategic locations on principal highways throughout the nation, operators of the stations receiving the prescribed Red Cross instructions and maintaining full first aid equipment on the premises.

Conveniently placed, they also maintain up-to-date lists of available doctors and ambulance services pledged in advance to cooperate with Red Cross first aiders in preventing deaths and permanent injuries that so frequently result from automobile accidents.

Mobile first aid units also have been established in cooperation with state highway and police departments, operators of public utility vehicles and others frequenting highways, operators of such units also receiving the prescribed Red Cross courses in first aid.

To cut the number of persons losing their lives through drowning while swimming, the Red Cross has redoubled efforts to train as many persons as possible in life saving methods. During the past year 88,150 persons received certificates upon completion of courses. Since 1914, 881,649 persons have been trained in Red Cross life saving methods, including thousands of persons in CCC camps, beach patrolmen, camp instructors, and school boys and girls.

Carrying the fight onto farms and into homes, a campaign to eliminate accidents caused by careless habits and faulty equipment last year resulted in self-checks being made in 10,600,000 American homes through cooperation of children in school, women's clubs, farm organizations, and other groups. The 3,700 Red Cross chapters and their branches in every county are cooperating in this national effort to end needless pain and suffering resulting from such accidents.

These efforts to lessen such appalling tolls of human lives and usefulness are made possible through membership in the Red Cross. The annual Roll Call will be held between November 11 and Thanksgiving Day, when all Americans are asked to join or renew their affiliation to ensure continuation of accident prevention measures.

Join the Red Cross Chapter in your community during the Roll Call, November 11 to 24.

How Opinions Are Formed

Little things can determine another's opinion of you: the way you do your hair, the tone of your voice, your dress and—the way you walk.
