Use of Coat of Arms

When a family purchases an English estate the purchase of a property does not give the right to incorporate the arms of the family from which the property was purchased with his own, or to adopt its coat of arms. It is frequently done, but is entirely incorrect and would not be upheld by the College of Heraldry.

Marriage Licenses • Land Transfers and Other Court News

PERSONALS

Associate Judge J. Owen Knotts, of Denton, made his regular scheduled trip to Elkton on Tuesday, transacting such business at the Court house that came up during the past week. Deputy Clerks extended hurried calls to local printers for various certificates of publication Tuesday afternoon in order that the Judge could put his official O. K. on them before returning to his home.

Miss Lucy Stapp, Deputy Clerk, who has been away from the Clerk's office for the past three weeks but who has been partly attending to her duties at home while convalescing, is expected to be able to return to her regular post within the next week.

While one hundred and forty one couples went through the local marriage mill during the past week ending Monday, but one Cecil county couple obtained a license at the Clerk's office. That couple was none other than R. Cecil Joyce and Margaret W. Fisher, both residents of Chesapeake City.

Five hundred and ninety-eight wedding couples obtained marriage licenses through the local Clerk's office during the month just ended and that's a lot of wedding couples even for Maryland's principal Gretna Green. All existing records are expected to be broken during June when the influx of couples coming into this county will probably sky rocket close to the thousand mark.

LOCAL MARRIAGE LICENSES

R. Cecil Joyce, 23, Chesapeake City, Md.; Margaret W. Fisher, 18, Chesapeake City, Md.
