MARYLAND REPUBLICANS AWAKEN

State And National Jobs In The Offing

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 25 — From the retreat of ex-Governor Nice came revealing flashes indicating that the republican leaders are starting their campaign fires for the national contest in 1940. An article in the Baltimore Sun, which said, that Straughn Lloyd had openly supported Governor O'Conor, that Lloyd's attempt to remove Tilghman was being engineered by Lloyd and Norris, who was so busy working for himself in the O'Conor election and expecting democratic party rewards therefor. That he was a republican appointee with a large salary, which he still continues to draw and will for another year.

Young Tilghman in the estimation of ex-Governor Nice is an upright, clean-cut, intelligent, efficient officer and a loyal republican. The Lloyd and Norris partnership have got theirs and now their adjutants are howling for jobs, which were promised them by some one who claimed the democratic party would be the party to provide them the jobs.

As the ex-Governor explained he would hardly expect any assistance from that faction. In the last contest he polled 40,000 more votes than in 1934, though facing an increase of 100,000 in the democratic party. It is not known definitely whether Mr. Nice will run for office in the coming election or what office he has in mind if he should decide to enter the campaign, as he has made no definite statement. It has been assumed he would like to be a Senator. In the meantime he is trying to pacify the wide-eyed balligerant, and arrogant wings of the party to calm them down to stop the fighting and harmonize. Probably nothing will be done until "Ole Man Waller" cracks the whip and they all come to heel.

Democracy can sit in the shade and observe the fighting, but is not much interested in the show since the election is months away.

Traffic Violators Fined

Story With A Moral

In a Philadelphia court six joyful refugees who had just been granted U. S. citizenship offered to buy an American flag to hang in the court room. There were three Italians, two Czechoslovakians and a Russian. The Russian was a refugee from a Communist country, and the others from Fascist countries.

Said the six after being granted their citizenship papers: "We are so happy to become American citizens that we thought Your Honor would not object if we put our money together and bought a flag for your courtroom." The judge thanked the new citizens but refused their offer an dordered that a flag for the room be purchased immediately with the proper funds.

The plea of the refugees was a fine gesture, and they should prove to be valuable Americans, for they may help to convince some in this country that life in the "ism" countries is not what the dictators would have us believe that it is. Further, it should stir other Americans to vigilance to fight down the spread of these "ism" doctrines in the United States.

Maryland shipped more cantaloupes through Delaware by truck Sunday and Monday than any other state, sending 4,226crates, Virginia led in truck shipments of potatoes, with shipments of 3,753 bags and 866 barrels passing through Monday.

Bank Retires Preferred Stock

On July 31st the National Bank of North East will retire 90 shares of Preferred Stock, leaving only 30 shares to be redeemed later.

At the time of the moratorium the officers issued 540 - $200.00 shares of this Preferred Stock in the amount of $108,000. The 30 shares is the small balance not yet paid off. Dr. Underwood of the bank estimated at the time of the moratorium that ten years would be required to retire the stock.

Notwithstanding the continued depression, the assets have produced enough to practically clear up the situation by the end of 1939, or about six years.

Throw in the Clutch And Spin Us a Vase

NEW YORK—One of the world's oldest manufacturing machines, the potter's wheel, has changed little since biblical times.

Only the method of driving the wheel has changed. The ancient potter kicked his wheel around with a foot pedal. The modern master potter steps on a pedal with his right foot to throw in a clutch and the wheel is spun by an electric motor.

But it is still the skill of the master craftsman which shapes the whirling clay and breathes life and beauty into the sodden lump on the spinning disc.

Though methods of manufacture remain the same, fashions in pottery change, Tom Parker, master potter of the Pottery Exhibit at the New York World's Fair, points out.

"There are no calls for the old classical styles in pottery," he says. "People are interested in modernistic designs—designs of simple and severe beauty."

All the steps in the manufacture of fine pottery are demonstrated in the exhibit which occupies 2,316 square feet in the Home Furnishings Building. Crowds stand six deep before the huge semi-circular counter to watch Parker and his assistants shape the clay on their wheels, smooth and finish the products, dry the finished pottery in long racks, dip it in the glazing chemical and put it on a slow-moving conveyor for its 24-hour trip through the firing furnace.

One of the remarkable features of the exhibit is the fact that capital and labor joined hands and financial forces to make it possible. The United States Potters Association and the National Brothers of Operative Potters signed a contract for the joint exhibit before the Fair opened. The union contributed $30,000 of its long-accumulated "strike fund," to defray its share of the cost.

BEETLES BY THE BARREL

Farmers And Others See Evidence Of Beetle Destruction

The tour undertaken by County Agent Miller with accompanying entomologists, farm experts and other County Agents, was carried out on Friday the 21st and the evidence of the rapid spread of the pests and the damage they have done and are doing was emphasized at each stop.

The dinner following the tour was addressed by Dr. E. N. Cory, state entomologist; Dr. T. B. Symons, of the extension service; Dr. C. T. French, Capt. R. M. George and B. D. Brown, of the Western Shore. Last but not least, Dr. George Langford, chief of the control campaign.

The farms visited included Senator Wallace Williams, Andy Angle, Leon Ewing, Henry McIntyre, E. L. Merrell, J. F. Woods, J. W. Robertson, and Fred Racine. While no hope was given of completely eliminating the pest, the speakers were optimistic about the control that can be exercised and emphasized that traps and other control measures would reduce their number so that crops would be little if at all retarded or hurt. Drs. Cory and Langford were in charge of the tour and demonstration.

The good results of the trapping were shown on the J. F. Wood farm where 100 traps caught 700 quarts of beetles. The Fred Racine farm showed the damage done potato plants with early apple trees nearly denuded of leaves. The evidence of increased damage on farms which were not trapped last year was pointed out.

Dr. Cory directed attention to the fact that where corn planting was not adjusted for the grain to silk after August 10th beetles had eaten all silk away, making it impossible for corn to pollinate. Corn which will silk after August 10th will be safe.

Dr. Langford noted a 40 per cent decrease in grubs in the trapped areas while the untrapped areas all showed increases. This year, on land trapped for the first time, shows twice as many beetles as the areas trapped in 1938. Harvey Simmons and Henry McIntyre, Cecil county farmers, announce wheelbarrows full of beetles taken.

Md. Unemployment Compensation Report

BALTIMORE, Md., — Claims for unemployment compensation earned in West Virginia may now be presented to Maryland Unemployment Compensation offices as a result of the amendment to the law of the first mentioned State.

West Virginia has been refusing to accept claims from Maryland residents unless presented by the claimant in person, the explanation being that the West Virginia law did not permit any other procedure, although all other States have been cooperating with each other in this matter.

All States of the union, Hawaii, Alaska, and the District of Columbia are now paying unemployment benefits, Montana and Illinois having started this month. But the District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Commission, having found a flaw in its law (passed by Congress) still declines to pay claims of non-residents unless presented in person. An effort to have a suitable amendment adopted by Congress recently failed because the measure was incorporated in a bill containing some objectionable provisions. Thus it is that a resident of the District who has earned unemployment benefits in Maryland can file his claim in the District while a Marylander who has a similar claim against a District employer has to go to Washington in order to collect.

In June the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board received from the District 75 new claims and 434 continued, making 509 in all, but Maryland could send none to the District. In June Maryland received from other jurisdictions 345 new claims based on employment here.

His Excellency

Cooperative Meeting

A committee of farmers of the Elkton community will meet at the Howard Hotel, Elkton, Maryland, Thursday evening, August 3.

This conference is being sponsored by Southern States Cooperative so that farmers of the Elkton area might have the opportunity of reviewing the principles of a cooperative fertilizer program, according to Max F. Borden, Baltimone, Maryland Assistant Manager, Southern States Fertilizer Service.

Under the cooperative plan farmers obtain their fertilizer requirement at cost. This cooperative service has grown very rapidly in popularity in Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina and Delaware where farmers of more than 250 communities have adopted the plan. Through obtaining their fertilizer cooperatively farmers of these communities have found they obtain quality fertilizer at lower cost, declared Mr. Borden.

In addition to the local cooperative agency Samuel W. Caldwell, L. Wicks Davis, Carl W. Feucht, C. Albert George, W. H. Keithley, John Losten Jr., Edgar H. Ross, Herbert Winkler, Allen D. Richards are assisting in promoting the cooperative farm program being developed in the Elkton area.

THE 1939 ARMY MANEUVERS

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., July 25—Movement of supplies for the 50,000 troops who will camp here for training and maneuvers, brings more than one headache to the officers preparing for the gathering. Take for instance the woodpile, 4 ft. high, 3 miles long. Consider for a moment if it had to be cut up with a buck saw.

Lumber, lime, cement and salt are now coming in, later canned goods and non-perishable foods will be received, and finally with the coming of the troops the perishable food will come in a continuous stream. Large storage tents have been sent and tarpaulins are to follow at once.

As a matter of economy and principle the supplies needed will be purchased as near to the camp as may be. A full, nutritious and balanced ration will be served and as much as a healthy man, living out doors and exercising heartily, will care to eat. It has been estimated that $400,000 will be required for the subsistance of the 50,000 men for the 15 days from August 13th to 27th.

In addition to the motorized units 1535 mules and horses will be needed, 1256 of them belonging to the National Guard. Some idea of other cost items, include:

184,000 lbs. of oats, 155 tons of hay, 57 tons straw for animals, $4,800.00.

375 tons straw for bed ticks for men, $6,750.00.

2 lbs. ice per man per day, $2,260.00.

300,000 gals. gas for motors, $28,500.00.

WORLD NEWS of the WEEK

U. S. EUROPE ASIA

London, July 25 — Sir Oswald Mosley's Nazi's have been talking and strutting in England and cursing out the English administration while telling how good the German is. He is reported to have about 15,000 Nazi followers. Since 1932 small gains have been reported in his followers. The organization claims about 500 formations, lodges or circles.

Paris, July 26 — Spy reports now disturbing France are being discounted by foreign writers. Some there are of course, but that such a scourge as the Paris papers indicate is absurd.

New York, July 26 — When Congress refused to go along on the legislation the President demanded, he told the press that a young and sturdy upturn in business had been stopped. However, the upturn continued and an appearance of optimism was discovered in New York but not in Washington.

San Francisco, July 26 — Waterfront employes in Pacific Coast cities are getting ready for another holiday. As soon as they can discover a fair to good issue the strike will be called.

Paris, July 25 — The refugee situation, which has developed more talk than action, is now at almost a standstill. Each government feels it has done its share, and each realizes that the Germans after blackmailing and stealing the Jews' patrimoney is industriously at work kicking them out for other nations to care for.

New York, July 25—From abroad as from our own land surprise is expressed at the New York Opera Company having to take over the old Metropolitan Building in order to have a home in which to produce opera. The real estate company owning the building can not keep up taxes, insurance and repairs. The Opera Company is trying to finance the purchase of the real estate.

New York, July 25 — The much advertised Battery to Brooklyn Bridge will not be built, because the war department says it is a menace in war time to the Brooklyn Navy Yard. That ends the bridge, now plans will be completed for a tunnel.

Berlin, July 25 — Having driven out practically all writers, sculptors and artists from Germany, the Nazi leaders now find such exhibitions extremely dreary and commonplace but hope within 15 or 20 years some German with ability will submit a worth while work of art (glorifying Nazi-ism of course).

Madrid, July 25 — An intense agitation has arisen in Franco's Spanish army and navy circles as the result of the ouster of Gen. De Llano from his command. The dismissal is charged to Ramon Suner, Franco's brother-in-law, at the orders of the Fascists.

Washington, D. C., July 26 — Asininity raised to the nth power is represented in the news item from Argentina that we must be prepared to oppose their claims in Antartica. Why not pass a law in Congress giving her our right, title and interest. It would be much cheaper than to continue paying for expeditions that find nothing but new kinds of snow storms and below zero temperature records.

London, July 25 — Sir Samuel Horra revealed what is claimed to be an Irish attempt to blow up the House of Parliament, a plot resembling the famous Gunpowder plot of the 17th century, usually referred to as the Guy Fawkes plot.

Tokyo, July 25 — The Japanese have confirmed the confession made by Prime Minister Chamberlain that Britain by agreement with Japan has backed out of China and promised not to interfere with the Japanese army.

Washington, July 24 — Secretary Hull is now fully aroused by the treatment accorded our nationals in China by Japanese officials. A crisis may arise at any time due to the treatment accorded our officials and missionaries.
