THURSDAY, FEB. 26, 1880.

A Good Picture.—Horning & Co., the well-known photographers, succeeded in making a very good picture of the Kent Guards on the 23d; they are selling copies at a low price.

An Unfailing and effectual remedy for Scratches in horses, performing a cure in from two to three days, has just been put on the market by Mr. C. F. STAM, druggist, after having first been thoroughly tried. See the advertisement in another column.

Freighting.—We call attention to the advertisement of Capt. Jas. H. Thompson, to be found elsewhere. Capt. Joseph W. Thompson informs us that he feels so much encouraged by the patronage of the peach-growers last season, that if there should be anything like a crop of fruit the coming season, he designs again running a peach steamer.

Mr. James M. Rasin, a well-known citizen of Baltimore, died last Friday night at the Mansion House in that city, where he had boarded for forty-four years, of a complication of diseases, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Rasin was about seventy years old, and had never been married. He was born in Kent county, but has been living in Baltimore for a good many years, and was for a long while connected with the grocery house of Dinsmore & Kyle, on Pratt street. He was an uncle of I. Freeman Rasin and R. W. L. Rasin, Esqs.

Valuable Farms at Public Sale.—Henry W. Archer, Esq., as Trustee, will sell at public sale, at the Voshell House in Chestertown, on Thursday next, March 4th, at 2 o'clock P. M., a valuable farm, containing 250 acres, in an excellent location, and very productive.

On the same day, at the same place, at 2½ o'clock P. M., H. W. Archer, Jr., Esq., as Trustee, will sell at public sale, a valuable farm of 250 acres, well located, and in a good state of cultivation.

See advertisements, containing a full description of the property, terms of sale, etc., elsewhere in to-day's paper.

Another Surprise.—A very large party, numbering, we are informed, by actual count, one hundred and thirty-five persons, composing a large majority of the adult membership of the Methodist Protestant Church in Chestertown, paid their pastor, Rev. S. A. Hoblitzell, a surprise visit last Tuesday evening. By previous arrangement they gathered, with their baskets, bundles, etc., at the residence of Wm. Vannort, Esq., and about 7:30 took up the line of march down Queen street to the parsonage, corner of Queen and Bridge streets: when the head of the procession, marching two-by-two, reached its destination, the rear had just cleverly started. It was a singularly-appearing, but an exceedingly good-humored, jolly procession, and attracted no little attention as it passed down the street. The parsonage was speedily filled to its utmost capacity—the parlor, hall, dining-room, kitchens, and the chambers above being crowded. As soon as practicable after entering, a purse, amounting to fifty-one dollars, was presented to the Pastor, S. E. Sullivan acting as spokesman for the donors. Mr. Hoblitzell was taken by utter surprise, this feature of the programme having been kept a profound secret; but he soon rallied and made a very appropriate and happy reply. We shall not attempt to enumerate the great variety of articles contributed, but among them was muslin by the bolt, ladies' dress goods, boxes of stockings, silk and linen handkerchiefs by the box, laces, collars, etc., etc.; among the edibles were turkey, ducks, chickens, hams, beef-tongues, sausage, butter, coffee, sugar, &c.; also about a dozen sacks of flour and buckwheat. The large dining-table was filled with all sorts of nice cake, and during the evening the guests were served with excellent lemonade and cake in abundance. The occasion was in all respects a most enjoyable one. It was no doubt the largest surprise party, both in respect to attendance and contributions, ever known in Chestertown.

The Kent Guards and the 23d of February.—The 23d of February came in just as bright and clear and fresh as though it were actually the birthday of the father of his country. The merchants closed up their stores, the small boys and other seekers after hidden lore were turned out of school, and every body looked as humdrum as it is customary to look on a holiday occasion. That is, everybody except the Kent Guards. Bright and early they were out. The bustle of hurrying footsteps, and the bright glitter of bayonets, told that some unusual excitement was in the air,—the Guards were on the war path. A bloody determination might be marked in each soldier's eye, as he caressed his trusty rifle. By ten o'clock they were ready for the march, and after Captain Vickers had given them a little preparatory drilling, they turned their faces resolutely towards the scene of conflict. Headed by the Kent Cornet Band, which discoursed martial music suited to the occasion, they were not long in reaching the battle field. Here they were faced by a grim and obstinate target. Fiercely the target glared at them, but there wasn't any scare in the Kent Guards. A soldier stepped to the front, took aim and fired. He was followed by others who did some very destructive work. For more than two hours the smoke arose from the conflict. By two o'clock, however, the battle was ended and the target was conquered.

In the afternoon the company was put through numerous manœuvres, and their perfect drill elicited the admiration of numerous spectators. Later, a handsome silver cup, the gift of Capt. Vickers, was presented to the soldier-boy who had most distinguished himself in the morning's conflict. This honor fell to the youthful brave, John S. Vandegrift. Lieutenant Bordley made the presentation in a few suitable remarks. The distinguished young soldier was more gifted in the use of arms than in the use of words. Not being able to express his appreciation of the honor conferred, he called upon Major B. B. Wroth to respond for him. The Major not having had sufficient warning, was not primed with a speech, consequently he did not go off with as much energy as might have been expected. His speech, however, was greeted with immense applause. Previous to the presentation, we should have stated, the company was drawn up in a half circle and photographed. A number of ambitious small boys managed to mix themselves up in the picture, as indeed they had managed to mix themselves up with the soldiers all through the day.

The closing and the climaxing ceremony of the day was yet to come. In the armory, tables had been laid and a feast was spread. The Guards had "laid themselves out" in getting up a sumptuous supper, and they also "laid themselves out" in the politeness and attention they showed to guests. It seemed to be their greatest desire to have every visitor stuff himself so unutterably full of roast turkey, and other good things, that there would be no recourse left him, but to go home and die with the nightmare. The man who built those tables needs a slight hauling over the coals, however. They were about six inches too high, and the chairs about six inches too low; an average sized mortal could only manage to elevate his chin above the board; and when a feaster fell much below the average, you could only see his ears working above the cover, to tell that his mouth was doing execution below.

George Washington, no doubt, if he had an opportunity, looked down with pride upon Monday's celebration, and in all probability if he had been here he would have bought a ticket and have done honor to the chicken-salad and the turkey, by making a strong effort to elevate his chin above the table cloth.

The supper, we understand, netted the Guards a handsome sum.

ITEMS from KENNEDYVILLE and VICINITY.

REPORTED FOR THE TRANSCRIPT.

Locust Grove Debating Society.—"Do savages possess a right to the soil?" was the subject for the public debate of last Friday evening Many visitors were present, and the question was ably presented and well debated by eight disputants. After a discussion of some two hours it was unanimously decided in the affirmative.

Mite Society.—The Ladies' Aid Society of Kennedyville Methodist Protestant church, held a very pleasant meeting last Saturday evening, at Mr. Jos. Day's residence. Over forty were present. The order of exercises was readings and debate. "Our New Parson," and "Shadows on the Curtain," were very effectively rendered. The subject for debate, "Has foreign emigration since the Revolution been beneficial to the United States?" Two ladies and two gentlemen participated, resulting in a verdict in favor of the improving effects of emigration since the war.

Singing School.—The singing school at Kennedyville, under the direction of Mr. Quimby, with a membership of nearly fifty, is fast progressing in the mysteries of do, re, mi, etc. Even the preacher has joined.

Supper.—The ladies of Shrewsbury Parish, we are informed, netted the handsome profit of seventy-five dollars from the supper held recently at Locust Grove.

Removal.—Mr. E. T. Comegys has removed from Millington, and located at Locust Grove, where he is prepared to furnish the farming community with all needed implements, and then purchase their grain with the money they paid him for cultivators, ploughs, etc. Neddy is a good fellow and holds his own with the "Greens," although he does have a horse fond of viewing the prospect from two legs.

For Kansas.—Mr. R. J. Lank, a merchant of Kennedyville, is auctioneering off his stock of goods at his old stand. It is his intention, we learn, to leave with his family on Monday next, for Salina, Kansas, where he proposes to engage in farming.

Driving.—This Leap Year, not "four-in-hand," but four in a carriage, appears to be growing in favor in our county.

Orphans' Court, TUESDAY, Feb. 24, 1880.—Present, Judges Nicholson, Shallcross and Willson.

On application of Garey H. Leaverton, administrator of Charles S. Leaverton, he is allowed to expend $30 to purchase tombstones for the grave of said deceased.

Garey H. Leaverton, administrator of Chas. S. Leaverton, returned his first and final administration account which was examined, passed as stated and ordered to be recorded.

Columbus A. Leary, guardian to James T. Roeder, returned his final guardian account, which was examined, passed as stated, and ordered to be recorded.

On application of Richard Butler, (col) 12 years of age, he was indentured to Samuel F. Pearson, until he arrives at the age of 21 years.

James B. Willson, executor of Henrietta E. Willson, returned his 3d and final administration account, which was examined, passed as stated, and ordered to be recorded.

James B. Willson, executor of Henrietta E. Willson, returned his first distribution account of the proceeds of the sale of the real estate, which was examined, passed as audited, and ordered to be recorded.

LITERARY REVIEW.

Scribner for March.—The March SCRIBNER opens brilliantly with the long expected article on "The Tile Club Afloat," recording its summer excursion in a canal-boat from New York to Lake Champlain. There are thirty-nine illustrations by members of the club, chiefly reflecting the spirit of jollity which has made this association of less than twenty members conspicuously popular among artists and literary men. The interior decorations of the boat, characters of the tow to which it was attached on the Hudson, the incidents by the way, life and scenes on the tow-path, the personnel and the domestic life of the club itself, are among the subjects of serious or humorous delineation. Over thirty pages are accorded to the paper, which is thought to be superior in interest and uniqueness to "The Tile Club at Play," published a year ago in the same magazine, and acknowledged to be "the hit of the season."

The second part of Eugene Schuyler's historical serial "Peter the Great" begins with a description of the People and Government of Russia down to the time of the abolishment of Precedence, states the grievances of the National Guard of that time, and contains a stirring account of the memorable riot of the Streltsi or soldiery, in the early part of Peter's reign. Mr. Schuyler's style is admirably adapted to narrative, being clear and vigorous, and free from whimsicality; he is not a mere translator of events, but his wide acquaintance with Russia and its history has developed decided and original opinions. The illustrations, being entirely from Russian sources, are sure to be authentic.

Mr. E. P. Roe's "Success with Small Fruits" treats this month in his usual practical way of "Raspberries for Home and Market," and is illustrated with striking drawings of berries, etc., by Gibson. Kappes, Riordan and Taber. The series which, it is announced, has awakened wide interest, will end with the April paper, which will probably be the most fully and happily illustrated of all.

The Departments are fresh and varied in subject. In "Topics of the Time" Dr. Holland announces the willingness of Scribner & Co. to purchase pictures for out-of-town buyers—an enterprise undertaken chiefly in the interest of American artists whom the "revival of business" does not yet seem to have affected.

In the April and May numbers of SCRIBNER will appear papers by Theodore L. DeVinne, the printer of that magazine, on "The Growth of Wood-Cut Printing;" the first will consider early methods on the hand-press (1427-1836), and the second, the great improvements which have since been made.

St. Nicholas for March

Contains Alfred Tennyson's Child-Song, "Minnie and Winnie," set to music, and Mrs. Alfred Tennyson's revised score of the music for the Laureate's other St. NICHOLAS song, "The City Child."

"The Disadvantages of City Boys," by Washington Gladden, appears in this number. It is based on actual facts, and is a stirring Talk with Boys on a subject of vital interest to them. They will find pleasure, too, in the seasonable "Out-Door" Paper, "Kite Time," by Daniel C. Beard, which gives diagrams and full instructions how to make and fly kites of all sorts and shapes.

Among the short stories are: "Chy Lung," an illustrated tale about a Chinese fisher lad's curious adventures; "Buttercup Gold," by Laura E. Richards, telling how a little girl found gold through boiling buttercups; "The Tea-kettle Light," with a picture by A. C. Redwood, a true account of how a New England boy made illuminating gas from birch bark.

Of the two Serials, the installment of Louisa M. Alcott's "Jack and Jill," with two fine pictures by Dielman, brings its young people into a peck of troubles; and William O. Stoddard's "Among the Lakes," illustrated by Taber, tells how its boys and girls enjoyed themselves in the old farm-house.

A commander of the U. S. Navy, with the aid of pictures by R. Riordan, describes the "Gathering of Caoutchouc in Nicaragua"; and John Keiler, in article entitled "Longitude 180," explains how travelers lose a day going to China from San Francisco and gain a day on the return voyage.

One of the striking illustrations is a portrait of "Babie Stuart," the infant daughter of Charles I., engraved by Miller after the painting by Vandyck.

The Departments "For Very Little Folk," "Jack-in-the-Pulpit," "Young Contributors," "Letter-Box," and "Riddle-Box" have varied and lively items, some from the boys and girls themselves.

Lippincott's Magazine.—Lippincott's Magazine for March opens with a description of the Lakes of Minnesota, with their healthful and picturesque summer resorts, which are already much frequented by Northern tourists, and which, judging from this article and its attractive illustrations, deserve to be better known.—There are two other illustrated papers in the number,—the IXth Chapter of Dr. Oswald's "Summerland Sketches," which treats of Yucatan, and the conclusion of Edward King's account of "Old and New Rouen."

"The American Suez" is the title of an article which will be read with special interest, on account of the subject, and the able summary which it gives of the arguments for and against each of the proposed routes for a canal to connect the waters of the Gulf of Mexico with those of the Pacific Ocean. The writer shows a personal familiarity with the country, and the maps inserted in the text will do much to assist the reader in forming an opinion on this vexed question. Another timely paper is devoted to the "Ute Matter," and evidently emanates from Colorado, where the feeling on this subject is naturally strongest, and the decission of Congress and the Government is awaited with impatience. "At the Foot of the Sierras" is not a mere descriptive article, but contains some capital sketches of life and manners in the most beautiful region of the West.

The well-written and suggestive description of "Decorative Art and its Dogmas," by M. G. Van Rensselaer, is concluded in this number. There is a fresh instalment of "Adam and Eve," by the author of "Dorothy Fox;" a very pathetic and realistic story, entitled "A Mother's Vision," by Sarah Winter Kellogg; and a bright little Italian Sketch, by the author of "Signor Monaldini's Niece." 'Playing a Part,' by J. Brander Matthews, is a witty and neatly-constructed comedy, well adapted for amateur acting. The poetry is by Paul Hayne and Howard Glyndon, and a large space, as usual, is devoted to the "Monthly Gossip" and the "Literature of the Day."

Eclectic Magazine.—The March number of the Eclectic contains a portrait which an immense number of readers will be pleased to have—that of Charles Reade, the novelist. Mr. Reade has, until very recently, eluded all attempts of the photographer and portrait-painter, and this portrait in the Eclectic is, we believe, with the exception of a woodcut in a recent number of Harper's Weekly, the first that has appeared in America. It is admirably engraved on steel, and depicts a face full of characterand expression.

The literary contents of the number are of the usual excellence and variety, and comprise the following articles: "Russian Nihilism," including translations from the most important Nihilistic writings, by Fritz Cunliffe-Owen; 'First Impressions of the New World," concluding paper, by the Duke of Argyll; "A Teetotaller's Wine-Cellar," by Dr. B. W. Richardson; "A Turkish Effendi on the Christendom and Islam;" "Justinian," a poem, by Robert Buchanan; "The Origin of Species and Genera," by Alfred Russell Wallace; "Fighting Fitzgerald;" "White Wings: A Yatching Romance," by William Black, Chapters XX. to XXII.; "The Chinese Drama," by Robert K. Douglas; "To Portia at Belmont;" "Madamoiselle de Mersac," Chapters XXX. and XXXI.; "Rejected MSS.;" "The Autobiography of Prince Metternich;" "Let it Pass," a poem; "Charles Reade," a biographical sketch, by the Editor; Literary Notices; Foreign Literary Notes; Science and Art; Varieties.

Published by E. R. PELTON, 25 Bond Street, New York. Terms, $5 per year; single number, 45 cents; Trial subscription for three months, $1.

The World for 1880.

DEMOCRATS everywhere should inform themselves carefully alike of the action of their party throughout the country and of the movements of their Republican opponents. A failure to do this in 1876 contributed greatly to the loss by the Democracy of the fruits of the victory fairly won at the polls.

The year 1880 promises to be one of the most interesting and important years of this crowded and eventful century. It will witness a Presidential election which may result in re-establishing the Government of this country on the principles of its constitutional founders, or in permanently changing the relations of the States to the Federal power. No intelligent man can regard such an election with indifference. THE WORLD, as the only daily English newspaper published in the city of New York which upholds the doctrines of constitutional Democracy, will steadily represent the Democratic party in this great canvass. It will do this in no spirit of servile partisanship, but temperately and firmly. As a newspaper THE WORLD, being the organ of no man, no clique and no interest, will present the fullest and fairest picture it can make of each day's passing history in the city, the State, the country and the world. It will aim hereafter, as heretofore, at accuracy first of all things in all that it publishes. No man, however humble, shall ever be permitted truly to complain that he has been unjustly dealt with in the columns of The World. No interest, however powerful, shall ever be permitted truly to boast that it con silence the fair criticism of The World.

During the past year The World has seen its daily circulation trebled and its weekly circulation pushed far beyond that of ony other weekly newspaper in the country. This great increase has been won, as The World believes, by truthfulness, enterprise, ceaseless activity in collecting news and unfaltering loyalty to itself and to its readers in dealing with the questions of the day. It it our hope and it will be our endeavor that The World's record for 1880 may be written in the approbation and the support of many thousands more of new readers in all parts of this Indissoluble Union of Indestructible States.

COPY OF ORIGINAL TESTIMONIALS.

Baltimore, Jan. 31, 1879.

Mr. J. S. KNAPP—Sir:—I have made a thorough test of the London Food and recommend it to the public as a good Improvement Food for horses. I will use it in preference to any condition powders I know of.

[They have 300 head of horses.]

Respectfully, R. PRICE,

Supt. of Citizens Line Street R. R. Co.

Carrollton, Feb. 11, 1879.

Carroll county, Md.

JOHN S. KNAPP—Sir:—Having used the London Horse and Cattle Food on both my horses and cows, I cheerfully recommend it to the public as a good condition food for the horse and a profitable condiment for cattle, as it will cause cows to give more milk and make at least 20 per cent more butter than any condition powders I ever used. Hoping this will induce my friends to try it, after which I am convinced they will bear the same testimony as to its merits as I do.

Yours Respectfully,

March 6, 1879. JACOB M. HOFF.
