PLENTY OF PEACHES IN KENT.

WHAT THE KENT COUNTY AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION HAS TO SAY ABOUT THE PEACH CROP.

Last Monday was the date fixed upon by the Kent county agricultural association for "opinions about peaches." There was a fair turn out of membership, though nothing like a full attendance. When the peach question was reached,

Mr. Samuel Vannort was called upon first in order. Mr. Vannort said that he thinks the prospect for a peach crop very favorable. He doesn't think there will be an over crop. Not as large a crop as there was in 1875. In that year a gentleman who visited his orchard said the peaches hung so thick that they looked like grapes. He picked 100 boxes off twenty-seven trees that year. His trees are full enough this season.

Mr. Robert Nicholson thinks the crop fully as large as it was in 1875. He thinks the trees are probably too full. Thinks the smock variety is injured more or less. Never before saw Crawford and Rieves varieties as full as they are this season. He thinks there will be more peaches, so far as his section is concerned than in 1875, because trees are larger, and there are more orchards than there were in that year. He thinks the smock is the only variety in his orchard that will be behind 1875.

Mr. Thomas Parsons said he could not recall the crop of 1875. He thinks peaches this season look remarkably well, but not as promising in his orchard as in 1880. He finds that trees are full at top, but sparce on the lower limbs. He thinks the curculio is beginning to sting peaches some, but generally peaches are as healthy as he ever noticed them at this season.

Mr. Watson thinks he had four peaches in 1880 to every one peach this season.

Mr. Lecates don't think he will have many.

Mr. Byrom thinks there are plenty of peaches in most varieties. Smock are a little missing.

Mr. Slaughter has not many varieties. Smock trees are as full as they ought to be. Red fruit is plenty full. Most of his trees are four years old, but he has some few old trees that are full.

Mr. Isaac Parsons said he is not cultivating peaches on his home farm, and that Mr. Anderson could answer for his other orchards.

Mr. Anderson thinks there will be about two-thirds of a crop in red fruit. Crawford early and Rieves will yield more than two-thirds. Smock is very badly short. There are plenty of Beatrice.

Mr. Barnard has orchards four, five, seven and eight years of age respectively, and some trees as old as twenty-five years, and all have got peaches enough on them. He selected a tree the other day, that he thought represented about an average bearing, and he counted 280 healthy peaches on it. His old orchards in all varieties are full. He thinks there is almost as good a prospect as in 1875. He has one row of peaches that grow next a pear orchard, that are badly stung by curculio, but the rest of his orchard has not been much troubled by curculio. Mr. Barnard examined some peaches that he had brought on a small limb, which had been stung by curculio, and ascertained that the sting was only superficial.

Mr. Pennington thinks there is promise of a full crop, as full as in 1880. In that year he had 30,000 baskets, and he thinks his crop as good now as then.

Mr. Hurlock said that he finds in his travels, that the crop is more than an average one.

Mr. Jos. Vannort thinks he has more peaches this season than in 1880. Smock especially are abundant in his orchard. He thinks he has as many of smock and of a few other varieties, as in 1875.

Mr. Bell thinks there will be plenty peaches, though some growers will not have full crop.

Mr. Thos. Massey thinks there will be pretty nearly a full crop in his orchard. There will be some in all varieties. Plenty of smock.

Mr. Robt. Nicholson, jr., thinks, considering the increased planting, there will be as many peaches in Kent as in 1875.

Mr. Morris said that in his orchard, smock and a few other peaches are short. Other varieties full.

Mr. W. W. Stevens said his prospect is for a fair crop, not for an excess.

Mr. H. Massey thinks the prospect in his orchard is for a full crop. Some trees are too full.

Mr. Turner has only about 500 trees, but thinks from general information, there will be a full crop. He asked what might be considered a crop from 1000 trees.

Mr. Watson answered a full crop from 1000 trees would be 5000 baskets.

Mr. Morris thinks there is more than an average crop.

Mr. Stevens, a commission merchant from Baltimore, said he believes there will be almost as many peaches as in 1875, and he thinks the canners are making ample preparations to receive that large a crop.

Mr. Isaac Parsons was asked by the president what he considered a full crop of peaches. Mr. Parsons said that on an orchard of 10,000 trees, he should consider 10,000 boxes a full crop.

Mr. Robt. Nicholson said that in the upper part of Delaware, a box and a-half to the tree all over the orchard, is considered a full crop.

Mr. Barnard thinks what may constitute a full crop depends upon the nature of the land, and the attention given the orchard. Down in the lower counties of this peninsula, what would be considered a full crop, would not be considered much of a crop in this county. One basket to the tree is a full crop there, two baskets to the tree, the orchard over, is about a full crop here.

Mr. Corey, the president, said he had generally differed with the association heretofore in his estimate of a crop. He thinks this season, there will be more than a good crop. In answer to a question, he said there are peaches on the lower limbs of trees in his orchard, but not quite so plentiful as at the tops. This [illegible] because the lower limbs begin first [illegible] grows older do[illegible]

The Wheat Crop in Kent.—Before the peach question was reached by the Kent county Agricultural Association last Monday, the wheat crop and the "army worm" came up for a talk. The wheat crop is almost unexceptionally fine this season, but the army worm seems to have made its appearance very extensively. It seems they are destroying the blades from the wheat stalks, and are, in some instances, eating off the beards. They have not yet attacked the heads. There was a diversity of opinion as to the damage the army worm is capable of, but the general opinion seems to be that they are not much to be dreaded. One member said there was more fear for the corn crop than for the wheat crop, from the army worm. Another member said that he had recently been in one of the lower counties of the State, where the county roads were fairly black with the army worm, but that the people down there apprehend no danger from them. Another member related an instance of a farmer near Templeville, who some years back, cut down a field of hay to save it from the army worm. The next day he found his hay pretty much all eaten up by the worm The president related his experience with an insect that sometimes appears in the wheat field, that cuts the straw off a foot or so above the ground. A member said that the insect is a bug, something like a lady bug.

The Association adjourned on last Monday, to meet again not until the second Monday in July. This will lay over till after the wheat harvest. The question for next meeting is—"Is it desirable to build tenement houses on our farms?" Mr. C. Hurlock was appointed to open the question. Mr. J. M. J. Byrom was appointed essayist for next meeting.

Harvest will be later than usual this year.

Crabs are very slow in making their appearance in Chester River this season.

See a number of new ads., in this issue, also see a number of ads., that are not new.

What is going to become of Chestertown on the 4th? Can't the "owl club" do something to make it lively?

The W. C. baseball nine goes to Centreville next Saturday, to play the second game with the Chesterfields.

Excursion Tickets will be sold by the Chester River line at greatly reduced rates, to the Grand Army Encampment next week. See their advertisement.

The Kent Guards expect to attend the grand army encampment to be held in Baltimore. Notice is given to the company in an advertisement elsewhere in the Transcript.

Mr. Jesse K. Hines Jr. is released for summer vacation and is now visiting friends in Chestertown. He will probably improve his vacation by becoming a shining member of the "owl club."

The straw-board mill is getting well under way in building. The smoke-stack is finished to its full height of 80 feet, and progress is being made on the walls. From forty to fifty workmen are employed.

Festivals.—Bond Chapel cleared at its festival last week, the handsome sum of $230. The Kennedyville festival took in $290 in gross receipts. The expenses, which had not all been summed up, will reduce this sum to less than $200.

Baltimore Grain Market.—Southern Wheat is light, and the market is quiet and unchanged. Fair to prime long-berry is quoted at 1 40a$1.-43, and fair Fultz sold at $1 35. Southern Corn is in very light supply and prices are steady; white sold at 93 cts., and yellow at 85 cts. in small lots.

Freight and Passenger Steamer.—Capt. Jos. W. Thompson informs us he has contracted for the freight and passenger steamer, "Jersey Blue," capable of carrying 5,000 boxes of peaches, and allowed to carry 250 regular passengers. She is expected to be at Thompson's wharf in Chestertown, sometime next week, and the public will be duly notified when she is put upon the route. The "Jersey Blue" is a side-wheeler, and is said to be nearly new. She has a passenger saloon on the upper deck.

Turned Over in Chesapeake Bay.—Mr. Allen, who keeps the light-house on Poole's Island, started on Tuesday of last week to Legoes Point in a skiff. There were with him in the boat, his daughter, Miss Nellie, and a colored boy. A brisk wind was blowing, and when about in the middle of the bay, the skiff was capsized, empting its occupants into the bay. They all managed to get hold of the boat and clung to its bottom. Fortunately they were not kept in this dangerous predicament long. They were picked up by a schooner, and put back on the Island, with no further damage than a bad wetting.

Seriously Hurt.—Mr. C. P. Loper of Millington, county commissioner from the first district of Kent county, was hurt in so serious a manner on Monday of last week, that it was greatly feared his injuries would prove fatal. Mr. Loper had been riding over and inspecting the public roads in his district. He had passed through his front gate on arriving at home, when the wind blew the gate against the hind wheel of his carriage, frightening his horse so that he started to run. Mr. Loper grasped the reins to hold the horse, and became entangled in the wheels and was dashed with his head against a heavy gate post. He was taken up unconscious, and Doctors Power and Crane were summoned. An examination on the part of the physicians, showed that the top of the skull was badly fractured. Great fears were felt for the result, but at last reports Mr. Loper was considered to be improving, though not out of danger.

The New Steamer, Corsica, of the Chester River line, has been completed, and is now lying at the wharf of the Company in Baltimore. Among those aboard on her first trip from Wilmington, were Mr. George Warfield, president of the Chester River Company, Dr. S. E. Ford, secretary, and Mr John N. Sparks, Baltimore agent of the company. Mr. Wm. Bush, the experienced engineer of the steamer B. S. Ford, of the same line, was also on board, so as to familiarize himself with the machinery. The Corsica is 140 feet in length, 26 feet beam and 8 feet 6 inches depth. She has capacity for 8,-000 boxes of peaches, for which trade principally she is built. The saloon is 18 by 12 and the dining-room [illegible] by 12 feet. There are excellent sleeping accommodations for twenty-six persons. The machinery consists of a verticle jet-condensing direct-acting engine, cylinder 26 inches diameter by [illegible] inches stroke of piston, arranged with slide [illegible] cut-off valves, wrought iron shaft with th[illegible] flars and cast iron crank wheel, cast i[illegible] of seven feet diameter and a flue [illegible] lar boiler of 46 pounds of steam per [illegible]. The Corsica cost about $40,000. [illegible] ply between Baltimore and Chester r[illegible] creek. Orem. A quickstep, "Scotch Lassie Jean," played by the band, was so much appreciated by the audience, that the band was compelled to come out and do part of it over again. The trombone solo, "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," was omitted because Mr. Wm. H. Orem, who was to have given it was detained at home by sickness. Mr. Henry of Baltimore gave in its place a cornet solo. Miss Buschman again made appearance, and sang in solo, "Alsatian Mountains," so acceptably, that she was compelled to appear a second and a third time in response to hearty encores. A cornet solo, "Farewell," by Prof. Orem, was heartily encored. Mr. Schaun, in violin solo, "1st Air Varie," was again enthusiastically received, and compelled by applause to appear a second time. The concert closed with a quickstep by the band, "Wanderer's Dream." Many complimentary remarks were made during the evening, with regards the playing of the young band. Though not yet six months old, it has mastered many difficult pieces, and is capable of making really charming music.

Real Estate Sales.—R. Hynson, Esq., as executor for Jacob Highley, deceased, sold at Kennedyville, on Thursday of last week, the following valuable property: The "Raymond Price Farm," containing 200 acres, to Wm. Archibald. The price realized was $75.60 per acre, summing up a total of $15,120. The "Mann Home Farm," containing something over 102 acres, was sold to J. L. Lockwood for $68 per acre, making a total of something over $6,926. This tract was sold subject to an annuity of $66.66

A part of the "Raisin Farm," with no improvements, containing a fraction over 91 acres was sold to Daniel Hill, for $40 per acre, making a total of something over $3,640

A double brick dwelling in Kennedyville, the late residence of Mr. Highley, was sold to Wm. Archibald for $2,500. Another double brick dwelling in the same village, was sold to Dr. J. K. H. Jacobs, for $1,620. A double frame dwelling in same village, was sold to Wm. Lane for $1,000 Wheelwright shop in same place was sold to Jas. Roeder for $575.

The following tracts aside from the Highley estate, were also sold at the same time and place, by R. Hynson, Esq., as attorney. A part of the "Wm. O. Shallcross farm" containing 106 acres, to Geo. W. Roeder for $75.25, per acre making a total of $7976.50. Wm. F. Roeder's farm containing 87 acres, to Robert J. Ruth, for $46 per acre, making a total of $4002.

The "Boyd farms," advertised to be sold at the Voshell House on last Tuesday, by R. Hynson, Esq., as attorney for Mrs. E. D. Hines, were not put up, but are held at private sale.

Orphans' Court, TUESDAY, June, 13 1882.—Present, Judges Nicholson, Shallcross and Willson.

Lewis C. Justis, jr., admin. of John Nailer deceased, returned the inventory and appraisement of the personal estate of the said deceased which was received and ordered to be recorded.

Daniel U. Dowes, guardian to Mary L., Ella V., Jacob H., and Wm. H. Dowes, returned his guardian account, which was examined, passed as stated and ordered to be recorded.

TWO GAMES OF BASEBALL.

THE W. C. CLUB COMES OFF WITH TWO MORE VICTORIES.

On a short notice, after a previous declination, the Washington College baseball nine went to Annapolis last Friday and played the baseball nine of St. Johns College. Nine innings were played by the St. John boys, but the W. C. boys, being already ahead, declined their last inning, making their score in eight innings The score stood as follows:

THE W. C'S. AND THE CHESTERFIELDS.

On Saturday, after a hard game played on the day before at Annapolis, the Washington College nine met the Chesterfields of Centreville. The home boys were stiff, and in bad condition, and made some wild plays during game. The visiting nine was made up of good material, and it did some very skillful playing. The Chesterfield took the first inning at the bat and the first three men were put out beautifully by the W. C. nine. On the fourth inning, by wild throws on the part of the W. C. nine, the Chesterfield's scored four runs, and on the fifth inning the Chesterfield's allowed the W. C. nine to get in seven runs. The visiting nine played full innings, but a rain storm coming up, the W. C. nine refused their last inning. There were about 100 spectators to witness the game. The score stood as follows:

HANESVILLE, June, 10, 1882.

Dear Transcript:—It is some warm to-day and summer too.

Stoops vs. Taylor, assault was before Esquire Cohee last Saturday, wherein it was not "Stoops to conquer," cozing off as he did, we were going to say, second best, but rather first worst. The case grew out of a charge brought by S. that Mr. T. removed a connecting rod from his, S's. machine, and substituted his (T.) in its place. Both machines were sold at Mr. Cooper's sale some time ago, deceased, resided on Mr. J. W. Edwards' farm.

A young batchelor, W. B. S., on Worton Point, is having erected a new residence near the site of his old one. Perhaps the new departure may foreshadow a departure from what Billings calls "single cussedness."

Our young friend, W. R. G., launched his skiff several weeks ago, and it being newly painted presents a neat appearance. It affords him much pleasure to take a friend out for a sail, of which he is himself particularly fond.

Mr Thos. Gale's residence at the mouth of Worton Creek was painted in a very attractive style a month ago by Messrs. Hamilton & Son, of Georgetown.

We have seen no wheat but what was a head tall—a wheat head tall.

It has been customary to weigh almost every thing sent to market, and as a good many fish have been shipped, we suppose they must have been weighed in their own scales.

ONCE IN A WHILE.

Peninsula News.

A picnic was recently held in Sussex, Del., "three miles west of sour apple tree school house."

The man who sprinkles the streets of Dover, is named "Blizzard." Suggestive of a very lively street sprinkler.

The Milford News is already counting mosquitoes by the billion. Better drop a thousand or two, or Delaware's watering place will be busted.

Trout have been more abundant than usual in Delaware bay this season. Hauls have been made in which from 100 to 200 bushels were taken.

Caroline county bonds to the amount of $10,-000 were placed upon the market Tuesday of last week. They sold at a premium of 5 cents. The bonds run for ten years, and bear interest at the rate of ten per cent. per annum.

Mr. Wm. McKenney, of Queen Anne's county, is said to own 20 farms which aggregate 8,000 acres. Mr. McKenney never buys any but good quality of land, and land, under his management, is soon brought to a high state of productiveness.

A newly arrived tailor in Middletown, Del., was taken out to dig for gold, and then was wickedly chased home by a gang with guns loaded with powder and sawdust, that blazed a stream of fire in front of him at various points on the homeward route. It is believed that the bald-headed editor did not have anything to do with the plot.

The editor of the Middletown Transcript has written his first essay for the season of 1882 upon the mosquito. The following is an extract, —"It comes gently with a soothing strain of melody, like a gentle zephyr sighing through a worm fence, lights timidly upon the 32d parallel of a pious man's bald head, taps a throbbing vein, closes its eyes, crosses its legs, and dreams that it is drifting to the sweet and silent beyond. And what is the pious bald headed man doing now? Does he not realize that something is claiming his undivided attention? Verily, he does. His eye brightens; a smile—a sort of sickly, sad, subtle, second-hand smile, as it were—spreads o'er his countenance; he makes a futile effort to see the top of his head with both eyes at once; he raises a hand gently, stealthily, until it hangs poised in mid air above the seat of war, and then, with a swift and mighty stroke, it falls. Yes, it falls on that poor, pious, bald head, but it don't hit the mosquito. The mosquito has previously departed. It sits now behind a picture frame scratching its nose with its hind foot and wondering how pious bald-headed men can acquire such a vast flow of expressive language."

THE "SUCCESS"

Force and Suction Pump,

Of which we have the exclusive control, is now being extensively used in this county. We have one at our store in Chestertown, where it can be seen at work. These pumps are made of the best material, the cylinders and valves are of brass, the pipe is wrought iron galvanized. No. 1 Pump will throw 40 gallons per minute; No. 2 pumps, 17 gallons per minute. We warrant each and every pump to work satisfactorily for one year in any depth of well, and to force water 700 yards with a rise of 150 feet.

Call and examine this pump and you will buy no other.

ATTENTION FARMERS!

The certificate given below explains itself:

MR. E. T. COMEGYS,

of Locust Grove, Kent Co., Md.,

DEAR SIR—It gives us great pleasure to be able to fully recommend the McCormick Self-Binder, one of which we had the pleasure of using last season. We cut with it in all conditions of grain. The machine has done all that was claimed for it, and come up to more than our expectations. We consider it one of the best labor-saving machines that we have on our farms, and the most economical, when we count the board and wages of binders and loss of grain in binding, handling, stacking and threshing after hand-bound grain. No farmer who has run a Binder one season, will think of running anything else. Would not part with ours for double its cost if we could not get another. For lightness of draft, thoroughness of cutting and binding, simplicity of construction and durability, we think the McCormick has no superior.

Mr. Wm. W. Cosden, of Lankford, Kent Co. Md., Oct. 1, 1881, writes:

The Self-Binder I bought of your agent this season, Mr. E. T. Comegys, of Locust Grove, Md., has given perfect satisfaction in every respect. I cut 110 acres of wheat this season, and broke only one link of reel chain I also cut thirty acres for my uncle, and helped a neighbor to cut who had used a different Binder. The McCormick Binder was acknowledged to be a horse lighter in draft.

Buy the McCormick Self-Binder, a machine of 50 years standing. If upon two days trial the machine will not work satisfactorily, it will be taken back and all costs refunded to the farmer.
