THURSDAY, JAN. 18, 1883.

Subscription $1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months, in advance.

Advertising Rates.

Transient advertising will be charged at the rate of one dollar per square for first three insertions, and twenty-five cents per square for each subsequent insertion. A space equal to eight lines of brevier, constitutes a square. Figure-work will be charged fifty cents per square additional for first three insertions.

Simple notices of marriages and deaths, inserted free. Obituary notices will be charged at the rate of five cents per line.

JOB WORK.

Handbills, large and small, flyers, dodgers, letterheads, billheads, envelopes, cards, tags, programmes, and other kinds of job work will be done neatly and reasonably.

Correspondence upon matters of local interest solicited. Anonymous communications will not be inserted.

It is desirable that communications be in by Saturday night if possible, and in any case not later than Monday night or Tuesday morning.

—The Odd-Fellows give notice of a special meeting.

—A "took vaccination" is again the prevailing complaint.

—A series of readings at Bond Chapel next Tuesday evening. See advertisement.

—Fair begins at Church of Sacred Heart, Chestertown, next Monday evening. Some particulars in advertisement.

—Fast horses have been trotted out during the splendid sleighing of the past week. Three minute and 2.50 nags are much talked about.

—Some of our exchanges have already commenced to talk about the peach crop. Do give the peach crop a show, before you talk it to death.

—There have been several interesting turnovers in the sleighing line, and quite a number of interesting kick-ups in pedestrianism, during the week just past.

—Mr. George Vickers, grandson of the late U. S. Senator Vickers has gone to Memphis, Tenn., to fill a position in a wholesale grocery and commission-house.

—The intermediate term of court, called for last Monday, adjourned till to-morrow, on account of Judge Wickes being absent at the Cecil county court.

—Gov. Hamilton has appointed Mr. Robert S. Griffith officer of registration for the first district of this county, vice Mr. D. C. Blackiston, who has removed from the county.

—A sleighing party, made up of young men and young ladies, drove through Chestertown one day last week, in a wagon-body on runners drawn by four mules. The party seemed to be having a lively time.

—The jingle of sleigh bells has been almost unceasing in Chestertown since last Wednesday. It has been no uncommon matter to see fifty sleighs on High street at one time. Many handsome new cutters have made their appearance this winter.

—The tongers on Swan Point bar have hit upon a plan to keep the dredgers from stealing oysters off the bar. They have planted a small cannon commanding the beds, and whenever a dredge boat makes its appearance on the forbidden grounds, the cannon suddenly goes off. One discharge is generally enough for the dredgers. They understand the hint, and soon conclude that oysters on Swan Point are good enough let alone.

—The annual meeting of the Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Kent county was held at the court house on Monday of last week. The Treasurer read his report, which showed that the total cash assets invested and in cash, clear of all losses, amounted to $91,616.93. The Compny has had a prosperous year and is established on a firm basis. The old board of directors was re-elected, and the officers and financial committees continued.

—The small-pox case mentined in our last issue as having made its appearance in Chestertown, is getting along very satisfactorily. Isolated and partially snow-bound, the patient passes his time with no other company than his nurse, Dick Boyer. Dick finds it rather lonesome (so the Dr. says—we ha ven't been out to interview him), but gets considerable consolation out of the thought that he is drawing $2.00 a day. He was so unfortunate recently as to pour his pipe into the stove in a bucket of coal. This was a great loss, but it has since been supplied.

There are no other cases in Chestertown.

—Mr. Levi Fiddis has sold his property on Main street, in Chestertown, to Mr. Thomas S. Wickes for $8,000. The property adjoins Mr. Wickes' present store-house and is one of the best business stands in town. The lot has a front of about 54 feet, and a depth of 135 feet, and the improvements consist of a two-story frame building containing two store rooms and dwelling, and a smaller store room and dwelling adjoining. Mr. Fiddis sometime since sold an adjoining lot 16½ feet front, to Mrs. Maul for $2,000, thus giving him $10,000 for the whole property. Mr. Wickes gets possession on the first of March, and Mr. Fiddis will at that time remove to Baltimore.

—Orphans' Court, Tuesday, Jan. 16, 1883.—Present, Judges Nicholson and Wilson.

F. H. Harper, admr. of Nicholas H. Crossley, deceased, filed his release from Martha A. Crossley, Kate R. Crossley, Delia A. Crossley, W. B. Sparks and Lucy Sparks, B. D. Quimby and E. D. Crossley, which was received and ordered to be recorded.

John P. Hendrickson filed his release from J. E. Hendrickson, which was received and ordered to be recorded.

Tilghman Shafer, guardian to Virginia E. Rile, returned his guardian account for the year 1882, which was examined, passed as stated and ordered to be recorded.

Charles H. Baker, guardian to Mary E. and Emma F. Parks, returned his guardian account for the year 1882, which was examined, passed as stated, and ordered to be recorded.

Marion deK. Smith, executor of Mary L. Johnson, deceased, returned his first and final administration account, which was examined, passed as stated, and ordered to be recorded.

Peninsula Items.

Salisbury has a bicycle school.

Dover, Del., claims to have a thousand dogs.

Dover's $50,000 hotel is filled with northern people spending the winter.

Gov. Stockley, Delaware's new Democratic governor, was inaugurated Tuesday.

Dover, Del., has a new public school building

Lemuel Malone, late of the Salisbury Advertiser, has been negotiating for the Sussex, Del., Journal.

Salisbury has a Shakespeare club. It has just finished up "King John." Now Hamlet is to be made to suffer.

When a nice hint is given to a delinquent subscriber about settling up he is the last man to read it, thinks it does not belong to him, although he may have taken the paper for two, four, or six years, and not have paid a cent towards its support.—Delawarean.

The suit of the heirs of John R. Barnard, deceased, to recover $50,00, has just been decided in the Cecil county court, adversely to the plaintiffs. Barnard was killed by a train on the P. W. & B. railroad, while crossing a bridge. The court decided that his death was not occasioned by negligence on the part of the railroad.

On Monday afternoon, Josiah Williams, Jr., shot with a gun and seriously mounded Joseph Roberts, (both colored) near Thompson's Station, three miles from Cambridge. It seems that Roberts had severely beaten Williams and his wife both on the previous night, and went to their room (they all lived in the same house) on the occasion in question armed with a stick, and renewed his assault when Williams picked up a gun and shot him. At least, such is the statement of Williams and wife, the only eye witnesses, save two very small children of Roberts. Williams came in, gave himself up, and was committed for a full hearing to-day by Justice J. W. Henry. The condition of Roberts is not yet known. The latter, according to neighbors, bears a quite bad and the former a quite good character. Writs are out for the arrest of Roberts for the assault, if he recovers, and for surety to keep the peace.—Cambridge Chronicle.

A few days ago two large trunks, filled with various articles of wearing apparel, etc., the property of the late Mrs. Mary E. Bourne, owner of "The Plains," arrived at Greensborough station from Mme. M. A. Banuellia, one of Mrs. Bourne's daughters now living in France, the contents of which were to be divided among the old servants. Hon. A. B. Roe, as the agent for the estate, on Monday last made a disposition of the articles according to the madam's request. Among the contents were a sealskin coat, handsome silk dresses and three watches. Three of the old men servants were made happy each with one of the time pieces, while the hearts of the females were rejoicing over their good fortunes in the way of silks, etc. Altogether it was a happy party and probably no equal part of Mrs. Bourne's vast estate will ever cause more genuine pleasure than did the articles herein mentioned.—Greensboro' Press.

An Easton Clerk on "Taffy."—On New Year's night an Easton clerk went to a "taffy-pulling" near Trappe, and being the only guest from this town he determined to make a good impression on the lady participants, so he donned his best suit of black and looked his handsomest. He made himself perfectly at home, and commenced a stroll through the house, examining paintings, antique pieces of furniture, &c., during which time the hostess with several girl companions went into the kitchen and took the hot taffy off the stove and poured it into a large flat tin vessel, which they placed on a chair for safety, and then left the room. After a while our young man strolled into the kitchen, and sat down on the nearest chair, which, by the way, was the one upon which the hot taffy was placed. A sudden shot upward followed, and shriek succeeded shriek. "Whoop! Ouch! O Moses! Take it off! Thunder!" and other such choice expressions were made use of. They now say "taffy" to this young fellow.—Star.

Death of Mrs. R. B. Carmichael.—Mrs. Elizabeth Carmichael, wife of judge R. B. Carmichael of this county, died at her residence in Wye Neck on Tuesday last. Mrs. Carmichael was a sister of Hon. R. C. Holyday of Talbot county, and was a lady distinguished in her circle of friends for her quiet, modest, Christian character and many noble unselfish acts of charity and kindness. Her funeral took place at Bellevue, her late residence, on Thursday, the service being performed by Rev. Mr. Ware of the Episcopal church. The interment took place at the old Carmichael homestead. The remains of the deceased lady were borne to their last resting place by Messrs. R. B. Carmichael, Jr., E. T. Pace, Julian M. Spencer and Chas. H. Tilghman. Among those present at the funeral were Dr. Wm. Henry DeCourcy, Jno. B. Brown, E. B. Emory, Pere Tighman, Jno. R. Hopkins, S. Wilson Hopkins, Dr. Jas. Davidson, J. P. Davidson, R. E. Davidson, Geo. Davidson, Thos. H. Dodd, J. ". Goldsborough and others.—Centreville Observer.

Prospect a oyster supper on a wager.—Some time last fall Mr. Wm. McKenney and Mr. James Brown, members of the Board of Trustees of the Almshouse, were visiting the institution officially; among other duties looking after the wheat seeding. A question arose as to the number of acres in a part of the field being seeded in wheat. Mr. McKenney thought it contained 30 acres and Mr. Brown did not think so many acres could be found. It was finally agreed that the piece of land should be surveyed and a terrapin supper was wagered on the result. If 30 acres could be found in the piece of land, Mr. Brown was to furnish the supper and if less than 30 acres, Mr. McKenney was to be the host. At the meeting of the board last Thursday, Mr. B. S. Elliott, late County Surveyor, was requested to be present and make the survey, which he did and found the piece of land contained a fraction over 28 acres. The terrapins are to be furnished by Mr. McKenney some time during the present winter.—Centreville Record.

SOME WEST-INDIA ORANGES.

A JOKE THAT'S TOO GOOD TO BE BOTTLED UP.

As mentioned in a recent issue of the Transcript, Mr. T. R. Hubbard, of T. R. Hubbard & Son, has just returned from the West India Islands, whither he had gone in company with his brother to purchase phosphate materials. While in the land of the orange and the fig, the two gentlemen purchased a barrel of fresh-grown oranges, to bring home with them. After passing the American custom house, the oranges went to Easton, Mr. T. R. Hubbard directing his brother to re-box his and ship to Chestertown—and to prevent possible going astray, he told him to ship in the name of Mr. B. F. Fleming, the Superintendent of the Kent County Road. After getting home, Mr. Hubbard had matters of more importance to engage his attention, and entirely forgot the oranges. But the oranges came, all the same, and Mr. Fleming when he opened them, wondered what kind friend had been so considerate.

When Mr. B. F. Fleming shuts one eye, and smiles blandly, it is a sign that he—that he—feels well toward his fellow man. On this occasion Mr. F. shut one eye very firmly, and smiled a one-hundred-and-eighty-degree smile.

"Boys," said he, "here are some oranges. Walk up and help yourselves. Eat all you want and fill your pockets."

There were a number of "boys," ranging in years from fifty down, standing around, and they were not backward in complying with the invitation. Chris, the office-boy, fairly ate himself into a state of stuffed helplessness. In a short time the oranges had disappeared.

Sometime after Mr. Fleming's free picnic, Mr Hubbard happened to remember that he had had some oranges sent, which ought to be on hand, he thought by that time. He went to the express office and asked if there was any expressage for him.

"No."

"No box nor anything?"

"Nothing," said Mr. Fleming, shutting his left eye, and smiling blandly.

"Why," said Mr. Hubbard, "I have been expecting a box of oranges from Easton."

"By the way," said Mr. F., "I received a box of oranges myself the other day."

"Where were they from?" asked Mr. H.

"Easton," said Mr. F.

"Those were my oranges," said Mr. H., just remembering that he had had them shipped in Mr. Fleming's name.

A solemn silence fell upon the assembly, broken by Chris, the office-boy, who piped "Mr. Hubbard, those oranges were very fine, and I enjoyed them very much. I am full right up to here,—placing his finger about an inch below his chin.

Mr. Fleming expressed a great many regrets that the mistake should have been made, and offered to make whatever amends he could. Mr. Hubbard took the matter as philosophically as could be expected, considering that he had lost a half barrel of very fine fresh oranges.

FROM WORTON.

Ed. Transcript:—Our Kent County Agricultural Association has kept its place among its contemporaries in the State. The society has been sustained by the energetic efforts on the part of its members. But there is a wide room for growth and improvement. The farmers and business men generally of Kent, should take such an interest in this association, as to make it second in importance to no other in the State. There are plenty of money, energy and talent in Kent to bring about such a result.

An unfortunate accident happened a few days ago to Mr. Wm. Wood, living on Wm. Vannort's farm near Hanesville. Mr. Wood and Oliver Miller were hunting squirrels. Wood supposed he had killed the squirrel and it had lodged in the fork of the tree some 30 feet from the ground, and went up the tree to get his game. Just as he reached the squirrel jumped to the next tree, and Miller fired. Instead of hitting the game he shot Mr. Wood severely in the face and body. Mr. Wood will loose the sight of one eye and the other is severely injured.

Major Jack.

THE NEXT GOVERNOR.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF MARYLAND.

[The communication given below expresses some convctions that seem to be gaining a wide foot-hold.]

The hurly-burly of the judicial and congressional contest is over, and you are in a condition to look forward to the future of the democratic party in this State with a calm and dispassionate appreciation of the situation. In less than a twelve-month you will be called upon to enter into another political contest of more importance than the one which has just closed. In 1883 a Governor is to be chosen and a Legislature on which will devolve the choice of a United States Senator, and an Attorney-General and a Comptroller of the Treasury are to be elected, besides county officers. With a good ticket, and with union and harmony in our ranks, Maryland is democratic by a majority ranging from ten to twenty thousand, but if we should make a mistake in nominating a candidate for Governor, and fail to support our nominee with strong tickets in all parts of the State we might encounter partial or total defeat. It is seen at a glance then how important it is to the democratic party to make a judicious selection of a proper candidate for the executive office and to support that candidate in all the counties and in the city of Baltimore by the strongest and most popular tickets which can be brought into the field. On these points there can be no difference of opinions amongst us.

This brings us to the consideration of the question: "Who would make us a candidate that would enthuse and unite the party, rallying it as one man, and leading it to sure and certain victory? A number of gentlemen have been named in this connection, and after a survey of the whole field, duly weighing and considering the chances and qualifications of all of them it seems that no one possesses, in a more eminent degree, the necessary requirements of such a position than William McKenney, of Queen Anne's county. Mr. McKenney is the son of the late Col. John McKenney, well-known on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. He is about 52 years of age, a man of find physique and commanding presence, in good health, full of life, activity and energy, and of very popular manners. He is a man of liberal education and keeps up well with the current political history of the country and of parties. He is a man of great personal magnetism, superior judgment and common sense, prudent and practical and of thorough business qualifications. He has been a successful merchant, a successful farmer and a successful bank manager, and in fact has proven successful in almost every business undertaking he has embarked in. He is now President of the Centreville National Bank, which he was mainly instrumental in establishing. He is a good financier and keeps pretty thoroughly posted as to the condition of the money and trade markets of the country. He possesses great independence of character, is self-reliant, a sound democrat, and not identified with factions. In religion he is a member of the Protestant Episcopal church, having long occupied the position of vestryman of St. Paul's Parish in his county, Queen Anne's, not exclusive or bigoted, however, but liberal and charitable in his religious sentiments and feelings, and with many relations, family connections and warm personal friends in the four old leading religious denominations of Maryland. He is a man whom the whole democracy of the State could cheerfully support, and about whom the business and agricultural community could rally with enthusiasm.

But it is as the farmer's candidate that he is especially commended to public consideration. Mr. McKenney is a large land proprietor and one of the most successful farmers in the State. His average wheat crop is reported at between thirty and forty thousand bushels per annum. The legal profession has furnished much the larger number of our governors and for that reason it would seem a fit and proper thing to do now to make a selection from among our intelligent agriculturists. The farming community, I am sure, would hail his nomination with an enthusiasm that would bear him triumphantly into the executive chair. Many persons yet remember with pleasure the popular and successful administration of Governor William Grayson, the farmer of Queen Anne's. Let our next governor be a farmer of Queen Anne's also. To the whole party of the State, of whatsoever calling or profession, the name of William McKenney is most heartily and earnestly commended as the next democratic candidate for governor.

THE PENINSULAR PRESS.

From the Middletown Transcript.

One of the best indications that the Delaware and Maryland Peninsula is making rapid progress toward attaining a higher degree of intelligence and enterprise, is the steady improvement of its newspaper press. Those who, for the past three or four years, have been familiar with the forty-five or more daily and weekly newspapers printed in this fruitful and favored land between the bays must have noticed that during the period named the greater number of these journals have been steadily growing brighter, neater and newsier. To-day our Peninsular weekly press will very favorably compare, in the quality and quantity of original matter and typographic neatness, with the weekly country press of Pennsylvania, New York, or any of the New England States.

* * * * * * * * * *

A great many towns and villages do not estimate the value of a local newspaper as they should. Their residents have moved along in the old ruts so many years, reading the tax notices and sale announcements by posters in the hotels, and gathering the local happenings of interest at the postoffice or grocery, that they look upon the local paper when it comes as an innovation upon settled customs that they have no desire to shake off. They prefer to get their local news as their grandfathers got theirs, and think that the dollar city weekly that their fathers took before them is about all the reading they can get through with. The city weekly, by the way, is a most excellent institution, but it does not fill the place of the local weekly in the thousands of progressive small towns in this news-reading country. Not by a large majority. These people never consider the benefits a town derives from a live local newspaper. What does a town amount to without a newspaper? Who beyond its own limits ever hears of it? Who beyond the sound of its church bells ever knows (or cares) whether it is standing still or going backwards? Whether its merchants are selling goods, or have closed up their stores and gone afishing? No sagacious man of business would make an investment in a town of a thousand or more inhabitants that, having had the opportunity, would not support a local newspaper.

LITERARY NOTES.

The initial number for 1883 of The Art Interchange contains an extra supplement in the shape of a handsome Calendar, decorated with a set of tiles, six of which are given full size in the regular supplement. Being in outline, they may be easily adapted. The other illustrations comprise a full-page landscape, by W. H. Drake, a rising young artist, a dainty figure-piece, by De Nitis, and an attractive marine subject treated in the charming French manner.

Etching, now becoming so fashionable, receives due attention in a careful discussion of Seymour Haden and his critic, and Hawthorne's posthumous novel, "Doctor Grimshaw," is brightly reviewed.

Attention is, perhaps, most attracted by the careful review of the present status of Industrial Art Education in this country, the extraordinary success of Mr. Leland's experiment in the Philadelphia public schools having made this subject prominent in all well-informed educational circles.

Artisans will be interested in the fragments of ornaments for the use of cabinet makers, which, with the fresh and interesting Notes and Queries Department, complete this initial number. Sample copy free for postage. $2.00 a year, 26 numbers. 140 Nassau Street, New York.

In those numbers of The Continent current for the second and third weeks of January, there is an unusual array of fine engravings. The number bearing date of January 10th contains the first of two papers on the "Wits and Beauties of the Eighteenth Century," by Amelia E. Barr. The second paper follows under date of January 17th. They contain many engravings from famous portraits or medallions. Among them are Miss Chudleigh, afterwards Duchess of Kingston; Catherine Hyde, Duchess of Queensberry; the beautiful Mary Lepel (Lady Hervey); Maria, Countess of Coventry, and the Duchess of Hamilton, her sister, known prior to marriage as "the beautiful Misses Gunning" of Lord Chesterfield's time; Lady Sarah Bunbury, Georgiana, Duchess of Devonshire; Mrs. Montagu, Mrs. Siddons, Mrs. Wollstonecraft and Lady Mary Wortley Montagu. Several of these are from paintings by Sir Joshua Reynolds, and they are executed by such engravers as T. Johnson, D. Nichols, C. Spiegle and others. At a time when a modern English "professional beauty" is posing before the American public, these portraits of her famous predecessors are peculiarly appropriate. The engraving of Lady Bunbury is the first wood cut of this character from Sir Joshua's famous painting representing this celebrated belle in the act of sacrificing to the Graces, in classic costume.

Another engraving in the number for January 17th is deserving of special mention as the first that has been executed from Mr. Eakins' famous portrait of Dr. Gross, of Jefferson College, representing the veteran surgeon superintending a critical operation at a clinic. This has been admirably engraved by Juengling.

Holiday Presents.—It is the custom of all who can afford it to make presents to friends and loved ones at least once a year, and a real good habit it is. The only matter that bothers givers is what to buy. We come to the rescue, and suggest, is there anything more useful than a suit for your boy or husband, especially when you can get quality, fit and the lowest prices in the State from C. N. Oehm & Son, Hanover and Pratt Sts., Baltimore.

Barrett, Nephews & Co., of 43 North Charles street, formerly No. 110 West Baltimore street, the old established dyeing house, is prepared to do all kinds of work in their line with neatness, cheapness and dispatch. In dress goods of all wool and also of cotton and wool, etc., their success is greatly superior to that of a year ago.

The firm lay aside every year a certain amount of their profit to buy the most improved machinery, and during their existence have expended over one half million of dollars in that department alone. This firm calls especial attention to the rapid advances made by them during the past few years in the art of dyeing.

It has been the desire and aim to present to their customers work perfect in every respect.

"The Best Practical Art Magazine."—The Art Amateur for 1883, judging from the publisher's announcement, will amply maintain its high reputation as the "best practical art magazine of the day. To an abundance of beautiful, full-size working designs for painting, embroidery, wood-carving, and other art work, with copious practical instructions for all classes of amateur artists, it will continue to add a profusion of charming illustrations of porcelain, furniture, needlework, and bric-a-brac, together with an endless supply of entertaining information on decorative and industrial art. Numerous artists' sketches will be published as usual; the leading exhibitions will be largely illustrated and piquantly criticised, and artists of merit will be biographically noticed. A series of beautiful embroidery designs from the South Kensington Royal School of Art Needlework, and a number of articles on china painting by Miss McLaughlin of Cincinnati, will be published during the year. It is not too much to declare, with the London Academy (which places it above any magazine of the kind in England), that The Art Amateur is a "marvel of variety, beauty, and cheapness." This opinion may be readily verified by sending thirty-five cents for a specimen copy to Montague Marks, Publisher, 23 Union Square, New York. The subscription price is $4 a year.

SOME CHRISTMAS FACTS!

FROM

LOUIS K. STAM

To Every Man, Woman or Child who reads this paper.

I wish to present a few facts I would like you to read carefully, and consider each fact well.

1st Fact—

I have the Largest and Most Complete Stock of FURNITURE on the peninsula, comprising Suits, Extension Tables, Lounges, Chairs, Bedsteads, Bureaus, Mattresses, and every thing needed in the Furniture line, supplied at very low prices, and delivered free of charge to your houses.

2d Fact—

I can sell you CARPETS of any quality at city prices.

3d Fact—

A great number of Brackets, Wall Pockets, Clock Shelves, Pictures, Picture Frames, Easels, &c., &c., selected with great care—will be sold very cheap.

4th Fact—

Regarding Lamp and Lamp Goods—Possibly not the largest stock, but as good an assortment as can be found elsewhere. Special mention is made here of the twenty-three candle power Lamp; and extraordinary mention is made of the wonderful sixty-candle power Lamp, which will be on exhibition every night. You are especially invited to call and see it.

5th Fact—

A beautiful line of French China Mustache Cups, Shaving Mugs, Chamber China Setts, &c.

6th Fact—

Handsome Rattan and Comfort Rocking Chairs, Carpet Chairs, Gentlemen's Office Chairs, and an immense stock of Children's Chairs, at low prices.

7th Fact—

Children's Express Wagons, Shoo-Flys, Sleds, Baby Carriages, &c., &c., at very low prices.

Remember you are each and every one expressly invited to call and examine my goods. You will be received politely, and above all things don't forget the location, just below C. F. Stam's Drug Store.

LOUIS K. STAM.

The Best Time

To buy Autumn and Winter Clothing at Oak Hall is at the first of the season, when the stock is full and before cold weather creates a rush of buyers. The woolen market is so short of good materials that the low prices with which we open will be the lowest of the season. One million dollars' worth of clothing and materials await your command. You are equally welcome for a $5 boys' suit or the most liberal custom order.
