There is a pretty good force on the road now, but the job is one of considerable magnitude, and it will take time to complete it.

PENINSULA ITEMS.

A movement has commenced to build a Catholic church in Cambridge.

On Thursday, the 29th of March, Bishop Lay consecrated a handsome brick church of Gothic architecture in Chesapeake City, which cost $5,000.

The local option issue was voted upon in six districts of Worcester county last week. Two districts went against the sale of intoxicating drinks, and four districts went in favor of.

Capt. Mitchell, of the Lelia captured and took into Cambridge Wednesday three oyster sloops of Cambridge for dredging between Cook's and Todd's Points. The cases were dismissed on the ground that the law allows dredging in the river up to April 15.

An estate in Caroline county known as "The Plains," upon which the buildings alone cost over $100,000, is soon to be sold. Hon. George W. Covington and Robert J. Stump, Esq., have been appointed trustees to make the sale. The estate embraces about 1,700 acres.

The Delaware game protective association held its annual meeting at Dover last week, and elected new officers. The association is in a healthy condition financially and otherwise. The association has recently ordered from the West 40 pairs of prairie chickens.

The Delaware Legislature has passed a bill providing that the question of licensing to sell intoxicating drinks be submitted to a vote throughout the State. It is not a local option bill, but provides that the question shall be decided by a majority vote for the whole State.

The work of dredging the Choptank, near Greensborough, is being pushed by Engineer Sadler, and the present available appropriation of $5,000 will be exhausted by the middle of May, when a channel 22 feet wide and 6 feet deep at mean low water to within a quarter of a mile from Case's Landing will be navigable.

A number of the charter members of the Delaware Fruit Exchange met at Dover, Friday and effected a temporary organization. The charter was read and adopted, and $650 in stock subscribed. It was resolved to hold the first annual meeting at Dover on the second Wednesday in May, when a permanent organization will be effected.

A Salisbury girl who is a firm believer in home trade delivers herself as follows.—"Some men are always talking about patronizing their own town. They are always harping on that theme, and yet, when they want to get a wife they must needs go abroad to find one. I do hope that some of these chaps that marry foreign women will get cheated."

Martin Merricks, recently with Webb Brothers, merchants, of Vienna, Dorchester county, left a few days since ostensibly for his home near East New Market. A few days elapsed, when the firm received a letter from him asking that his trunk and the money due him be forwarded to New York city; subsequently a postal card announced his departure for Europe. Although the supposition prevails that he is seeking to forget a sorrow by travel, his disappearance is mysterious.

RIDGELY, MD., April 7.—The Circuit Court for Caroline county have appointed Tuesday, April 24, for the hearing of the Beauchamp poisoning case. The case will certainly be tried at that time in this county, as was announced today in open court by the counsel for defense. Col. Joshua W. Bryant, State's attorney, will apply to the court for an assistant in the prosecution of the case in the event that Attorney-General Gwynn is not in attendance.

A writer in the Greensborough (Md.) Free Press says there is a spirit of discontent among the colored voters of Caroline county. "This dissatisfaction," the writer continues, "is not confined to this county; it is spreading through all the counties of this congressional district, and may even exceed that limit. From papers shown the writer by one of the most influential of the colored voters of this county, and which were prepared by a preacher of their church in an adjoining county for publication in poster form, it appears that these leading spirits have well canvassed the ground, and that a convention has been arranged for. This convention will be called to meet at Salisbury, Wicomico county, Tuesday, May 15. It will be composed of three delegates from each of the counties in the first congressional district, and its purpose is to decide on some course of action for the bettering of the race.—In a series of resolutions passed at a colored mass meeting, held in Greensborough last fall, and which resolutions were sustained at a recent meeting held at Union Church, they claim the right of representation in the republican State central committee to the extent of one colored member from each county."

SOME NOTES FROM MILLINGTON.

MILLINGTON, April, 1883.

Dr. E. J. Power has been confined to his room for several weeks, but is now able to attend to his office practice.

Wm. J. Blackiston, J. P., is quite debilitated, so much so as not to be able to attend to his office business.

T. R. Quimby is repairing and beautifying his late purchase, the Thomas property.

C. P. Loper, county commissioner, has received a four-wheel road scraper, which he intends to put to work as soon as he is relieved of his duties at the court. We think it a road repairing and tax paying machine.

The county commissioners of Queen Anne's county have torn out and rebuilt the stone buttress at their end of the bridge spaning the run. The travel has not been obstructed. The bridge will be ready for travel as soonas the mason work hardens.

The people of the town and country have organized a building loan association, and elected the following officers: Thomas Mallalieu, president, by acclamation; Henry Tompkin, sec't, also by acclamation. But the office of treasurer was thought worth a contest. James Mallalieu and Thomas R. Quimby, contestants. Mallalieu received 81 votes, and T. R. Quimby 81. So Mr. Mallalieu was declared duly elected.

Our town is moving up. We have four railroad trains a day, and a light house, or rather two lights on top of the depot buildings, one red and the other green, which caused a Crumpton man a few evenings since to think that the steamer Geo. Law was coming in.

MARK RANKTON.

"NOTES BY THE WAY."

Overwork and rum kill thousands of our young men annually, and yet we keep on in the same old ruts. One class, in their greed for wealth and fame, work themselves to death; the other class, for want of common sense, burn themselves out with rum. Our English cousins are more careful of self and mingle pleasure with work, drinking light wines and beer, and living to be older. We Americans are born, live and die in a hurry. We want more pleasure with our business and less alcohol in our drinks to make us live to be old.

The microscope has revealed the true nature of pear tree blight. It is caused by bacteria, the smallest living organism known. A temperature of ninety-five degrees and plenty of moisture is favorable to its development. To prevent blight, bacteria will have to be cultivated and pear trees inoculated with it to render them blight-proof.

Max Price planted the first peach orchard, last week, that has been on Dr. Kelley's farm, in Still Pond Neck. The doctor has nearly three hundred acres of as fine peach land as there is in the State.

E. M. Bonwill has thirty acres (wheat stubble) of the prettiest wheat we have seen this season.

William Meeks finished planting corn last week.

A few shad were caught by Betterton drifters last week.

A ship canal, by the Sassafras route, seems to be a settled fact.

Nearly all the aspirants for office we meet, say they are candidates if the people want them, and vice versa. Few seem anxious for office, but will accept if the people demand it. The millennium is near at hand.

Still Pond, April 9th, 1883.

FROM WORTON.

[The following letter was received too late for publication last week, and is therefore somewhat out of date.]

Mr. Editor Transcript:—The cold, backward weather makes things look, and the people feel gloomy. The plough and harrow has to stop and wait for some sunshine. The wheat crop, which started a few weeks ago so promising, has taken a backward track and does not look so well. As for the peach crop, well, we won't say anything—we are afraid. The little black spot is there, and we have not had an opportunity to examine through our microscope.

The Worton string instrument band paid a visit a few evenings since to Mr. and Mrs. James Bird, and were handsomely entertained.

Miss Stella Stephens gave a large party to her friends at the residence of her father, W. W. S., Esq., last Friday night. As anticipated, there was a large crowd present. Chestertown, Galena and Worton were well represented, and I tell you, Mr. Editor, there were some pretty girls around, but I wont say who they were.

Rev. Frank Little and his family left us last Friday for his new home, Easton. Mr. L. was a great favorite with the members of his congregation, so much so, that it was hard to part with him. The Rev. Mr. Mather, who takes his place, is an able man, and will soon close the void.

Our young friend, W. H. C. Shuster, has returned to Mr. Stephens his horse Simon, perfectly well. We are glad that Will is successful in saving sick horses. Their scarcity and price, $225 for a farm horse makes us sick.

A petition is circulating around here for a new school district and a new school house, to be built at Hanesville, and from present indications it will soon be wanted, as we have had some 15 or 16 new scholars since Christmas, came into the neighborhood.

Our venerable Squire, Capt. Cohee, is enjoying excellent health; not so with his aged companion, she has been quite ill, but happily a strong constitution has brought her through. The Capt., although 83 years of age, can soon wade through a 12-inch log with his ax, and says if it wasn't for this plague rheumatism in his leg he could beat most the boys about here.

March winds up with a snow storm, what will April bring us?

Dr. Sam'l Beck, our worthy clerk of the court, is planting a large peach orchard on his property here.

MAJOR JACK.

Worton, March 31st, 1883.

An Accident in Rhymes.

The following story is credited to a captain in command of a Chesapeake bay schooner.—

"I was once becalmed off Kent Island in company with three vessels, mine making a fourth. I was in speaking distance of three schooners, I spake them all with the following result:

"Ahoy, there! What vessel is that on my port quarter?"
"The Dandy Frank!"
"Who se her captain?"
"Thomas Lank!"
"What are you loaded with?"
"Pine plank!"
"Where from?"
"Tony Tank!"
"Addressing another—ahoy, there on my starboard! What vessel is that?"
"The Ida Bank!"
"Who se her captain?"
"Jonathan Hank!"
"What are you loaded with?"
"Pine plank!"
"Where from?"
"The Choptank!"
"Ahoy, there astern! What vessel is that?"
"The Hattie Mank!"
"Who'se the captain?"
"Peter Blank!"
"What are you loaded with?"
"Pine plank?"
"Where from?"
"The Piankatank!"
"They all proved to be bound for Philadelphia via the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal."

A Ship Canal Across the Peninsula.

The Baltimore Sun of Saturday publishes the communication given below, dated at Wilmington, Del., would seem to indicates that a Peninsula Ship Canal by the Sassafras route is a concluded fact. The Sun in an editorial article, however, throws doubt upon the matter by seemingly demonstrating that the canal cannot be built at the estimate made. The following is the communication:

WILMINGTON, DEL., April 6.—Details are published here this afternoon concerning the operations of the Maryland and Delaware Ship Canal Company, which was formed for the purpose of constructing a ship canal across the peninsula by what is known as the Sassafras route. It is stated that the bonds have been placed in France by Mr. Henry B. Tibbits, of New York, the president of the company, and that the money has been raised for the canal, which is to cost $8,000,000. The canal, it is said, will be constructed within the next four years. Estimates of cost and specifications of the work for the use of contractors have just been issued, and it is expected that the contract will be awarded at an early day. The canal is to begin at Georgetown bridge, on the Sassafras river and will occupy the bed of the river for four miles; then, taking the main tributary, it will follow the main tributary to the dividing ridge between the waters of the Chesapeake and Delaware, and thence by the Blackbird Creek valley to a point near Taylor's bridge where it will take nearly a direct course to a cove on Delaware bay, below Gull bar. The whole length of the canal will be 30 miles. The width will be 90 feet at the bottom, and the depth 27 feet below mean tide at Georgetown bridge.

Editor Transcript:—The last farewell has been spoken, again has Worton lost her friends. Brother Little has left us and we shall sorely miss him; he has been so associated with our joys and sorrows that he seemed a part of our community, and, knowing that we were entitled to him for another year, we were in a manner unprepared and the blow fell with full force. We could scarcely realize the fact, and cannot understand it yet, why the wishes of St. James and the petition sent by our delegates were not of as much weight as those coming from other circuits. It seems sad to think that his familiar face will not meet us around the sick and dying, that his hand will minister to their physical wants and his voice to their spiritual ones no more, for he was untiring in such service; much work, not considered as the duty of a minister, he took upon himself; being of a very sympathetic nature and thoroughly skilled in nursing, such service was a pleasure. Many temptations beset him in his last days among us, for, Mr. Editor, we had those with us who would gladly have kept him at all hazards, but he was not one to resist law. So he has gone, never having put his congregation in 'hot water,' for he has said he never saw a people more of one mind; leaving more than an unsullied reputation, and those who have experienced his untiring devotion to the many loved ones who passed away during his stay with us can best understand his usefulness. We are glad that in his successor we will meet an old friend. He has been among us before, and ours is an appreciative community; we are very apt to find genuine merit, and the loss of the dear friends who have gone will not prevent the exercise of proper feeling to those who have taken their places. Still, many of us feel as if we had not been treated just right in this matter, and so express ourselves.

There is much sickness among us at present, one or two of our community being very ill; such things affect the whole neighborhood and cast a gloom over us. G.

BARRETT, NEPHEWS & CO., of 43 North Charles street formerly No. 110 West Baltimore street, the old established dyeing house, is prepared to do all kinds of work in their line with neatness, cheapness and dispatch. In dress goods of all wool and also of cotton and wool, etc., their success is greatly superior to that of a year ago. The firm lay aside every year a certain amount of their profit to buy the most improved machinery, and during their existence have expended over one half million of dollars in that department alone. This firm calls especial attention to the rapid advances made by them during the past few years in the art of dyeing. It has been the desire and aim to present to their customers work perfect in every respect.

A TRULY GREAT SHOW.

Two Famous Shows Pooled in One Monster Combination—The Grand Circus Royal, English Menageries Consolidate with the Great Astley's Museum—Aquarium Caravan, &c., &c.

This consolidation of Big Railroad Shows is to visit Chestertown, Thursday, April 19th. Below will be seen extracts from various papers at places where the Grand Circus Royal has already exhibited:

The Grand Circus Royal, etc., has come and gone. It is under excellent management, the company connected with it are good people in both an artistic and a personal sense. There is nothing emblazened on the bills that has not its counterpart under the canvas.—Bath, Gazette.

Parents, professors of educational institutions in the city and surrounding country should encourage the attendance of children, great and small, to witness this wonderful exhibitton, known throughout the land as the "Grand Circus Royal, etc." Great because of its new and attractive features, one of which is the charming and unrivalled Miss Mollie Brown, the champion of all lady bareback riders. The great Electric Light; The $31,000 Hunting and War Elephant, Empress; The charming Lulla, the Human Cannon Ball; The Pretty French Equestrienne, Gertrude Le Monde; the Fascinating Mlle. Olympia, the Heroine of Niagara, and thousands of artistic and enjoyable sensational attractions that have never before been seen under the canvas of any tented show. Altogether this is the very best and most attractive show that has ever visited our city.—Washington Gritic.

This establishment, which pitched its big tent on the lot adjoining the Vandalia freight depot, yesterday, opened its canvas doors to a tremendous business. At night the canvas was not large enough to hold the great crowd that thronged about it for admission. Inside the space between the seats and the ring was literally packed, and even standing room was at a premium. The performance evidently gave great satisfaction. There will be two performances to-day, afternoon and evening, and those desiring seats should go early. The price of admission is as usual.—Indianapolis Times, June 8.—Adver.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR

—AND—

Furnishing UNDERTAKER,

CHESTERTOWN, MD.

CASKETS, Burial Cases, Coffins, Fine Cloth Work, Shrouds, Burial Robes, Merino and Satin Linings, &c., of all descriptions and kinds, and all the requisites of first-class Funeral Furnishings constantly on hand, or furnished at the very lowest prices.

METALIC COFFINS and CASKETS, urnished upon short notice when desired. A full line of

SHROUDS and BURIAL ROBES.

Patent Improved

COLD AIR ICE CASKETS for the preservation of the dead; also Embalming Fluids. I have recently introduced a remarkably cheap BLACK CLOTH CASKET, which in appearance is almost equal to the finest. Remember I do not confine myself exclusively to fine and high-priced work, but have an endless variety at medium and low prices.

I have THREE HEARSES, two large ones and one small white one for children and young persons; and with my handsome new Glass Hearse and fine pair of Black Horses, can furnish as fine a Funeral Turnout as can be seen in our large cities. I am constantly adding new features and improvements to my business, in order to keep up with the times; and as there are such changes in style and kind constantly going on, and, as is generally the custom, some friend is called into the embarrassing position of ordering what he supposes may be wanted, it would be much more satisfactory to all concerned to name the price of the article wanted.

☞ ALWAYS REMEMBER that I guarantee to furnish anything in my line, of the same kind and quality, at lower prices than any other establishment of the kind. Ever grateful for the very liberal patronage heretofore extended me, I respectfully beg a continuance of the same.

☞ Residence second door above my shop.

Respectfully,
Aug10—tf. JOHN N. DODD.
