—The Oriole has had bad weather.

—Mr. J. B. Sappington invites trade in a new advertisement this week.

—The Kent county road will sell excursion tickets to the Middletown fair. See advertisement for particulars.

—Mr. N. Barnard, who conducts a large fruit nursery, known as the Howell's Point nursery, advertises trees for fall planting in this issue.

—C. T. Westcott, Esq., as trustee, sold on Tuesday, a farm in lower part of Broad Neck, containing 182½ acres, to J. N. Usilton at $49 per acre, or an aggregate of $8,942.50.

—On and after next Monday, the 17th inst., the Kent County R. R. will change its schedule so that the mail will reach Chestertown by one o'clock P. M. Change of schedule will appear in next issue.

—Mr. B. F. Beck brought into town last Tuesday three ears of corn that take the championship, so far. The largest measured fourteen inches, the three others twelve inches each. The ears were full and perfectly formed.

—A young man who performs very beautifully upon the zither serenaded some Chestertown young ladies the other evening; the window was not opened and the traditional rose was not cast at his feet, but he received next day a sun flower measuring about twenty inches in diameter, which he keeps proudly hung up as a trophy.

—The sale of personal property by Mr. Wm. Ford, which comes off on Friday of next week, will offer a collection of the finest stock that has been put up for sale in Kent for some time. Mr. Ford has had offers at private sale on much of his stock, but these have been refused, and the entire lot advertised will be sold at public auction. Beside the valuable live stock, the advertisement will show that there is a large and desirable collection of farming machinery and utensils.

—There has been a strange fatality among fingers, if we may so express it, in Chestertown and vicinity within the last ten days. Last week Mr. Thos. J. Mann, a young High street merchant cut the end of his left thumb off while chopping dried beef with a patent cutter. On last Tuesday Walter Pippin, while working a small circular saw in the planing mill of Mr. Joseph Turner, cut off his left thumb almost even with the joint. On the same day a young man by name of Zinger living in Worton district cut off with a circular saw the third finger of his left hand.

—Orphans' Court, Tuesday, Sept. 11, 1883,—Present, Judges Nicholson, Shallcross and Willson.

The sale of the real estate of Elijah Bond, deceased, made by Chas. H. Baker, executor of said deceased, was ratified and confirmed.

Theodore F. Dill, guardian to Jane Catharine Wood, returned his first and final guardian account, which was examined, passed as stated and ordered to be recorded.

Gone to Join the Cow-boys.

J. Vandergrift, who has a barber's shop on Cross street, employed recently a traveling barber, who hailed from the Great West, and who, according to his own account, had learned his trade shaving cow-boys and clipping the front hair of wild Indians. This accomplished young man was able to tell his customers blood-thrilling narratives, that entirely took the cake over the Police Gazette. He was, of course, a jewel to our Cross-street barber, but on last Saturday, while the proprietor of the shop had stepped out on business, this interesting barber broke into the money drawer and took nineteen dollars in money—the hard-earned savings of 190 shaves. He also packed up six razors in his bundle, and stated to a customer who had just dropped in that he was on his way to shave a man. He has not yet returned, and the man he went to shave was probably one of his cow-boy customers in the wild West.

Building Notes.

Mr. J. W. Hines has turned his house on High street so as to use the old building for a back building. The old building is being raised a story, and a new and tasty structure is to be built front.

Mr. W. S. Culp has purchased a college lot on the left hand side above Mr. J. L. Stam's going from town to the college, and has begun the building of a neat residence.

Rev. S. W. Thomas has begun a dwelling on Cannon street, between Cross and Queen streets, and will also put up another dwelling on one of his lots east of Maple avenue.

Mr. B. H. Gardner is making headway on his brick block, at the upper end of High street, which is to comprise three dwellings and a store room.

The dwelling and two store rooms of Mr. Jas. Bradley, situated nearly opposite the Voshell House, are being pushed to completion.

Mr. J. H. Simpers expects to have a handsome glass front to his store-room between this and Christmas.

A pavement is being run the whole length of the east side of Maple avenue, between Queen and Front streets. We are informed that it is done by the property holders.

Recreation Notes.

H. W. Vickers, Esq., is home from a health trip, and is restored thereby.

Mr. C. F. Stam left on last Monday for a week's trip to Washington, D. C., to attend the annual convention of American pharmacists, of which he is a member. Mr. Stam took his wife along and anticipates a pleasant time, as the numerous points of interest in and about Washington will be visited in parties by members of the association.

Rev. Walter Graham and family are visiting Mr. J. N. Dodd's.

Rev. E. P. Aldred has returned from his summer vacation, and preached last Sunday evening and morning.

Mr. T. Waters Russell and his daughter Fannie left for a visit at Norfolk, Va., last week. Mr. Russell returned Monday.

Wm. M. Slay, Esq., got back on Monday. He says the Transcript made a mistake in reporting him sick, but that on the contrary he has had the best of good health, and a very pleasant vacation.

Dr. C. P. Gilpin returned last week, and is beginning to wear off some of the sunburn which he got riding the breakers and shooting rail birds.

Mrs. Washington Hudgins has returned from a lengthy visit to Portsmouth, Ohio.

Messrs. R. N. Boston and H. Deford have returned from a trip West as far as Denver. They went, looking to a possible settlement, but the outlook was not promising enough to warrant their leaving Kent county.

The editor of the North East Star offers to take trade dollars, cord wood, potatoes, old iron, etc., from people in the way of subscription. Old hoopskirts and corsets are disbarred, as the scribe is an old bach.

Sherman Morgan, the Dover trotter, has been sold to a Philadelphia man for $900, but will probably trot at Middletown and Dover this fall. He trotted at Point Breeze in 2.30½ the day Mr. Wharton sold him.

CENTREVILLE, Sept. 10.—Lemuel Dunbracco and William Rolph, two court house officials, engaged in a quarrel last evening. Canes were used freely for a few minutes and the combatants were freely showered with well-directed blows. In the brief melee, Mr. Rolph received a rather inartistic decoration and a cut over his eye. Mr. Dunbracco was more fortunate, and came out without a mark or scratch upon his face.—Wilmington Every Evening.

Delegates to the Democratic State Convention.

The five delegates selected in each district at the primaries held on Saturday last, assembled in Chestertown at the Court house on Tuesday. The meeting organized by electing Jos. H. Hossinger president and S. W. Wallis secretary. The following committee on credentials and organization was appointed: Willard Scotton, Jervis Spencer, Harry E. Cooper, Geo. S. Biddle, and Samuel Burgess. The committee reported Jos. H. Hossinger as permanent chairman and S. W. Wallis as permanent secretary, and the following as the duly authenticated delegates.

1st District—J. J. Spear, Willard Scotten, Geo. W. Jacoby, Wm. M. Johnson, C. P. Loper.

2d District—Jervis Spencer, B. R. Quimby, Sam'l Comegys, E. Jones, Jos. H. Hossinger.

3d District—Harry E. Cooper, M. M. Rasin, S. W. Wallis, Jos. R. Usilton, James Lewis.

4th District—Jas. H. Henry, Wm. Ford, Stephen Lecates, Geo. S. Biddle, Jas. A. Shaw.

5th District—T. Romie Strong, Sam'l Burgess, Lemuel Stevens, R. B. Willson, jr., Nath. Voshell.

The report of the committee was adopted, and the convention was declared open for business. The names of Messrs. Geo. W. Spencer, John Brice, W. S. Walker and Joseph Massey were put in nomination as delegates to represent Kent county in the Democratic State nominating convention, which meets in Baltimore Wednesday of next week. On the first ballot, Spencer received 25 votes, Brice 25, Massey 17 and Walker 8. Messrs. Spencer, Brice and Massey were declared the nominees

On a second ballot, for alternates, Messrs. Jos. Delaney, Jervis Spencer and Jos. R. Usilton were elected.

The delegates were given no instructions, and will go with discretionary power to vote for the man whom they believe will best represent the party and the people as State officers, and upon whom the party will best unite.

THE FIRST QUARTERLY TEACHERS ASSOCIATION.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The Association met and was called to order by the president. A selection from "The Welcome Chorus" was sung by some of the members, Miss S. E. Melvin presiding at the organ. The secretary being absent Mr. Fallowfield was requested by the president to act as secretary. At roll-call 38 teachers responded to their names and before adjournment 42 were present. Proceedings of previous meeting were read, and the omission of the report of questions by literary committee was noted. Reports of standing committees were called for, and the literary committee not being prepared to report, the motion that the literary committee be allowed to report questions for discussion at the next meeting, prior to next meeting, was carried. From the information obtained by the corresponding secretary, it was recommended by the president that Wheeling be taught as the capitol of West Virginia until 1885.

The following committees were appointed by the president,—On finance, J. V. Crosby, chairman; Geo. Godwin, Miss Josephine Harris, Miss Mary E. Noland and John F. Copper: literary committee, S. E. Foreman, chairman; Henry Tonkin, Miss Mary R. Taylor, Miss Annie E. Leaverton and Miss Caroline J. Smith; on music, W. G. Fallowfield, chairman; I. R. Starkey, Miss V. J. Crosby, Milton Melvin and Miss Virginia Miller.

The question,—"How shall we teach good behaviour? Does it include rules of etiquette?" was discussed by Mr. Melvin, Miss Comegys, Mr. Godwin, Mrs. Gilpin, Mr. H. C. Wallis, Mr. Fallowfield, Mr. Starkey, Miss V. Powers, Mr. Forman, Miss Leaverton, Mr. Crosby, Miss Comegys, Miss Crossley, Mr. Brown, Miss Smith and the examiner. Mr. Pinkind who was to have delivered the address was absent, and the President of the association read a paper upon the teachers institute.

The question as to whether the examiner should prepare questions for the annual examination for the promotion of pupils in the schools was discussed by Mr. Foreman, Miss Comegys and the examiner. After the discussion of the question, upon a motion made and seconded, it was voted that the examiner should prepare the questions. The advisability of re-organizing district associations was discussed, and it was resolved to be advisable to organize such associations. The second regular question for discussion was carried over to next meeting.

Peaches Shipped to England.

From Smyrna Times.

Two weeks since we noted the fact that Geo. A. Cochrane, of Montreal, had discovered a mode of shipping peaches by a process of paper ventilation that would preserve them a much longer time than any known process and that he sent on this day a crate to England. The following letter explains the result:

MONTREAL, August 31, 1883.

MR. H. C. DOUGLASS, Clayton, Del.—Dear Sir:—Have just received a cablegram from my Liverpool agents, Messrs. Woodall & Co., reading: 'Seneca peaches landed, fair condition, sold for 36s. stg.' This proves beyond any doubt that I can carry peaches in perfect order by employing the case and method together. This test is only of the case alone and the peaches had to be exposed to the ordinary temperature of the trip, whereas, by the method I could keep them at a uniform temperature all the way. My idea is they arrived a little dry and shrivelled as it was so fearfully hot the day I packed them and up to the time the steamer sailed. The price 36s. is $9—for 24 dozen. They were the Moore's Favorite and of medium size, not the largest or smallest, and they were taken from the baskets Hudson had ready for market. When I get particulars by mail will advise you. Will you tell others that wanted to know the result as I have not time to write them.

Yours truly,

GEO. A. COCHRANE.

How Kindness Was Rewarded.

The Baltimore American tells the following story:

Nearly two years ago there came a stranger (a German) to the house of a farmer in Cecil county, Md., asking for a home for a few weeks until he could receive some tidings from an uncle living in Sumatra. His request was granted. Weeks wore on, and no news from the far-away uncle, Time passing pleasantly though, especially to the farmer and his wife, for in the stranger they found a highly-educated and refined man, he often entertaining them with accounts of his travels, and being a proficient performer on the violin, often made the hours glide by more pleasantly than they otherwise would in the little farm-house. In the month of August (one year ago) a cablegram requested him to come to India immediately. He started at once, the farmer and his wife accompanying him to New York. While with them he often hinted that the time would sometime come when he would surprise them with something that would recompense them for their kindness shown him while in their home. To cut a long story short, about six weeks ago there came a message across the sea, saying: "The time has already come that I can make some return for the kindness and hospitality shown me while a stranger in a strange land." His uncle, who was a millionaire, had died, and left him sole heir to all his vast estates in and around Sumatra, and as a token of remembrance and gratitude he had sent a draft for $10,000 to the farmer's wife, who had nursed him through sickness and been a friend to him. The draft was received and highly appreciated.

Personal from Mr. Wanamaker and personal to—you, if you are one of the thousands passing through Philadelphia, homeward, from sea or woods, mountain or springs, stop over a train, or break your journey for a day and see the store. Come in and leave your luggage at the checking places near almost every principal entrance; look about, rest, and when ready take up your journey with a full knowledge of where the store is, what is in it, how it does things. This will gratify us and you, and may serve us both. Perhaps you saw the store during the Centennial year. To have seen it then was one thing; indeed, to have seen it any year since, is quite a different thing, but to see it now is quite a different thing still. In the Centennial year it was simply an overgrown clothing store, full of men's and boys' garments, and the workmen who cut and made the goods. Now the clothing is delegated to its old quarters in the big clothing houses of Oak Hall, at Sixth and Market, and the large establishment adjoining the Continental Hotel on Chestnut Street, and now only a small section remains of what was seen at the Centennial time.

Then there was a single floor, now it is skirted with galleries on all sides; and since they have gone up to the third story, elevators have had to be put in to carry the people up. Then there was no opening through to Chestnut street, and now ten stores have been taken in the Chestnut street end so that the block from Chestnut to Market, and from 13th to Juniper, or East Broad, is practically one property. The basement is worth mentioning, too. While the business was going along on the main floor we kept up the floors by stout columns, and for nearly a year dug away the earth that hundreds of carts were removing, to make, from curb-line under the street pavements all around three sides of our house, the most perfect and commodious lower floor that we ever saw. It is light as day by electric lights which do not heat the air. It is dry, and cooled by ventilating machinery. It has eight broad staircases, so that within a few steps of any portion there is quick exit. This is one of the pleasantest parts of the store. The gentlemen's wash rooms and reading rooms are here. The new and spacious toilet rooms for ladies are here, and the new section for refreshments is just being completed here. All this makes up a department of public comfort quite acceptable to those who want the conveniences to rest awhile.

It would be natural for us to speak of the growth of the store, but to do so lays us open to apparent boasting; this is not our purpose; we grow as Topsy growed—"Cause she couldn't help it." People want the service we render, we try to make the service better and better, and make them want us more and more. This is a place where many of the things are gathered that are wanted in every family in the city and country round about. They are got from the best makers, presented for sale fairly, sold without haggling, sold to be returned if the price or the goods are wrong. Why shouldn't such a place grow?

Men work from sunrise to sunset, aye, spend their lives in getting money so that their families can get things. Is'nt it wise to find out the best place to get the things? 'It is the best place,' that we have been building at, and we are building at it every day still, and we hope never to be done while there is anything to improve.

You must surely come to see us on this invitation, and then you will know what to say to your friends.
