THE DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.

Wednesday of last week, a convention representing the Democratic party of Maryland, met in Baltimore and nominated the ticket which will be found at the head of our editorial columns to-day. Already, from all parts of the State, there have come expressions of satisfaction at and of commendation upon the work performed by the convention. The work of the convention insures a united party, a full vote at election time, and a glorious victory. The man whom the Democrats have put up for Governor, has a clean record, an acquaintance with public affairs that results from an experience of forty years, and a reputation for statesmanship that is national. Robert M. McLane is no small-fry politician,—he is not a candidate who by intrigue, wire-pulling and pettifogging methods has been put up for a place that is bigger than himself.

Before the meeting of the convention there was an open discussion of the gubernatorial question, there were a number of prominent candidates whose fitness was urged, there was no undue pressure brought to bear in favor of any one, and in most instances, delegates were sent to the convention without instructions. There was, however, before the convention met, a general leaning of sentiment throughout the State toward Robt. M. McLane, and the action of the convention in nominating him simply responded to that sentiment. At the same time, three-fourths the delegates went to the convention prepared to heartily endorse any other good man that might be chosen. Their action has already met with wide-spread approval. There is, to be sure, a little soreness in some sections where other candidates had urgent friends, but this is a result never to be avoided. The friends of other candidates, however, understanding as they must that the ticket is the result of a fair contest, and that it is undoubtedly free from any suspicion of trading, dickering or bargaining, are in honor bound and will undoubtedly give it their hearty support. The delegation from Queen Anne's, which was urging the claims of Col. Wm. McKenney, set a magnanimous example in moving that the nomination of Mr. McLane be made unanimous. It represented a spirit that will undoubtedly animate the friends of all candidates throughout the State, and will insure that in the campaign to be fought against the Republican enemy, the party will be united.

Mr. J. Frank Turner, the nominee for Comptroller brings the best of testimony that he is the right man for the place. First as to fitness,—his training through the past twenty years has been of a nature to qualify him for such a position. There is every evidence that he will make a business-like Comptroller. Mr. Turner possesses in a very large degree, the confidence and support of the people who know him best. He comes from a county that has been uncertain at election time, but in any contest, his personal popularity has made him a certainty.

The Hon. Chas. B. Roberts of Carroll the nominee for Attorney-General of the State is widely known as an able lawyer and a man of high character. He has already achieved a considerable eminence, and his nomination cannot but meet with general approval.

Taking the ticket as a whole, it is a good, strong, honest ticket, and one that will unite the party and lead it to victory.

From the Westminster Advocate.

THE Republican party in Maryland has encouraged itself in a hope that it may win this fall. The Republican organs have been engaged in a persistent attempt to create dissension in the Democratic ranks. At the same time there has been an industrious effort to keep covered up, a bitter wrangle between Republican factions. As a matter of fact, the Democratic party in Maryland is in a state of harmonious loveliness, as compared with the Republican party.

On last Monday the Republican primaries were held in Baltimore, and the post office faction, i. e., the Holton faction, swept things. The Custom-House or Creswell faction claim that the primaries were not fairly conducted. The Holton and Creswell factions have managed to make matters very lively even in their wrangles over the Federal patronage. What a delightful state of affairs there would be if these two worthies should have a chance to wrangle over the division of State patronage.

THIS is our first issue since the Democratic State Nominating Convention and, as a matter of course, a principal part of our space is taken up with matter pertaining thereto. On the first page will be found an account of proceedings of the convention, together with the platform and Hon. R. M. McLane's speech, given in full.

Sketches of the Careers of Messrs. McLane, Roberts and Turner.

The Hon. Robert Milligan McLane is the eldest son of the late Louis McLane, of Delaware, and was born in Wilmington, June 23, 1815. Louis McLane was in his time Representative in Congress, United States Senator, minister to Great Britain, Secretary of the Treasury and Secretary of State. After twenty years of public service he retired to private life in 1837, and shortly afterwards moved to Maryland, having been tendered the presidency of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. Mr. Robert McLane's mother was formerly Miss Catharine Milligan, of Cecil county. He began his education at a Friends' school in Wilmington, and afterwards attended St. Mary's College in Balt. city. In 1829 he accompanied his father to England, and studied in Paris for two years, at the end of which he returned home, and was appointed a cadet in West point Academy by General Andrew Jackson. He graduated in 1837, and was appointed second lieutenant in the First Artillery. He served with Gen. Jessup in the Everglades in 1837, and there first formed the acquaintance of Jos. E. Johnston, an acquaintance which ripened into friendship and grew stronger with age. Gen Johnston married a sister of Mr. McLane. Lieutenant McLane served in the Cherokee country under Gen. Scott, and was afterwards transferred to the corps of topographical engineers. In 1841 he was sent to Europe to examine the system of dykes and drainage in Holland. While on that trip he married in Paris Miss Georgine Urquhart, daughter of a Louisiana merchant. Previous to sailing for Europe in 1841, in addition to his engineering duties, he studied law in Washington under Gen. Walter Jones, and was admitted to the bar. In 1842 he resigned his army position and started the practice of law in Maryland. In 1845 he was elected to the House of Delegates of Maryland. In 1847 he was elected to Congress from the fourth congressional district of Maryland over the Hon. John P. Kennedy, the whig candidate. He was re-elected to Congress in 1849, and in 1853 President Pierce appointed him commissioner to China, with the powers of a minister plenipotentiary. In 1854, there being nothing to keep him in China, and the climate not agreeing with him, he was recalled at his own request. Early in 1859 he was appointed by President Buchanan envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the Republic of Mexico. Diplomatic relations between the two republics had been suspended for several years previous to Mr. McLane's appointment. Revolution had reduced Mexico almost to a state of anarchy, and indications were not wanting of the proposed interference of some of the European powers. Gen. Miramon held possession of the capital, while President Juarez was at Vera Cruz. Mr. McLane recognized Juarez as President of the country and presented his credentials to him. While in Mexico Mr. McLane negotiated a treaty which gave to citizens of the United States increased commercial advantages. In 1860 Mr. McLane resigned and returned to his family in Baltimore. In the heated discussions of the time Mr. McLane took the ground that the United States had no right to coerce a State into submission, insisting that the policy of coercion was the policy of disunion and war. In 1863 he was engaged as counsel for the Western Pacific Railroad, and during 1864 and 1865 visited Europe in that capacity several times. In 1876 he was elected to the State Senate from Baltimore, and afterwards served two terms in Congress.

The Hon. Charles Boyle Roberts was born in Uniontown, Carroll county, April 19, 1842. His father and mother were both natives of Uniontown, and his ancestors were among the earliest settlers of the vicinity. He graduated in 1861, and directly began the study of law with ex-Judge Wm. N. Hayden, of Westminister. In 1864 he was admitted to the bar, and has lived in Westminister ever since. In 1868 he was a democratic presidential elector from Maryland, and in 1874 was elected to Congress from the second district of Maryland over John T. Ensor, the republican candidate. He was re-elected to Congress in 1876, and as a member of the committee on commerce worked so hard for the advancement of Baltimore's interests that on his retirement he was tendered a public testimonial by the leading citizens of the city. Since his last term in Congress he has not been a candidate for any public office, devoting his attention to his professional duties.

Joseph Frank Turner was born in Talbot county, November 2, 1844. His grandfather was Joseph Turner, a farmer and prominent citizen. His father, Joseph Turner, Jr., died when Frank was only two years old. Until 18 years old Frank Turner worked on the farm in busy seasons and attended the district school in the winter. At the age of 18 he went into the office of the register of wills under Tilghman N. Chance. In 1864, Mr. Samuel T. Hopkins, clerk of the court, offered Mr. Turner a place in his office, which he accepted. On May 13th of that year he was qualified as a deputy clerk. Mr. Hopkins's successor, Mr. Baggs, made Mr. Turner his deputy and chief clerk, which position he held until 1873, when he was made the democratic candidate for clerk, and elected. He was re-elected in 1879, by a flattering majority.

In 1871 Mr. Turner married Miss Sallie Powell Hopkins, daughter of Henry P. Hopkins, Esq., of Talbot county.

Mr. Turner has made an excellent record in the official position he has held so long, and as comptroller he will make a faithful and intelligent officer.

THE STATE PRESS UPON THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES.

From Cecil Democrat.

The ticket probably represents as clearly the prevailing sentiment of the party whose support it asks as any ticket that ever emanated from a State Convention. All interests, all classes, all affiliations of the past and all purposes for the future, have had their say in its making. Certainly no faction can claim its exclusive parentage. Mr. McLane is his own man and the party's man and a man all over; too big for faction, too strong for leading strings, too well poised for domination, too rigorous for servility's mandates. Chief among the foremost and mighty amid the mightiest, brave, wise, resolute, unflinching, his name is a synonym of honest purpose, his life a grand triumph of honorable manhood. His party, the State, political integrity, will vindicate the people's verdict that calls to the post of duty, and honor the man who neither seeks the honor nor shirks the duty. The nomination of Mr. Turner is answer irrefutable to any charge that may be made of slate handiwork or master's methods. If there were any manipulations that sought to fix a choice where that choice did not center, Mr. Turner was hardly included in the scheme. His support came from all quarters, and the Washington county vote was prominent in his choosing. Mr. Roberts's name is recognized as a rebuke to any charge of intrigue for his behoof. His selection by a vote so overwhelming for a position that great lawyers have filled, and lawyers proudly great might honorably covet, is perhaps as high a tribute as was ever paid to a man of Mr. Robert's age and experience. The intrinsic merit of the ticket is generally recognized. All factions will unite in its support and remove its success from the realms of question.

From the Annapolis Republican.

Mr. McLane is an original, undeviating Democrat, a gentleman of high moral character, an able statesman of national reputation, an eloquent speaker, profound lawyer, and a representative citizen. Into no better keeping could the executive trust of our old commonwealth be placed. The candidates for Attorney-General before the convention were Messrs. Chas. B. Roberts, of Carroll, and Frederick J. Nelson, of Frederick, both able and eloquent lawyers Mr. Roberts secured the nomination on the first ballot. He is an able jurist, an active thorough Democrat, popular not only in his own county, but throughout the State, being highly esteemed by all. The candidate for Comptroller, Mr. J. Frank Turner, of Talbot county, was selected on the second ballot, his opponents being Col. W. H. Gale, of Somerset, and Mr. E. W. Lecompte, of Dorchester. Mr. Turner is the present efficient clerk of the Circuit Court of Talbot county, an office which he has held for two terms, being re-elected in 1879. He is eminently fitted for the position for which he is nominated, and will make an efficient popular State officer.

From the Westminster Advocate.

The Democratic State Convention last Wednesday nominated three gentlemen for the offices of Governor, Comptroller and Attorney-General for whom all right-minded Democrats will consider it an honor to cast their ballots. A better State ticket has never been presented to our people, and the whole ticket will be elected by a handsome majority. The platform, also, adopted by the Convention is all that any honest Democrat could desire.

From the Harford Democrat.

While the Democracy of Harford would rather have marched under a banner borne by one of her favorite sons, there is no statesman in Maryland whose leadership will be more cheerfully accepted than that of Hon. Robert McLane. His acknowledged ability, his purity of character, his great usefulness in the Legislatures of the State and nation, all mark him as one of the first statesmen of the country, and naturally led the convention to select him as the exponent of Democracy in its contest with machine-ridden and corrupt Republicanism. Hon. Charles B. Roberts, who twice represented the Second District in Congress, made a record that secured his nomination as Attorney-General. Mr. Turner is now Clerk of Talbot county Court, is a consistent member of the Methodist Church, is a fluent speaker, a prompt business man, a good financier, and possesses all the qualities necessary for a Comptroller of the Treasury. The ticket is unexceptional in character and capacity, is placed on a strong platform and should, and doubtless will, receive the united vote of the Democrats of the State.

From the Easton Star

The Old Line Democrats, the Ring Democrats, the Young Democrats of Baltimore city and the Johnson Bulloing Democrats, all support the Democratic State ticket nominated at the Democratic love-feast held in Baltimore last Wednesday. What can withstand a united democracy in Maryland? The Republicans may now prepare to "hang up their fiddle and the bow," for they cannot now come into power through openings made by a discordant democracy. They must now stand or fall on their national record, the Hayes fraud, the Garfield bribery, the Star route frauds, and the treasury frauds. Holton may pour out his money, but it will not avail. Burnt brandy cannot save the Republican party in Maryland this year.

From the Centreville Observer.

The press of the counties indicates that the ticket nominated by the Democrats last week is well received and heartily supported by the people everywhere. In this county no dissatisfaction exists, and our people will rally to the ticket and give it a hearty support. Of course our county desired the nomination of one of its own citizens, but both he and his friends came up nobly to the support of the nominees. Put Queen Anne's down for 600 majority.

These are the First Days of the Fall Business,

already the hum of activity begins. We launch the busy season with that prove to be strangely low. A few of these have been in store some days, but, to give everybody a fair chance, we held the announcements until the return of people from their holidays.

Some Special Things

A good lot of first-rate Jerseys at $2.25. These are all black. The colors are $2.50.

A Black Dress Silk at 75 cents, that until recently was always $1.00.

A fine Black Rhadama, 22 inches wide, at $1.50.

Half-wool Black Dress Goods at 12½ cents, which is just half-price.

All-wool stylish Plaid Suiting, 42 inches, at 50 cents. We sold the same at $1.00.

Another in stripes at 65 cents. Not dear at $1.00.

A quality of Lupin's Cashmere for 50 cents (all wool). The new tariff will prevent this quality from ever again selling at this price.

A Black Albatross at 25 cents, exactly half-price.

A fine Black Camel's Hair 46 inches wide, at 60 cents.

A good 36-inch all-wool Cashmere at 40 cents.

An excellent Black Cashmere, all-wool, a yard wide, at 45c.

A very few much admired Embroidered Robes at one-third off of usual price.

A Bleached Muslin, full yard wide, for 10c. The best we ever had at that price.

The best Twilled, All-Wool Red Flannel we ever sold for 25c.

The best Canton Flannel for 12½c. We never could get so good a quality at the price before.

An extraordinary lot of Towels at 25c.

Eight lots of Ladies' and Children's Hose that are on our counters at 25 per cent. under prices.

These lots of Shoes that are amazingly desirable for the prices:

China and Glassware we hardly dare to risk saying anything about, as the lots announced are nearly always sold out in a few hours of the day they are presented. Watch the city daily papers for the announcements, and if these lots are sold when you come do not be disappointed, as we have new lots in every day or two.

In Furniture. Young couples should see

The new Ash Suite of Bed Room Furniture for $25.
The same goods in Cherry for $28.

Our Works at present turn us out only four suites per day of these goods, so that first come, first served. Nothing like this has ever been done in Philadelphia before.

A fine frame Body Brussels Carpet at $1.25 that we are willing to endorse as a good thing.

We are not permitted to give the makers' names. The goods are new this season, and fifty patterns at least to choose from.

The First Fall Offering of Ladies' Robes are all-wool, of ample material, in nine varieties, dark, rich hues, and the new patterns are on the palm-leaf order. The effect is much the same, if not a full equivalent, as though an expensive Cashmere Shawl were dissected and made into a robe, as is often done. The expense being infinitely less—$25.

Also a few Wrapper Patterns, Persian, and with a decided Oriental
