Mrs. Linberry dies, member of old family

Mrs. Genesta Reed Linberry, of 3313 Leighton Ave., member of one of Baltimore's oldest families, died at her home at 4:30 Thursday morning. She was 72.

Mrs. Linberry had suffered with a heart ailment for some time and died while asleep.

She was the only living child of 13 born to the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Reed.

Her mother, Mrs. Annie Reed, was a sister of the late Daniel Credit, one of the first colored school principals in Baltimore.

FOR 42 YEARS until her retirement about 10 years ago, Mrs. Linberry had worked in the sick and claims department of the Mutual Benefit Society.

Mrs. Linberry is survived by her husband, James R. Linberry Sr., retired pullman porter, and three children, William I. Mitchell, Mrs. Lenora L. Rigby and Mrs. Mildred Wilkins, all of Baltimore.

—Miss Murphy

acquaintances, was one of ten children of the AFRO founder John H. Murphy Sr., and his wife, Martha E. Murphy.

She was the last survivor of the five Murphy daughters and the sister of Dr. Carl J. Murphy now president of the AFRO firm.

Also her brothers are D. Arnett Murphy, AFRO vice-president, with whom she made her home, and John H. Murphy Jr., assistant to the AFRO president, George B. Murphy Sr., her eldest brother died in 1955. A fifth brother, Daniel H. Murphy, died in 1922.

MISS MURPHY received nation-wide acclaim for the Baltimore Clean Block Campaign which she organized in 1935 as a community project for the AFRO Newspapers.

The city-wide clean up program soon became an annual summer event in which entire neighborhoods and thousands of girls and boys took part.

The idea spread to other cities in the country and was copied abroad.

BECAUSE OF Miss Murphy's efforts, city agencies, merchants, and organizations contributed hundreds of dollars to beautify yards, homes and streets, and to award prizes to the workers, most of whom were children.

The city of Baltimore each year contributed to the drive.

Miss Murphy became known as the Clean Block Lady, since it was she who visited each home and knew the children, every one by name.

In 1944, Gov. Theodore McKeldin, then Mayor of Baltimore, cited Miss Murphy in recognition of her Clean Block Campaign work.'

In lauding her efforts, he noted the task she and her workers had accomplished in placing houses in repair, putting in new steps, fixing hanging shutters and bad roofs, painting exteriors and other work which resulted in a more beautiful city.

At that time she received the City of Baltimore's certificate and award of merit.

PRIOR TO THE 1944 citation Mayor Howard Jackson presented Miss Murphy a gold medal purchased with pennies contributed by Clean Block workers throughout the city.

Bankers came from New Jersey to inquire how the clean block program operated, while cities of Wheeling, Detroit, Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburgh and Raleigh patterned Miss Frances' plan.

Subsequently she appeared on the radio and public platforms throughout the country in interest of cleaner cities.

On May 24, 1946, Gamma Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa made her an honorary member citing her contributions to civic betterment.

MISS MURPHY was also well known as a public school teacher of 38 years service. She voluntarily retired in 1934 with citations for her contributions to education.

For 25 years she was a teacher at Coppin State Teachers College which was then called Coppin Normal.

In 1908 she introduced for the first time in the City of Baltimore a definite plan for developing retarded children by the use of hand work below the sixth grade.

Wholeheartedly devoted to the teaching of children Miss Murphy also made another innovation to the city school program.

She was supervisor of training cadet teachers at Coppin Normal, when she introduced the use of mental tests as a guide to assignment of "the right pupil to the right teacher."

THE USE OF mental tests later became a part of required course in the Normal School.

Noteworthy among Miss Murphy's contributions to education in Baltimore was her "penny lunch" idea for undernourished children.

It came at a time when she was a first grade teacher and noticed many boys and girls appeared to be undernourished.

Firmly convinced that health and learning were allied, the teacher devised a plan whereby free lunches and milk could be served the underprivileged.

MISS MURPHY began her teaching career in 1895 as a floating teacher after she was graduated from the Old colored High School in 1894.

Her first appointment came the following year at an elementary school where she received a monthly salary of $37.

In 1905 she was made a "model" teacher at the Joseph Lockerman School No. 100 and that same year became a practice teacher and then teacher-in-charge of Elementary School No. 107, Biddle St. near Argyle Ave.

IN 1909 she returned to School 100 as a class practice teacher. In 1914 she became a teacher of practice and theory and psychology at Coppin.

In 922 she was appointed supervisor of elementary schools.

However, Miss Murphy requested that she be returned to classroom teaching. She retired as a classroom teacher.

Although Miss Murphy was 60 years of age when she retired from the school system she remained actively engaged in church, civic and educational endeavors.

Depicted as a "bundle of energy" Miss Murphy became associate editor of the AFRO Newspapers and edited the Junior Page.

She also continued work in the YWCA at the Madison Avenue Branch where she was a charter member.

As the oldest living charter member in 1945 Miss Murphy participated in the dedication of the new Y.W. building on Madison Ave.

During World War I Miss Murphy headed a Red Cross Division which raised funds and turned in hundreds of knitted garments for soldiers.

On March 29, 1944 she christened the Liberty ship, The John Murphy, named for her father.

In 1953 at 79 she became the first chairman of the first deaconess board organized in Madison Street Presbyterian Church.

Ardent at attending Sunday morning services, Miss Frances was a familiar figure as she sat in her pew on the right hand side of the altar midway the church.

For many years she and her brother George B. Sr., occupied this place. After his death and until October, 1957 Miss Frances remained there alone.

CHURCH MEMBERS recall that it was just before thanksgiving 1957 that Miss Frances was first absent from services. Word was that her physicians had advised her to avoid crowds.

Despite failing health, the veteran church worker continued to telephone members who were ill and to remember their birthdays with greeting cards.

Miss Murphy was confined to bed shortly after Christmas and underwent an operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital in January.

She is survived by her brothers, Carl, John and Arnett, Mrs. Blanche M. Lindsay, Mrs. Priscilla Bassett-ville, Mrs. Emma P. Butler, Mrs. Elsie M. Carter, Mrs. Anita M. Cleary, Mrs. Ada L. Cooper, Mrs. Flossie H. Cromwell, Mrs. Beatrice Daniels, Mrs. Pearl Farrior, Mrs. Nannie M. Hendrickson, Mrs. Estelle Thomas, Miss Lilian Sharpley, Mrs. Ethel M. Jackson, Dr. Willard W. Allen, Dr. T. Words of wisdom from Miss Frances L. Murphy

NOV., 1939—At 65, golden years and a gold medal from Clean Block workers.

As early as 1908, Miss Frances Murphy's words were known to hold great wisdom.

That was the year she told city school officials: "If a child has difficulty reading a book, let him build, plant a garden, sew or engage in some sort of activity using his hands, then build lessons around what he has done."

As a result of Miss Murphy's statement the city of Baltimore established manual classes in schools for backward children.

IN 1934 she closed a teaching career of 39 years in the classroom and her ideas about teachers were definite.

She said: "Since people look to teachers and ministers for inspiration and guidance members of both professions must be morally and intellectually qualified."

"SALARIES, BUILDINGS and working conditions have vastly improved but qualifications for the successful teacher have remained the same."

"THE GOOD TEACHER possesses an inquiring mind and should keep himself mentally alert through reading, travel, membership in professional organizations and association with people in all walks of life."

ABOUT WOMEN personifying all that is feminine and typical of an industrious woman, Miss Frances also defended her sex with this statement:

"A woman can accomplish anything she wishes if she proceeds with persistence and good humor as well as wisdom."

FOR GOOD CITIZENS in a radio address publicizing the Clean Block Campaign she said:

"All of us are builders of a better city."

Her homey, down - to-earth instructions to Clean Block workers have become mottos for good citizens.

"We must learn to wrap garbage properly, put it out on time and take in the cans as soon as possible.

"We must not hesitate to call on police, health and sanitation and street cleaning departments if we need their services."

"THE MOST beautiful places in our city are clean blocks."

"Children and parents working together have used their own best judgement in making their blocks as clean as possible."

"A clean blocker is one of the very best neighbors a person can have."

"We must realize that the general appearance of property is a reflection on those who occupy it as well as owners of the property."

"Landlords should realize that tenants are the real taxpayers and have a right to a reasonable amount of help in keeping things in proper condition.

"It takes little in money or materials to better your conditions."

AT THE FIRST founders' day celebration of the Madison Avenue Branch of the YWCA in 1946 Miss Murphy was the only living charter member and main speaker for the occasion.

She said: "Our goal has been to furnish a clean Christian hogie for as many as possible, to provide wholesome recreation for them and to help them not only to help themselves but also to make some contribution towards the betterment of others."

ALTHOUGH intensely proud of her race, Miss Murphy believed in the brotherhood of all mankind.

At the 1940 closing of the Philadelphia Clean Block Campaign, she gave the principal address:

She said: "The word 'color' must disappear as a measure of what any man is to receive.

"There must be for each of us the right of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"The right to work, play, love and worship is the right of each man.

"You may travel fast but you will not travel far if you travel alone.

"To save your life, you must use it.

"You must lift as your climb.

"No group in any part of the country must be left to make the journey alone."

AS A MEMBER OF THE founding family of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspaper chain, Miss Murphy always held high the principles for which the newspaper stands.

As she addressed more than 2,500 children at a Clean Block Campaign meeting in 1940, she said: "The AFRO will never subscribe to jim crow policies.

"As American citizens we contend for the rights given every other American citizen.

"Like other Americans we do not believe in taxation without representation.

"Black Americans fought side by side with white Americans. We should never give up our freedom and the American way of life.

"The AFRO - AMERICAN believes that color has nothing to do with human culture and human dignity. Each of us without regard to color, race or creed should be respected as an individual and be permitted to reach the limit of our ability."

ON FAMILY LIFE Miss Murphy also had certain definite ideas. She was the fourth in a family of ten children, was reared in the stability of old-fashioned farm life in Montgomery County, Md.

She said: "The mother who teaches her child to say their prayers, say the blessing at the table, gets them to church, Sunday School, day school and later to the little jobs they may find to do, gives them a knowledge of the theories of the church. She and her husband have agreed upon, and then steers them toward an active participation in community life, has a real job on her hands."

"Family life always gets off to a good start if two young people who are starting the same general group, the same religious group, and have almost the same outlook on life with a willingness to give and take."

Also surviving are nieces and nephews, grandnieces and grand - nephews and great-grand-nieces and great-grand nephews.
