THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 3, 1887.

—March has come in gently.

—The M. P. Church committee will sell the old buildings on site for new church, next Saturday. See advertisement.

—After Lent the spring bonnet, and after the spring bonnet, a financial panic among the fathers and husbands of this lovely land.

—We understand that the Tolchester Line will put the Pilot Boy on the route next week. The new steamer being built by the company will soon be launched.

—An attractive programme will probably draw a large audience to the Olivet M. E. Church, Galena, on to-morrow (Friday) evening. It is their annual missionary anniversary.

—The Emma Ford resumed her trips last week, in all the freshness and sweetness of new paint. She is now running on schedule time. The Corsica is laid off for repainting.

—The school board on Tuesday decided to re-open Oak Grove school, near Tolchester, which has been closed some time for want of pupils. School will commence as soon as a teacher can be procured.

—E. J. Hendrickson & Co., whose advertisement appears in this issue, is one of the most reliable commission houses in Philadelphia. They have every facility for properly handling any consignments sent them.

—A few more warm days and the daffodil, the violet, the roe-shad, the spring poet, the peach bud, the enthusiastic base-ball player, the small girl on roller skates, and county politics will all blossom and bloom.

—The company which is to give a musical entertainment here soon, and which the Transcript mentioned as the "Ideal Opera Company," should have been called "The Ideal Quartette Company." It is from Philadelphia.

—Special services will be held in St. Dennis' Church, Galena, during Lent—vespers, sermon and benediction every Sunday night at 7.30, and every Tuesday at the same hour the beautiful devotion known as the "Stations" or "The Way of the Cross."

—Judge Hyland, of the Orphans' Court, met with a painful accident a few days ago. While putting in a shaft at Riley's mill weighing 170 pounds, the shaft fell, catching his fingers between it and the stone, badly mashing two of them.

—The ladies of Westminster and Grace Presbyterian Churches will give a supper at Georgetown on the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday, March 2d and 3d. It will undoubtedly be such a supper as will encourage even people with the dyspepsia to invest twenty-five cents.

—The extra services held at Millington M. E. Church closed last week, after having been in progress over seven weeks. The congregations have been large, and the interest after the second week ran high until the pastor and people were worked down and were compelled to close. As a result there have been ninety-four conversions.

—Col. Copeland, who was booked to lecture at Chestertown on Monday evening on "Snobs and Snobbery," was left in Wilmington, not arriving there early enough to make connection with the Kent county road. He had come on from Wheeling, W. Va. The lecture is now indefinitely postponed.

—Constable Miller, of Galena, raided the forest near Chesterville recently and arrested Jos. Matthews and Benj. Freeman, both colored, for larceny of tools, etc., belonging to Mr. Newton Huey. He also arrested a white man, from the neighborhood of Masseys, on the charge of cutting down trees belonging to a church. All of the three are now in Chestertown jail.

—Don't forget that this (Thursday) evening is the last for the popular 25-ct. church supper given by the Presbyterians of Grace and Westminster Churches at parsonage in Georgetown. Very strong weather this evening might induce them to continue it (for the benefit of distant friends of the church) on Saturday evening, but that is somewhat doubtful.

—Mr. Oliver Pennington, of Fredericktown, Cecil county, met with a serious accident on Friday of last week by falling from his stable loft. While no bones were fractured, the opinion of the physician in charge—Dr. Latimer—is that the severe contusions sustained are worse than if fractures had actually occurred. Mr. P. is mending slowly, and it is hoped is out of danger.

—Mr. W. E. Rolph, assistant deputy clerk of the circuit court of Queen Anne's county, and Miss Emma Taylor, daughter of the late George W. Taylor, were married at 2.30 o'clock Monday of last week, at the P. E. Church in Centreville. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. J. A. Mitchell. The church was crowded with friends and relatives of the young couple.

—County commissioners met Tuesday, March 1st, pursuant to adjournment. Full board present.

J. F. Ernest, B. Roe, Sam'l F. Cooper, Wm. Morris and J. C. Wheatley presented a list of nominations for road supervisors for their respective districts, all of which were confirmed and approved by the board.

James A. Pearce, and Stedman T. Wickes, Esqs., were appointed attorneys to bring suit against the trustee or commit-tee of James H. Haddaway to recover from the estate of said Haddaway such sums of money as may be recoverable to re-imburse the county for money expended for board and medical treatment of the said Haddaway in the Maryland Hospital.

Upon application of Chas. T. Kronemier accompanied by the recommendation of Dr. W. F. Hines, Cordelia Kronemier, wife of Charles, was granted an order for the use of a free bed in the Maryland Hospital in accordance with an act of the Legislature of 1886.

On petition of sundry citizens of Piney Neck, an order was granted giving them permission to erect a fish house at Grant's Landing, on Long Cove, provided the public is in no way debarred from the use of the said house.

Board adjourned to meet on Tuesday, March 8th.

—Orphans' Court, Tuesday, March 1, 1887—Present, Judges Walker, Hyland and Stevens.

Letters of administration on the personal estate of Chas. H. Baker, deceased, were granted unto Mary L. Baker and James H. Baker; and Capt. W. D. Burchinal and Thos. D. France were appointed to appraise the personal estate of said dec'd.

Chas. T. Westcott, adm'r of Abe Anderson, dec'd, obtained an order of distribution of the estate of said dec'd.

Stedman T. Wickes was appointed guardian ad litem of the infant children of Enals McQuay, dec'd.

Willard Melvin was appointed commissioner to take testimony in the case of Thos. Rasin vs. Rachel McQuay and others, and J. S. Harris and Norris Barnard were summoned to testify in said case.

—The Transcript says that a construction train is at work mending up the Kent county road for the summer travel. It is to be hoped that the road will be completed to Tolchester Beach before the excursion season sets in. A large number of people would then visit that place—Dover Delawarean.

It is a consummation that has been devoutly looked for year after year, but it cannot be said that there is any brighter prospect of the road being built to the bay this season than on previous seasons.

—Mr. William Hartzog, of Baltimore, died in the early part of last week, of Bright's disease, in the 41st year of his age. Mr. Hartzog married the daughter of the late United States Senator George Vickers of this county, the sister of Harrison W. Vickers, Esq. Deceased was engaged in the wholesale tobacco trade in Baltimore, and was the son of a leading Baltimore merchant. He leaves a widow and one child.

—Rev. N. McQuay, pastor of the M. E. Church of Rock Hall, this county, was married on Thursday afternoon of last week, in Baltimore, to Miss Emma Erdman, of Queen Anne's county. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Shane, No. 4 Columbia avenue, and was performed by Rev. John France, presiding elder of the Easton district Wilmington Conference, assisted by Rev. Mr. Cooper, pastor of Columbia Avenue M. E. Church.

—The Baltimore & Del. Bay R. R. is constructing a new telegraph line along its route, with two sets of wires, one for commercial purposes and one for railroad work. New ties in large quantities are being delivered and will as soon as the weather permits be put in place. From present appearances it would seem as if the management of the road had concluded to go to work in earnest. We understand they expect to have it in first-class shape by the middle of June.

—A young lady of the fifth district, the daughter of a prominent peach-grower, last summer wagered a terrapin supper on a horse race. The horse she backed, undoubtedly should have won. By some mischance, however, he came in behind. The young lady is one of the kind that pays her bets. On last Monday evening the terrapin supper was spread, and a very sumptuous and delightful supper it was. Terrapin was one of the items of the menu, but wild duck, swan, turkey and salads also graced the board. One of the guests proposed the toast—gallant or ungallant according to the interpretation—"May the young lady lose the next horse race she bets a terrapin supper on."

—Chas. T. Westcott, Esq., visited Washington last week for the purpose of looking up a claim of Mr. Chas. England against the French government for twenty thousand dollars. The claim was based upon a bill of exchange given to Stephen Hayes, a merchant doing business in Wilmington, Del., 75 years ago, and was for the value of 700 barrels of flour which was sold to an agent of the French government at the Island of San Domingo, and which by the contract was to be exchanged for molasses, which the French government failed to deliver. Mr. Westcott found that the time to enter claims expired on the 24th of Jan. There is a bill before Congress to extend the time one year, which has passed the Senate, and which, if it becomes a law, will give Mr. England another chance.

Fire at Kennedyville.

Kennedyville had on Monday night a narrow escape from a disastrous fire. The wheelwright shop of Shafer & Medders was discovered on fire at 8.30. The bucket brigade quelled it in a short time, but not before Shafer & Medders had sustained a loss of about two hundred dollars. In his efforts to subdue the flames Mr. Shafer seriously burned his hand and one side of his face. Kennedyville badly needs some kind of a fire apparatus. Ladders should be provided at any rate We understand a movement is on foot to procure the necessary appliances for extinguishing fires. Every property owner in the village should contribute liberally for this purpose.

A Case Involving a Question of Oyster Law.

Wm. Sweetman, Wm. Townsend, Warren Brown and John Barrett, the latter colored, were arrested Monday of last week on the charge of taking oysters from the private beds of Mr. Thomas D. France in Chester river. Mr. France states that he has been missing his oysters for some time and believes that not less than eight hundred bushels have been taken; he determined to watch for his unwelcome visitors and recently discovered two boats busily engaged despoiling his beds. He secured a light skiff and pushed out to see who the parties were, but as soon as his purpose was discovered the boats left. Mr. France, however, was able by hard pulling to catch up with them. The case was tried before 'Squire Burgess on Saturday. The bed in question was laid down by the late James P. DeCorse, the father of Mrs. France, who claimed the bed by inheritance. The question involved was as to whether an oyster bed is assignable or transferable. Since the suit was instituted the Court of Appeals has decided that oyster beds are not transferable or assignable and in consequence a verdict was rendered for the defendants. The fact that planted oyster beds cannot be sold or bequeathed, is of general interest in all parts of the State bordering on oyster waters. The rendering of the court will have a tendency to discourage a very important industry. A planted oyster bed often becomes a permanent self-sustaining bed. If after the death of the original planter, such beds revert as common property, the inducement to establish beds where none before existed, will be very much lessened.

The Kent Guards Test Case.

On Friday of last week the "military case," which has before been spoken of in the Transcript, came up for trial before Justice Wheatley. The intent of the trial was to test the power of the officers of the company to enforce military rules and discipline. William Sappington, a member of the Kent Guards, being in arrears for dues and fines, and refusing to pay them, was taken before the justice in order to enforce the law, but the justice's decision was against the company. It appeared from the testimony that the members had never been properly enlisted. The law requires that they shall take and subscribe to a certain oath, but from the evidence produced it seems that the members had never taken an oath, though they had subscribed to one, but had done it without knowing what it was. M. Dek. Smith appeared for officers of the company and Richard D. Hynson for Sappington. This decision appears to establish that the Kent Guards is a purely play-soldier organization, not held in any bond to the State. Capt. Calder, we understand, has declined to continue the command of the company under existing circumstances. There can be no doubt but that the company should do one of two things—it should either organize properly or disband. Undoubtedly its membership consists of a set of young fellows who will average up, not only on dress parade but in point of courage, with any company in the State. These same young fellows should be too proud to belong to a company whose only purpose is to exhibit itself occasionally in brass buttons. They may never be called upon to do any real duty, but they should either subscribe to such rules as constitute them real soldiers, or else go out of the soldier business.

The Road Question.

How to get good roads may well be discussed by farmers' clubs during the winter, and should be thought about by every farmer. How important this matter is, is shown by the following statement made by Mr. Rudolph Hering, president of the Enquirers' Club, of Philadelphia: A load which one horse can draw on level iron rails will require, a smooth, level asphalt road, one and two-third horses; on bad Belgian pavement, three and one-eighth horses; on good cobble stone road, seven horses; on bad cobble-stone road, thirteen horses; on ordinary earth road, twenty horses; on sand road, forty horses. Good roads not only save horseflesh, but vehicles. Take what are ordinarily called "good roads," and a vehicle used on the first only will last twice as long, at least, as one used on the latter only. No one can doubt that country roads would be fifty per cent. better than they now are, if the labor and money put upon them were properly applied. How to have that work and money properly applied is the matter to be discussed now, that the best methods may be ready for adoption when the season for road-making comes. Whether or not the road bed should be surface drained, or underdrained with tile, or by putting in a corduroy foundation; whether or not gravel, or plank, or tile—these are points to be decided before spring. The farmer's club should also discuss specifically the repair of each highway in the neighborhood.—This will lead, among other things, to an understanding whether or not it will be proper to shorten a highway by straightening it, whether a road that now goes around a hill should be carried over it by grading down the hill, or whether making a road longer by carrying it around a hill will be compensated for by the less grade; how to keep weeds from growing in the highways, to seed the adjacent land, and many other points which, thus being settled, would greatly add to the improvement of the roads.

The Worton Gun Club.

Messrs. Editors:—Some weeks ago the Worton Gun Club met at Dr. J. B. Merritt's. The shooting took place about 350 yards from St. James' parsonage. We learn from Bro. Mather (the minister in charge) that one of his windows was broken. He picked up 25 small shot in the room and left more on the floor. The hole in the window is about the size of a silver dollar. The guns used were No. 1 bore, loaded with 4½ to 5 drams of snap shot powder and 1¼ oz. No. 7 or 8 shot with 2 or 3 wads on the powder and one on the shot. The breaking of the window and so many small shot going that distance through so small a hole, has brought forth a great deal of discussion among the sporting men in Worton. We would like to hear the opinions of some of the sporting men through this paper.

The club met at Mr. W. R. Gale's last Thursday, only three members were present but the shooting went on all the same, at twenty birds each from two traps. Do not think there were any windows broken. The following is the score:

INCOGNITO.

From Kennedyville.

FEBRUARY 26TH, 1887.

Editors Chestertown Transcript:—One of our near neighbors, August Money, met with quite a serious accident lately. He fell from a load of corn fodder, and broke his arm. Dr. J. K. H. Jacobs was called in and adjusted the fracture, and the patient is now doing as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

On Monday about 8½ o'clock the wheelwright shop belonging to Shafer & Medders was discovered to be on fire. One side of the roof was a mass of flame while one end of the building was all in a blaze, together with quantities of wheelwright material. Very few thought it possible to subdue the flames, but energetic and willing hands came to the rescue, and in about 25 minutes were master of the situation. Other buildings were so close you could step from one to the other, which in a measure aided in applying water where it was most needed. Our energetic shoemaker, whose shop adjoins the burning building, was busy at his labors when the noise and confusion without caused him to look out, when without further notice he decamped, together with all his household effects. Later he was observed looking around with the aid of a lantern. When asked what he was looking for remarked that he had lost a waxend. The origin of the fire is a mystery, as there was no fire in the building after 3 o'clock P. M., but the general opinion is it caught from sparks from the chimney of the adjoining building.

Mr. Joshua Vansant, who by the way has been quite ill during the winter, has taken a trip to Philadelphia to recuperate. We hope it may prove beneficial.

Wild geese are getting so plentiful of late that some of our neighbors have been driving them from their wheat fields. The heavy storms we presume have driven them from their course.

Some of our peach sages claim that peaches on low land and adjoining marshes, branches, &c., are killed. Let us hope their predictions may prove unfounded.

Mrs. James E. Weer has been very ill, but is somewhat improved. CRUSOE.

A few Still Pond Items.

At the missionary anniversary, Still Pond M. E. Church, on last Sunday afternoon, the infant class—Mrs. J. Frank Wilson teacher—took the banner. The total missionary receipts were $268.

Mr. Wesley Webb, of the Delaware Farm and Home, has been visiting Dr. W. S. Maxwell and Mr. Norris Barnard.

The Good Templars of Still Pond expect to give a public entertainment Wednesday of next week. Mr. Rossner, the State organizer, will be present.

Fire at Middletown.

Middletown has received another reminder that she needs water-works, and some efficient means for putting out fires. The residence of the late R. A. Cochran, together with that of Chas. Anderson, were distroyed by fire on Tuesday morning. We did not learn the origin of the fire.

A Tug Boat Wrecked on Fairlee Shore.

The tug boat Monitor was blown on Fairlee shore Sunday night during the gale and is a total wreck. The tug came over after one of the wrecked coal barges, that had been raised. The Etna came and took the crew to Baltimore on Monday. No lives were lost.

Literary Notes.

The frontispiece of the forthcoming March Harper's is one of Abbey's naive pictures, illustrating a Sunday phase of the good old days of our grandmothers. It is called "The Day of Rest." In one corner of the high pew a young woman and her small boy are peaceably slumbering, while the worthy pastor stretches out his discourse. The spirit and the aspect of life in the 18th century, as admirably represented in this drawing, is pleasantly described in the "Editor's Easy Chair" by George William Curtis.

Among the features which contribute to the individuality of the March Century are, first of all, a complete short story by Mr. Cable, entitled "Grande Pointe," being the second of his stories of the Acadian country of Louisiana. The illustrations of this story, by Mr. Kemble, are from studies from life in that region, whither he was commissioned to go by the Century for this purpose. Mr. Stockton's "Hundredth Man" reaches its fifth part.

Scribner's Magazine for March contains: Portrait of M. Thiers, engraved from the painting by Healey, in the possession of ex-Minister Washburne; "The Stability of the Earth," by N. S. Shaler, with illustrations drawn by E. J. Meeker, J. Steeple Davis, A. M. Turner, George Gibson and C. E. Robinson, from photographs and diagrams furnished by the author; "Aunt Fountain's Prisoner," a story by Joel Chandler Harris; and a number of other interesting papers.

Lucy C. Lillie contributes the complete novel to Lippincott's Monthly Magazine for March. It is entitled "Kenyon's Wife," and the scene is laid partly in "Little Fenn," a quaint island off the coast of Maine, and partly in Boston and its vicinity. The hero is a newspaper correspondent, the heroine is a native of the island, beautiful but unaccomplished, who by resolute endeavor makes herself a companion for her husband, and wins his love after marriage.

St. Nicholas for March is a breezy number with a long list of short stories, every one of which is bound to please somebody, and all of which ought to please everybody.

The Scott Fertilizer Company of Cecil County.

The certificate of incorporation of the Scott Fertilizer Company of Cecil County has been filed in the office of the clerk of the court. The capital stock is stated at $40,000, which has been fully subscribed. The directors of the company are: Frank R. Scott, James H. Scott, Wm. H. Mackall, John J. Williams, Charles M. Ellis, Daniel Bratton and John S. Wirt. The officers of the company are: president, Frank R. Scott; vice-president, Wm. H. Mackall; secretary, Asher A. Scott. The property, which has been occupied by D. Scott & Bro.,—whom the company succeed—will have greater steam power, and other facilities added at an early date. The company will manufacture reliable fertilizers, which will be put in perfect mechanical condition for drilling, and sold at bottom prices. The character of the gentlemen directing the enterprise and the officers in active charge of the business should certainly command the confidence of the business and farming community.—Cecil Democrat.
