The President and the St. Louis Visit.

An invitation, signed by 20,000 of the leading citizens of St. Louis, and handsomely bound in book form, was extended to President Grover Cleveland to visit St. Louis during the Grand Army reunion to be held there. An invitation also was extended to him by leading representatives of the Grand Army. Both of these he cordially accepted. Later, a few leaders of the Grand Army posts here and there, began to make noisy protests against the President's visit. They claimed to be offended, because the President vetoed the sweeping pension bill which passed Congress last winter. In the opinion of most clear-thinking people, and in the opinion of the almost unanimous press of the country regardless of party bias, the President performed a very plain duty in refusing to sign that sweeping pension bill. Certainly under existing pension laws, almost every soldier who received a scratch or a bruise, can obtain a pension if he seeks it. It seems, however, that a certain portion of the Grand Army will be satisfied with nothing less than establishing every man who wore a blue coat during the war, as pensioner upon the government.

There is good reason for suspecting that in this fuss made about the President's visit, there is a politician in the woodpile. It has much the appearance of an endeavor to turn the army sentiment solidly against him in time for the election of 1888.

The action of the few small people connected with the Grand Army, in objecting to the President's visit to St. Louis, was in wretchedly bad taste, to say the least, and like most mean and spiteful actions, it will react upon the public in a very different manner from that in which it was intended to act. Mr. Cleveland has already written two letters, recalling his acceptance of the two invitations that were extended to him. Like all of Mr. Cleveland's letters, they are dignified, plain, sensible and to the point.

The people of St. Louis generally feel outraged that a few members of the grand army should have prevented the President's visit. They have accordingly invited the President to visit them at a somewhat later date, and the indications are that what would have been a warm reception will be turned into an enthusiastic ovation. A matter which a few wire-pulling politicians sought to turn into disaster will be reversed to a great boom for Grover Cleveland.

Following is the report of the action taken by the citizens of St. Louis upon receiving the President's withdrawal of acceptance of invitations :—

ST. LOUIS, July 8.—The mass-meeting of citizens called yesterday to meet at the Merchants Exchange to-day to take public action in regard to inviting President Cleveland to visit St. Louis in the autumn, assembled at 1 o'clock. The following was adopted: "The people of St. Louis, assembled at a public meeting called for the purpose, and held at the Merchants' Exchange on July 8, 1887, respectfully and earnestly extend to the President of the United States and to Mrs. Cleveland an invitation to visit the city and become its guests for the week commencing October 2, 1887. In doing so they desire to urge on the President their desire to give him a welcome that will demonstrate the respect and love they have for him as a public officer and as a man." The mayor of St. Louis and a committee to be selected by him are appointed to proceed to Washington and deliver this invitation to the President.

A Recklessly Bold Editor.

Many of our friends have heard with disgust the calf-like bleating of the editors of the Newark Ledger against our unsullied name. They threatened to clean us out, and wipe up the floor with us, any time, any place. To give them that opportunity we went to their town since our last issue and spent two days there. We purposely walked by their office, stood in front of it, and passed them on the street, but the skunks just shrunk away and showed none of their boasted desire to settle the difficulty.—Church Hill News.

The bold and intrepid editor of the Church Hill News did well. Church Hill district, his best girl, and every subscriber to his valuable journal can well afford to be proud of him. When the editor of the Newark Ledger made this diabolical threat against the Church Hill editor, to wit, that he would "wipe up the floor with him," did the latter go up into the garret like a dastard or a craven, or did he hide himself behind the ash-barrel in the cellar? Sdeath! By my halicom!! Not much!!! On the contrary he immediately on reading the vile threat, went to his home, packed his good grip-sack, and bought a round trip ticket to Newark, good for two days. Arrived there, did he put himself under the protection of the police? Did he have the dangerous editor of the Ledger bound over to keep the peace? He did neither. But with the boldness of a lion and something of the reckless daring of a cowboy, he walked right past the office door of his hated enemy. With a courage which none can gainsay, he even went so far as to stand in front of the door. Did he make faces at the Newark man? We should not be at all surprised to know that he did. He has undoubtedly shown that he has the nerve to do it, if he only made up his mind to it. But what of the Newark Ledger editor? Has he a chicken's heart, and the liver of a craven, that he submitted to this haughty and crushing treatment? As soon as he observed the Church Hill man in front of his door, did he crawl up the chimney, and instruct his devil to say that he was out? The deductive evidence of the case seems to show that he did. Can the citizens of Newark allow their only editor to act in this humiliating manner? Will they not hold a town meeting and demand that he go to Church Hull and blow a tin horn in front of the Church Hill editor's door, or commit some other defiant outrage? In no other manner can the foul blot on the escutcheon of the Newark editor be wiped out.

But what is the cause of this bitter, fierce, unrelenting, cruel quarrel? Is it some fair maiden, upon whom the rival editors have set their respective hearts? We can well think it. More than one war, since history began to chronicle the affairs of men, has been brought about by woman.

"What mighty ills have not been done by woman?
Who was't betray'd the capitol? A woman!
Who lost Mark Antony the world? A woman!
Who was the cause of a long ten years war, and laid at last old Troy in ashes? A woman!
Destructive, damnable, deceitful woman."

The above stanza was undoubtedly written by some soured bachelor, who had wooed and lost. We would commend as a better motto to the two rival editors, at least until the maiden has chosen between them, the stanza from Burns :

"And nature swears, the lovely dears
Her noblest work she classes, O!
Her Prentice hand, she tried on man,
And then she made the lasses, O!"

And to the Church Hill editor especially, who has shown such marked courage in this affair, and who is a college bred man, we would commend the following line from Virgil :

"Macte nova virtute, Puer! Sic itur ad astra!"

N. B.—Puer must be translated O young man in this case.

IN SOMETHING less than two weeks the Democratic State Convention meets in Baltimore. Delegates from a number of counties have been elected, and in some instances have received instructions for certain candidates. Though the chances begin to narrow somewhat, it cannot even yet be said that indications point unmistakably to any one of the several who are prominently in the field as candidates for Governor. It is sincerely to be desired that the candidate to be nominated shall possess such experience of affairs, and such undoubted integrity of character, as will insure the thorough respect of the best element in the party, and as will command the full strength of the party throughout the State. Maryland is set down as solidly Democratic, first, last and always. But it must be noted that there have been great fluctuations in the majorities she has given. A nominee for Governor who has made his record chiefly as a political wire-puller, who is skilled in all the peculiar methods implied by the term "practical politics," can never command the full respect and the full strength of the party. The nomination of such a man is always a strain on the party, and tends to bring about a state of affairs that renders Democratic success difficult and doubtful. Let us have a candidate for Governor with an undoubtedly clean record, and one who has the sort of moral grit that commands general respect and brings out a full vote.

There are three gentlemen whose names are prominently mentioned as candidates for Governor, any one of whom we believe will command the full strength and confidence of the party. These are—Senator E. E. Jackson, of Wicomico; Mayor James Hodges, of Baltimore, and Hon. Chas. B. Roberts. From one of these three we believe the candidate will be chosen. Any one of them has a character for personal integrity, that would stand unimpeached and unimpeachable.

EASTON has turned on the Electric light and is proud. The Easton newspapers, like the Cambridge papers, are beginning to talk about "our city." Brethren down the Shore, Chestertown might vaunt herself in pride over her water-works, her underground sewerage system, her unparalleled police force, and other progressive matters, but Chestertown is modest. Modesty is a jewel.

HON. HENRY W. ARCHER, a leading lawyer of Harford county, died on last Friday evening. Mr. Archer's name was prominently discussed for Governor of the State, and during his life he exerted a very considerable influence in State politics. Mr. Archer married a lady of this town, the daughter of Mr. John W. Walker, and sister of Mr. Wm. S. Walker.

GENERAL NOTES AND COMMENTS.

There are two men to dig coal in the mining regions where one can find employment, and the wages of mining have not been advanced. The railroad companies have more coal to carry than they have cars to transport it in or locomotives to pull it to the market. There is no circumstance lacking which should tend to cheapen prices to the consumer; but the coal business is done in a corner by a few masters of transportation, who make prices to suit themselves. They don't call their combination "a Coal Trust," but that is what it is—an illegal and irresponsible device for cheating every man in the whole country who buys a ton of coal.

The people of Canada divide their trade very evenly between Great Britain and the United States. For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1886, the total imports into the Dominion from all countries in the world amounted to $104,000,000. Of this total, $40,601,000 came from Great Brittain and $44,868,000 from the United States. As the population of Canada shall increase she will soon become, next to Great Britain, the most important consumer of the products of this country. With reciprocity she might attain to the first place as a purchaser of our manufactured goods.

From five distinct and responsible shipbuilding concerns in this country the Government expects to receive competing bids for the building of the two gun-boats and the three cruisers for which estimates have been invited by the Navy Department. This is a better state of affairs than that which once prevailed at Washington, when there was but one shipbuilder who was permitted to work for the Government.

In the opinion of Jefferson Davis, Generals McClellan and Meade were the best two Federal Generals in the civil war, and General Albert Sidney Johnson, of the Confederate Army, had no peer on either side. There is as much difference of opinion concerning the relative merits of the Generals of the civil war as there is with regard to the relative greatness of Alexander, Hannibal, Cæsar and Napoleon.

By a large majority vote the people of Rome, Georgia, have determined to prohibit the sale of liquor in their city. The necessity, when you are in Rome, of doing as the Romans do will hereafter be more a matter of compulsion than of taste. But those who do not like the style of the Romans need not go to Rome.

The Japanese Government has recently placed some large orders for steel rails in Europe. Half the contract has gone to English firms at £4 11s. The other half has been taken by Germans, not at £4 11s., but at £5 6s. The rails are to be delivered free on board in London and Antwerp respectively.

"Blaine, of Maine," appears in the list of persons with whom the benevolent Leavenworth, Pawnee and Western Railroad Co. sought to divide its holdings of Government lands. Blaine, of Maine, was chalked off, "Right."

Cards are out for the marriage at Macon, Ga., on the 21st instant, of Miss Jennie, daughter of Secretary Lamar, to her cousin, W. H. Lamar, a young attorney of Washington, D. C.

Another Invitation for the President.

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Interest in President Cleveland's Western visit has intensified and spread out over the State since his letter withdrawing his acceptance of the invitation to visit St. Louis. The citizens have determined to bring a strong influence to bear on him, and a number of letters have been received by Mayor Francis from citizens from various parts of the State making another appeal. Accordingly, with the idea of obtaining a more general expression of opinion, the mayor has issued an address to the people of Missouri. In it he has requested every county in the State to appoint one or more representatives to join a St. Louis committee and to accompany them to Washington to bear the invitation. The delegation will, therefore, not be a city delegation alone, but a committee representing the whole State of Missouri, all working to one end—to have the President of the United States honor the people of this State by visiting its chief city this fall. The mayor received this morning from Charleston, Mo., a petition of two hundred voters of Mississippi county joining in the invitation. The committee will probably start from here next Monday and reach Washington about the time the President returns from New York.

MARYLAND POLITICS.

Who Will Receive the Democratic Nomination for Governor?

From the Baltimore Sun of Tuesday.

Mr. W. W. Busteed, a member of the House of Delegates from Queen Anne's county, was in the city yesterday. He said his county has put up Mr. Wheedon as a candidate for State Comptroller, and he will go in to win the nomination. Queen Anne's has no contest of moment on the Governorship, and would be satisfied with the nomination of any of the aspirants now spoken of.

A friend of Hon. Barnes Compton in Prince George's says Mr. Compton will not have his name presented to the convention of that county as a candidate for Governor. It looks from this as if the Prince George's delegation will come to the State convention uninstructed, as are the already selected delegates from Calvert and Charles in Southern Maryland. Mr. Compton has been quoted on several occasions as saying that his personal preference is for State Senator Jackson, of Wicomico, for Governor, but he did not intimate how his political influence might be thrown. The Prince George's Democrats seem to be partial to Mr. Jackson.

Mr. Jas. A. L. McClure, one of the board of primary election supervisors, says he is for the man for Governor who will strengthen the party, and he thinks Mr. Henry D. Farnandis, of Harford, is that man. In his opinion Mr. Farnandis would not allow the use of his name as a contestant before the convention, but would accept a nomination if tendered. His second choice is Hon. Stevenson Archer, who, he says, would be strong in the secon. Congressional district, and in this city with "ins" and "outs." Mr. McClure classes himself as an "out," but will support the ticket always. He figures it out that the "ins" feel grateful to Mr. Hodges and will give him the votes of their city delegates in the State convention if he makes the contest for the Governorship nomination. He says the situation is not clearer to-day as to the probable nominee than it was six weeks ago. He does not believe that any political leader, including Senator Gorman, has hazarded the expression of a preference for any one of the aspirants. He knows Mr. Gorman is quite fond of Mr. Compton. Like almost every prominent Democrat, Mr. McClure has his favorable and his adverse views as to the chances of the Gubernatorial aspirants. Several of them, whose friends believe they have a good chance to win, he is inclined to think are far behind.

A Baltimore politician, who was in Washington yesterday, was reported as saying that Col. Baughman promises to come into the State convention with 22 votes, which will give him the balance of power. If he can hold his delegations he can secure the nomination for himself or have an influence in selecting the candidate. He thought the Baltimore city delegates will go into the convention for Mayor Hodges, at least on the first balloting. He said that if called upon to make a selection he would name Mr. Farnandis, who would satisfy all elements in the party.

In this city the ins and outs are at it in nearly every ward, and are contesting for Legislative candidates and for delegates to the State convention. A leader of the ins says the candidate for Governor whom they should put up would be pretty sure to be antagonized, and that the only way for any one to get the support of the whole city would be for the outs to name the man and for the ins to fall into line.

These several opinions picked up at random show how varied the political views are in the Democratic ranks. The so-called regulars are pleased with what they term the regularity of most of the counties which have selected their State convention delegates.

Plunder of the Public Domain.

Most of the subsidized railroad companies are extremely indignant at the demand of Secretary Lamar that they shall show cause why the indemnity lands held by them should not be opened to actual settlement. They have been so much in the habit through a long course of Republican administration of having their own way that they regard every effort in behalf of the public interests as an interference with their vested rights and privileges.

A few examples will serve to show the extent to which the people have been stripped of their vast landed heritage. The Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, which has laid 1755 miles of track, rejoices in a land grant of 49,244,803 acres. The St. Paul and Sioux City Company for a length of 120 miles of railroad enjoys a grant of 1,199,849 acres. The Oregon and California Company, which complains that it has lost through squatters 282,000 acres of land, covers a route of 200 miles, for which 3,840,000 acres have been put at its disposal in Congressional grants and departmental indemnities.

These figures enable a person to form a clear idea of the arrogant spirit of the subsidized railroad companies in resisting the just demands of the Government. There is no disposition on the part of the Secretary of the Interior to disturb any rights that these corporations have acquired under the land grants of Congress. They are asked to make selections of the lands within the grants of Congress and their indemnity limits in order that settlers may not be excluded from the public domain. The several Pacific railroad companies have constructed 4264 miles of track, and for every mile they have received 7780 acres, making a grand total of nearly 33,000,000 acres of the choicest lands of the Government. The grants of land with the conditions of which the railroad corporations have failed to comply amount to 111,673,854 acres, or 174,490 square miles—a territory greater in area than the States of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and New Jersey combined.

While the Administration is faithfully performing its duty in relation to the public lands, the foregoing figures show also how much remains for Congress to do in order that the unearned and forfeited grants may be restored to the legitimate ownership of the Government and people of the United States. The Democrats of the House have passed bills to restore most of these forfeited lands, but the power of corporations could be only partly overcome in the Republican Senate. In their party platforms the Republicans have reiterated again and again the threadbare pledge that the public lands should be reserved exclusively for the people, and they have as often violated the pledge when measures for restoring the public lands were before the Senate for consideration. On the other hand, the Democrats in Congress and the present Democratic Administration have honestly and faithfully redeemed every platform pledge in regard to the public lands to the extent of their ability. While the Democratic House has passed bills to restore the forfeited grants, the Democratic Administration has vigorously and courageously protected the rights of settlers against corporate oppression. This vivid contrast in the records of the two parties cannot be obscured or explained away.—Phila. Record.

COAL!

WE will again call the attention of our friends and the public generally to the fact that with our present arrangement for transporting coal, we can furnish them the best quality of White Ash Coal, as low (or nearly so) as you can buy a lower grade of Coal. It is a fact without controversy (to them that know the difference between the grades of White Ash Coal), that the LEE Coal which we handle is the Best Coal that is brought to this market. The time will come when our people will find out that there is as much difference in the grades of White Ash Coal as there is in any other product. Some people seem to think that Coal is Coal. So it is, and wheat is wheat, but it is not all alike. We are ready to fill all orders for summer or winter use at the very lowest cash price. In future we expect to do business on a cash basis. Although Coal is from 30 to 40 cents higher this year than last. The outlook seems that it will be higher as the season advances. Remember that 2240 lbs. is a ton of Coal. Probably it will be to your advantage to examine our stock of Coal before buying.

Yours respectfully,

In our Furnishing Goods Department we are selling the braided edge genuine Mexican Hammocks at 98c. each. We have them in plain white and fancy colored cords. These goods are selling elsewhere at $1.50. We sell first-rate, strongly made Hemp Cord Hammocks for 77c. You cannot buy them in other stores for less than $1.25. Now, while we're talking about things in our Furnishing Goods Department, we'll just say that this one department of our business is really a store within a store, so complete and perfect is its assortment and variety of goods. We sell more Men's Furnishings of every description than any three exclusive stores in Baltimore combined. We are Importers, Manufacturers and Buyers, and sell at prices (in many instances) less than small dealers have to pay for their goods. The great success of our Furnishing Department is fully established in the fact that our business in this branch alone has increased three fold since last January. Stock includes goods from ordinary up to the very finest qualities. Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Hosiery, Underwear, Neckwear, Gloves, Umbrellas, in fact everything that you would expect to find in a first-class establishment, and more too.

MABLEY & CAREW.

NOTE—If you wish to buy Furnishing Goods at prices fully 25 per cent. less than are charged elsewhere in Baltimore, send for our Furnishing Goods Price List.

We must say a few words to you about our Children's Department. We have made almost a life-long study of every feature connected with the production of juvenile wearing apparel. The great care we take in the manufacture of children's clothing, the judgment we exercise in selecting materials, the immensity of our display and the wonderful variety of goods we keep in stock, all combine to rank us First in this department as we are leaders in every other branch of our business. We will not bore you with a long enumeration of goods and prices, but we will and do extend a cordial invitation to every parent to visit this model department whenever you come to the city. Our Boys' and Children's Hat Department is also another interesting feature of our business. We have introduced every new style this season in Children's Straw Hats and sell at prices fully a third less than you'll have to pay at Hat Stores.

MABLEY & CAREW.

CHAMPION

HARVESTING MACHINES

We invite inspection by those in need of

for the season of 1887.

WE MAKE FOR OUR MACHINES THE FOLLOWING CLAIMS:

1st.—That they are leaders in all valuable improvements.

2d.—That our machines are better built, we use better material and will outwear, stand heavier work than any machine on the market and run as light as the lightest.

3d.—Some points to consider: We were the first to use moleable instead of cast iron others claimed no good. We next lowered our machine by reducing our driving-wheel. They all cried horse-killer We next made main frame Solid Steel, they claimed wood was better. We now have our Folding-bar Binder, they stand at bay trying to decide how to follow us in this as in the other improvements.

4th.—We have over 200 Machines now in use throughout Kent county, and all of them are settled for.

We invite the Farmers of the 1st and 2d districts to call upon J. W. JACOBY, of Galena, SHAFER & MEDDERS, of Kennedyville, and G. W. ROEDER, of Still Pond, who will be glad to supply their wants.

Those of the 3d, 4th and 5th districts will call

opposite Rasin's livery, where they can see and get anything in their line that's needed.

REPAIRS

Can be had at any of the above named places, and attention will be rendered to any one needing the same.

Very respect. yours,
