How They Interpreted the Republican Protective Policy.

The very corner-stone theory underlying Republican form of government, is that the people are, as a whole, intelligent enough to govern themselves. He who has a liberal acquaintance with the average voter, however, will be astonished at the mental processes which often determine the casting of a vote. Here are a few instances we have picked up, illustrating the conclusions arrived at regarding the protective tariff:

The Cecil Democrat says that a Cecil county farmer, who owned four sheep, voted the Republican ticket because he desired protection to his wool industry.

A prominent citizen of Kent Island, told the writer of this article, that many of the oystermen of the island voted the Republican ticket because they understood the Republican policy to mean that they would be protected under Republican rule from the depredating dredgers.

A Wilmington paper reported a short time ago, that a Democratic peach-grower, residing near Sassafras, had announced his purpose to vote for Harrison and Morton, because he believed the peach-growers needed more protection.

We have learned of a number of men having independent trades, and having no manner of dependence upon any protected industry, who yet believed that their wages some how or other come through a protective tariff.

What a commentary on popular intelligence, after the barrels and barrels of printers' ink that have been poured out to explain that to sustain a protective tariff, a comparative few are benefitted, and the many are heavily taxed, that in short, "a protective tariff" is but an empty name, given to an arrant system of humbuggery, that is in reality a wholesale and unjustifiable system of robbery.

A protective tariff! Protect the workingmen! Protect your homes! Protect your wives and children! Such were the appeals made to unthinking emotional voters by the Republican orators and the Republican press. Behind the empty catch-phrases there was not the vestige of truth, but they caught all the same, and for four years more this country is to be run in the interests of the manufacturing monopolists.

They Must Face Their Party's Policy without Dodging.

"Only think of it, tobacco only ten cents a pound, whiskey five cents a pint! What a great and glorious party it is that wishes to bring these necessary articles within the reach of all."—Chestertown Transcript.

A resident of a local option county ought to be ashamed of himself to riot with a joy like this. We wish to show that he rejoices without cause.

The Republican party levied the internal taxes when the country needed the income sorely. Now that the country has a surplus, the revenue taxes will be abolished, and States, that need the income, will levy a tax for their own use. So whiskey will not be any cheaper. Doubtless it will be higher; for when the United States has removed the tax of any 90 cents per gallon, the State, say Maryland for instance, may tax spirits two dollars or even five dollars per gallon. We are glad to have our Chestertown friend rejoice over Harrison's election; but he makes a serious mistake in thinking he will get "free whiskey."—Milford News and Advertiser.

Irony, it is said, never penetrates some people, and we are afraid it is lost on the editor of the Advertiser. It is surprising also to see how murky his understanding is with regard to the effect of removing the United States tax from whiskey. He jumps to the conclusion that the States could each raise large revenues by taxing whiskey. If he will think, he will see how impossible it would be for the States to raise revenues by taxing whiskey. If Delaware should fix a tax at $1.00 per gallon and New Jersey made the tax 80 cts. per gallon, there would be no whiskey manufactured in Delaware, and consequently no revenues from it to the State, but Delaware would all the same be flooded with New Jersey whiskey, or with whiskey from some other State where the tax being lower it could be produced cheaper, and Delawareans would continue to get drunk with regularity and dispatch. There would be a constant attempt by the various States to capture the whiskey revenues of the country, by making a lower tax than other States. Another result would be, that in every State Legislature there would be a whiskey lobby.

No, if there is to be a tax placed upon every manufactured gallon of whiskey, it must be done by the national government. It cannot be done by the State governments. Neither the Milford News nor the Republican party can dodge the issue of cheap whiskey—mighty cheap whiskey—five-cents-a-pint whiskey. Here is the Republican policy in brief—the war taxes must be reduced by removing the taxes from whiskey and tobacco; but the taxes on clothing, on lumber, on ironware, on sugar, on salt, on blankets, on carpets and on many other necessaries must be maintained.

The Future of Tariff Reform.

The short-sighted people who suppose that the election of Harrison is going to give a quietus to Tariff Reform will soon find themselves very much mistaken. Tariff Reform is inevitable. It was inevitable whether Harrison or Cleveland was elected. The logic of facts compelled President Cleveland to take the position he did, and it will just as certainly compel President Harrison to do substantially the same thing. The Republican Administration can no more escape the necessity than the Democratic Administration could. The tariff question is still the "irrepressible conflict" of the present and the future. Only if Harrison is elected its settlement is a little delayed. And let no one imagine, either, that the issue of Tariff Reform has been disapproved by the people. It has not. The Republicans gains came almost invariably from the rural districts, where it is not pretended that the inhabitants are "protected." Almost every manufacturing centre the Democratic electoral ticket made splendid gains.—Boston Globe.

The Kind of Talk Post Office Clerks are Hearing Nowadays.

"Gimme two twos an' a card," said a gruff young man to a clerk in the Post Office yesterday. "Say," he continued, "how long've ye bin here?"

"About two years," said the tired clerk.

"What size coat do you wear?"

"Thirty-eight inches,' answered the clerk half reluctantly.

"What's the leg measure o' yer pants?"

"Thirty-one inches," was the reply, made resignedly.

"How much aroun' the waist?"

"Thirty-six inches."

"What size cap d'ye wear?"

"Seven," was the pensive answer.

"Got a pooty soft snap, ain't ye?"

"Oh, get away from that window and give that lady a chance," said the clerk angrily. "Who are you, anyhow, a civil service examiner?"

"Naw, I'm th' young feller's what's goin't take yer place an' wear that uniform Guess I'll go now. Ta ta!"

The clerk smiled wearily and went and put another chalk mark on the iron post.—Phila. Record.

WHAT CARRIED DELAWARE.

John Wanamaker Listened When Quay Turned a Deaf Ear.

Had it not been for the substantial aid given to the Republicans in Sussex county by a Philadelphia merchant the Democrats would not have lost a United States Senator in Delaware. When the Democratic factional fight waxed hot in Kent county, and it became evident that Senator Eli Saulsbury would defeat his own party ticket in his own county, because the candidates upon it were opposed to his return to the United States Senate, the Republican leaders in the State represented to Senator Quay that with a contribution of $10,000 the Republican ticket in Sussex county could be elected, and thus a Republican United States Senator secured. The Republican National Committee had heard such stories from Delaware in years gone by, and had sent money there with the idea of deseating Senator Bayard's election, but nothing had come of it, and Senator Quay felt that his $10,000 could be used to better advantage in New York. So the Delaware Republicans got no money from the National Committee.

But what Senator Quay refused to believe John Wanamaker thought might be done, and when the story had been told to him he sent down to Sussex county the bulk of the $10,000 which the party leaders used so successfully in the legistative fight in that section. "Had it not been for the money furnished from Philadelphia," said one of the Sussex county Republicans who knows to a dollar just how much money was spent, and where it was spent, "we could not have elected our ticket, and Mr. Wanamaker deserves the credit, which has been given to the National Committee for furnishing us with the means of success."—Philadelphia Record.

Next Congress Yet in Doubt.

Genaral John B. Clark, Clerk of House of Representatives, believes that 160 Democratic Representatives have been elected, and that six districts are in doubt. This calculation is based upon the assumption that Wilson (Dem.) is elected in Virginia. The doubtful districts in General Clark's estimate are the First California, Tenth Kentuckey, Second North Carolina and the First, Third and Fourth of West Virginia. These districts he sets down as doubtful because they are claimed by both parties on majorities so small that the official count must be awaited to determine the result. In the case of Representatives Bacon (Dem.), of New York, who is reported to have been defeated by 80 majority, General Clark expects that a contest will ensue. Of one thing he is confident, and that is that the majority in the next House will not be over five either way.

***

Senator Quay said to an Associated Press reporter that the Republicans would certainly have control of the next House of Representatives by a majority of five, and that their majority might be nine. There were several doubtful districts, the result of which, he said, would determine whether their majority would be the higher or the lower figure given. Mr. Quay declined for the present to give any particular upon which his figures were based or to state what districts were still regarded as doubtful.

***

It is generally conceded that Fisher has been defeated in the Tenth Michigan district, and that DeHaven (Rep.) has been elected over Thompson in the First California. To overcome this the Democrats would have to receive the certificates for all the doubtful districts in the South.—This would certainly be regarded with suspicion by the country at large. Altogether it seems likely that the Democrats will not attempt to organize the House. Some of their best men concede a Republican majority.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY.

As I am compelled to leave this climate—on account of health—I offer my business for sale. As there is no opposition in the greater part of it, this is a rare opportunity. A lease for a term of years will be given on Store House, or it will be sold at a reasonable figure.

LOUIS K. STAM,

—OFFICE OF—

Local Board of Heatlh for Kent County.

IT is decreed advisable to again call the attention of the public to the importance of strict sanitary regulations, more especially as there is at this time several cases of Scarlet Fever in the county. Parents and guardians are cautioned to practice the greatest care. Families in which this or any other contagious disease exists, should avoid all public gatherings, and under no circumstances should the well children be allowed to go to school or to have intercourse with others, until permitted by the attending physician.

The teachers of all schools are requested to exercise great caution and if possible to find out all such cases, so that they may aid in preventing the spread of the same.

Section 5, chapter 155, laws of 1882 says: "Any person, parent, guardian or other party, who carelessly carry about children or others affected with infectious disease, or who knowingly or wilfully introduce infectious persons into other persons' houses, or permit children to attend school, theatre, church or any other public place where they will be brought in contact with others, shall be liable to a penalty."

The great importance of especial care and caution being used, is apparent, and I am sure that a moment's thought will demonstrate to all how serious a matter is carelessness in this respect.

GRAND HOLIDAY STOCK

WE have aimed to make our stock of the Useful and Desirable kind that will satisfy the would-be purchaser with a variety of gifts, suitable for every age, and affording the greatest possible latitude in price. We make a specialty in Watches, and can show a large assortment for gentlemen and ladies in standard cases of Gold and Silver, and can offer special inducements on filled cases, warranted to give perfect satisfaction for every-day use. We guarantee to sell only on the merits of the goods. We misrepresent nothing, but state fairly and truly in every instance the exact quality of each article. Buyers of Jewelry must trust largely to the jeweler for quality and worth, and it is poor economy to purchase of any but the most reliable dealers. We assure all purchasers the full value of their money. Come and look at our stock for yourself, and remember that next to selling, it is our greatest pleasure to show goods.

Illustrated.

Harper's Bazar will continue to maintain its reputation as an unequalled family journal. Its art illustrations are of the highest order, its literature is of the choicest kind, and its Fashion and Household departments of the most practical and economical character. Its pattern-sheet supplements and fashion-plates alone will save its readers ten times the cost of subscription, and its articles on decorative art, social etiquette, house-keeping, cookery, etc., make it indispensable to every household. Its bright short stories, and timely essays, are among the best published; and not a line is admitted to its columns that could offend the most fastidious taste. Among the attractions of the new volume will be serial stories by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, Mrs. Alexander, William Black, and Thomas Hardy, and a series of papers on nursery management by Mrs Christine Terhune Herrick.
