COLLINS & HOPPER,
EDITORS AND PUBLISHERS.

IN THE VOTE of Tuesday, high license won in Pennsylvania by a majority of 178,060, of which Philadelphia contributed 93,750.

THE WILL of the late Allen Thorndyke Rice, editor of the North American Review, has been filed in the probate court of New York by Charles W. Catting, of Brookline, Mass. The will, as mentioned in the Baltimore Sun, was executed in Liverpool in 1881. The first executor named in the will is Count De Bannelos, of Madrid, uncle of the testator.

The legacies provided for in the will are $100,000 to each of the testator's cousins, Marie de Bannelos and Antoinette de Bannelos, and $20,000 to his stepfather, Frederick Kofler, of Darmstadt, Germany. To Lloyd S. Bryce is given fifty-one one-hundredths of the estate and interest of and in the North American Review and of the stock, machinery, &c., thereof. The residue of the estate goes to trustees (executor) in trust to pay funeral expenses, one-third to pay in trust to the Countess de Bannelos, executors, etc., for her sole and separate use; another one-third of trust fund to testator's aunt, Countess de Sartiges; the remaining third to James Parker, Charles T Parker and Mary Martha Parker (children of his aunt) in equal shares when they become of age. The personalty is $26,000.

IN SPEAKING of ex-Secretary Bayard, and the future of Delaware politics, the Philadelphia Record has the following to say:

Ex-Secretary Bayard is evidently not to be allowed to retire from politics by his Delaware friends. "Mr. Bayard will be a factor in the next contest in our State for the United State Senatorship," said Enoch Moore, a big ship builder from Wilmington, an ex-Representative and an active politician. Mr. Moore was in the city yesterday and was deploring the factional fight in the Democratic party in Delaware, which has already given the Republicans a United State Senator and promises to lose the State to the Democrats two years hence, when a Governor is to be elected to succeed Governor Biggs. "Young Wolcott will want Senator Gray to step down, but I dont think that it will be possible for Wolcott to be elected Senator. The factions in the lower part of the State must come together, and they will never do that upon the basis of Wolcott's election. There is a feeling that Bayard will be the man who can heal the dissentions in the party. Mr. Bayard will be but 54 years old when the next U. S. Senate is elected. He is a man who will stand fifteen, or twenty more years of active political life; and, although I do not know that he has any further ambition, he is bound to be drawn into politics in the State. The party is in just such a position as to welcome him back as its leader. People who imagine that the ex-Secretary is a political back number will soon find out their mistake."

LEGAL POINTS OF INTEREST.

DRIFT LOGS.

Mr. John Prentiss Poe, State codifier, says in the Baltimore Sun, in reference to the law governing drift logs that all "persons claiming logs cast by wind and tide upon any shore bordering upon the Chesapeake bay or its tributaries, are prohibited from removing the same without the payment to the owners of said shore of the sum of twenty-five cents for each log so removed. The owner of the shore may advertise for three successive weeks for owners of said logs to remove them after the payment of twenty five cts. for each log and the cost of advertising. If not removed after such notice, the owner of the shore may sell such logs to the highest bidder by giving notice for three successive weeks, mentioning the time and place of sale. The owner of a shore so selling shall be responsible for the excess of such sale over the sum of twenty-five cents for each log sold and the cost of sale. The ower of the shore shall be allowed additional compensation for special damages, such as destruction of fences, peach trees and cultivated trees. Any person removing logs from a shore without complying with these provisions shall be fined not less than fifty or more than one hundred dollars, provided such removal shall be effected before said logs have been advertised. Any person removing said logs after they have been advertised for sale shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined fifty to one hundred dollars, or imprisoment in the county jail for from three to twelve months, or both fine and imprisonment."

A LITERARY CLUB DECISION.

EASTON, MD., June 7.—Judge Stump, in the Circuit Court, today sentenced Francis M. Fish to twelve months in the House of Correction and to pay a fine of $100 for violating the liquor-selling law in force in Talbot county. Fish is the manager of the Eastern Social, Literary, Musical and Dramatic Club of Talbot county, and has had his place of business in Easton. The grand jury indicted him in two cases for selling whiskey to others than members of the club, and a petit jury convicted him in both. Some months ago the Governor directed State's Attorney Stewart to take proceedings in the Circuit Court against the social clubs of the county, which are incorporated by the Circuit Court judges under the general incorporation act, to show cause why their charters should not be forfeited for abuse of charter privileges. The Eastern Club, of which Mr. Fish was manager, was not included in the Governor's order and is the only one that has come to grief. A number of them surrendered their charters when process was served on them by the Sheriff. The Easton Club and the Farmers' Club, of St. Michael's, resisted and won. Judge Stump in sentencing Fish, said his conviction should be a warning to all club managers. The court will not permit them to use their charter privileges as a subterfuge whereby a nullity will be made of other laws of the State.—Baltimore Sun.

A HULL-LESS OAT VERDICT.

In the Circuit Court for Carroll county, another of the interesting Hull-less oat cases was decided. These cases are of special interest throughout the State from the fact that the operations of the Hull-less Oat Company were either directly, or indirectly felt in every county in the State. In this case Mr. Franklin Bowersox was the holder by purchase of the note against Frederick Harver. Payment was refused by the latter on the ground of fraud on the part of the Hull-less Oat Company, of which the plaintiff had knowledge when he purchased the note This knowledge was shown to the satisfaction of the jury, and they gave a verdict for the defendant.

A "REGULAR" SPEAKS.

James A. Pearce's Speech at the Meeting of the Jefferson Democratic Association, Baltimore.

At the meeting of the Jefferson Democratic Association, at the Concordia Opera House, Baltimore, on Monday last, Mr. James Alfred Pearce, said:

"If you will pardon the bad taste of personal allusion, I will say that I have been often called a Democrat nearly allied to that Democracy called Bourbon. I do class myself as a regular Democrat, seeing the necessity of obedience to party action, subject only to the declension that is analogous to the right of revolution. I believe that to blindly follow a party when opposed to one's own conscience is a degree of servitude that no worthy man can accept.

"The Democratic party is still the party of the people—the advocate of local self-government—while the Republican party is the spoiled darling of a centralized government. The Democratic party never failed to declare for the constitutional rights of the people of the South. It came to its own in the election of Cleveland. No executive ever surrendered power with cleaner hands or greater dignity than did Grover Cleveland. [Applause.] Nowhere is the temper of the people shown better than in Maryland. If the Democratic party is to continue the power here it has had since 1867, it must purify the methods of nomination and the conduct of legislation. Jefferson knew that the prostitution of party to place-seeking was the root of abuses in politics." Mr. Pearce gave a review of the growth of system in the United States of rotation of officeholders, and, continuing, said: "Is it any wonder that a clean Democrat like Geo. H. Pendleton should have been the father of the civil-service law, and that its first honest promoter should have been Grover Cleveland, and it should be remembered that the first impetus given to the reform was by that Jeffersonian Democrat, Governor Tilden. In the reformation of all abuses realization seldom keeps pace with promise. Cleveland alone has scrupulously observed the requirements of the law, notably in the case of Mr. Pearson. All reforms are addressed to public opinion, and no law succeeds unless there is genuine public sentiment to come to its support. Civil-service law will be vainly invoked to cure the evil if the people look upon public office as a reward of party services. I would suggest that the civil-service law should be amended so as to prevent still further the changes in offices, and that the President of the United States should be elected for six years, and then to be ineligible for re-election.

"If I err not greatly there is in both parties of this State a deep conviction of the dangers likely to arise from the practices to which I have alluded. It is not given to every man to be a leader of men, but there are those who lead public opinion by finding it out and following it. Party men and the press have warned us of the danger of losing the State if we do not mend our ways. We need a registration that will secure a fair election. We must meet the crime of bribery. The nominations must be taken from the hands of bosses and placed in the hands of the people. This must be done by some means, and in such a manner that the people will know it has been done. [Applause.] The work of the lobbyist must be restricted if it cannot be destroyed. If the Democratic party is worthy of its ancestry it can work out these reforms without meeting the destruction with which it is threatened." [Applause.]

MARYLAND CROPS.

Damage to the Wheat in Many Counties by the Heavy Rains.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, under date of June 14, gave the following synopsis of the reports received by the statistician of the Agricultural Department, showing the condition of the crops of Maryland and Delaware.

MARYLAND.

Anne Arundel.—Up to the present time the prospects for the wheat crop has been unusually promising, but it is thought that serious injury will be the result of the windstorm that has been blowing the last forty-eight hours, without cessation, which has violently agitated the wheat, knocking off the blossom and causing a poorly filled head of grain.

Baltimore.—Our crops are looking very well. The growth of wheat is very rank, and may lodge. It looks very promising, however. Oats are likewise. Clover is very good. Spring pasture is abundant.

Caroline.—Wheat prospect is more than an average. Rye looks well, but the crop is small. The straw of oats is stout and promising. Clover is very fine and will be a large crop. Spring pasture is good, owing to the wet spring. Apples will be a large crop if they do not drop. Peaches are abundant.

Carroll.—One-third of the wheat lodged from continuous wet weather, which will prevent its filling well.

Cecil.—Wheat promises a very fine yield which lodging may injure. The straw will be unusally heavy. Clover will be a heavy crop, also timothy, which, however will be somewhat injured by sorrel, more of which is to be seen this spring than ever before. It may have been caused by the heavy rains during April and May.

Charles.—Too much rain for wheat, which is thought to be seriouly damaged. Cool weather may help stiff land; light land is beyond recovery.

Frederick.—Wheat is splendid, very tall and will make abundant straw. There are grave doubts of its filling, owing to excessive rains and storms, which put it down. It is thought that the blossoms were injured by the excessive rain and bareness will result. Time will tell.

Garrett.—Abundant rains in April and May greatly improved wheat, which was sown late generally. A full bloom on apples and most other early fruits, but many have dropped from the trees and only a few varieties seem to be in a healthy condition. Oats stand well and, should good growing weather continue, may be given a higher percentage in future reports.

Harford.—Continued heavy rains made much fallen wheat, and if it does not raise will be difficult to save at harvest. Clover and spring pastures cannot well be excelled. A very good prospect for fruits just now.

Kent.—Wheat has been doing finely, but I fear that we are having too much rain, and that the heavy wheat will fall, and should the sunshine be very hot, rust and scab will affect the crop. Clover and pastures were never better. Apples lighter than last year. Peaches are estimated at 30 per cent., which may be too high.

Prince George's.—Best prospect for wheat in years. Oats are somewhat injured by excessive rain. Clover is somewhat killed by drought the last summer. What went through looks vigorous. This is the off year with most apple orchards. Without further accident peaches will be abundant.

Queen Anne's.—About the acreage of wheat, as in 1888, and was never of larger growth and graining finely except when down. Some in low land was injured by excessive rain. We seed but few oats, but what we have is a full crop so far. Grass for cutting, as well as pastures, is as fine as ever seen. Apples are a fair crop. Peaches will be about one-fourth of a crop

St. Mary's.—A change in wheat prospect since April. The continued rains drowned it on all low lands, and on light land it will not be worth cutting. Two days ago wheat on good, strong land looked as though it would make nearly an average crop—no rust was visible—today it is red as a fox. Flies have attacked it, and without a favorable change there will not be a half crop saved. Rye appears to stand the unfavorable weather better. Oats look bad and will not make a half crop.

Somerset.—Excessively wet weather at seeding time and since has greatly damaged the wheat. Clover and grass never looked better.

Talbot.—Our section being a "storm centre" caused a heavy growth of wheat on loam soils and somewhat damaged on clay by excessive rain. The outlook is for a full average crop.

Washington.—Clover reduced in acreage owing to failure "to catch" or germinate, hence many fields were plowed up. The remainder is unexcelled.

Wicomico.—The best wheat crop in years. Not a great deal of rye is grown here, but the crop is excellent. Oats, where sown in time, cannot be surpassed.

Worcester.—winter wheat, oats, clover and spring pasture are doing well. Acreage of oats is lessened in consequence of the excessively wet March. Rather bad promise for apples. Peaches cannot be estimated until the June fall. Owing to low prices for the usual farm products there is a disposition to cultivate tomatoes, potatoes, strawberries, peas and other truck, especially in the vicinity of canning factories.

LATER FROM KENT.

Since the receipt of the above report at the Agricultural Department, the continued storms have made a material change in the crop prospects of Kent county. Making due allowance for all possible errors in making calculations, there can be no doubt that the wheat crop of the county is materially injured. The following estimates are from practical farmers, having extensive wheat interests.

Thomas C. Parsons, Esq., of Worton, says: "I have made no special examination of my crop, with a view to making an estimate, but am sure that it is cut one-half. My corn is seriously injured, fully one-half of my field did not come up, and much of what did come up is drowned out."

William Ford, Esq., reports that: "My land is high and rolling, and while I have some scab, my wheat is not so seriously injured as many other fields are said to be. My corn is on high, light land, and is looking well."

On the farm of Mrs. Mary Wilkins, near Quaker Neck, the field of fine wheat was examined, and but little scab could be found, while the heads were large and well filled.

John Hurlock, Esq., residing near Kennedyville, says: "My wheat is injured by scab, fully one-fifth. My fallow wheat, which is Fultz, is down and is most seriously hurt. Corn in pretty fair condition, but needs work."

William Morris, of the fourth district, says that he has examined fields in every district of the county, and found the wheat crop badly cut. On his own farms the loss from the scab will be fully one-third. The effect of the scab grains on the good grains in its sale will increase the damage to one-half. Independent of the loss in the acreage of the corn crop, that which was planted is already cut by the continued wet weather.

Josiah Massey, of the fourth district, says: "I have examined other fields of wheat than my own, and find the crop cut at least one-quarter and possibly one-half. If the wet weather continues much longer and is followed by hot suns, the effect upon the wheat later will be even more serious. The corn crop is badly cut; a number of farmers have not been able to plant at all.

Mr. Wm. H. Newnam, one of the most observant farmers of Queen Anne's, and living in the upper portion of the county, said when asked the condition of crops, that: "The wheat is injured fully one-third, and the whole farming outlook is gloomy. Much corn has not been planted and much of that which was planted rotted in the ground, and in addition to these misfortunes, the peach crop is surely not more that one-half."

DELAWARE.

Kent.—Excessively wet weather through May retarded the planting, and there is perhaps a tenth of the area plowed or intended to be for corn too wet to plant at this date. Rain every day last week. Wheat now in blossom, and was seriously injured by the frequent rains, and in many places will be drowned out.

Sussex.—The unusually wet weather for the last two months has materially shortened the quantity of apples and I fear of peaches. One month ago we had an excellent prospect for these two crops, but now I am inclined to the opinion that the estimate given is rather above than below.

POLICEMAN COSTELLO, of the Eastern District, Friday, entered the dwelling of Thomas Hassett, No. 331 Slemmer's alley, to leave some Wilson's Sanitarium tickets. In one of the rooms he found a baby hanging against the wall with a string tied around its wrist and then attached to a nail in the wall. The infant had been left asleep by its mother, who before going out had tied the baby as above to keep it in its crib. The little one had evidently fallen out. Strange as it may seem, the child was fast asleep when found by the officer, who released it from its position and put it in the care of a neighbor of the Hassetts until the mother returned.—*Balt. will offer at Public Sale, the same being the residue of his said testator's real estate, containing by recent survey,

THE "STEWART FARM"

149 ACRES,

1 ROOD AND 38 PERCHES,

MORE OR LESS.

This Farm lies in Quaker Neck near the head of the N. E. branch of Lankford's bay, adjoining the lands of James H. Baker and others, and is divided into five fields, two lots and a

PEACH ORCHARD of 400 Trees

IN BEARING.

Against trespass from the public road it is protected by a strong and thrifty hedge, and all the division fences are good. The soil is naturally fertile and highly improved, and its products are equal to the best farm in the neighborhood.

There is but little fruit on it, though its soil and location make it highly desirable for fruit culture, being eligibly located within 4 miles of Chestertown, not more than 2½ miles from the Quaker Neck steamboat wharf, and less than ½ mile from the postoffice in the village of Pomona, and convenient to church, etc.

The IMPROVEMENTS are

A BRICK DWELLING

OF TWO AND A HALF STORIES

with a Kitchen attached and the usual Outbuildings, all in fair order.

TERMS OF SALE:

The following terms are desired, subject, however, to such modifications as may be found necessary to make a good sale, to wit: One-fourth Cash or within sixty days, at seller's option; residue in three equal annual instalments from the day of sale, from which the whole purchase money will bear interest, and payment to be secured by bond of purchaser with approved surety or sureties. All interest to be paid with each instalment of principal.

FARMERS ECONOMIZE LABOR

BY USING THE CELEBRATED

LITTLE DIAMOND

Sulky Cultivator.

A MATCHLESS MACHINE!

1. INDEPENDENT TOOTH. The only cultivator in which the tooth next to the plant has a perfectly free vertical and lateral movement.
2. DIRECT HITCH. A perfectly simple device for keeping the teeth uniformly deep in heavy and light soils. No springs, no clap trap devices to break and wear out.
3. SIMPLICITY. Simplest in construction.
4. ADJUSTABILITY. Can be instantly adjusted for width, for depth, for furrowing, a Harrow, a Plow, a Cultivator, a Double Shovel or a Marker.
5. WORK. Tills both sides of row at once and does it better than it can be done by hand. The highest kind of cultivation. It don't scratch, it pulverizes. As a plow it cannot be excelled.

Read the following testimonial:

CHESTERVILLE, April 15, 1889.

Messrs. Smith & Clements:—This is to certify that I have used the Diamond Cultivator for three years, and have raised more corn than when worked with one-horse cultivators, and by using two cultivators save the labor of two men.

CHARLES H. B. SPRY.

The Little Diamond is a perfect cultivator and the greatest labor-saving implement of the age.
