Don't Be a Clam

In this day of money scarcity—when one silver dollar appears as large as a cart-wheel—it becomes a necessity as well as good business to place that dollar with the merchant who offers the best inducements. The old-time clam notions of trading with a man simply because you have been in the habit of doing so is played out.

SUMMER FARM NOTES.

Milk may be canned just as you would can fruit. Bring the milk to the boiling point and fill your jars to the brim with it; then shut air-tight. This will keep any length of time, and be just as good when opened as when it was shut up.

Often a pig will be found in a litter that falls behind its mates until it begins to eat at the trough, when in a short time it will have attained the size and weight of the others. The probable trouble was that it was unable to draw the milk with the force of the others, failing to get its share.

A correspondent of the Ohio Farmer is authority for the statement that pork-packers can tell the breed of the hog by the shape of the ham as it comes from the cutter. The Berkshire ham is round; the Poland-China is nearly round, a little elongated, while the Chester-White ham is long and comparatively narrow.

At the Wisconsin Dairymen's Annual meeting, as reported in Hoar's Dairyman, Professor Robertson said he had proved there was a loss in churning cream sweet rather than slightly acidified. In 100 parts of butter in cream, 97 were obtained in acid cream, while but 77 parts were secured in sweet cream.

Mistaking trench plowing for subsoiling, according to the American Agriculturist, is responsible for much of the prejudice against the latter among farmers. Bringing large quantities of the subsoil to the surface, it adds, is rarely profitable in farming, while occasional stirrings of the subsoil are rarely unprofitable.

Soil which is properly drained, and which is good for corn, will generally be found good for peaches, plums and grapes. The same soil should be richer for apples, quinces and pears than for stone fruits. A light, sandy loam is best. The lighter the soil the earlier the trees will bear, and the sooner they will be apt to fail.

Should cheese puff up during curing it shows that the gas is generating too fast and the room has been too warm. The cheese thus puffed up should be removed to a cooler place, and, as a last resort, should be pricked to allow the gas to escape. A good cheese may be spoiled by not receiving good attention while curing.

It is said that J. N. Muncey, a well-known Iowa Holstein breeder, has been experimenting with a view to finding out the approximate cost of a pound of milk and a pound of butter. The result with two cows (Holsteins) were an average food cost of 38 2-10 cents per 100 pounds of milk, and a trifle over 8 3-10 cents per lb. of butter.

Did Tom Paine Say This?

N. Quackenboss says, in referring to the exceptions taken by Mr. Schell, at the omission by Mr. Depew, of the name of Thomas Paine in his eloquent oration delivered recently in New York:

"Aside from the fact that Paine was an atheist, and the most virulent and vulgar of the assailants of the Christian religion since the days of Julian, I think Mr. Depew acted wisely in omitting the name of Thomas Paine from his oration. The centennial celebration was rendered sacred by the example of Washington, in whose honor it was chiefly held. I would have been surprised if Mr. Depew, who is usually so just and correct in his utterances, had indulged in a panegyric of the man who, in the year 1795, had the supreme audacity to address the following scurrilous language to Washington then in the second year of his second Presidential term: 'If there is sense enough left in the heart to call a blush into the cheek, the Washington Administration must be ashamed to appear. And as to you, sir, treacherous in private friendship (for so you have been to me, and that in the day of danger), and a hypocrite in public life, the world will be troubled to decide whether you are an apostate or an impostor; whether you have abandoned good principles, or whether you ever had any.'

"Surely Mr. Depew did great justice to the memory of Washington when he left the name of Thomas Paine out of his great centennial oration."

Religious Creeds.

What should a creed express? The old creeds and confessions professed to embody the doctrines of Revelation. They did not endeavor to conform to human desires, but to the "thus saith the Lord." Were they right, or is the tendency of the present day to embody only in a creed what the minority of a denomination will consent to, the right thing? Should not a standard of doctrine, for that is what a creed becomes, tell men what they ought to believe, because God's Word requires it? Should the standard be lowered to suit the desires of a noisy minority wishing to get rid of certain doctrines it does not like?—Christian Intelligencer.

SMUGGLING A LIVE BULL.—A peculiar attempt to evade both the customs and quarantine regulations is reported from Windsor to the custom Department. A railway car containing several horses, several sheep, and several bales of hay was duly reported at customs. One of the officials found a thoroughbred bull wedged in between the hay and the rear of the car.—Chicago Tribune.

A TEST OF FITNESS AS A HOUSEWIFE.—A Boston parson who was brought up in a Maine country town says that any girl who could turn flapjacks with a toss and avoid landing the delicious cake in the fire was eligible for the best marriageable young men in the village in his day—Lewiston Journal.

A PERFUMER says that there is more downright fraud perpetrated in the manufacture of attar of roses than in the making of any other perfume. Connecticut is a prominent place for the production of attar of roses. Heliotrope, one of the most popular of perfumes, is made by combining violet and vanilla in certain proportions.

SMART Weed and Belladonna, combined with the other ingredients used in the best porous plasters, make Carter's S. W. & B. Backache Plasters the best in the market. Price 25 cts.
