THURSDAY, JUYL 4, 1889.

COLLINS & HOPPER,
EDITORS AND PUBLISHERS.

IN ORDER that the poor "working man" may be more effectively assisted in gaining necessaries, protective tariff Cornegie has closed down his mill.

THE fish on the spire of the State House at Annapolis, has been removed for the purpose of having it regilded. In its position on the spire it is 215 feet from the ground.

HONG KONG and Yokohoma, China, have been visited by a flood, and immense destruction of property is reported. $200,000 worth of public property alone was destroyed, and the loss of private property was immense. The total rainfall for 33 hours was 29¼ inches.

SIMON CAMERON, one of the most successful leaders of the Republican party in national politics, died at his home in Pennsylvania on Wednesday, June 26, in his 90th year. No man has ever wielded greater influence in Pennsylvania State politics as Simon Cameron.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

The Fourth day of July is, and will always be, the one great national memorial day, which all sections of this great United States will reverence with united pride and patriotism. It is the birthday of a great united country. The question as to the binding force of the Union it is to be hoped is forever laid at rest with the great conflict which ended twenty-five years ago. The great principle of States rights—the doctrine that no power or prerogative shall be delegated to the central government that can be as well exercised by the individual States, yet lives, however, and will so long as individual State governments survive. But as time passes, and the bitterness from remembrance of the great conflict fades, all sections will rejoice that we are still a united people, and will concede that the central government must at least possess the power to preserve its unity. The people of the South especially have a right to celebrate with pride the Independence Day, for the South gave the impassioned orator, Patrick Henry, who urged to an issue the conflict for independence, and it gave the great military and civil chieftain, George Washington, who conducted the contest successfully, and steered the young nation through the first eight years of its infancy. It gave Thomas Jefferson, the great draftsman of the instrument that declared these United States to be free and independent. The South furnished many of the brightest intellects connected with the formation of the union of States. North and South, and in the great and ever widening West, the day is one to be reverenced. And as we grow older as a nation, each recurring anniversary of the Fourth day of July will be observed with universal respect. Fourth of July oratory may at times be prosaic and uninteristing, but the day itself will ever stand out as the greatest of the national holidays—the national birthday, indeed.

WHAT NEXT?

There seems to be no end to the array of enemies which the farmer is forced to combat. The latest foe, excepting the unnatural season, is the corn curculio. This new pest has not so far as known, made its appearance in Kent, but a unity of interest will make the following notice from the Wilmington Every Evening, of importance:

An insect hitherto little known in this State has been doing much damage to growing corn in New Castle, and in some other hundreds of this county. The insect is a black beetle about half an inch long, with a poboscis or snout one-third of its length, with which it penetrates the stalk and extracts the juices of the plant. The effect upon the plant is not to kill it, but destroy its vigor, so that it has only a diseased life and rarely makes ears. A gentleman whose corn-field has been badly injured by this insect sent samples of them to the agricultural experiment station at Newark, and has received the following from Peckwith, entomologist, which will be of interest and probably of value to farmers:

NEWARK, DEL., June 17, 1889.

Dear Sir:—Your favor of June 12, and also the box containing insects is at hand. The insects are the sculptured corn curculio-sphenoporus scuptilis. They have been reported as injuring the corp in various localities since the year 1847. The insects were especially abundant and destuctive to corn in the vicinity of Geneva, N. Y., during the years 1886-7,

Without doubt the corn curculio is the cause of much of the injury to corn which is attributed to the cutworm. I have recently been informed of damage to corn, supposed to have have been caused by cutworms, that may have been the work of this curculio. I shall visit some of the infected fields as soon as other work will permit.

Wild grasses are said to be the original food plants of this insect and during unusual freshets and very rainy wheather they are driven by the water from their natural place of depositing their eggs upon the roots and base of plants. Corn affords abundant food and opportunity for egg deposits and they very naturally attack the plant.

From what is now known concerning the life history of this insect, the pupa state is passed in the tap root and in the base of the stalk of the corn. Prof. Riley says that the perfect beetles make their appearance in the fall and pass the winter mainly in the stalks and roots and stubble of the corn.

In Alabama and Arkansas, where the corn was infested with this insect, much good resulted from burning the roots and stubble of the corn.

The beetles probably can be destroyed while feeding upon the young corn by using either white hellebore or pyrethrum powder, mixed with lime and land plaster, one part of the powder to six parts of lime dusting the mixture upon the infested plants, or mixed with water, ounce of the insecticide to two gallons of water.

Very respectfully,

M. H. Beckwith, Entomologist.

Fourth of July Excursion Rates.

In pursuance of its usual liberal custom, the B. & O. R. R. Co. will place on sale, Fourth of July excursion tickets at reduced rates between all stations on its lines east of the Ohio river, to be sold Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 2, 3 and 4 going, and valid for the return trip until the following Monday, July 8, inclusive.

PEACH CROP STATISTICS.

Further Statistics from Kent and Elsewhere—the Crop Undoubtedly a Short One.

Continuing the investigations of the peach crop as reported last week, some interesting statistics have been obtained in regard to the crop in Kent county, and several communications from other sections, which reached us to late for the issue of June 27, are given below:

Following the line of the railroad which penetrates the great peach belt of the county, the following is the result of these investigations, without going into a protracted list of names and figures. Twenty of the most prominent peach-growers of Lynch's Station, from whom reports were received, gave as a result, that on the 58,350 trees in the immediate vicinity, there will be but 9,850 baskets of fruit for shipment this season. It is thought by some others, however, that this estimate is a small one and that the crop will be greater than that reported.

Reports were received from twenty-nine extensive peach-growers of Worton, and in round numbers the number of trees is given as 67,900, with a prospective yield of 23,550 baskets. This report is generally conceded to be accurate without any dissenting voices.

On 31,000 trees in the vicinity of Lambson Station, the estimate as given by eight peach-growers is for 4,100 baskets for market.

From Still Pond, as reported by nine growers, the prospective crop is for 6,800 baskets.

Black's Station sends in an estimate of the expected crop in that vicinity, as being, upon 29,000 trees, 6,800 baskets.

Kennedyville, which is in the very heart of one of the great peach centres of the county in the estimate of the anticipated peach yield for the present season, as made by twenty-one extensive peach men, gives the number of trees as 77,000 with a prospective yield of 35,500 baskets of peaches.

Chestertown, with its vast peach interests in the district, of 88,300 trees, has a promise of but 28,000 baskets.

In some of these reports fair crops are expected. In others of the reports the crop is entirely destroyed, while in a great majority of instances the crop is badly cut, amounting to a comparative failure, when considered in the light of anything like a fair crop in the sections reported.

The above estimates will bring the crop in these extensive peach sections at only 107,800 baskets.

J. Spences Harris, one of the most extensive and at the same time a very successful peach-grower, sends us the following letter in regard to the prospective crop on Eastern Neck Island, an important peach section of the lower portion of the county:

MESSRS. EDITORS:—The peach crop this year is an extremely short one, including all varieties, though the yellow fruit seems to be most injured. The crop is short generally in this vicinity with the exception of very late varieties. Some of my trees look badly on the low ground where the land is stiff, owing to the extensive rain fall. The shortage seems greater on young trees than the old ones. I have about 14,000 trees in bearing, and as yet have found no signs of Yellows. I am of the general opinion, however, when it does show itself the tree should be destroyed, and consider it the only remedy to prevent spreading. Whether the disease is contagious or not I am not prepared to say, as I think the cause of this blight is but imperfectly understood as yet.

Samuel Vannort, Esq., of Chestertown, says: 1. As far as I am able to estimate, would say about 20 per cent.; 2. About 25 per cent.; 3. Reeves' Favorite and Smock; 4. I believe yellow fruit most injured; 5. confined to no particular character of land; 6. I am unable to see any difference between old and young trees; 7. The abundant crop of last year, the heavy rains of April and May and frost; 8. I have four orchards aggregating 10,000 trees; 9. Unable to answer this question; 10 My attention was called by some of my friends to four trees that were said to have Yellows; I grubbed them up and burnt them from where they were taken; have only seen one tree in that orchard that looked like the ones I had taken up; in another orchard I have found a number of trees in the same condition; 11. I am unsettled on this question; 12. If trees have what is called "Yellows," and it is contagious, I would say dig them np and burn at once.

John B. Thomas, Esq., representing the seventh district of Queen Anne's, sends the following answers to the series of questions which were sent him: In reply to your questions as regards the peach crop I will say, 1. I think about 75 per cent; 2. Probably a half crop; 3. Smock and Early Rivers in my orchard; 4. I can't see that there is much difference; 5. In low lands; 6. On old trees; 7. I think the shortage due more to the wet spring than to the frost; 8. About 3000; 9. This I have no idea of; 10. I have never seen a sign of Yellows in my neighborhood; 11. I am afraid so; 12. Get rid of the trees affected as soon as possible, and keep the orchard well cultivated.

Samuel G. McCollister, Esq., who has been extensively engaged in peach culture for a number of years, and has met with marked success, writes as follows from his farm on South East Creek, Queen Anne's county: I will endeavor to answer your inquiries in regard to the peach question, 1st. what per cent. of a full crop in my orchard. In my old orchard there is a full crop or as many as I want on the trees; this orchard was 19 years old last fall; on my 10-year old trees there is not more than a fourth of a crop, except on one white variety, which is full enough, that variety is Lagrange. To your second inquiry of what per cent. there will be of a full crop I will answer, there will not be more than a fourth or fifth of a crop in our county. Third question is, what varieties are most seriously hurt? I will answer that Reeves and Mary's Choice is. Fourth question, is white or yellow fruit most injured? One is hurt as much as the other, except the two varieties above mentioned, Reeves and Mary's Choice. Fifth, peaches are more hurt on heavy land than light or sandy land. Sixth, the crop is shorter on young trees, that is, from 5 to 10 years old. I have trees that are 4 years old this fall that have a full crop, and limbs breaking badly. Seventh, I attribute the short crop this year to the extra crop last year, exhausting the tree, and to the three days' rain we had in April with cloudy weather for several days after, producing milldew of the peach in the cap of the blossom. Eighth, I have 6000 trees running from 3 to 19 years old. Ninth, I suppose there is half a million trees in this county of various ages. Tenth, I have Peach Yellows in my 3-year-old trees. I have dug all up except three or four, which I am experimenting on. Eleventh, I do not consider the Yellows contagious, because you can dig up a tree with the Yellows and put a healthy tree in its stead and it is not effected. I believe it is transmitted from one tree to another by budding from diseased trees.

Twelfth, I would stop raising trees where they are affected with Yellows, as buds will be used from trees that are affected, and it will be spread just as any other disease is spread. It ought to be a violation of law to propagate trees in these sections where it is prevalent.

THE FRUIT AND PRODUCE EXCHANGE.

BALTIMORE, MD., June 24, 1889.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—If you will kindly allow me space, I will try and answer some of the very many questions that come to me daily by letter and from those who are stockholders of this exchange. That the exchange is appreciated I have but to mention the fact that its influence extends from New York State to South Carolina. No enterprise ever met with more popular favor. When it was organized one year ago, all the influence of the commission men, steamboat companies (with but one or two exceptions), and wharf owners at Light St., was turned against it. So evident was the opposition of those I have named that we were compelled to assist the farmers in getting their produce to us. Running boats direct from the exchange. Though opposed, and bitterly so, by our enemies, the exchange has grown in influence, and demonstrated this fact to all, that it has come to stay. It was organized for the purpose of fostering and promoting the farmer's and producer's interests. It is a success because it is the farmer's friend, and the farmers as I have said have learned this fact, and in return they intend to be its friend, and make it one of the grandest enterprises Baltimore city has ever known. Already we are receiving letters from the Farmers' Association of South Carolina, Virginia, Florida and New York State, asking if they cannot get the benefits from this exchange by starting other exchanges based upon the same principles, and have them as feeders to our exchange? This exchange has over three hundred stockholders. Like all large enterprises there will always be a small dissatisfied element. The by-laws provide for 9 farmers and 3 city men for directors. Prior to the yearly meeting on the 22d of May for the purpose of electing directors for the fiscal year, 1889, about a dozen of the dissatisfied city men demanded a majority of the directors, and that the directors of last year retire. Out of 936 shares, they could count but 189. But the old board, who had won the confidence of the people, ably conducted the affairs of the exchange (when opposed by those I have named), said, let them try. The directors elected at the meeting on May 22, were 7 city men and 5 farmers. Messrs. John A Groves, Samuel Vannort, N. Barnard, James S. Harris and H. M. Murry were all good men, and the farmers throughout the State were satisfied with those I have named, but demanded that the city men step down and out and that John W. Corey, Judge S. T. Earle and two others from the counties be re-elected in the place of city men. Suffice it to say that the city directors saw the error they had made, and at the advice of Mr. John W. Groves (who, by the way, will make a most useful director), did resign, and at the request (I might add demand) re-elected Mr. John W. Corey, of Kent; Judge S. T. Earle, Henry Wilmer and F. A. Emory, of Queen Anne's, and C. C. Goldsborough of Talbot, making nine farmers and three city men.

At the meeting on Thursday last Mr. J. W. Corey was unanimously re-elected president. The present board is composed of twelve directors, who, for ability, influence, experience and adaptability to the work, have no equal. The following are the names of the board: John W. Corey, president, Norris Barnard, Jas. S. Harris, John A. Groves, of Kent; Judge S. T. Earle, Henry Wilmer, F. A. Emory, of Queen Anne's; C. C. Goldsborough, Talbot; H. M. Murry, A. A., President State Grange; Louis Sinsheimer, vice-president; Charles A. Wolf and A. T. Dolfield, secretaries, all of Baltimore city.

The directors will meet on July 10, for the purpose of electing a manager for the exchange. It is their purpose to secure a thoroughly competent business man to manage the affairs of this exchange. At their meeting on Thursday they were greatly encouraged because of the future prospects of the exchange. Farmers, this exchange is your friend, and its success will be measured by the degree of support you give it!

B., No. 7, 273, &c., which mortgage has been duly assigned to William M. Slay, administrator de bonis non of Caroline C. Perkins, and said assignment recorded at the foot of said mortgage, the undersigned will offer at Public Sale at the Voshell House in Chestertown, Kent county, Maryland,

ON TUESDAY, 16TH DAY JULY, 1889,

AT ELEVEN O'CLOCK A. M.,

All That FARM

and premises, situated in the First Election District of Kent county, near Lambson's Station, on the Baltimore & Delaware Bay Railroad, and on the public road leading from Galena to Millington, commonly known as

THE PEARCE or SMITH FARM,

AND CONTAINING

212 Acres, 3 Roods & 10 Perches

MORE OR LESS.

This farm is part of the Real Estate of the late Moses Lambson, deceased, and adjoins the lands of Captain A. Woodall, Mrs. Martha Price and others, and is now in the tenancy of Mr. Patrick Hely. The soil is naturally of good quality.

There are about 60 Acres in Wood, the balance is arable.

THE BUILDINGS ARE ONLY ORDINARY.

TERMS OF SALE:—One-third of the purchase money cash on the day of sale or on the final ratification thereof, one-third in nine months, and the balance in eighteen months from day of sale, with interest.

WILLIAM M. SLAY,

OFFICE OF THE Local Board of Health.

CHESTERTOWN, MD., June 20, 1889.

THE outset of the heated term brings with it additional dangers to health. The public has already been cautionded and advised to put their premises in good sanitary condition. Advice to mothers and others having the care of young children was published about this time last year, and it is thought advisable to again call their attention to the importance of exercising judgment and following hygienic rules in the nursing and raising of young children and infants.

Infants at the breast should not be fed too frequently, from one to five months of age they should be nursed every three or four hours only. The mother (or wet-nurse) should be careful to not nurse their children while over-heated or excited themselves. The importance of frequent baths in maintaining a good condition of health in infants cannot be over estimated. When the weather is warm they should be bathed night and morning. The addition of sea salt may be an advantage. Bottle-fed and those fed on prepared foods should be similarly treated, care being taken to see that at no time is the food at all acid, or even slightly turned. No very hot or very cold drinks should be allowed, unless so ordered by the docter.

Woolen shirts should be kept on the body to absorb moisture and preserve an even temperature, but the extremities should be kept cool. Avoid the sun and, keep the children out of the doors as much as possible. Keep the whole house well ventilated. Good, thoroughly ripe fruit may be allowed the older children; unripe or stale fruit is unfit for use. Don't allow the young children to be fed at the table, nor to eat of meats or solids, except to suck pieces of rare beef. Diarrhœa troubles at first may be very slight and of little importance, but may develop into serious cases in a very short time. Do not trifle with them, but seek the advice of your medical attendant early.

Patent medicines and nostrums given at all are attended with risks patients should not assume.

Older children, while not so liable to digestive and intestinal troubles as those below two years of age, should nevertheless be watched and not allowed to transgress hygienic laws.

PUBLIC SALE
—OF A—
PHOSPHATE FACTORY!

BY VIRTUE of a power contained in a mortgage from Charles W. Kennard and Henry C. Chase, lately trading as C. W. Kennard & Co., to the Chester Loan Association of Kent county, dated August 21, 1883, and record among the Land Record of Kent county in Liber S. B., No. 4, Folio 510, &c., the undersigned will offer at public sale at the Court House Door, in Chestertown, on

TUESDAY, THE 9TH OF JULY, 1889,

AT 11.30 O'CLOCK A. M.,

THE LEASEHOLD INTEREST OF THE SAID C. W. KENNARD & CO., of, in and to

ALL THAT LOT OF LAND,

situate on the southeast side of the public road leading from Chestertown into Quaker Neck, bounded by the said public road, the shores of Ratcliff creek and Chester river, and the lane leading from the aforesaid public road to Burchinal's wharf, with a right of the free use of the said wharf and the lane leading thereto.

The said Lot of Land was leased to the said C. W. Kennard & Co., by Wm. D. Burchinal and others, for a term of nine years from the 21st day of August, 1883, at an annual rent of $100, payable May 1st in each and every year, with the privilege at the expiration of said term, to the said C. W. Kennard & Co. and their assigns to remove the buildings now, or which may be hereafter erected thereon.

The Improvements on said Lot consist of a Large and Well-Equipped

Phosphate Factory

The Main and Machinery Building is 100x40 feet, a portion being two stories high; two sheds for storing phosphate and phosphate material, one 100x24 feet, the other 40x40 feet; engine room 30x20 feet; office 12x12 feet.

The Machinery Equipments consist of a 75-horse power Boiler, 28-horse power Engine, a Denmead Bone Mill, a Bone Crusher, a Phosphate Mixer, set of Rollers, Sieve and complete Bagging Attachments and are fixtures of the mill, and will be sold with the property.

This property is eligibly located on Chester river, within a half mile of Chestertown, with deep water at the wharf where steamers and other vessels can load or discharge cargoes at all times. A large and successful Phosphate Manufactory has been conducted there for a number of years. The mill has a capacity of manufacturing from 60 to 75 tons a day.

With a small outlay of capity, it might be converted into a successful Flour Mill or Basket Factory.

THE TERMS OF SALE are cash on the day of sal, or on the final ratification of the sale, at the option of the attorney, with bond and approved security, the purchase money to bear interest from the day of sale. These terms may be modified to suit purchasers.

MARION DEK. SMITH, ATT'Y
Named in the Mortgage.

☞ The above property is offered for sale at our request, with the hope it may sell for its full value.

The above described lot of land may be released for another term of years upon application to Capt. Wm. D. Burchinal.

STRAW WANTED

HAVING leased the Chestertown Straw Board Mill, I am

READY TO BUY ALL THE STRAW

that farmers may wish to dispose of. Will clean up all the straw from stack-yards sold me, rejecting only rotten straw, on the basis of 2240 lbs. per ton for dry straw, only asking those wishing to see to take a little extra pains in stacking, and not put the chaff with their straw.

☞ Mr. James Brice ismy authorized agent to buy.

Read the following and be convinced:

MR. J. H. IRELAND—SIR: The I. X. L. Wind Mill I bought from you last fall gives perfect satisfaction. It is put up out of First-Class material, and I have never been without water since it was erected. I can safely say it is the best Mill I ever saw, and do not hesitate to recommend it to my friends. Yours respectfully,

SAMUEL A. MERRITT,

FARMERS ECONOMIZE LABOR
BY USING THE CELEBRATED LITTLE DIAMOND
Sulky Cultivator.

A MATCHLESS MACHINE!

1. INDEPENDENT TOOTH. The only cultivator in which the tooth next to the plant has a perfectly free vertical and lateral movement.
2. DIRECT HITCH. A perfectly simple device for keeping the teeth uniformly deep in heavy and light soils. No springs, no clap trap devices to break and wear out.
3. SIMPLICITY. Simplest in construction.
4. ADJUSTABILITY. Can be instantly adjusted for width, for depth, for furrowing, a Harrow, a Plow, a Cultivator, a Double Shovel or a Marker.
5. WORK. Fills both sides of row at once and does it better than it can be done by hand. The highest kind of cultivation. It don't scratch, it pulverizes. As a plow it cannot be excelled.

Read the following testimonial:

CHESTERVILLE, April 15, 1889.

Messrs. Smith & Clements:—This is to certify that I have used the Diamond Cultivator for three years, and have raised more corn than when worked with one-horse cultivators, and by using two cultivators save the labor of two men.

CHARLES H. B. SPRY.

The Little Diamond is a perfect cultivator and the greatest labor-saving implement of the age.

We also have for sale the unequaled

LONE STAR HAY RAKE,

which is fully warranted and guaranteed as Superior and Unequaled in many valuable and distinctive points of merit and excellence, and is positively the Best Rake in the field for all kinds of work.

We are also agents for the PIERCE ORCHARD GANG PLOW, which is unequaled for the cultivation of pear and peach orchards.
