Tuesday, August 26, 1890,

at 11 o'clock A. M., to select delegates to represent Kent county in the Democratic Congressional Convention, to be held in Centreville, on Wednesday, September 3, 1890, to nominate a Democratic candidate for Congress to represent the First Congressional District of the State of Maryland. Meetings will be organized in the several districts at 2 o'clock P. M.

DR. SAMUEL BECK,
C. S. HURLOCK,
J. P. NICHOLSON,
Democratic State Central Committee for Kent county.

A. R. WEEDON, the genial congressional aspirant from Queen Anne's, paid the TRANSCRIPT a pleasant visit on Saturday last. Mr. Weedon says that Queen Anne's is treating him handsomely and he will enter the convention with a loyal delegation and fair prospects of a successful contest in convention. He confesses the situation in the lower counties to be an enigma which at present it is difficult to unravel.

References to 1888.

The Denton Journal answers the suggestion that since Hon. C. H. Gibson's majority was much smaller in 1888 than in 1886, it might disappear altogether in 1890. We desire to supplement it here by a few figures, calculations and comparisons made from the officials returns.

Gibson's majority in 1888 was 42 per cent. of his majority in 1886. Stumps majority, in the 2d district in 1888, was 51 per cent of Shaw's majority in 1886. In the 3d district Rusk's majority in 1888 was 50 per cent of his majority in 1886. In the 4th district Rayner's majority of 7,524 in 1886 entirely disappeared and Stockbridge was elected by 80 majority. In the 5th district Compton's majority in 1888 was 7 per cent of what it was in 1886. In the7th district McComas in 1888 increased his majority from 413 in 1886 to 1,634 in 1888,—or 400 per cent.

So it was all over the country,—the result being the disappearance of the Democratic majority in the House of Representatives. The matter was all analyzed at the time, and the causes that led to the development of Republican strength set forth. It would have been marvelous indeed if our district had escaped the prevailing reduction of Democratic majorities that obtained in 1888.

This year the wave will set the other way. We believe, and the belief is not blind faith, but is based on the knowledge that comes through investigation, that the Maryland Democrats will elect all their candidates this year, and the State will have six Democrats in the next Congress instead of three as in this Congress. We also believe that the six will be Gibson, Stump, Rusk, Rayner, Compton and McKaig.—Easton Ledger.

AN OUTING EXCURSION.

The Amity Yacht Club at Home After a Delightful Trip.

The "Amity Yachting Club of Betterton" left Betterton wharf, Kent county, at 4.30 o'clock Saturday morning, July 26, on the yacht Susquehanna, of Havre de Grace, Captain Mitchell. The club is composed of the following members:

Miss Bertie Jump, Miss Susie Jump, Miss MaryR. Stokes, of Still Pond, Md.; Miss Grace Turner, of Chestertown, Md.; Miss Bessie Cannon and Miss Demmie Hall, of Baltimore; Miss Emilie H. Broomell and Miss E. Florence Broomell, of Phila.; Messrs. Howard Turner, Henry C. Turner, John S. Owens and Dr. W. E. Barnard, of Still Pond, Md.; Mr. Edgar W. Stark, of Pittston, Luzerne county, Pa., Mr. Harry T. Thomas, of Baltimore, and Mr. Joseph L. Hecht, of Phila.

The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Richard yardley, of Baltimore.

With a very light easterly breeze, we moved down the bay in a drenching rain, which soon subsided, however. Soon after passing Howell's Point the breeze began to freshen considerably until 10.30 o'clock, when it blew quite a gale, making it necessary for us to run into Rummy Creek for harbor; and, what most of the party deem more urgent, that our steward might prepare breakfast, for the various cooking utensels were dancing about in a very lively manner. About 11 o'clock our first meal on board, although somewhat late, was heartily enjoyed by all. A few hours were devoted to bathing and catching some fine crabs, when at 3 o'clock we weighed anchor and again headed down the Chesapeake.

A meeting of the club was called with Mr. Richard Yardley in the chair, and the following business transacted:

Officers elected — President, Howard Turner; Treasurer and Secretary, Dr. W. E. Barnard; General Business Manager, Joseph L. Hecht. Orange and black were adopted as club colors. The yell adopted by the club and which was on various occasions indulged in, was: One—two—three—Am-i-ty—Sis-s-s-s—boom! look out for the stick—rah!

At 6 o'clock Captain Mitchell ran us into the mouth of the Gunpowder, where we remained until 5 o'clock Sunday morning, when we set sail again. With but little wind, we made slow progress during the day, only getting down as far as Thomas' Point, where we spent the night. Although we were not making very great headway at sailing, all of us were having a good time under the awing and in Captain Mitchell's handsome cabin, which is said to be the finest on board any of the yachts of Havre de Grace. Thus surrounded, with plenty of music from the violin, banjo, and organette on board, the party was full of life. Early Monday morning we ran up the Severn, and at 9 o'clock dropped anchor just opposite the Naval Academy at Annapolis. After a bountiful breakfast all went on shore, and visited the Capitol, Naval Academy and other places of interest. At the capitol the flag was at half-mast in memory of the sad death of Senator Silver, whose desk was heavily draped. The party took dinner at the Maryland Hotel, and returned to the yacht at 3.30, where we spent the afternoon very pleasantly. Tuesday evening all arrayed themselves in purple and fine linen and again visited the Maryland Hotel, and had supper, after which tripping the fantastic toe was indulged in to a considerable extent; while some sauntered through the prettiest streets around the Capitol, others lounged on the veranda, and, still others visited the soda fountain and ice cream parlor. At 10.30 all assembled at the wharf and were rowed to our little floating home, for such it seemed to us then. The night was beautiful. The moon shone through the white, fleecy cloud-skirts, shedding a soft, lustrous light on the picturesque town and the multitude of sailing vessels lining the harbor. After an hour or so of lounging on deck, contemplating the magnificent scence, we retired, all fully satisfied with the night's enjoyment. Wednesday morning we arranged ourselves on the steps of one of the Naval Academy buildings and had a group picture of the entire party taken. A stroll through the lovely grounds, over the smooth, green, well-kept sward, under the many old trees, which furnish a dense, cool shade, which is delicious during the heat of the day, ended our first stay at the State Capitol. Boarded the yacht at 11 A. M., and with a splendid breeze soon made the run to Bay Ridge, where we arrived at 2 P. M. We found this excursion resort quite a pretty place, situated on a high bluff, overlooking the waters of the Chesapeake. A fine band from the Naval Academy, at Annapolis was in attendance; and, seated in the large, airy pavillion, through which a cool breeze was stiring, we enjoyed its productions very much. A member of the party had tin-types taken in groups and pairs, some of them in very amusing positions. Then a walk through the grounds, followed by refreshments, concluded our visit, and boarding the yacht we set sail at 8 P. M. The wind, which, at first, was quite strong, gradually died out, until the captain concluded to anchor. With a perfectly clear sky and the moon almost full, we had such a fine night that some of the party could not bear to see the more tired, rest, but by repeated bursts of laughter and song brought about by partaking of lemonade, cake, blackberry jam, etc., under such novel conditions, contrived to make slumber an impossibility for those below. But one thing seemed to mar our happiness, we could not find a certain cake which had been carefully stowed away, which all desired very much to test. Finally the voice of our chaperon called to us to seek our humble couches and court the sweet slumber of innocence. Ran into Oxford harbor the next day (Thursday) at 2 P. M. As we had seven base-ball players on board we arranged a game of ball with the Oxford team, who supplied us with a couple of players to complete our nine. They are a strong team, not having been defeated this season. Our boys put up a fine game, and, although we were beaten by a score of 3 to 4, felt very well satisfied with the showing we had made; in fact had the game well in hand, 3 to 0, until the last two innings, when we made a change in our battery, which proved disasterous, the Oxford boys scoring two runs each inning. After supper on the yacht we revisited the town, and had a dance at the hotel. Friday morning we went ashore and strolled through the quaint old town. By far the most attractive thing we saw were the ruins of an ancient, grey-stoned church, surrounded by many stately old oaks and cedars, and covered with beautiful, fine leafed ivy. About 5 o'clock a heavy squall struck us, but, with both anchors fast, our staunch little vessel rode it out bravely. We weigh ed anchor at 7.30 and made the short run to Cambridge by midnight. This is justly considered the prettiest town on the shore, for all the residences on the principal streets are of a pattern that indicate cozy, comfortable homes; some of them verging on elegance; then the business portion had an air of life and commotion, suggestive of a brisk trade, which we found wanting in the other towns we visited. The party was treated to a drink of pure, ice-cold water, which is obtained from an artesian well 365 feet deep, just outside the town. At 9 o'clock we again sought our yacht, and after reclining on cots under the awning for a couple of hours, all retired.

Sunday morning we attended the P. E. Church in a body, and after the sermon, remained for the communion service, which took place on that day. The aged minister plainly showed a deep, red scar in the center of his forehead, which he had received the day before from a thrown base-ball, while watching a game. Spent the rest of the day quietly on board, and set sail at 5 P. M. for Easton, but, as it began to blow quite a gale, Captain Mitchell headed for the Oxford shore, and dropped anchor just off that town. Got under way during the night, however, and reached Easton at eight o'clock Monday morning. We were soon visited by some young men, with whom we arranged to play a game of ball at the Talbot county fair grounds that afternoon. At eleven o'clock we were rowed ashore, and took a large hack for the town, which is located about a mile from the river. Stopped at the brick hotel for two or three hours and indulged in some music and dancing, and were then driven to the fair grounds to cross bats with the local team. Our boys played another good game, but were again beaten to the tune of 4 to 6. I will say here, however, that the umpiring was decidedly bad on both sides. We met quite a number of young people here who were quite agreeable. Some of them accompanied us to Moore's ice cream parlors, where the summer delicacy was served in the best of style, and consequently disappeared with alarming rapidity. On our return to the yacht, we were accompanied by Mr. Bartlett and Mr. Covington, who took dinner with us. We were soon on our way to Annapolis, and were making an excellent run, but the wind continued to increase to such an extent that Captain Mitchell ran into Walnut Cove for shelter. We lay here until 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, when another start was made up the bay; reached Annapolis at 8.30 A. M., having made very good time from Easton. After our morning meal the boys went over to the Academy and witnessed a game of ball between the Cadets and the West River nine, which resulted in a tie, 7 to 7. In the afternoon two of our young men, Thomas, and Hecht, played tennis with a couple of the cadets, beating them, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3. After a sumptuous 5 o'clock dinner, we spent a very pleasant evening on deck, retiring at 11.30. Wednesday morning most of the party left the yacht to call on friends, some of whom we had the pleasure of meeting. The Misses Baldwin and Miss Van—— were particularly attractive and lively. In the afternoon some of our members went on board the Government vessels, at the Academy wharf. There are three in port at present, viz: The Santee, a school ship; the Wyoming, a man of war; and the Passaic, a monitor. A fourth, another school ship, is now on a cruise, with about one hundred first and third yearmen. These ships are thoroughly equipped with all the latest and most improved appliances, with which the cadets are made perfectly familiar by constant practice; in fact, they are taught everything from shoveling coal in the fire-room to commanding the vessel. The man of war goes on a cruise the first of March each year, and remains three months. But by far the most interesting of the three is the monitor Passaic. She is built with all her hull below the water line and is completely covered with a coat of mail of six inches of solid iron. An over-hang of ten feet fore and aft protects her screw, rudder and anchors. During a battle there is nothing to be seen but the turret on her deck. This is an iron cage, cylindrical in shape, situated amidship, and made of eleven one inch solid steel plates securely bolted together. The only openings in this are two port holes through which the muzzles of two large 15 inch, smooth bore cannon protrude, which require a charge of 35 pounds of powder, and shoot a solid shot, weighing 480 pounds, very accurately within a range of a mile and a half. The steering apparatus is also located within the turret; in fact, nothing whatever is exposed, not even a man during an engagement. Her turret has no less than forty scars, some of them six inches deep in the solid iron, which she received in one fight during the civil war. One shot struck just at the junction of the turret with the deck, and pierced it, not doing any damage, however, as it was spent; it remained imbedded and had to be cut off, as it was impossible to remove it. The turret is elevated and lowered by hydraulic power and revolves on a centre post, by means of steam received from the engine room. Their mode of fighting is to load the guns, run them out on their carriages until their muzzles protrude about six inches, then elevate the turret and swing it round facing the object to be fired at, discharge both guns at once and swing back again. In the afternoon the boys challenged the cadets for a game of base-ball, which challenge they promptly accepted. As we had become acquainted with quite a number of these young men by this time, we prevailed upon two of their number, who were very good players to assist us. Inspired by a number of lady members of the club present, our boys put up an errorless game, defeating their opponents 11 to 0. Four innings the cadets had men on third base, but as many times were they retired without a run, the third man being thrown out at first in every case. The whole party, ladies included, felt so elated over this decided victory, that it more than compensated for our former defeats. We bade good-bye to Annapolis for the last time Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

With a light breeze we enjoyed our last moonlight sail, which had become such a source of pleasure to us. But the best times must end, and after passing a peaceful night, we awoke to find that we were nearing Betterton, where we arrived Thursday, Aug. 7 at 1 o'clock. We disembarked and ordered dinner at the Chesapeake house, after which we returned to the yacht for the last time to say good-bye to Captain Mitchell and the crew, and take a last look at the graceful little craft that had been our home for thirteen days. That evening at the Chesapeake house we held a social little dance, which brought to a close one of the most pleasant trips in which it has ever been our good fortune to participate. Y. A. P.

The Pulpit and the Stage.

Rev. E. M. Shrout, Pastor United Brethren Church, Blue Mound, Kansas., says: "I feel it my duty to tell what wonders Dr. King's New Discovery has done for me. My lungs were badly diseased, and my parishioners thought I could live only a few weeks. I took five bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery and am sound and well, gaining 26 lbs. in weight."

Arthur Love, Manager Love's Funny Folks Combination, writes: "After a thorough trial of convincing evidence, I am confident Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, beats 'em all and cures when everthing else fails. The greatest kindness I can do my many thousand friends is to urge them to try it. 10c. trial bottles at C. F. Stam's Drug Store.

OFFICE OF THE

Local Board of Health.

The Secretary of the Local Board of Health has frequently urged by circulars in the county papers the importance of maintaining the greatest possible cleanliness of premises. At this time it is especially urged that all householders—both town and country—should exercise the greatest care in this direction. That many cases of illness occur in the different sections annually that might have been prevented, is too true. Such being the case we again request that all private and public premises be put in good sanitary condition. Wells, yards and pounds cleaned when needed; privies, hog-pens, manure-heaps, drains and water-holes attended to.

When cases of illness occur in any house, the care and protection of the well ones should not be forgotten. In fevers of various kinds nursing the sick is not all. Individual members of the family should look to their own safety, following such sanitary laws as suggested by common sense alone will often prove serviceable.

When such diseases as typhoid fever, dysentery, etc., occur, the actions of such should be disinfected and then buried. The clothing, cloths and bedding should be boiled at once and not be put with the other soiled clothes. If sewer and closet are in such houses they should be kept clean and well disenfected. The atmosphere of the sick room may be purified by hanging cloths saturated with disinfectants.

As malarial diseases disappear in our communities we may expect typhoid and similar diseases to be more frequent, especially in the towns and villages, but as these diseases may often be prevented, such being the case, it is the duty of all citizens to keep their premises clean and healthy.
