FOR CONGRESS:
HON. HENRY PAGE,
OF SOMERSET COUNTY.
Election November 4.

Grand Democratic Rally
—AND—
MASS MEETING.

A grand Democratic rally and mass meeting will be held in

STAM'S HALL, CHESTERTOWN,

—ON—

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1890,

AT 2.30 O'CLOCK, P. M.

COL. HENRY PAGE

and other prominent speakers will be present. Let this be an old-fashioned rally such as Maryland knew when she was rolling up 25,000 Democratic majorities.

The names of the other speakers will be announced later.

GET REGISTERED, DEMOCRATS.

ONE DAY of delay may cost you your vote. Do not neglect your duty to your party and your State.

GOVERNOR JACKSON on Monday found two applications awaiting him at Annapolis, one from C. C. F. Eichler and the other from William Mitchell, for the position of supervisor of elections. The vacancy was occasioned by the recent death of Supervisor Cathcort. Col. Hodson will have a favorite to offer for the position. A Republican will be appointed.

JUST a little less than one month remains before the election will have been an uncertainty of the past. All along the political line affairs are quiet and though an occasional meeting is held, Democratic activity, we believe, is not what it should be. Let us organize and get to work. A splendid opportunity now presents itself for an aggressive campaign to show what organization and work will do. Let us be active in time. Our opponents are awake and watchful, and will make a vigorous fight.

DESPITE the harsh and repressive legislation of Congress against Mormonism, the Mormons flourish apace out in Utah, and the importation of European maidens to serve as polygamous wives of the Latter Day Saints steadily goes on. Out of 108 Mormon converts who arrived the other day in New York forty-two were girls of from 12 to 18 years. This is a sort of immigration much more worthy of suppression than even the coolie traffic of the Chinese Six Companies.—Philadelphia Record.

"THIS MCKINLEY BILL forces every poor man in the country to give more for the garments which protects him and his children from the cold than he would need to do under a lower tariff."—N. Y. Herald.

The legislative monstrosity went into effect on Monday last, and is now a vast political Octopus which has already drawn within its grasp the most sacred interests of a great nation and has the sanction of the representatives of a favored class to the utter suppression of the people's call for tariff reform.

JOHN A. VENABLES, by Col. Thomas S. Hodson and Maurice E. Skinner, attorneys, have entered suit in the Superior court against T. Howard Dail to recover the amount of the award ($1000) offered for the recovery of the body of the late T. Harrison Garrett, who was drowned in the Chesapeake bay in July 1888. Venables was the mate of the steamer Nanticoke, and was the first to discover the body. The award was paid to Mr. Dail, as agent of the company, and by a bill of particulars filed with the suit, the plaintiff acknowledges that he received $150 of the award on July 14th 1888, and now claims $850, with $119 interest.

FORMAL APPLICATIONS have been filed with the Governor from William S. Walker, of Kent; George W. Cruikshank, of Cecil, and ex-Comptroller J. Frank Turner, of Talbot, for the position of Tax Commissioner. General Seth, however, it is positively said, is not a candidate for the place. Mr. Wm. S. Walker is represented by a strong petition and some of the most substantial influence in the State, and his prospects are good for the successful position in the contest. The vacancy will, it is claimed, be filled to-day. Should the honor fall to our representative, the appointment will be one of the most judicious ones which could be made, and would give entire satisfaction.

THE McKINLEY bill has appeared as a complete puzzle to the commercial world, and Secretary Windom has been kept busy answering inquiries concerning the new tariff law, which went into effect on Oct. 6, and its effect upon importations which arrived in this country on Sunday. The point is made that the new act does not take effect until October 6, and therefore all goods should come in under the old rates up to midnight of the 5th. It is claimed that when the previous tariff law was passed the old rates were maintained up to midnight of the day preceding the date fixed in the new bill. In support of this claim it is said the United State courts placed that interpretation upon the law. Secretary Windom holds that the McKinley bill went into effect after twelve o'clock Saturday night, as Sunday is a dies non in law. Treasury officials also claim that goods cannot be regarded as having arrived until they have been officially entered at the custom-house.

Ex-President Cleveland has accepted an invitation to be present at the Thurman banquet to be given on November 13, under the auspices of the Thurman club, in Columbus, Ohio. Judge Thurman will be seventy-seven years old on that day.

AFTER MANY postponements, claimed necessary delays, and an interesting and pretty game of hide-and seek between the members of the State Board of Public Works, it has been stated that the appointment of a commander of the Oyster Police Force will really be made to-day. Much speculation has been indulged in as to the respective vote of the board, and there seems to be an impression that when the appointment of commander of the oyster navy is made the Governor and treasurer will be found supporting the same person for the position. The comptroller has said, however, that he will vote first, last and all the time for the present incumbent, Commander Plowman. Treasurer Brown, it has been asserted, will cast his vote in favor of the Queen Anne's claimant, Col. William Henry Legg, than whom no better selection could possibly be made. The question is would it or would it not be "good politics" to cast the dumpling in the Queen Anne's pot?

GET REGISTERED.

To-day is the last day of the October registration, and is the only opportunity left for those who have not already placed their names on the registration books, as qualified voters, to do so. The right of franchise is the most sacred institution of American citizenship, and the man who by dereliction of duty deliberately disfranchises himself is unworthy the privileges and immunities of national protection. A vital moment has been reached in the history of national affairs, which must impress the most apathetic, with the momentous importance of the situation. Local issues have become absorbed in the great national questions which have been forced upon the people, by the arrogance and usurpation of power by the majority in the fifty-first Congress. No man can afford to neglect his duty to himself and to his country. The present is a contest of principles, the issue has been joined, and but one of two altenatives is left the American voter, either a cowardly surrender to a dictatorship of war taxes, a demoralizing and impoverishing pension system, the Force bill with threatenings of vengence against the South and a total dethronement of the rights of the people, by a party of vindictive and narrow-minded partisan or the championship of the great Democratic principles of Tariff Reform, Civil Service Reform and the protection of the people against money-sharks and trust kings.

The action of the last Congress was such as to drive any but a patriotic and loyal people to the verge of revolution. The session was opened by placing a demagogue and unscrupulous man to preside over the deliberations of a body supposed to represent the interests of a nation rather than the blinded greed of a favored class of money changers and monopolists. Authority was usurped and the rights of American citizens trampled under foot to satisfy the demands of time-servers and to entrench the Republican party more securely within the flesh pots of the national capital. Neither the rights of the people, of parties or of individuals were respected, but the most disgraceful desecration of the will of the people induled in. Now, shall we either by apathy or inattention openly endorse these frauds? Shall we by unwarranted inactivity allow the First District to send a representative to Congress to assist in a series of high-handed measures such as have characterized the congressional proceedings just closed? Shall we countenance such audacity by failing to qualify and thereby be unable to raise our voices against such measures.?

The fourth of November will call upon us for a report of our stewardship as American freemen, and we ask of you to be prepared. As before stated, independent of any personal or local considerations the opposition have given us no alternative. The desecrated liberties of the people, an impoverished treasury, and a depressed country cry out against them. Our representatives in Congress protested in vain, and were silenced by imaginary majorities which none but the plutocratic Reed could see. Not that any local issue can confront us which an honest Democracy is unable to meet, but in the presence of national danger we must forget self, and move upon the ennobling Democratic principle, the greatest good to the greatest number. Let every Democrat in the country, State and county register his name, and we may then candidly answer what is to be the result of this flood-tide of corruption which has swept over us, and but one answer can be given.

TARIFF REFORM.

The first definite move of the Kent county Democracy in the present campaign was made on Saturday evening last, under the auspices of the Jefferson Tariff Reform Club of Chestertown. At eight o'clock the meeting was called to order by James A. Pearce, Esq., who stated that on account of some confusion in announcing the hour for holding the meeting, he feared that some had been kept away, but the loyalty and interest of Kent in the vital issues of the day were not to be questioned. Without further formalities the speaker for the evening, R. W. Cull, Esq., of Baltimore city, was introduced. Mr. Cull said, in substance, that the American voter has a momentous and practical question to deal with; a question which bears with equal harshness upon all classes save a favored few who are enriched by the injustice of its partisan operations. No apology, he said, was necessary for Kent, she has a history which is well known. She has borne a part in all the struggles which have been met by the State, and her loyalty and adherence to Democracy is well established. Free trade and protection is not the question, he said; that is the way the Republicans would have the question presented to the voter; nor is it whether the laborer should or should not have higher or lower wages, but a careful consideration of the political situation as it remains after Mr. Reed's session of Congress and its passage of the McKinley bill, that is the question and the issue to be considered; and even this bill is not one of Protection, but is pure and simple but a legislative expression of a few men in Philadelphia, Ohio and at a few other points against the people of the United States. In a clear and practical manner the speaker analyzed the McKinley bill, showing with what inequality and injustice it cast its onerous burdens upon the people that a few might be enriched and shielded behind a wall of monopoly, protection, and a vast national corruption fund by which the political rights of more than sixty-four millions of people are debauched, and the voice of a vast majority of American citizens silenced.

Mr. Cull is a pleasant speaker, and has so thoroughly vivisected the massive hulk of the McKinley monstrosity that its bearings upon the political rights of the people were clearly and potently presented. The audience, though not large, gave a very complimentary attention, and listened with unbroken interest to the speech of more than one hour and a quarter in length.

The meeting was first advertised to take place at three o'clock in the afternoon, but was afterward changed to the evening. This change of time caused some confusion, and was responsible for the smallness of the attendance.

THE CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN

From now till election day candidates for Congress will doubtless make themselves heard in their respective districts, and the public will probably take exceptional interest in what they have to say, the record of the past session having been of a kind to stir the most apathetic. The prospects of the campaign, it is generally thought, are favorable at present to the Democrats. Theirs is the popular cause just now, everybody being interested in the programme of lower taxes. The Democratic congressional campaign committee has been charged recently by the New York press with neglecting to avail itself of the favoring tide. The result in Maine and Wyoming has been held to be discreditable to the committee, the idea being that if proper exertions had been made, for example, in Speaker Reed's district, the result might have been reversed. The fact that not a single Democratic speaker was sent to encourage the Maine Democracy, while the Republicans had numerous speakers, has been cited as proof of the committee's incompetency. According, however, to the New York Times, the committee has not been wholly inactive. It has sent out many documents, and with more than usual care that they should reach the localities where they might be expected to influence opinion. A campaign book, it is stated, is being prepared for the use of speakers, and the rural press has been appealed to. Doubtful districts have received special attention. Wherever there is a chance to capture a seat arrangements have been made to send speakers to arouse interest and get out a full vote. Wherever there is danger of losing a seat extraordinary effort has been made to give the proper turn to the public mind. It is not, of course, in the power of the congressional committee to interfere in the management of local fights.

The most it can be expected to do is to supply suitable literature, give advice and send speakers where they will do the most good. The friends of low taxes in every community have themselves a duty to do which they cannot fairly shift upon the shoulders of a far-off committee. Every friend of constitutional government, peace between the sections and conservative methods should actively exert himself to get the right man elected. Co-operation in local efforts to excite interest is incumbent upon all who are opposed to the revolution in the objects and methods of our government that has been so boldly inaugurated at Washington. It is stated that the Democratic congressional committee is hampered by a dearth of funds. The political capitalists are on the other side. Still want of money need not be a fatal deficiency. If the friends of tariff reform, ballot reform and civil service reform make proper personal exertion for the advancement of the good cause, the abundance of cash pitted against them will be ineffectual. For the issues in the approaching congressional elections are not party issues. The questions involved go deeper than any campaign during the present quarter of a century. They underlie party lines and erase distinctions such as the old terms "Democratic" and "Republican" imply. This is indicated by the unanimity of the better men of both parties in denouncing the authors of recent political events. Speaker Reed has announced that "progress is made over the ruins of old political institutions." Those who are satisfied with our institutions as they are will have an opportunity in November to say whether they want any more of such progress.—Baltimore Sun.

CONGRESS ADJOURNED.

The first term of the Fifty-first Congress adjourned Wednesday, October 1. The Mew York Herald says:

Coming into power with so many assurances of achievements and reform, what has it done?

We have a Pension bill. Under the pressure of the pension sharks—the best organized lobby ever known in Washington—over fifty and perhaps a hundred millions have been added to the annual taxation. In profund peace, with nothing to disturb the nation's prosperity, with a shred of an army and a remnant of a navy, we are paying more for pensions alone than Germany with her armaments, which master a continent. The war ended twenty-five years ago, and yet we suffer the financial burdens of the war. History has no precedent for this cruel wrong. The tariff barons would have it so, and the truculent Republican majority humbly records the decree.

Tin is taxed to enable a company of English capitalists to float in tin mine on the London market. That is the tin business in a nutshell—simply a Lombard street job, looking to money in English pockets.

Henry M. Stanley's Visit to America.

Henry M. Stanley will visit Baltimore in December. In a private letter received on Tuesday Mr. Stanley said he was in excellent health and expected to fill all his engagements. He will sail from Europe on October 29, on board the Teutonic, and expects to arrive at New York November 5. On November 11 he will lecture at the Academy of Music, New York, for which he will receive $5,000. He will then go to Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia and afterward go to Baltimore, where he will lecture on December 4, on the "Rescue of Emin." Mr. Stanley will be accompanied by his wife and his wife's mother. During his tour of the United States he will travel in a private car which has been specially constructed for him. In 1886, shortly after Mr. Stanley's return from his first trip to the Dark Continent, his agent entered into a contract with a Baltimoean for a lecture in Baltimore for which Mr. Stanley was to receive $100, which was then considered a big price for one lecture. Since then the explorer's fame has increased to such an extent that he now receives from $3,500 to $5,000 a single lecture.

POLITICAL BITS.

Hon. Charles B. Roberts, of Westminster, Carroll county, is spoken of as a Gubernatorial possibility. A good man, and fully as large as the place demands.

Hon. Frank Brown has returned from Europe, and is the most prominent of the planets now whirling in the space of uncertainty around the Gubernatorial sun.

Experimental voting contests are being held in Baltimore city for the purpose of educating the masses under the provisions of the new law.

The campaign committee of the Queen Anne's county Republicans have appointed W. W. Bryan, chairman, and also a committee for each district in the county to look after the registration of voters and the interests of the campaign in general.

The Cecil Democrat, in its last issue, presented the name of George W. Cruikshank as the successor of the late Tax Commissioner, Levin Woolford. The Democrat says: "A gentleman of character and recognized ability, he would fill the position in the most acceptable manner by his administration of the office, reflect credit not only on Cecil, but upon the State at large."

Senator Arthur P. Gorman will address the Democratic meeting to be held in Easton on October 21. Mr. Gorman has not forgotten in the midst of his Presidential boom that the election of a Democratic congressman from the First District is an altogether important matter and should be attended to.

The Easton Democrat, in commenting upon the candidacy of Mr. William S. Walker, of Kent, for the position of Tax Commissioner, says: "Mr. Wm. Walker, of Kent county, is a candidate for the position of State Tax Commissioner, lately held by Col. Levin Woolford, of Somerset county. Mr. Walker has many friends in this county, who would like to see him get the position, and the Democrat knows of no better qualified man in the State for that office. The Board of Public Works will make no mistake if they appoint him, and it is to be hoped they will do so."

Such speakers as Henry Page, John W. Crisfield, L. Victor Baughman and Charley Gibson, will interest you, Democrat or Republican. Come and hear them, Saturday, October 11th.—Salisbury Advertiser.

PENINSULA MATTERS.

Elkton has a new liquor club.

The much-talked-of game of base-ball which was to have been played at Elkton, failed to materialize owing to the fact that the fair grounds could not be secured.

A number of the canneries in Caroline county will soon begin packing pumpkins.

Governor Jackson on Monday commuted the death-sentence of the colored murderer Hudson, of Snow Hill, Worcester county, to imprisonment for life on the ground of mental weakness.

Pride of England,
IMPORTED
Cleveland Bay Stallion,
REGISTERED NO. 161,

is of a beautiful Cleveland Bay color, stands 16 hands 1½ inches, and will weigh thirteen hundred pounds in condition. He is stylish, fine action and perfectly quiet. In the combined qualities of action, beauty and endurance, he is acknowledged to stand unequaled as a stock horse for farm and carriage purposes. He comes down a long line of the best producers.

The American Farmers' Stock Book, in speaking of the most desirable strains of horses which have been the result of careful and scientific breeding, in coming to the Cleveland Bays, says: "We come next to a class of horses always held in the highest esteem for their many valuable qualities. It is a horse that is now bred to a degree of perfection that leaves little to be desired in all that goes to constitute size, style and ability to perform any labor that may be required, except the heaviest dradgery. The Cleveland Bays are good carriage horses, good and stout wagon or plow horses, and they match together about as easily as Devon cattle, combining as they do, plenty of staunch thorough blood with excellent size and constitutional vigor. Unfortunately they are in the United States, but since their introduction into the West, they have been steadily growing into favor. They are remarkable for their pure bay color, dashed only at the fetlocks and in the forehead with white. We have good authority for our admiration of this splendid animal. Canada has of late years become celebrated for finely-bred and finely-matched carriage horses, which is due to the sagacity of some Canadian breeders, in selecting Cleveland Bay Stallions for sires."
