...OLLINS & HOPPER,

EDITORS AND PUBLISHERS.

WOULD-BE-CONGRESSMAN George M. Russum was in attendance upon the recent session of the Queen Anne's court, and announced for the comfort of his many friends that he is now booked for the celestial realm, since the Republican party has been snowed under so extensively throughout the country. Poor friend Russum has been a chronic applicant for the same position for so long that we would suggest that he file his application with the postmaster-general under the Cleveland administration in 1893. Surely he could fare no worse and might do better.

THE OFFICIAL RETURNS.

How Maryland Voted in Her Congressional Election.

The official returns of the recent Congressional election in Maryland, as filed in the office of the Secretary of State at Annapolis, are: First District—Page, Democrat, 14,817; Russum, Republican, 12,437; Covington, Prohibition, 1.043; Page's plurality, 2,380; Page's majority, 1337. Second district—Stump, Democrat, 17,740; Wilson, Republican, 12,130; Balderston, Prohibition, 1224; Stump's plurality, 5,610; Stump's majority, 4,386. Third district—Rusk, Democrat, 16,914; Pullman, Republican, 11,273; Gluck, Prohibition, 444; Rusk's plurality, 5,641; Rusk's majority, 5,197. NOW AND THEN.

What the Farmers' Alliance Means to Do.

To judge the Farmers' Alliance movement correctly and to form a just estimate of the influence it may exert in this country, we should note the four great principles which form the foundation upon which it has erected its political edifice; namely:

1—"the overthrow of sectionalism.

2—A reduction of taxation to the needs of government economically administered.

3—State and inter-state control and regulation of railroads.

4—A sound, stable and flexible currency based upon the great staple crops, and issued by the general government in accordance with the laws of supply and demand."

The Alliance and kindred industrial organizations are here to stay, and our legislators (both State and National) had better listen to their demands. The main thing for the farmers is to become sufficiently strong, through organization, to send men to the Legislature and Congress who will work in the interest of the agricultural classes. The election returns last week show a very fair beginning.

Judge Lindley, president of the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association of Illinois, says: "We are in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver, for we are convinced that the demoralization of silver has largely contributed to the low prices of cereals for the past few years, by bringing us into competition in the production with cheap monied countries of the old world. Moreover, he thinks a careful study of the tariff question will convince all that a protective policy, properly adjusted, will result in the greatest benefits to the agriculturists and laborers of this country. A tariff well peppered with reciprocity wherever the result would inure to the benefit of our people, would result in the highest national prosperity."

THE CLUB CLOSED.

After a Long Struggle the Chester Musical and Literary Club Closes its Doors.

After a persistent battle for life, dating back to within six months after the granting of its charter in April, 1888, the "Chester Social, Musical and Literary Club," of Chestertown, closed its doors on Saturday last. The club was chartered in April of 1888 with full charter priviliges for forty years. As above stated proceedings were instituted soon after the charter was granted, and at nearly all if not at each and every term of the circuit court for Kent county since that time an effort has been made to secure a forfeiture of its rights upon charges of mis-user of charter. At the recent term of court, with the Talbot cases pending before the Court of Appeals, in which were involved substantially the same points of law, by agreement of counsel a statement of facts was submitted and it was mutually understood that the decision in the appeal cases should decide the fate of the Chestertown club. The Maryland Court of Appeals on Thursday handed down the anxiously looked-for opinion, upon the strength of which the Talbot clubs closed their doors, and the Chester club followed on Saturday.

It is contended by some that the club might have conducted business until its charter is formally vacated, which will be done by the court on December 1. State's Attorney M. deK. Smith states, however, that, in the face of the recent decision the club would have laid itself liable to indictment by the grand jury by so doing.

Samuel Crawford was the first president and manager of the new organization, and upon his death last year, Joseph E. Gilpin succeeded him in charge. The membership now numbers between thirteen and fifteen hundred.

The following is the decision as handed down by the higher court, as given in the Baltimore Sun, which said:

DECISION IN THE TALBOT CLUB CASES.

Chief Judge Alvey also delivered the opinion in the cases of the State vs. the Easton Social, Literary and Musical Club of Talbot county; same vs. the Farmers' Social, Literary and Musical Club of St. Michael's, Talbot county. The two corporations proceeded against by the State under the law prescribing the remedies for abuse or misuse of corporate powers and franchises were incorporated under the general incorporation law as musical, literary and social clubs. In both of the election districts where they are located the law, known as the local option law, is, and has been for several years past, in operation, which prohibits the sale of spirituous or fermented liquors. The charge of abuse and misuse of corporate franchises against these corporations is that they have been selling spirituous and fermented liquors in violation of the law. The petition of the State was dismissed by the court below.

The Court of Appeals says: The question whether the furnishing of liquor by a clerk to its members, as above stated, constitutes a sale in violation of law has been the subject of various and conflicting decisions of several of the appellate State courts of the country. And when the question was presented to this court, in the case of the Chesapeake Club vs. the State, 63 Md., 446, the judges who heard the case were equally divided in opinion, resulting in the affirmance of the ruling of the court below, which had held the club criminally liable for furnishing liquors to its members in violation of the local option law. That case, resulting as it did, may not furnish a binding precedent or authority for the decision to be made in this; but after a careful examination and comparison of all the decisions upon the subject, we are decidedly of opinion that the furnishing of liquor by the club to its members for a price fixed by regulation and paid by its members upon receipt of the liquor constitutes a sale, and is therefore in violation of the statute. That the revenues received by the club from the various sources mentioned in the answers become the property of the corporation would seem to be too plain to admit of a doubt. It is with this fund, or a part of it, that the liquors are bought by the corporation, under its control, to be disposed of at prices fixed by it. None but members, it is true, can obtain the liquor, but they can only obtain it by paying for it, and the money thus paid goes into and constitutes a part of the funds of the corporation. The parties are competent to contract one with the other, there being no principle to forbid a member of a corporation from contracting with or becoming a purchaser of property from the corporate body as a legal entity. And that being so, the course of dealing as between the corporation and its individual members, as stated in the answers, present all the elements of an executed contract, the corporation being the owner of the liquor, though its appointed agents deliver it to the member of the corporation on his request, and receives a fixed compensation in money therefor. The property in the liquor passes to and becomes vested in the individual member, and the money paid is received for and becomes the property of the corporation. Nothing more is or can be required to constitute or complete a sale. And such being the case, why should this court indulge questionable refinements in order to relieve these corporations of the just consequences of their acts? By holding that the supply of liquor by the club to its members, in the manner admitted by the answers, does not constitute a sale within the prohibition of the local option law of Talbot county, we should certainly afford impunity to gross violations of the spirit and intent of the statute, and thereby open the door to all the evils intended to be suppressed by it, and that done by simply allowing a combination of individuals to do what individuals without combination could not do without incurring the penalties of the law. We think the facts admitted in the answers clearly show habitual and constant violations of the law by these corporations by the sale of liquors at their club-rooms to the members of the club, and the fact that the sales were made without actual profit to the corporation is wholly immaterial, and affords no grounds of defense to these proceedings. The statute alleged to have been violated provides that "any person who shall sell spirituous or fermented liquors in the first, second, third and fifth ...icts in Talbot county, on conviction ... shall be fined not less than fifty ...s than three hundred dollars, and ...ned in the House of Correction." ... person" used in the statute is ...g, and as such, prima facie, ...ial as well as natural per... the established rule of con... court sustains its views by ...erous cases.

calling such corporate powers and franchises, and annulling and vacating the charter. Indeed, in many cases, this is not only the appropriate, but the only remedy against the corporation itself.

The court says that further proceedings are necessary for the lower court to forfeit the charters and appoint receivers for their effects, unless the grievance complained of is remidied. Judgment reversed and cause remanded.

FOR HORSEMEN TO READ.

Interesting Jots from Turf Matters.

The sale of the fine stallion, Happy Russell, to Henry J. Brooks, of Baltimore, for $12,000, has given rise to unpleasant complications of both a financial and social character. When the sale of the Queen-Anne's stallion was made quite a ripple of excitement was put in motion throughout the turf circles of the State. Eastern parties were prominent bidders for the horse and were sore over their defeat in securing what is considered the finest stallion in the State and the horse which sold for the handsomest sum ever obtained for a Maryland stud. It appears now that the purchaser, Mr. Brooks, who it is claimed bid the horse in for Mr. Emory, has failed to secure the co-operation of his friends in making the necessary arrangements in complying with the terms of sale, and Happy Russell is again offered at public sale. Since the first sale the Talbot gentlemen have secured another horse with a reputation equal to that of the Queen Anne's horse, and more fashionably bred. This horse is Referee, 1463, a brown horse by Administrator, 357, dam Firelight, dam of Skylight Pilot, 2.19, by Mambrino Pilot 29. Grand, dam by Pilot, Jr., 12.

Referee sired Reference with a record of 2.18. His colts are all handsome and show fine individuality and trotting action of no small pretenses. He is owned by parties who do not believe in early development, which is one of the causes why he has never been brought before the public as a great producer of youngsters.

Administrator, 3.57, his sire, has a great reputation and is considered one of the best sons of the old Hero of Chester out of Dolly Halstead, by Mambrino Chief. He has a record of 2.29½, and sired such notable performers as Catchfly, 2.18¼, McMahon, 2.21, Executor, 2.24¼, Marcus, 2.29¼, Penistan, 2.28½, Clarkie, 2.27, Adjuster, 2.26 and others. His sons sired seven 2.30 trotters, and his daughters are the dams of Administrator Wilkes 2.30, Ashland Wilkes 2.22, Black Victor, 2.29¾, Cosher, 2.30, Lady Emma 2.23¼, Orange Blossom, by Victor Von Bismarck, 2.27¼, Spectator 2.28 and Wildmont, 2.27.

After a failure to comply with the terms of sale overtures were made to the Talbot bidders, and the horse offered for the price at which he had been knocked down to Mr. Brooks, $12,000, but this was refused, as it was stated, that later developments have shown that irresponsible parties, who either could not or would not meet their obligations, had been allowed to run the horse up to that figure. The Talbot people recognized in Happy Russell a good one and were not afraid to invest their money, but now that they are on the line of negotiations for a first-rate horse at less money, it is thought by some that Russell will go at figures decidedly below the standard sum set by Brooks, the Baltimore bidder, while some claim that notwithstanding the absence of the spirited horsemen from Easton, the price which will be received on November 25, when the horse will be again sold in Centreville, will be in excess of the original $12,000.

An exciting shooting affray has already been the outgrowth of the Happy Russell transaction, of which the Baltimore American had the following:

There was an exciting shooting affray shortly after one o'clock yesterday afternoon, corner of Fayette and North streets. The two men concerned were H. P. Lucas, an operator in the City Fire Alarm Telegraph, and a well-known writer on turf matters under the non-de-plume of "Pike," and Henry J. Brooks, proprietor of Brook's Hotel, 211 East Fayette street, opposite the postoffice. Brooks assaulted and knocked down Mr. Lucas, who drew a revolver and fired one shot at Brooks. Lucas claims that he fired it in self defense.

Sol. Pippin, of Easton, has sold his well-known trotter, Rosa Lee, to August Rice, of Baltimore, for $1450.

Deafness Can't be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out, and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

Illustrated.

The important series of papers on South America, by Theodore Child, will be continued in Harper's Magazine during the greater part of the year 1891. The articles on Southern California, by Charles Dudley Warner, will also be continued. Among other noteworthy attractions will be a novel by Charles Egbert Craddock; a collection of original drawings by W. M. Thackeray, now published for the first time; a novel written and illustrated by George du Maurier; a novellette by William Dean Howells, and a series of papers on London by Walter Besant.

In the number and variety of illustrated papers and other articles on subjects of timely interest, as well as in the unrivalled character of its short stories, poems, etc., Harper's Magazine will continue to maintain that standard of excellence for which it has been so long distinguished.

HARPER'S WEEKLY.

Illustrated.

Harper's Weekly has never failed to justify its title as a "Journal of Civilization," and it has done so with a constant regard to enlarged possibilities of usefulness and a higher standard of artistic and literary excellence. It leaves untouched no important phase of the world's progress, and presents a record, equally trustworthy and interesting, of the notable events, persons and achievements of our time.

Special Supplements will be continued in 1891. They will be literary, scientific, artistic, historical, critical, topographical, or descriptive, as occasion may demand, and will continue to deserve the hearty commendation which has been bestowed on past issues by the press and the public. As a family journal, Harper's Weekly will, as heretofore, be edited with a strict regard for the qualities that make it a safe and welcome visitor to every home.
