For the United States' Senate

James A. Pearce, Esq.

THE grip is again epidemic in Germany.

WILL Governor E. E. Jackson scoop in the Eastern Shore Senatorship in January next? Not if the people of Maryland are consulted in the matter.

EX CONGRESSMAN LANGSTON and a number of other prominent colored Republicans of Virginia, will soon appear before the National Committee to oppose the leadership of Mr. Mahone.

THE Easton Gazette (Rep.) endorses Hon. John M. Robinson, of this county, for U. S. Senator. None better in the State for the position, but the judge is not wasting boodle for honors. He is not in it.—Queenstown News.

THE Westminster Democratic Advocate in speaking of Mr. Gibson's appointment to the vacant Senatorship, says: "Mr. Gibson's six years' service in the House well equips him for the Senate. Why should the Legislature not continue him?

MINNEAPOLIS won the prize. The Flour City captured the next Republican convention on the seventh formal ballot, which stood: Minneapolis, 29; Cincinnati, 15; New York, 3; making the total vote 47. Necessary to choice 24, and on June 7 the great convention will convene.

IN SPEAKING of Mr. Gibson's appointment to the vacant Senatorship the Snow Hill Messenger says: "Mr. Gibson will fill the office with ability. His appointment will not materially change the situation. Col. Smith is conceded to have a long lead on the Shore which Governor Jackson has not disturbed by appointing Mr. Gibson."

THE APPOINTMENT by Governor Jackson, of ex-Congressman Charles H. Gibson to fill the vacant United State Senatorship, has given general satisfaction throughout the State, and evidently no more popular appointment could have been made. Mr. Gibson's thorough acquaintance with men and measures acquired while a member of Congress, will serve him to great advantage in his Senatorial work. During his six years in Congress, socially and politically, there was no more popular man in the lower House than the handsome representative from the Eastern Shore.

THE Westminster Democratic Advocate has recently entered upon its twenty-seventh year. Not from a desire to flatter, but upon the time-honored principle of rendering honor to whom honor is due, we extend congratulations to the Advocate as being at the front of the most ably edited, the newsiest and most progressive of Maryland's journals. And right here we send political congratulations as due the Advocate for the active part which it took in one of the most notable Democratic victories recorded in the history of Corroll county. The TRANSCRIPT sends congratulations and best wishes to the Democratic Advocate

DR. SAMUEL BECK, clerk of the circuit court, has received the commissions from Annapolis, of the newly elected county officers, and it is fully expected that the old officers will lay aside their official robes on Tuesday next and those newly elected will be formally sworn into office. Mr. Dickinson, the only retiring member of the board of county commissioners has made a most efficient officer and has, we believe, been entirely satisfactory both to his district and the county at large. While Sheriff Comegys will retire from public life, his thoroughly capable and genial deputy, C. C. Morgan, will share the responsibilities of the incoming Sheriff, E. J. Plummer, and will act in his old position of deputy sheriff during Mr. Plummer's administration of the affairs of his office. Dr. Beck will surrender his office to his successor Dr. S. G. Fisher, after a long and most acceptable service to his county. Mr. W. S. Walker, one of the most efficient members of the orphan's court the county has ever had will leave a record for practical, effective work during his term of office which his successor may profit by scrutinizing and following.

Mr. Strong has made a most efficient officer and lays aside one duty to take up others of equal importance, and will transfer his official garment to most capable and worthy shoulders. Whether or not deputy Chase, Greenwood and Melvin will remain in service we cannot say, but be that as it may each of the gentlemen have shown themselves in every way competent and conscientious in the discharge of their duties.

TO-DAY is the great Thanksgiving festival—a day set apart for a national thanksgiving for blessings received at the hands of the divine Giver of all good, by the entire people. Originally a local holiday confined to New England, Thanksgiving Day has become recognized throughout the American States, and the healthful influence of the season has been felt in other climes than our own. If any there be who have reached man's estate without a grateful appreciation of the mercies bestowed by a beneficent Creator in the annual abundance of seed-time and harvest, continued peace and prosperity, and national and local health, that one must have reached a state of ingratitude calculated to make life a burthen and the recurrence of the days but an emphasis of miseries already endured. No creed claims this festival as its own, but all creeds and all nationalities are alike included within the circle of its sacred influences. This formal expression of a nation's gratitude in thousand of churches and many thousands of homes to-day, by a mighty people animated by a common impulse of thanksgiving, is no empty form, but a sign which more clearly than any other of our annual festivals, points to a stronger, a higher and a more earnest Christian recognition of the blessings vouchsafed by the Allwise Giver of good. On no similar occasion since the establishment of the institution, have there been greater reasons for a general thanksgiving by the American people, and particularly in Kent, where Nature with lavish hand has bestowed the blessings of abundance in every department. Our social life has been guarded against invasion, nor have political revolution of a dangerous character approached our borders.

All should be thankful during this season of the glorious Thanksgiving, for blessings received and disasters escaped.

THE effect of ex-Congressman Gibson's appointment upon the Senatorial prospects of other candidates, is a matter of first importance to the Eastern Shore counties of the State, and instead of affording a solution to the situation, has only complicated matters by introducing another candidate. But the question is asked, has it introduced another candidate? Has not Mr. Gibson declared himself uncompromisingly for Governor Jackson? All very true, but then the question arises, will the ex-congressman's friends, when it becomes (as in our opinion it has already become) apparent that the strength developed by the Governor and Mr. John Walter Smith stand unalterably opposed to any affiliation or compromise between those gentleman, allow Mr. Gibson's personal inclination to throw his strength to the Governor; if, indeed, his magnanimity should go so far, to defeat their desire to place their favorite in the Senatorial fight as the winning man?

May not the situation at present be somewhat on this order: the managers evidently want to place Mr. Jackson in the Senate for reasons which have long since become open secrets to the rank and file of the party; it is equally as evident that the rank and file of the party, the men who vote and think, are opposed to this eminently unsatisfactory arrangement, and a feeling of unrest, a manifest disposition to openly rebell has been shown by this important class of voters and thinkers. Now, is it impossible that the gentlemen who had arranged for this comfortable placing of the Governor, have noted these signs and have taken the popular ex-congressman to bridge over the interval between the present and Mr. Jackson's "next turn?" Even the Governor may have appreciated the situation and have become a party to such an arrangement, and will throw his strength to the Talbot candidate. In the event of such an agreement the interesing question presents itself, will the combined strength of the two gentlemen be sufficient to elect Mr. Gibson in the face of the Smith opposition? Then again, can Mr. Smith pull through with three gentlemen strongly against him? The question is one difficult of solution, and since we have never credited to the full extent the claimed strength of either Mr. Smith or Governor Jackson, the enigma becomes all the more perplexing. But a question which forces itself upon the Kent countian is, has this latest move eliminated James A. Pearce, Esq., from the senatorial contest? Not at all. The gentleman from Kent has the people with him, notwithstanding the bunkum and hullabaloo of the gentlemen who have been early and pretractedly in the field. Kent county would prove a traitor of most villainous dye, did she fail to support with an undivided delegation first, last and always her own candidate. Then it is rumored that Cecil will fall in line in honoring James Alfred Pearce, the man who has for so many years commanded the love, honor and confidence of the people of the entire State to an extent scarcely equaled by any other citizen within her borders. Where could loyal Queen Anne's throw her vote when the hopes of the Hon. John B. Brown have failed to materialize, with greater honor to herself and in greater harmony with the wishes of the people than with Kent's candidate. Indeed, it will be found that after all unholy combinations and political legardemain have been disposed of, the members of the Legislature will find that the men of prestige and political stamina; the men who will lend dignity and honor to the legislative bodies of any State or to national councils are not to be ignored; and whatever may be the outgrowth of the present situation it will be found possibly that Jas. A. Pearce, of Kent, has developed a strength, which, were he disposed to withdraw from the contest (and we can state with authority that he has no such intention), has placed him in the field to stay.

THE HAGERSTOWN Mail, with a number of other "patriots" of the Western Shore press, are cautiously advocating the setting aside of the custom of selecting one of Maryland's United States Senators from the Eastern Shore. In referring to the rule, the Mail says: "That this rule or custom is narrow, unreasonable and injurious will be conceded everywhere, except on the Eastern Shore, and we take it by the majority of thinking men there. * * * No wonder that sometimes in our good State such exceedingly small timber should seem large enough for a Maryland Senator, and that the timber seems to be getting smaller and smaller. * * * No more suitable time will likely come for abrogating the rule, but we will look in vain for the patriot who will start the movement. The rule being fixed who is to be the other Senator. Each county on the Eastern Shore has at least one candidate and each has his earnest advocates. From these the Senators and Delegates from Baltimore city and the Western Shore are to make selections and cast a majority of the votes."

However rapid and however manifest may have been the deterioration and evident smallness of Maryland's Senatorial timber, we would refer the Mail to the fact that no such evidences of smallness have been noticable on the Eastern Shore. For what reason should the rule be abrogated, enabling both representatives in the United States Senate to be selected from the Western Shore? Has the Eastern Shore in the past ever failed to comply with the demands of this long-established principle in supplying gentlemen to represent the State in the National Senate, who were the peers of those representing the Western Shore? Were the Lloyds, Reed, Goldsborough, Chambers, of Kent, James Alfred Pearce, of Kent, George Vickers, of Kent, George U. Dennis, of Somerset, James A. Groome, of Cecil, and E. K. Wilson, of Dorchester, and others who have represented the Eastern Shore, less equal to cope with subjects of national legislation than their colleagues from across the bay? Until some stronger argument than a mere political grab-bag policy can be advanced by the advocates for a change, the Eastern Shore will resist any attempt to centralize on the Western Shore the distribution of all political offices above that of a district constable. We repudiate any and all insinuations to the effect that in the present instance there are not on this side of the Chesapeake gentlemen fully equal, intellectually or otherwise, to any which the Western Shore could present.

Deafness Can't Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There's only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitution all remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be distroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure Send for circulars, free.

STILL POND FARMERS' CLUB.

A Most Valuable Paper, Giving a Synopsis of Interesting Discusssions.

November 19, 1891.

The club held its regular meeting to-day at the residence of Mr. E. B. Pennington, and was well attended. After the reading and approval of the minutes of the last meeting, Mr. W. D. Pennington submitted a sample of French chestnuts for inspection. They were large, sweet and well-flavored. After examining and tasting, the club pronounced them first-class, and recommended their cultivation.

Mr. Pennington then asked if it would not be advisable to plant the nuts just where the trees were to remain? It was thought that this would be the best plan, as it almost ruins nut-bearing trees to transplant them.

Mr. Barnard asked if the ashes from peach trees affected with yellows would communicate the disease? The opinion was general that they would not.

Mr. Krusen asked how the Scarlet clover sown by the members was looking.

Mr. Barnard and W. D. Pennington reported that theirs was doing nicely and looked much better than the red clover.

Mr. H. L. Crew reported that he had sown a pear orchard which was looking well, but he had also sown thirty acres of corn ground, and the set there was looking very unsatisfactory. He did not consider it one-third of a stand.

A long discussion followed on the relative merits of clover and weeds as a peach orchard fertilizer, and the opinion was freely expressed that the weeds were about as valuable as the clover.

Mr. Krusen asked if corn alone was as good a fattening feed for shoats as could be given.

Mr. E. B. Pennington replied that the corn would be much more valuable if fed with plenty of skim milk.

The next question was, "How to rid a house of rats." Cats and various kinds of traps were recommended, where poisoning is impracticable.

The club then took a recess until after dinner.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The ladies opened the session with a selection of music. After "mine host" had been excused from perpetrating the usual address, questions were declared in order. How to rid the hen-house of lice was discussed, and plenty of coal oil sprayed all over the interior was said to be a sure remedy. How to cure meat, brought out the following recipe: "To every 144 lbs. of meat, take 12 lbs. fine salt, 2 lbs. brown sugar, 1 lb. pulverized saltpetre, mix well, place in tub, rub hams and shoulders thoroughly, place on a board till next day; then rub again and leave on the board 24 hours, then pack closely in barrels, filling vacant places with side meat. Add sufficient water to the balance of the mixture to cover the meat, and pour over it; let it stand six weeks, then drain, cover from flies and hang up. Meat treated in this manner will remain soft and keep any length of time. Do not be afraid of the large amount of saltpetre.

"Does butter keep better washed or unwashed?" On this question opinion was divided. To wash in hard water was agreed to be a disadvantage, but for home use it was recommended to wash the butter in soft water well salted.

"How to manage a timothy sod for corn was discussed at some length, it was recommended to plow early, sow 400 pounds of phosphate and plant as soon after plowing as possible. It was thought that the cut worm would not give much trouble if there was no green grass turned down for them to feed on.

"In what manner does the athletic societies connected with our colleges and universities detract from or add to their value as institutions of learning?" J. D. Rigg replied that athletic exercise was very needful to the student, but he thought the ball and boating clubs of many of our colleges were a disadvantage to those belonging to them as it kept their minds from their studies to too great a degree.

"By what standard is the successful man properly judged?" Mr. Kemp replied that the only proper standard was that of character, and he believed that as a standard was becoming more general with the people than formerly.

"Should a farmer employing a number of hands, work with them as a common laborer?" Mr. E. B. Pennington replied that it would not be economical or advisable for various reasons for him to do so.

"Having chosen an occupation or profession, is it profitable to change it."

Mr. W. D. Pennington said that unless the man was absolutely unfitted for his occupation, the cases were rare where changes had brought additional profit.

The regular question for discussion: "What is the present capacity of our land for cereals and what could the capacity be made with proper effort?" was then taken up and debated by Messrs. E. B. Pennington, N. Barnard and J. W. Hickman who attempted to prove that our grain crops could be doubled by a proper system of cultivation.

The literary committee, consisting of Misses Mary Pennington and Myra Crew, recited two poems which were received with deep attention and much pleasure by all present.

On motion, a committee of three was appointed to prepare a new constitution and submit it to the club at its next meeting.

After selecting the question, "What is the disadvantages to the farmer of the dealing in futures by the grain exchanges," as the regular question for discussion at the next meeting, the club adjourned to meet at Mr. Henry Krusen's on the last Thursday in December.

ANNIE ROONEY.

STATE AND PENINSULA.

Baltimore is threatened with an epidemic of scarlet fever and diphtheria.

By the failure of the San Diego (Cal.) bank, citzens of Cecil county lose over $60,000.

The Democrats of Boonsboro, Washington county, Md., celebrated the recent victory by an ox-roast.

Eleven Baltimore lawers are engaged in the Baltimore county court in the mechanics' lien case of Wm. J. Matchison and others against Clara B. Chipman and others.

On Sunday the barn and contents on the farm of Mrs. Mary C. Walls, of Queen Anne's county, was burned. 1,000 bushels of corn, lot of wheat, all the hay, &c., were consumed.

Charlotte Trader is in jail at Salisbury for drowning Wm. Rose, by pushing him into the river at that place on Friday of last week. Both are negroes, and Charlotte was jealous of Rose's attention to another woman.

BAZAR AND SUPPER.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Shrewsbury Parish will hold a Bazar in the Town Hall, at Kennedyville, on the evenings of the 10th, 11th and 12th of December. Supper and Refreshments in abundance each evening. Come one and all, and have a good time with us.

By order of the President.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE.

AN EXCEPTIONAL YEAR.

The year 1891, has been marked by a greater advance than any similar period since the Magazine was established. Not only has the literary and artistic excellence been maintained and increased, but a corresponding gain has been made in the sale and influence of the Magazine. At the end of 1891 the circulation has risen to more than 140,000. It may justly be promised that the further improvements for the coming year will be proportionate to these largely increased opportunities.

For Next Year.

It is not possible to give, in a brief space, an account of all the features in preparation, but the material is deficient in neither importance nor range of subject. Among the subjects treated:

The Poor in the World's Great Cities.

It is proposed to publish a series of articles, upon a scale not before attempted, giving the results of special study and work among the poor of the great cities. The plan will include an account of the conditions of life in those cities (in many lands) where the results of research will be helpful for purposes of comparision as well as for their own intrinsic interest. While, from a scientific point of view, the articles will be a contribution of great importance, the treatment will be thoroughly popular, and the elaborate illustrations will serve to make the presentation of the subject vivid as well as picturesque.

Washington Allston.

Unpublished Reminiscences and Letters of this foremost among early American painters. A number of illustrations will lend additional interest to the articles.

Important Moments.

The aim of this series of very short articles is to describe the signal occasions when some decisive event took place, or when some great experiment was first shown to be successful—such moments as that of the first use of the Atlantic cable, the first use of the telegraph and Telephone, the first successful experiment of ether, the night of the Chicago fire, the scene at the moment of the vote on the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, etc., etc.

Out of Door Papers.

In the early spring will be begun a number of seasonable articles, among them being: Small Country Places, how to lay out and beautify them, by Samuel Parsons, Jr. Fishing Lore from an Angler's Note-Book, by Dr. Leroy M. Yale. Mountain Station Life in New Zealand, by Sidney Dickinson. Racing in Australia, by Sidney Dickinson, with illustrations by Bridge Harrison. The illustrations are made from original material.

☞ A full prospectus appears in the Holiday Number, now ready.

PRICE, 25 CENTS. $3.00 A YEAR.

Charles Scribner's Sons, Publishers, 743 and 745 Broadway, New York.

A GREAT MAGAZINE.

The Century's Programme in 1892—A New "Life of Columbus"—Articles for Farmers, etc.

That great American periodical, The Century, is going to outdo its own unrivaled record in its programme for 1892, and as many of its new features began with the November number, new readers should have commenced with that issue.

In that number were the opening chapters of a novel by Rudyard Kipling, the famous author of "Plain Tales from the Hills," written in collaboration with an American writer, Wolcott Balestier. It is the story of a young man and a young woman from a "booming" Colorado town, who go to India, be in search of a wonderful jeweled necklace, called "the Naulahka" (from which the story takes its name), and she as a physician to women. The novel describes their remarkable adventures at the court of an Indian maharajah. Besides this, The Century will print three other novels during the year, and a great number of short stories by the best American story-writers.

The well-known humorist Edgar W. Nye ("Bill Nye") is to write a series of amusing sketches which he calls his "autobiographies," the first one of which, "The Autobiography of a Justice of the Peace," is in November. This number also contains a valuable and suggestive article on "the Food-Supply of the Future," which every farmer should read, to be followed by a number of others treating especially of the relations of the Government to the farmer, what it is doing and what it should do. This series will include contributions from officers of the Department of Agriculture, and other well-known men will discuss "The Farmer's Discontent," "Co-operation," etc., etc.

Of Great Practical Value to Farmers,

A celebrated Spanish writer is to furnish a "Life of Columbus," which will be brilliantly illustrated, and the publishers of The Century have arranged with the managers of the World's Fair to print articles on the buildings, etc.

One of the articles to appear in 1892 is

by the author of "The Anglomaniacs," and the magazine will contain a great deal about the metropolis during the year—among other things a series of illustrated articles on "The Jews of New York." In November is an illustrated description of "The Players' Club," founded by Edwin Booth, and one of the features of the splendidly illustrated Christmas (December) number is an article on "The Bowery."
