Extraordinary Announcemnt.
JAMES A. CASEY, a progressive Rock Haller, is now offering to the people of this county special low prices on his entire stock in order that the bulk of goods now upon our shelves can be reduced. For fifteen years we have been catering to the wants of the trade here, and all during that time we have never thrown out catch penny advertisements in order to hoodwink the people, but a steady, straightforward plan adopted in the beginning has been continued to the present time, and now for the future we promise greater bargains than have ever been shown in Rock Hall.
THE STOCK
Embraces a general line of goods, and consists of Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots and Shoes, Hardware, Notions of all kinds, including special bargains in Underwear and Hosiery, together with a first-class supply of Gum and Rubber Goods, so extensively used by our oystermen. The approaching holidays get nearer and nearer every day, and don't forget that we are fully prepared to meet your wants, as we can supply you with a complete line of goods at prices unequaled in this community. Our Grocery department receives special care, all the goods being bought for spot cash at headquarters, enables us to place in the homes of our people a line of fresh groceries at prices which are considered rock bottom In the Boot and Shoe department there are many bargains awaiting you, and a call will convince you that we advertise bargains. Remember, we carry everything to be found in a well-appointed store, and from this time on sweeping reductions will be made, and a number of goods during this month will be closed out at prices that will astonish you. Look out for change of advertisement next month.

PRICE'S DEATH WARRANT.

The Murderer of Sallie E. Dean, of Caroline County, Listens to Sheriff Berry Read the Document.

Mrs Dean Writes a Letter.

Sheriff Berry, of Caroline county, arrived in Baltimore on Wednesday, and read the death warrant to Marshall E. Price, the condemned murderer of Sallie E. Dean. Price will be hanged at Denton on July 5.

When Sheriff Berry entered the jail he went to Warden Constantine's office and said he was ready to read the death warrant to Price. The young murderer was sent for and when he entered the office Sheriff Berry read the document to him in the presence of the warden and his deputies. During the reading, Price did not seem to be affected. He stood calmly alongside the sheriff while the paper was read to him. When Sheriff Berry finished Price said:

"I have nothing to say to you. I suppose you will carry out the law."

Sheriff Berry nodded his head and the ordeal was at an end. Price was led back to his cell and the sheriff conversed with Warden Constantine for a few minutes in the corridor. After Price was locked in his cell, which is No. 16, at the end of the second tier, the death watch was put on him. Deputy Warden Joseph C. Sanner was detailed to watch the prisoner during the day. That night Warden Constantine engaged a man to watch Price, and during his stay in the jail he will be constantly watched and guarded.

He will be allowed to take exercise after the other prisoners are locked up, and his meals will be served from a restaurant.

Price has a good appetite, but he occasionally gets into despondent moods and refuses to talk with his attendants. Mrs. Joseph H. Price, the mother of the prisoner, is in Baltimore and visits him every day.

Sheriff Berry said that he did not know exactly when Price would be taken to Denton, but arrangements would be made to remove him a few days before the date set for his execution.

MRS. DEAN'S LETTER.

Mrs. Jacob Dean, mother of little Sallie Dean, writes to the Journal under date of June 4th a letter, in which she expresses surprise that so many had signed the petition asking the Governor to appoint a commission of doctors to inquire into "the mental condition of Marshall E. Price, the brute who murdered my darling little girl—she who was so dear to us all. Her life was taken for nothing. I want to say right here," continues the mother, "that I want those gentlemen to stop and think one moment and take it home to themselves. What would they have said had she been one of theirs? I do not blame him for trying to act 'insane' now. He has enough to drive him crazy, but when he was here he was as sane as anybody else in the village. Some of the signers saw the condition the child was in before she was moved from the spot. A horrifying sight it was to anybody, and especially to parents. If the murderer is not deserving of hanging, no one should ever be sentenced. I trust there will be a day when we all may see our mistakes in this life."—Denton Journal.

GROCERS DAY AT TOLCHESTER.

A Royal Time Enjoyed by the "Green" Grocers of Baltimore.

Wednesday last was truly "Green" Grocer's Day at Tolchester, and the average Kent countian with his "weather eye" closed and a fire-bug in the other, could have told, and indeed, did tell, that the modifying word "green" belonged just where it was placed on the programme. There were great, fat, wolly-polly grocers; gaunt, fence-rail, bean-pole, hooking-post-looking fellows; rollicksome, frollicksome, corner grocers; grave-wouldn't-laugh-for-a-dollar, near-the-marked birds—all manner and kinds, but all as green as gourds and as green as the average Baltimore Green Grocer ever gets. But there were festive and giddy married women; girls, whose sweet smiles would have quelshed the soaring aspirations of the June roses, and just a sprinkling of old maids, whose uncompromising absence of beauty would delight the creature who contends that a pretty woman since our grandmother's days is an unknown quantity.

They had a royal time, however, and demonstrated conclusively that no grocer on earth can make a slight sprinkling of fun go further than a Baltimore green grocer. The "country greenhorns" who happened to be at Tolchester, laughed at the antics and fun of their "city cousins," while the city folk laughed until they were tired at the unsophisticated make-up of their "hay-seed" neighbors across the bay.

SENATOR GIBSON ANGRY.

He Has a War of Words on the Street With a Former Supporter.

United States Senator C.H. Gibson and Capt. William H. Haddaway, the leader of the opposition to the Senator's reelection in Talbot county, had a wordy encounter in the street last week. In former years the Senator and the Captain have worked together in Democratic politics. Haddaway is one of the most influential leaders in the district, and his bolt will have much effect. Senator Gibson was curious to know the cause of Capt. Haddaway's desertion. Walking up to Haddaway, the Senator said:

'Why should you fight me in this way? what is the cause of it?"

"I do not approve of your action in the Senate, Mr. Gibson, and I am opposed to your reelection," Said Hadaway. "That is why I am fightiug you. I dont think you have properly represented the people of Maryland, and more particularly the Democratic party."

It is evident that Senator Gibson was angry. He began to wave his arms and gesticulate wildly. Finally he said:

"It is not fair for you to fight me."

"I am entitled to my opinion just as much as you are to yours," replied Haddaway, "and I am not afriad to express my opinion to your face. I am not afraid to fight you, even if you are a United States Senator."

Mr. Gibson's wrath greatly increased, and he employed some emphatic words in giving his opinion. A concourse gathered round, and then the Senator regained his self-control and walked away.
