Is your voice husky?
Do you ache all over?
Is your nose stopped up?
Do you snore at night?
Does your nose bleed easily?
Is this worse toward night?
Does your nose itch and burn?
Have you pain in front of head?
Have you pain across the eyes?
Is your sense of smell leaving?
Is your throat dry in the morning?
Are you losing your sense of taste?
Do you sleep with mouth open?

If you have any of the above symptoms, consult DOCTOR WEBSTER. Mark the symptons that apply to your case—bring them with you—or, if you live out of the city, mail them to Dr. Webster and he will cure.

"I AM DONE DECLINING."

It was a comparatively young man who said it. He had been in the church for about six years. The genuineness of his conversion was not doubted. His talents qualified him for much usefulness and he had decided abilities which specially fitted him for successful work in certain directions. But to all the overtures of the church to assume responsibilities and engage in Christian work he offered what seemed to him insuperable difficulties. He could not teach a class in Sunday school because his time was too much taken up to give the class regular instruction. He could not be a class-leader for the reason that older persons were better suited to the work. He was unwilling to be a steward because he had no inclination and no gifts for that kind of work. There was some reason which he deemed good enough to excuse himself from any work the church or the pastor asked him to do.

To his surprise he found himself drifting into indifference in his religious life. He did not mean to be indifferent. Religion was, in his opinion, a very real thing, and he contributed with great cheerfulness to every interest of the church that was necessary to make him a robust Christian. He was not satisfied with himself. There was an aching void. In an experience meeting, he was especially interested in the remarks of a lady whom he knew well, and whose Christian character and consistency always appealed to him. She said: "The happiest experience of my life comes from a willingness to do the Lord's work. It makes me steadfast as a Christian; it makes me happy as a follower, and gives me consciousness that I am most truly serving my Master. I use to try excuses when I was asked to do Christian work. I shrunk from it because I was not as experienced as others, or because I would have preferred to do other work, but when I had decided at last that I would do whatever my hand found to do, I was surprised to find it easier than I expected, and my life has been far happier ever since." The young man thought of those words; they buried themselves in his conscience; they caused him to seek the wisdom of the Spirit; and when at last he reached a conclusion, he went to his pastor and said, "I am done declining."

From that time on he has been one of the most useful members of the church; but he often tells his companions in the church that he missed years of happiness in Christian experience by trying to persuade himself that he was not adapted to such work as the church wanted him to do.

Men grow in grace as they grow in Christian service. They delight in the performance of duty and are blessed in it. They are no longer servants but friends of Christ, and they are happy in the friendship as they are obedient to their calling and duty.

The saloon brings every other evil along with it. Many people are dismayed at the evils that effect society. The daily papers are full of all forms of crime, murder, arson, rape, adultery, and yet most of them are associated with the saloon, which many people do not seem to regard as an evil at all. What an adroit thing Satan has done in society. He has made the mother of an evil appear as though it was something good. He persuades people that the saloon is necessary, and then uses it to destroy their peace, their families, their lives, and their immortal souls.

A story is told in the Orient of a wise old sheik who gave to a young Arab prince, from whom he was about to part, a list of crimes, and bade him to choose the one that seemed to him the least harmful. The young prince turned in horror from such crimes as murder, theft and loss of virtue, and told the old patriarch he would choose intemperance.

"You have chosen that which will bring all the others," said the wise old man.

A man who chooses the saloon, either by giving his tacit consent to its existence, or by giving his support and patronage, becomes a party to a crime that embraces the possibility of every other crime known to mankind. What is more remarkable is the indifference with which its presence is regarded by many Christian people. They fear its presence, yet do little or nothing to modify or destroy that power. To give it encouragement by patronage, is only a little worse than the silent indifference which is interpreted as an indirect consent.—From the Methodist Protestant.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Great Favorite.

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it great favorite with people everywhere. It is especially prized by mothers of small children for colds, croup and whooping cough, as it always affords quick relief, and as it contains no opium or other harmful drug, it may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

It Saved My Life.

Extreme cases of disease test the real value of a medicine. Many "tonic" and "stimulant" preparations, which have no real medicinal value, seem to brace up the users when they are feeling "played out." Any stimulant will do this whether bought at the liquor store or drug store. The true test of a medicine is when life itself is staked on its remedial power. In hundreds of such cases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been the means of saving life when even the "family doctor" had pronounced sentence of death.

"I had been a great sufferer for several years, and my family doctor said I would not be a living man in two years, but, thank God, I am still living," writes Mr. George W. Trustow, of Lipscomb, Augusta Co., Va. "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is what saved my life. I had heart trouble so bad that I could not lie on my left side without a great deal of pain. I was nearly past work when I commenced your medicine, but I can do about as much work now as any man. I cannot say too much for the benefit I have received."

Many diseases, named for the organs affected, as "heart disease," "lung disease," "liver complaint," etc., are perfectly cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which cures through the stomach diseases which originate in the stomach.
