PUT YOURSELF IN THE OTHER FELLOW'S PLACE.

Putting yourself in the other man's place is a charity we very seldom show. How often do we thus consider? There is very little doubt that many an unkind word, many a cruel saying would never have passed our lips had we stopped to think, "How would I feel under this suspicion?" "How would I like to hear such remarks as I was just about to utter?" If we would only stop to think, and that gets us back to those very wise words of Tom Hood when he remarked that aa much evil is done through thoughtlessness as willfulness. As much? We believe there is far more wrong done through lack of thought. And if we stopped to think we would soon find ourselves thinking about the other man in the light of a replacement.

Job, becoming wearied with the words of his very wise friends, turned and said, 'I also could speak as ye do; if your soul were in my soul's stead, I could heap up words against you and shake mine head at you." This is looking at the matter from another's corner of the room, as Horace Bushnell used to say. It is a very good thing to now and then step into another's corner of the field of life and take a mental view of the scene.

And what might we not have done had we been in the other man's place? What might not we have said? We might have done just the same as he did. Put us under the same circumstances, under the control of the same influences, in the same surroundings, and we might be no better than the poor victim. We remember very forcibly the words of a Western judge on being asked his opinion concerning a certain man's acts: "I do not know whether I would or would not have done the same thin gif I had been in his position; but I know I ought not to do it." And that is as far as we should go; we should hate the wrong, but have true charity toward the wrong doer.

OUT OF TRIAL COMES A SONG.

The study of hymns and the circumstances under which they were written has always been an interesting one to many who find comfort and help in the hymnology of the church. After reading the beautiful hymn—

"Oh Lord I would delight in Thee
And on Thy care depend;
To Thee in every trouble flee,
My best, my only friend"—

we became interested in the circumstances that gave it birth. It is said that Dr. Ryland, the author, while at Bristol Academy was engaged to be married to a beautiful young lady, whom he loved most fondly, She was taken sick with a dangerous illness, from which it was feared she could not recover. He was in great distress. In the anguish of his soul he called to inquire about her, and was told by an attendant that he might call in a half hour, and then he would hear the opinion of the doctors who were consulting about her case. He retired to an empty house, and in his sorrow and despair took a piece of slate and wrote the hymn which has been a source of comfort to many sorrowing children of God.

"When all created streams are dried,
Thy fulness is the same;
May I with Thee be satisfied,
And glory in Thy name!

No good in creatures can be found,
But may be found in Thee;
I must have all things, and abound,
While God is good to me.

It is said he called and received a favorable report. The lady was restored to health; they were married and lived happily together for seven years, when death came to her and he was left alone. Like plants that throw their fragrance from the wounded part and breathe sweetness out of woe, so song comes out of trial, and not only solaces the singer's heart, but becomes a source of consolation to others who have not yet learned to sing songs in the night.

The Longest And Shortest Sermons.

The longest sermon on record was preached by Rev. Isaac Barrow, a Puritan preacher of the seventeenth century, who once delivered a sermon in West minster Abbey lasting three hours and a half, and the shortest sermon ever preached was perhaps the sermon which Dr. Whewell was fond of repeating from the text: "Man is born unto trouble as the sparks fly upward.' The sermon occupied barely a minute in delivery. The following is a verbatim report:

"I shall divide the discourse into three heads: (1) Man's ingress into the world; (2) his progress through the world; (3) his egress out of the world.

"Firstly, his ingress into the world is naked and bare.

"Secondly, his progress through the world is trouble and care.

"Thirdly, his egress out of the wold is nobody knows where.

"To conclude.

"If we live well here we shall live well there."

"I can tell you no more if I preach a year."

Then he gave the benediction.

This sermon, however, is not as short as the famous charity sermon of Dean Swift. His text was:

"He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord, and that which he hath given he will repay him again."

His sermon was:

"If you are satisfied with the security, down with the dust."—Selected.

A Young Girl

May be very old in suffering. She is very apt to neglect the earlier symptoms of disease. Often when she takes treatment it is the wrong treatment for her case. Very many young women write to Dr. Pierce and consult him by letter free. All such correspondence is strictly private, and womanly modesty is spared the shock of indelicate examinations, unpleasant questionings and offensive local treatments.

"I suffered with female trouble," writes Miss Agnes McGowne, of 1221 Bank St., Washington, D. C. "I tried various remedies but none seemed to do any permanent good. The doctors said it was the worse case of internal trouble they ever had. I decided to write to Doctor Pierce for help. I received a very encouraging reply and commenced treatment at once. I had not used the "Favorite Prescription" a week before I began to feel better, and, as I continued, my health gradually improved. It is improving every day and I still continue to take the medicine.
