J. THOS. PENNINGTON,
J. H. O. STOKES,
State Central Committee for Kent County.

OCTOBER THE FIRST and EIGHTH will be registration days for Kent county. October FIFTEENTH will be for Revision only. These are important dates for the Democracy of Kent to remember.

FROM THE HOUR of the death of President McKinley on Saturday morning until Vice-President Roosevelt was sworn in as president, a period of thirteen hours and ten minutes, the United States was officially without a president.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE will await with much interest to see what it really means to have a strenuous President,—a Rough Rider, in the White House. A strenuous chief executive may be a success after all—who knows?

THERE WAS A YELP from the Republican editorial scribbler this week. The poor brute who sold himself for a mess of political carion still has some sensibility left. So trifling a matter as this is refreshing to know. It was feared that even his canine instincts had abandoned him.

IT IS HOPED that President Roosevelt will abandon his Wild West proclivities and become a worthy successor of a President whose life was in no way strenuous or of the cow boy order, but conservative, magnanimous and faithful. The responsibilities of his great office, if properly appreciated, will be amply sufficient to preclude the idea of nothing to do but hunt in the jungle or on the western plains.

TO CLOSE THE FLOOD GATES of a too promiscuous European emigration is one way to shut off the anarchist brood whose chief mission is to strike down the chiefs of governments and nations. Our emigration laws should be attended to, and that promptly. The riff raff of foreign lawlessness should be forever shut out. There is no room on this side of the Atlantic for the desperado and peace-hater of other nations.

AN INTERESTING PHASE of the political situation in the Second Judicial District, is the claim that the Republican leaders have decided not to place a candidate in the contest. It has been given out by Kent county leaders who have had a conference with Mr. Haines, of Cecil, and ex-Judge Russum, of Caroline, that it has been finally decided not to name a candidate. The fact of the matter is, that while there are many persons in the counties who can tolerate Republican domination in local offices, they are unwilling to entrust the scared rights of the people under existing conditions in the judicial district to a Republican judiciary. This being the case a Republican candidate would tend to complicate the Republican campaign and be a source of weakness to the local tickets. This would particularly be the case in Kent. On the other hand, this claim of no candidate may be a characteristic Republican bluff.

THE NEW YORK SUN, an authority upon all matters of faultless English, says that the proper pronunciation of Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, is "Sholgosch." It is one of those names which the English language cannot spell phonetically, and which the average English-speaking person stumbles over in trying to express after hearing it spoken by a Russian. Written according to its sound, the name of Czolgosz, or its nearest equivalent, is "Tcholl-gosch," or more broadly speaking, "Sholgosch."

THE ASSASSINATION of President McKinley is the third awful reminder in the life of a young Republic that the time-honored law of cause and effect remains unaltered and unalterable. The assassin is the offspring—a growth of peculiar conditions which have flourished with tropical luxuriance on American soil. Whatever else may be said of the slayer of presidents or of kings, he is the victim of a consuming conviction of a principle of wright. There is a stern lesson contained in the startling calamity which has deprived a great nation of its chief executive.

THE OPENING of the September session of the Cecil county court was an occasion of peculiar impressiveness and solemnity. Chief Judge Pearce and Associate Judge Martin were on the bench. The court house and the seat occupied for thirty-four years by Judge Frederick Stump, were draped in mourning. After drawing the grand jury and the calling of the dockets, memorial services were held. Messrs. Albert Constable, John S. Wirt and William T. Warburton, representing the bar, made addresses eulogising the high personal character of the deceased. Judges Pearce and Martin paid eloquent tribute to their dead associate on the bench. In the death of Judge Frederick Stump the judiciary of Maryland has lost a member of conspicuous ability, and Cecil county has lost a citizen whose whole official life has been one of brilliant service—one of her old-time gentlemen.

JUDGE STUMP'S SUCCESSOR.

Pursuant to a call of Chairman Vandiver a meeting of the members of the Democratic State Central Committees for Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's, Caroline and Talbot Counties was held at State headquarters, Baltimore, on Wednesday, to arrange for the selection of a candidate to succeed the late Judge Frederick Stump, of the Second Judicial District.

After discussion it was decided that the nominating convention meet at Denton, Caroline county, at noon, on Thursday, October 3. The dates of the primaries and local conventions in the various counties were left with the State Central Committees in the several counties. It is thought that the primaries will be held on Saturday, September 28, and the county conventions on Monday, September 30, or Tuesday, October 1.

There will be 18 votes in the convention divided as follows: Cecil, 4; Kent, 3; Queen Anne's, 4; Talbot, 4; Caroline, 3. Kent has now the Chief Judge of the Circuit, Hon. James Alfred Pearce; Talbot has an associate judge, W. R. Martin. The fight for Judge Stump's successor will, therefore, be worked out by Queen Anne's, Caroline and Cecil counties.

Of course the other counties are interested and will figure as factors in making the selection.

In Queen Anne it is pretty certain that there will be no primary contest between Philemon B. Hopper, Esq., and Hon. Edwin H. Brown. Both gentlemen have many friends and both possess in an emminent degree those qualities which peculiarly fit them for the duties of the office to which they aspire, but no fight will be made for the honor. Ex-Senator John S. Wirt, of Cecil, has withdrawn from the field, leaving the way clear in that county for Attorney W. S. Evans. Cecil makes a strong case in favor of the selection being made from that county in her great volume of business. While this is true, there are other considerations which should be remembered by the delegates to the Denton convention.

Queen Anne stands, as she has always stood, as the great bulwark of safety to the Democracy of the Congressional and Judicial district and circuit of which she forms a conspicuous part. While stampedes and political upheavals were costing other counties of the Eastern Shore and the State within the blighting shadow of Republicanism, the Democracy of Queen Anne stood calm and undismayed, sending in majorities which wrested victory from apparant defeat. She has never wavered or faltered in her Democratic duty, and whether she succeeds or whether she fails in securing the judicial nomination she will remain true to her allegiance. These are considerations which demand recognition which has too long been denied to that rock-ribbed Gibraltar of Democracy. The claims of that splendid old county with her magnificent history and sacred traditions should not longer be ignored.

Church Notes.

Dr. Alfred Smith, of Dover, has refused an invitation to become pastor of Asbury M. E. Church, Delaware, Ohio. Dr. Smith is now serving his fifth year as pastor of Wesley Church, Dover, and he refuses to leave his old congregation in the middle of the Conference year.

Revival services will commence at the Chesterville M. E. Church South, next Sunday, September 22. All are cordially invited. These meetings will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. I. Ryder, and visiting ministers. Services every night at 7.30.

THE PRESIDENT DEAD.

Memorial Services in Nearly Every Church in the County—Flags at Half-Mast and Other Evidence of Mourning.

The death of President McKinley took place in the Milbourn house, Buffalo, at 2.15 o'clock on Saturday morning. The impressive scene at the bedside of the dying chief magistrate of a great nation is given on the second page of this issue. The first news of the President's death was received by wire in Chestertown at an early hour on Saturday. Immediately flags were placed at half-mast, the flagpole in the public square was draped, the postoffice and the Chestertown National Bank buildings were hung with the sombre hangings of mourning, and other evidences of sympathy and sorrow were shown. As with one voice a great wave of popular indignation arose from the sovereign people. The president fell as the head of a great people, and it was in his official capacity as the head of the nation that he was stricken down by an assassin's hand. Party lines and political affiliations were instantly blotted out and he became the loss of a people and not the head or representative of any party. Members of all parties and all religious denominations raised their voices in condemnation of the crime and called for swift and the most severe punishment upon the perpetrator.

GANGRENE CAUSED DEATH.

The following report of the autopsy upon the body of President McKinley was issued by his physicians:

"The bullet which struck over the breastbone did not pass through the skin and did little harm. The other bullet passed through both walls of the stomach near its lower border. Both holes were found to be perfectly closed by the stitches, but the tissue around each hole had become gangrenous.

"After passing through the stomach the bullet passed into the back walls of the abdomen, hitting and tearing the upper end of the kidney. This portion of the bullet track was also gangrenous, the gangrene involving the pancreas.

"The bullet has not yet been found. There was no sign of peritonitis or disease of other organs. The heart walls were very thin. There was no evidence of any attempt at repair on the part of nature, and death resulted from the gangrene which affected the stomach around the bullet wounds, as well as the tissues around the further course of the bullet. Death was unavoidable by any surgical or medical treatment and was the direct result of the bullet wound."

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

"In this hour of our terrible national bereavement I wish to say that I shall carry out, absolutely unbroken, the policy of President McKinley for the peace, the prosperity and honor of our beloved country."

With these words upon his lips, Theodore Roosevelt, at 35 minutes after three o'clock Saturday afternoon, took the oath of the President of the United States. He had actually been President since the moment Mr. McKinley had expired, the cloak of responsibility shifting without ceremony from the shoulders of the dead President to those of the living.

The remains of the dead President were taken to the national capitol on last Monday. After remarkable demonstrations of respect and honor at the national capital the body of President McKinley was started from Washington at 8.20 o'clock on Tuesday night by way of the Pennsylvania railroad, to Canton, Ohio, where the burial took place on Thursday.

IN THE CHURCHES.

A chord of sadness and sympathy ran through the services in the churches throughout Kent county on Sunday. In many cases the American Flag bordered with black appeared as an emblem of that sorrow which was so eloquently voiced from the pulpits, regardless of denomination or creed. One thought was uppermost in the minds of all. The sermons prepared for the day were laid aside and the ministers of all the churches drew wholesome lessons of patriotism, heroism, devotion to duty and Christian manliness from the life of the nation's head. Every phase of President McKinley's career was touched upon by the various ministers. His characteristics in private life—his habit of faithfulness in the least of things, his disregard of self, his loyalty, the purity and blamelessness of his manner of living, his tender devotion to his mother and to his wife, his characteristics in public life, his unselfish interests in the times in which he lived, his devotion to his country from boyhood to the day of his death—were all held up as characteristics to be emulated.

Lessons were drawn from his death and the purposes of the calamity were suggested. Hatred for lawlessness and anarchism was expressed, and a note of warning was sounded lest action be influenced by passion and not tempered by judgment.

In almost every service the hymn that was heard on the President's lips as he breathed his last—"Nearer, My God, to Thee"—was sung.

Dr. David L. Greenfield preached a sermon of unusual power and beauty from the text,—John 11, 49 to 53 verses,—"Nor consider that it is expedient for us, that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not."

Father J. L. McSweeney, at Sacred Heart Catholic church, Chestertown, and at St. John Church, Rock Hall, did not take texts, but dwelt eloquently and at length upon the great calamity which had been visited upon the American people. An exalted patriotism was insisted upon as the safety of every nation.

At Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal church, Dr. H. B. Martin, rector, special services were held. Special prayer for the afflicted and for the country were offered. The rector took his text from Revelations, 14 chapter, 13 verse: "I heard a voice from Heaven." During the sermon eloquent references were made to the nation's sorrow.

At the Methodist Episcopal Church, Dr. E. P. Roberts, pastor, the President's favorite hymns were sung—"Lead, Kindly Light," and "Nearer, My God, to Thee." The Divine blessing was invoked upon Mrs. McKinley, President Roosevelt and those associated with him in affairs of government. President McKinley's political and domestic virtues were lauded. He also expressed confidence in our political institutions.

No services were held at Bond chapel because of the sickness of the pastor.

Memorial services will be held by the pastor, Rev. A. H. Covey, on next Sunday morning, however, at 10.45. The order of the service will not differ from that of the regular public service of the church. The hymns, scripture lessons and sermons will, of course, be appropriate for the occasion. The church will be draped. The public are invited.

At St. James M. P. Church, the pastor, Rev. E. C. Makosky, preached a sermon which was declared to be the finest effort of his ministerial life in the county. His text was from Second Samuel, 3-38,—"There is a Prince and a Great Man Fallen This Day in Israel."

In old St. Paul's Church and in Christ Church I.U. Parish, on Sunday, 8th September, prayer "for the sick" was said by the rector, Rev. C. T. Deuroche, which included the late President McKinley: and on Sunday, 15th, in the same churches prayer for his family and for this nation, "in affliction," was offered to Almighty God.

Rev. M. H. Horsey, pastor of Janes M. E. church, (colored) Chestertown, took the last words of the dying president for his text, and gave a wholesome sermon to a large congregation. The music and entire service were of a memorial character and highly appropriate.

The pastor of Bethel church, also made touching references to the death of a nation's chief.

AT MILLINGTON.

Memorial services were held in the Millington M. E. Church South, in memory of our much-beloved and honored martyred President, William McKinley, Thursday afternoon, at 2.30 P. M. The services were opened by the congregation singing, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," Rev. E. C. Sunfield, of Asbury M. E. Church, leading in prayer. After this a portion of Scripture was read by the pastor, Rev. Isaac Rider. The congregation sang the President's favorite hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light." Revs. Sunfield and Rider made beautiful and touching addresses, speaking of his noble character and beautiful christian life. Rev. Rider, who had charge of the meeting, asked any one present to make addresses; Messrs. Joseph Mallalieu and G. B. Taylor responded. Mr. Mallalieu spoke of the National Convention held in Chicago in 1888, when he was a delegate, and had the honor of being present when Mr. McKinley was nominated for the presidency, and of the beautiful manner in which he declined, saying,—"My time has not yet come." Mr. Mallalieu's address was very interesting and touching. Mr. Taylor spoke very impressively, and ended by using Mr. McKinley's last words on earth, "Thy Will Be Done." The services were closed by the congregation singing the hymn which the President sang on his death bed, "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Many homes were draped with flags and black drapery. Several large flags were at half mast heavily draped.

Memerial services for our lamented and honored late President, William McKinley, will be held in the Asbury M. E. Church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. C. Sunfield. His subject will be, "A Great Man Fallen." All are invited to attend these services.

The Y. W. C. T. U. will hold a public service in Asbury M. E. Church Sunday evening, September 22. An interesting program has been prepared, consisting of music, recitations and addresses. The Union hopes to have a large attendance.

HONORS TO THE DEAD

In honor to the dead, and by order of the county school board all of the public schools were closed on Thursday, and in many cases flags were at half-mast and other marks of sorrow were seen at the public schools.

At Washington College all exercises were suspended and memorial services of a most interesting character were held in the college chapel. The members of the faculty made short addresses. While some of the teachers held views politically opposed to those of the dead president, all condemned in most emphatic terms the dastardly deed of the misguided anarchist. Mr. McKinley's personal character was highly enlogised. The students were cautioned against imbibing anarchistic principles and exhorted to cultivate a love of country which would tend to make them pure statesmen should they ever enter the field of politics.

In Chestertown flags were at half-mast, all public offices were closed, and nearly every store and other places were closed, some during the entire day and others during only the afternoon. Church bells tolled and on every hand were marks of respect to the distinguished dead.

AT BETTERTON.

Deep gloom was cast over Betterton Saturday morning when her residents awakened and were forced to receive the sad intelligence that President McKinley was dead. News reached here at 4 A. M. over the long-distance telephone from Baltimore, and was received by Mr. Howard Turner. Flags were immediately displayed at half-mast in respect to the martyred President. Sunday afternoon Rev. T. F. Beauchamp, pastor of our church, preached an eloquent sermon on the assassination of Mr. McKinley, taking as a suitable text, Hosea 13-12, embodying in his discourse the unswerving loyalty and devotion to his country, and the high Christian character of the man as shown in both his private and public life. "Nearer, my God, to Thee," the favorite hymn of the dead President, was sung at the opening of the service, also "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." The public school was closed on Thursday, the day of the funeral, by order of the school board, and the flag floated at half-mast over the building.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.
