NOTHING SLOW about the farmers of Kent. Finding that the market was overstocked with Keiffer pears, and the goosebone man predicted a hard winter, they put part of their crop into cider. The cider will act as a bracer these cold winter mornings, and is a good substitute for the real article.—Queenstown News.

SHERIFF GEORGE WARFIELD assumed the responsibilities of office on Monday of last week, and on Saturday changed the personnel of his deputies by dropping seven of the old deputies and appointing six deputies in their places. Among those dropped from the deputy sheriff list was Mr. E. E. Cooper, of Chesterville, this county. The sheriff received three hundred and fifty applications for office.

"PEACABLE ASSIMILATION" is still going on in the Philippines. The Filipino idea of peace and assimilation continues fatal to the health of American soldiers. But what do the lives of a few thousand American soldiers amount to in the presence of a "world power," and national aggrandizement? The latest reassuring bulletin from Manila, is: "Strong insurgent bands attack towns, but are repulsed by our troops."

RIGHT IN THE HEART of the great western corn belt panic prices for corn prevail. A Nebraska dispatch says: The startling price of 63 cents a bushel was offered for corn this afternoon and agents were immediately sent out by the Valley Stock Yards and Grain Company to buy up all of the 300,000 bushels known to be held in this vicinity. Offers of similar prices have been made at other towns near here, indicating a wide attempt at purchase. The price is higher than has been paid since the drouth of 1894.

THERE WAS NO WELCOME anywhere for Senators McLaurin and Wellington when the first caucuses of the Democratic and Republican congressmen were held. Both gentlemen stood solitary and alone—men without a party. Every Senator elected as a Democrat except McLaurin was present, as were also those elected as Independents and Populists, including Teller, who was elected as an Independent from Colorado. At the meeting of the caucus last March Senator Teller remained away. There seemed to be no welcome in either caucus for senator Wellington.

IN THE HOUR OF DEFEAT, Mr. Charles J. Bonaparte lifts up his voice in reassuring tones to the faithful. Mr. Bonaparte has been selected to personally conduct the republican contests in Baltimore city, and will be assisted by prominent city lawyers. In referring to the taking of testimony and pushing the cases, he has this to say: "In the counties arrangements will be made to place in charge, with authority to act, one prominent Republican lawyer in every county where contests are on. In counties where it is impossible to find a suitable man to take charge one will be sent from Baltimore."

IT IS TO THE CREDIT of Charles Sumner Post G. A. R, that it positively refuses to rent its hall in the future for any other than "respectable and quiet festivals or entertainments." Just so soon as the older and more respectable colored people succeed in teaching the younger and more aggressive members of their race, that just so soon as they become orderly and respectable they will be respected, just so soon will the key to the great race problem be found. Lawlessness and disorder, accompanied by an air of bravado and defiance toward the peace-loving and law-respecting members of the community, must ever prove a fatal obstruction to negro advancement and respectability. Congratulations are due the evident good sense as well as good taste of Sumner Post.

BOSTON, on Tuesday, gave General Patrick A. Collins, the democratic candidate for Mayor of the city, a plurality of 18,000 over the republican candidate, Mayor Hart. For the second time Boston has elected an Irish-born Mayor, the first being Hugh O'Brien, who won in 1884. In 1899, owing to disunion in the democratic party, General Collins was 2281 votes to the bad in his contest against Mayor Hart, but this year a decided elevation of the tax rate, a disregard of civil service rules in the conduct of the Street Department, and the letting of large building contracts without the customary invitation for public bids, turned what a week ago was predicted to be a close election into a veritable landslide.

IN REPLY TO THE QUESTION as to whether or not the circuit court has discretionary powers relative to granting a recount of the ballots cast at the last election in Kent county, it may be stated that the matter of granting or refusing the petition is entirely within the sound discretion of the court. The preliminary to a recount is the summoning of the judges and other election officials and the taking of evidence, when the parties demanding a recount of the ballots must show substantial grounds for their demand. Should they fail to substantiate their charges of fraud or irregularities, then the court may dispose of the matter as it considers best. Should the charges of fraud be practically substantiated, the court will pass an order setting forth a day for the opening of the ballot boxes and a recount of the ballots as prayed by the contesting candidate or candidates. Should either party except to the ruling of the court however, an appeal may be taken.

THE CONFEDERATE BAZAR which closed at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore this week, was one of the most successful ever held by the Maryland Daughters of the Confederacy. The proceeds of the Bazar will be added to a fund for the erection of a monument in Baltimore, commemorating the splendid valor of Maryland soldiers in the Confederate army. The people of Baltimore gave the Daughters of the Confederacy a generous support, and the proposed monument to the Confederate dead is now practically assured. The passing years add a sacredness and beauty to the Stars and Bars, the old flag which represented and still represents a cause which, though lost, is inseparably interwoven with the lives and destinies of a loyal and chivalrous people. Time has not and cannot change the love of the great southern heart. The Old Flag which was consecrated by the life-blood of the most superb type of manhood which the world has ever known, and which was at the close of the great struggle of the civil war folded with a reverence and love which marked it as the most holy emblem of a peoples aspirations, will always be held in reverence, and will always be loved with an undying devotion by the southern people. But that same feeling of loyalty and devotion which rises like a sweet fragrance from the past or clusters like immortelles around a lost but revered cause, will insure their unwavering devotion to the emblem of a great and reunited people. The flag which floats as the symbol of the Union will find no traitors among a people whose loyalty and patriotism are as rockribbed as that of the Southern States. The Stars and Stripes were conspicuous in the decorations of the Confederate Bazar.

THE OLD BRICK CHURCH.

The Old Brick Church, by Mrs. Marie E. Morrison, is just from the press and is an interesting sketch of one of the most historical churches in America. Mrs. Morrison is an aunt of Mrs. James Roy Micou, of Washington College, where she has on several occasions visited. The story of The Old Brick Church, is a delightful recital of the history of an edifice which still stands amid the sacred surroundings of Blandford Cemetery, Petersburg, Virginia.

In compiling the work Mrs. Morrison has brought to light much that is most intimately connected with Colonial America and the proud old Commonwealth of Virginia. The author says: "We gaze on this old ruin and imagination lights her magic lamp, and by its light we behold visions of 'belted knight' and 'ladye faire,' 'proud prelate,' and 'mail clad man at arms,' issuing from glove and 'good green wood, near.'"

Mrs. Morrison has taken the long series of thrilling incident connected with The Old Brick Church, and has strung them on a cord of most charming interest. The dainty little volume comes like a sweet breath of primeval summer to those who delight in ye olden story of religious and social life in the days, the memories of which will always come freighted with an unspeakable charm. The stern breath of war has blown with blighting fury against the historic old pile of brick and mortar only to add to its interest and mellow its beauty. To those interested in the religious life of colonial America, the little volume would prove a gift of inestimable pleasure and value.
