LOCAL MATTERS.

A HAPPY CHRISTMAS TO ONE AND ALL, IS THE WISH OF THE TRANSCRIPT.

Special Session of Court.—The date for the convening of the special session of the circuit court has been changed to the first Tuesday in January, at 9.30 o'clock, A. M., instead of the second Monday in January, as at first announced. All the members of the petit jury are expected to attend promptly.

Some Fine Sport.—Dr. C. P. Gilpin, R. D. Hynson, Esq., and Capt. Curtis E. Crane have been enjoying fine sport in Virginia. Dr. Gilpin and Mr. Hynson came home on Saturday and up to that time the party had killed about two hundred birds and two deer. Dr. Gilpin and Mr. Hynson brought the birds and one deer home with them. Capt. Crane is still in Virginia, and on Monday a fine deer was received by Mrs. Crane by express.

Pitcher "Jack" Townsend.—"Jack" Townsand, the Washington College base ball pitcher who has become a star in the national base ball world, has given sportsmen a puzzle of some kind which they are trying to solve. The Dover Delawarean says: "In a letter to a Washington friend, Pitcher 'Jack' Townsend practically made an affidavit that he had not deserted the Senators but would play out his two years contract. This leaves but Ed. Delehanty to deny the scare story."

The "Cracked Lip" Again.—The "cracked lip" horse disease which played such havoc with Kent county horses several years ago, has made its reappearance. Messrs. Jacob Shriley, J. F. Rice and Thomas French have the trouble among their horses. Mr. Rice, who has had considerable experience with the trouble, insists that it is due to the feeding of decayed or rotten corn, and advises great care in the matter of feeding corn to horses this season when the supply of spoiled corn is excessive.

Lost Her Money.—Louisa Smith, wife of Andrew Smith, the colored sexton of Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal Church, lost $18, her all, in a Chestertown store, the latter part of last week. The old sexton had just received his wages and his wife took a portion of the money and went into the store to make purchases. She placed her purse on the counter while she stepped aside to look at some articles and upon her return her purse and money were gone. No clue has been discovered of the missing purse and money.

Officers Elected.—Kent Lodge I. O. O. F. Galena, has elected officers as follows: Edward Bessman, Grand Master; W. B. Baker, Dep. Grand Master; James W. Chapman, Jr., Grand Warden; John M. Jones, Grand Secretary; J. Frank Plummer, Grand Treasurer; C. H. Elliott, Noble Grand; S Harry Todd, Vice Grand; Henry Parr, Secretary; B. F. J. Sparks, Treasurer; W. T. Hague, Marshall; Tilghman Shafer, Chaplain; Henry Parr, L. C. Hayes and C. E. Faulkner, Trustees; Henry Parr, Representative to Grand Lodge.

Mr. Ireland in Runaway.—Mr. James T. Ireland was painfully injured on Tuesday of last week by the breaking of the king bolt of the dearborn in which he was riding. He was driving a spirited horse at the time and so soon as the crash came throwing him heavily on the frozen ground, the animal dashed off at full speed. Mr. Ireland was dragged for some distance and was badly bruised before releasing the reins. The frightened horse, still attached to the front wheels, ran past its own home and stopped at Mr. H. L. Crew's, at whose gate the front running gear was demolished.

Hick's Christmas Forecast.—Hicks, the weather man, gives the following forecast of the weather from today until the New Year, so all may be on their guard. He says: "A marked return to storm conditions, with general rain and snow may be expected about the 19.h to 21st. On the 21st these reactionary storms will culminate in possible winter thunder, wind and rain, especially to the south, but it will be wise to look for a sudden change to snow, sleet and freezing, as the center of the low barometer works well to the east. Remember that all these phases of storm and change follow close on the heels of each other, all moving from west to east, and no part of the varying disturbances can surprise you. The warmer, 'beautiful days' just before the rain and snow will not deceive you, and the rain and snow will put you on the watch for the cold wave behind them. The last storm period for December and the year 1902 is central on Christmas day, the 25th. Storms of this period may have developed in the western sections by the 25th, but the central and eastern parts of the country will most likely have fair and moderate weather Christmas day. From about Friday the 26, to Monday the 29th, rain and snow will advance eastward quite across the country, leaving very cold weather behind them over most of the country as the month goes out."

Who is the Capitalist.—The Centreville Observer said last week: "A subject of much conjecture is the question whether or not the 'Bloomfield, farm, situated near Centreville, and owned by Mr. R. E. Davidson, has been sold or not. This is one of the most desirable farms in the county, and contains 477 acres of land. Col. John H. Evans made a bona fide offer of $40 per acre for the farm last Tuesday, and since, it is stated, Mr. John F. Godwin has offered $41.50 per acre for it. But Mr. Godwin has not put up the necessary forfeit, and the chances are that the deal will not be consummated, at least by Mr. Godwin. He claims to represent Kent county capital." It is positively stated that Mr. Godwin made the purchase later, and that, too, for a Kent county capitalist, the latter part of last week.

Amateur Burglars at Work.—Amateur burglars have been doing some bungling work in Chestertown during the past ten days. On Sunday morning when deputy postmaster Brown attempted to unlock the postoffice door he found he could not turn the key, and after some difficulty succeeded in removing the impediment which proved to be a piece of lead flattened out in the shape of a key. Evidently some one had attempted to unlock the door with a false key or was trying to get an impression of the lock and had broken the false key off in the lock. On Monday morning Mr. J. B. McIntyre of the firm of McIntyre and Hodgkins, whose store adjoins the postoffice, and Mr. William A. Carroll, the shoe-dealer, found that the lock to their store doors had been tampered with. Mr. R. J. Duhamell also found a broken piece of key in his lock on Monday morning.

LITTLE LOCALS.

*†*A large quantity of the stock of paper of Dobler & Mudge, damaged by the big fire in Baltimore last week is being used at the Chestertown mill of the American Strawboard Company.

*†*Kent county roads are reported as being in the worst condition for many years at this season.

*†*Dan, the fine old driving horse of Mrs. W. J. Vannort is dead.

*†*John W. Statt has been appointed keeper of Crumpton bridge.

*†*Deputy Sheriff Startt went to Philadelphia on Monday with the requisition papers for Dr. Hunt, but as the sheriff's name and not Deputy Startt's was in the papers, the deputy could not deliver them

*†*Mr. George D. Lofland this week moved into the pretty new residence of Mr. J. H. Sides, on Queen street.

*†*Mr. Clarence Bradley, formerly of Millington, is now conducting the blacksmith and wheelwright shops at Lankford.

*†*The strawboard mill has been obliged to close down because of a scarcity of fuel and straw.

*†*Chester League on Thursday night elected the following officers: Pres., Harry J. McWhorter; vice-president, John Masten; rec. secretary, George B. Twilley; cor. secretary, Harry Hodgkins; treasurer, Wm S. McDonnell; warden, Cordray Loud

*†*Travel over Muddy Creek bridge was resumed on Wednesday. Mr. W. S. Carroll, contractor, realized the inconvenience to which the public was being put and hurried the work.

*†*Mr. B. F. Crew killed two nine-months-old pigs which dressed 270 lbs. each. Who can beat these pigs? Don't all speak at once.

*†*The thermometer reached 12° below zero at Oakland on Monday of last week. The mercury reached 19° above, at Chestertown on the same day.

*†*Messrs. Stavely and Bowers, the Lynch's contractors and builders, are putting a new roof on the Chestertown ice plant of Mr. R. G. Nicholson.

SOCIAL PLEASURES.

A social event of last week was the reception on Friday evening by Mr Jacob T. Shallcross, at his beautiful home, near Sassafras, to the Kent Card Club. Those present were: Mr and Mrs. Bruce Massey, Mr. and Mrs. R W. Comegys, Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Dudley, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Massey, Mr. and Mrs. E. Thomas Massey, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Griffith, Misses Anna Cacy, Susie Sutton, Emma Spear; Messrs E Hurtt, Stephen H. Ford, Paul Comegys, Issac Gibbs and many others. An elegant collation was served consisting of turkey, oysters, chicken salad, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman B. Massey, of near Massey, celebrated the tenth anniversary of their wedding on Monday evening of last week, and it was a brilliant function. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Massey, Mr. and Mrs R. W. Comegys, Mr. and Mrs Bradford Dudley, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Massey, Mr. and Mrs. E. Thomas Massey, Misses Anna Cacy, Carrie Senickson; Messrs Paul Comegys, Jacob T. Shallcross, E. Hurtt, Stephen B Ford, Isaac Gibbs and many others. An elegant supper was served consisting of oysters, chicken salad, turkey, terrapins, etc.

The Misses Carolene and Helen Hynson entertained their little friends most delightfully on Friday of last week, from 7 to 10 o'clock. Miss Carolene's birthday was on Wednesday and that of Miss Helen on the following Mondy, so a pleasant social compromise was effected and the young ladies celebrated an Friday. The handsome old Hynson home was at the disposal of the merry-makers and right royally was the elegant hospitality partaken of. After dancing and many games, refreshments were served. The two young ladies in whose honor the entertainment was given, made ideal hosts, and their friends left wishing for them many returns of the happy occasion.

Mrs. Allan Harris entertained the members of Mrs. Spencer's boarding house most pleasantly on Monday evening.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Rydie Knight, of Baltimore, is the guest of Miss Lottie Wickes, Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. McMenamin expect to move into their pretty Washington avenue cottage next week.

Mrs. H. C. D. Wilkison, of Baltimore, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Barnes, High street.

Miss Mary Fennimore has been offered a place with the S. C. in the $1,000 daily contest.—Scroll Monthly.

Mr. Horace Constable has passed the examination before the State bar examining committee and is now a member of the profession of law. Mr. Constable pursued his studies in the law office of William W. Beck, Esq.

Mrs. William W. Beck has returned from a protracted visit to St. Louis friends.

Mrs. Robinson, after a several months visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs Harrison W. Vickers, left for her home in Denver, Colorado, yesterday.

In a list of eighteen students indefinitely suspended at St. John's College for hazing, is the name of "Burton N. Cooper, Chestertown." Who the "Chestertown" student is, no one seems to know.

Miss Irma Eliason has been the guest of Miss Glasscock, in Baltimore.

Miss Rebecca Eliason is home from a young ladies' school on the suburbs of Boston, for the Christmas holiday.

Mr. Thomas Whaland, of Baltimore, is spending the winter with Messrs. Haberlander & Fischer. Mr. Whaland is an accomplished musician and is entertaining the uptown folk these evenings with some very fine music on the accordion.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lambert spent last week in Washington, D. C., guests of the latter's neice, Mrs Clara Burga, at her splendid home on 6th street. Mrs. Burga was formerly Miss Clara Rawleigh, daughter of Col. Sam'l. L. Rawleigh.

Mr. Kent Lambert, of the United States Navy, is at home on a month's furlough. This young man has, during the past two years, seen war in its many phases on sea and land. He has done service in the Philippine Islands, China and other points. He was at the storming of Tien Tsin and was one of the very first to enter the gates of that city when it was taken. He talks interestingly of his travels and experiences He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lambert, proprietors of the Voshell House.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Perkins, of Germantown, are guests of Mrs. E. F. Perkins, Front street.

Mrs. Hope H. Barroll has returned from a visit to Baltimore and Philadelphia friends.

Mrs. Hiram M. Brown will spend Christmas at the fine old Carter homestead in Cecil county.

Miss Ethel Perkins, of Germantown, is the guest of Miss Irma Eliason.

Miss Charlotte Wickes has returned from a delightful visit to a friend in West Virginia. The lady visited was before marriage Miss Mary Willie Cavender, a popular young lady from Pennsylvania who spent some time with Chestertown friends.

Clarence W. Perkins, Esq, is the guest of his mother, Mrs. E F. Perkins

KRIS KINGLE BOYS AND GIRLS.

Only Space For a Few Letters—Others Will be Forwarded by Fast Express to the Jolly Old Saint.

With the great rush of news it is found impossible to print all the dear little messages to jolly old Santa Claus in the TRANSCRIPT. This being the case just a few will be given and the others will be forwarded by express. Old Kris will get the messages just the same, so the boys and girls need feel no doubt as to a response to their letters. We only regret that we have not space to print all of these interesting letters from the good boys and girls whom Old St. Nick will visit with beautiful gifts on next Thursday morning.

Here are just a few of the little letters from old Kris' mail bag:

Colemans, P. O., Dec. 8, 1902.

Dear Messrs. Editors of Transcript: Will you please be so kind to put my letter in your valuable paper? I want to ask dear old Santa Claus to bring me a express wagon and some candy and some nuts and some apples. I have two sisters and three brothers, they want something too. My father and mother expects to move to town soon; if I am in town please don't forget me. I am a good boy, papa says, when I am not bad. Yours respt.

Wm B. Ireland.

Betterton, Md., Dec. 15, '02.

My dear old Kriss: Will you please bring me a doll baby, doll-baby carriage and little iron stove, candy, nuts, oranges and bananas. My little brothers would like you to bring them a pair of boots, shot gun, candy, nuts and oranges and all things nice. We have been good little children, so kindly bring us that which we so much desire, Lovingly,

Ida Brice.

Millington, Md., Dec. 15, 1902.

Dear Old Kris: Please bring me a drum and a delivery wagon and a boy doll My sister wants a doll with brown hair, and a bath tub and a stove; trim our tree and fill our bags, and remember mama. Stewart Price.

Melitota, Md.

Dear Old Santa Clause: I want a broom and a thimble and a bureau and a table and a jack in the box and a jumping jack and a doll and a little game of Old Maids and a stick pin and a stove and a story book and a trunk and a pack of shooting crackers and an orange.

from Alice Kelley.

from Eva Kelley.

Kennedyville, Dec 6, 1902.

Dear Old Santa Claus: Please bring me a pair of gloves, buckboard, pair of gum boots, train of cars, candy, nuts, oranges, figs, dates and bananas. I have been a good boy, helping Miss Katharine to clean the store. I live at the hotel and we keep store. Don't forget me and Harvey. My name is Gilbert Rawley.

I forgot to say I wanted a sweater.

Kennedyville, Md., Dec. 11, 1902.

Dear Old Santa Clause: As Christmas is near I thought I would let you know what I wanted. Please bring me a big football, two packages of shooting crackers, pair of gum boots, sweater, popgun, candy, nuts, oranges, bananas, figs, dates and don't forget we don't live where we did last year, we live at the hotel. Please don't forget my brothers and sister Clara. Your little friend,

Harvey Rawley.

Still Pond, Dec. 12, 1902.

Dear old Kriss: I am a little boy 4 years old, I go to Sunday school every Sunday. Will you please bring me a express wagon, picture book, Jack-in the-box, nuts and candy and every thing you can. Bring me a horn too From your little boy, Bennie Robinson.

Still Pond, Dec. 12, 1902.

Dear Santa Claus: I go to Sunday school every Sunday, Mrs. Jump is my teacher, and I like her very much. I am a little girl 6 yrs. old. Will you please bring me a doll baby and doll baby carriage, picture book, horn, nuts and candy and lots of everything. Don't forget my Papa and Mamma. Good-by, from Ethel Robinson.

The spelling and punctuation of the quaint little correspondents have been followed as the most interesting features of the letters.

DR. TREW DEAD.

Prominent Young Physician Passes Away After Long Illness.

Dr. Bartus Trew, 315 North Paca street, Baltimore, a well known allopathic and homeopathic physician, died on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at his home, after suffering a long time from endocarditis, an affection of the heart, superinduced by an attack of rheumatism. He had been confined to his bed for ten weeks. The funeral took place at 1.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the services being conducted by Rev. Conrad Clever, pastor of the Third Reform Church, Paca and Saratoga streets. The services were simple and brief. The pallbearers were six physicians, chosen from the Maryland Homeopathic Medical Society, of which Dr. Trew was a prominent member. They were: Drs. Robert Miflin, Albert Wanstall, Clarence Jump, Waitman Willey, Delany Thomas and Thomas E. Sears. Interment was made in Druid Ridge Cemetery. Many of the floral designs which were the tributes of friends and relatives from the city and many from Kent county, where Dr. Trew was born, covered the grave

Dr. Trew was a native of Kent county, Maryland. He was born on March 12, 1869, at the family homestead, Providence Farm, near the village of Pomona, on Lankford Bay, a branch of the Chester river, situated about seven miles from Chestertown, Md. The farm has been occupied by the members of the Trew family for more than 250 years, and the deceased physician represents the third generation of the Bartus Trew branch.

The doctor's father, Mr. Bartus Trew, a farmer, who resides at the homestead, was in Baltimore when his son passed away. Dr. Trew's mother was the late Sarah Catherine Hamilton, of Baltimore city.

Dr. Trew was a resident of Baltimore about eleven years. He graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Calvert and Saratoga streets, in 1890, and then took a postgraduate course at the Hehnemann Homepathic Medical College, in Philadelphia. For two and ahalf years he was resident physician at the Maryland Homeopathic Hospital, Mount street, near Riggs avenue, which was then located on Paca street, near Mulberry. He was at one time president of the State Homeopathic Society, and was connected with the Maryland Homeopathic College, as professor of gynecology up to the time of his death.

Dr. Trew was married on October 26, 1897, to Miss Lillian Colton, daughter of the late Wesley Colton, and granddaughter of the late George Colton, a well-known citizen of Baltimore, and at one time police commissioner. She survives him with one child, a boy, Bartus Trew, 2½ years of age, who is the fourth generation of the name of Bartus Trew. The deceased is also survived by a brother and sister. They are Walter S. Trew, a farmer of Kent county, and Miss Kate Hamilton Trew, who lives with her father, Mr. Bartus Trew, at Providence Farm, Kent county.

In the death of Dr. Trew the medical fraternity of Baltimore lost one of its foremost representatives. Though comparatively young in years, the deceased physician, by reason of his ability and sterling character, had built up a splendid practice. He was an indefatigable worker and always quick to respond to a call, whether remunerative or otherwise.

With his patients Dr. Trew seemed as much a member of the family as medical adviser. There was always manifested that confidence in his skill which the average doctor admits is "half the cure."

During his long and painful illness the Trew residence on North Paca street, was daily visited by hosts of friends of the physician, all eager to learn of his condition and hoping for his ultimate recovery. Probably there never has passed away in Baltimore a man of the medical profession so greatly beloved and deeply mourned as Dr. Bartus Trew.

COLLEGE HILL.

The Adelphias Entertain—Senior Orations.

Last Saturday evening the Adelphia Literary Society, for the first time, opened her doors and entertained as her guests the Mt. Vernon and Pieria Societies, the faculty and others from the college and town. An interesting literary program was rendered to the enjoyment of all present. A very instructive debate was given on the subject: "Resolved that heredity has a greater influence on one's character than environment." The debaters were: affirmative, Messrs. A. S. Walls, and G. M. Merriken; negative, Messrs. H. O. Stephens and H. P. Porter. The judges rendered a decision in favor of the negative. The presidents of the Mt. Vernon and Pieria socities each made a few complimentary remarks upon the work and expressing the good-will of their societies. The meeting was then adjourned in favor of the social feature which was thoroughly enjoyed by all until 11 o'clock, when the guests took their departure.

The senior orations were delivered last Thursday in college chapel. The orators and their subjects were: S. Scott Beck, "American Prosperity;" Walter M. Carmine, "The Coal Strike;" C. Norman Jefferson, "Protective Tariff;" Arthur S. Walls, "The Nobility of Labor."

Most of the students left for their homes on the 2 35 train, Thursday; the others on Friday's boat. The college will open again on January 5.

DIED.

Mrs. Ada May Duyer, widow of the late Edward Duyer, and daughter of John L. and Anna Hudson, died at her residence in Fairlee, Monday evening, of consumption, aged 31 years. Funeral took place Thursday morning at 11 o'clock from the late residence of the deceased, Rev. W. C. Poole officiating. Interment was held at Still Pond cemetery. Undertaker John N. Dodd had charge of funeral arrangements. The bearers were: Herbert Lusby, Murray Smyth, Mahlon Lee, William Gale, Tilghman Hudson and Walter Barnes.

Leroy Usilton, formerly of Chestertown, son of the late Aquilla Usilton, died at his home in Washington, D C., Thursday morning after an illness of pnuemonia, aged 33. The deceased had been in a bakery for some time and was doing well. He leaves a widow and five children. He was buried in Washington.

William Hamer Russell, a former resident of Chestertown, died at his home in Baltimore last Wednesday of internal hemorrhage, aged 41 years. The remains were taken to Salisbury, the former home of the widow of the deceased, for burial. The deceased was a son of Capt. J. Hamer Russell.
