Mr. Hodges a Hero.

Mrs. William Hanson Hodges, well-know in Chestertown, and a prominent citizen of Baltimore, figured conspicuously in a thrilling rescue on the Chesapeake Bay last Sunday night. Capt. Samuel Biggs, of South River, Anne Arundel county, left Annapolis Friday night for up the bay in the bugeye Hattie L. Dugan. He encountered a heavy squall of Seven Foot Knoll, and without masts and with his food supplies at the lowest ebb, he was at the mercy of the storm. The captain with his crew dropped anchor and was able to save his sails and broken sticks and thought he would soon sight a tug to tow him to Baltimore. None came, and on Sunday night, when in the direst straits, Captain Hodges, in his auxiliary yawl yacht Dawn 11 come to his assistance and towed the captain and his disabled bugeye safely to port. The captain was very grateful to his rescuer.
