THE SECOND NATIONAL BANK

of Chestertown, Md.

"The Only National Bank in Kent County."

Capital	$50,000.00
Surplus and undivided profits	34,000.00
Stockholders' liability	50,000.00
Our security to depositors is	$134,000.00

We wish to make a comparative statement of our Individual Deposits, as sworn to in our reports to the Comptroller of the Currency:

Jan. 22, 1904	$430,585.32
Jan. 11, 1905	563,660.59
Jan. 29, 1906	621,584.11

This growth is due to the confidence the general public has is this institution. The Bank has never been in better condition, we have NO BAD DEBTS, only two notes in the hands of the attorney—both aggregating less than $600.00. We feel proud of this.

This Bank treats everybody alike. It gives to all, whether customers or not, every facility consistent with good banking.

Spring Clothes.

When you buy a suit of clothes, you're pretty much at the mercy of the clothier. The suit looks good to you, but then you don't know what's back of the looks. The inside making—the parts you don't see—is wh t counts, and you have got to leave it to the merchant's sense of honor to give you a suit that's properly made.

Our clothes are made especially for us. We know what's inside; you see the outside, and we guarantee every garment and to back up its good looks by giving good wear. The same can be said of Youth's and Children's Suits.

Yours for business,

J. D. LUCAS.

OBITUARY.

MRS. TILDEN COOPER.

Mrs. Tilden Cooper died at the home of her husband on the Merritt farm on Tuesday morning last at one o'clock after a short illness, aged about 30 years. The deceased was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Miller, formerly of Chestertown, and for some years prior to her marriage, she was one of Kent county's efficient teachers. The deceased was a young lady of charming manner, enjoying the esteem of a wide circle of friends, and ever faithful to the demands and attention of loving and aged parents. One year ago she married Mr. Cooper, and just as she had displayed those loveable and noble qualities which characterized her maidenhood days, so in her married life she was the devoted wife, and spent her days and hours in making an ideal home for those she loved. Her death is particularly sad, coming so soon after a happy union, and just at the time of life when there is so much for which to live. But "Thou hast all seasons for their own, O Death," and she obeyed the summons. She is survived by a husband and one child, just one week old, and a number of relatives, among whom Mrs. William Bonwill and Miss Sophia Miller, teacher of Lynch's public school, are sisters. Funeral services took place on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Albert C. Jamison. Interment was made in Chester cemetery. Undertaker Wm. H. Krusen had charge of the funeral arrangements. The bearers were C. W. Harris, E. M. Bonwell, Jr., Brown Hammond, Medford Rasin, Robie Rasin and Perry Rasin.

MISS ETTA EDWARDS.

Miss Etta Edwards died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Eliason early last Sunday morning, of peritonitis, aged 28 years. The community was shocked to learn of the sudden death of Miss Edwards, for while she had been ill several days, yet it was not known that her condition was serious. The deceased was a young lady of lovely character, and enjoyed the love and esteem of a wide circle of friends. Reared in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eliason, she had become one of their own, and enjoyed their confidence and esteem in the highest degree. Always unassuming in manner, the personification of modesty and refinement, she merited the love which she enjoyed from the family and the esteem in which she was held by the entire community. Like the flowers she loved so well, she had but bloomed into fair womanhood ere she withered at the chilling breath of disdisease, and yet like the

Vase in which roses have once been distilled
You may break, you may shatter the vase if you will,
But the scent of the roses will cling around it still.

So, though she had been cut down in her early womanhood, yet there remains the influence of a pure and lovely life, and the rose will bloom again bye and bye. She is survived by her mother, who resides at Melitota.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Eliason on Spring avenue, conducted by Rev. W. L. White. Interment was private in the Eliason lot in Chester cemetery. The beautiful white casket was covered with floral tributes—lilies of the valley—tokens of her many friends. The pall bearers were: Messrs. Wilbur Eliason, Jr., Thomas W. Eliason, Jr., R. Snowden Thomas, Charles S. York, Herbert E. Perkins and James W. Crouch. Undertaker J. E. Ferguson had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MRS. ALICE THOMPSON.

Mrs. Alice Thompson, 75 years old, of Baltimore, fell down the stairway of her home shortly after 3 o'clock on Monday morning and died a few minutes later. During the night Mrs. Thompson got up to go to the bathroom, and presumably was returning when she missed the door leading into her room and fell down the steps. The thud was heard by her son, Thos. F. Thompson, and he found his mother unconscious at the bottom of the steps. He carried her to her room, but she died before the arrival of the doctor. Mrs. Thompson was born in Ireland and had lived in Baltimore 48 years. She was the widow of David Thompson. Three daughters, Mrs. Jane Clothier, of Kent county, Mrs. Mary Graham, of Philadelphia, and Miss Annie B. Thompson, and one son survive her.

Auxiliary Meeting.

The annual May Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions of the Diocese of Easton convened at Emmanuel Church, Chestertown, on Tuesday, May 14th. Service was held on Tuesday evening and the sermon was preached by the Rev. Floyd Tompkins, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Tompkins conducted the quiet day for women on Wednesday. At noon on Wednesday and Thursday a lunch was served by the Emmanuel Branch at the Parish Building. The Missionary speakers were Arch Deacon Spurr, of West Virginia; Miss Stuart, of Virginia, Miss Richmond, of China, and the Rev. Peregrine Wroth, of Baltimore. There was a large attendance of delegates, and the meeting was an enthusiastic one.

Dr. Gault's Splendid Offer.—Dr. Gault, head of the Normal Department at Washington College, has offered, to take effect at the beginning of the next scholastic year, to instruct a class in the Chestertown High School, if he be allowed the privilege of bringing his senior class to the school to observe his methods of teaching. Such a splendid offer the school board was quick to accept, for it will not only mean much to the pupils of both the college and high school, but will be a normal instruction for the teachers in the public school. Dr. Gault is to be congratulated upon his work at the college and highly commended for his great interest in the high school. He will teach a class daily.

Kent County.

ONE OF THE GEMS OF THE EASTERN SHORE.

THIS COUNTRY'S RECOGNIZED GARDEN SPOT.

The Section of Fertile Farms, Beautiful Rural Homes, Diversified Agricultural Resources, and Progressive and Public Spirited Methods—Sketches of Some of Kent County's Thriving Communities, Their Trade Conditions, Their Popular Retail Enterprises, Their Owners and Their Methods.

KENT, one of the northernmost counties of the Maryland peninsula, is bounded on the north by the Sassafras river, on the south by the Chester river, on the west by the Chesapeake bay, on the east by the State of Delaware, and has a population of twenty thousand souls. From an agricultural standpoint Kent county is among the most resourceful on the Eastern Shore. Its soil and climatic conditions create and maintain the invaluable advantage of crop diversity, which is the great source of prosperity to the farmer, and which is a distinctive feature of this section. It is a feature in which the Eastern Shore, as a crop-producing section, excels, and Kent county enjoys its full share of this inestimable advantage. Throughout the county all the cereals are cultivated and profitably harvested, large orchards abound, yielding large returns in peaches, apples, pears, etc., and small fruits and vegetables provide profitable revenues, the proximity of Kent county to the markets of the large eastern cities providing the advantages of quick shipments and the higher level of prices. Tomatoes are cultivated largely throughout the county, and the quality grown is superior is flavor, size and general excellence.

Of late years the farmers of Kent county have shown a disposition to give more attention to the raising of cattle and horses. Throughout the county there are a number of extensive stock farms having herds of the Hereford and Jersey strains, as well as other species of the large and muscular beef variety adapted for export. Horses are also reaching a higher standard, special efforts being constantly exercised in this direction, and horse-raising is already another substantial source of revenue.

In a ride through Kent county over its roads one secures from the character of the farm houses, the farm buildings and other commendable evidences a correct notion of the thrift, industry and commendable pride that characterizes its farming fraternity. Many handsome homes, nestling cozily in spacious lawns and protecting shade and flanked by carefully-kept and neat-appearing outbuildings, constantly commanding the admiration of the visitor, each particular farm house vieing with the other in the care and arrangement of its appointments, and each presenting a creditable setting.

The educational advantages prevailing throughout Kent county are up to the most approved standards. The country schoolhouses offer the means for a first-class elementary education, and high school opportunities are to be found in the nearby larger towns. All the leading denominations have their churches, which are presided over by men of zeal and piety, and whose labors in behalf of christianity meet with the results of an excellent citizenship and the most fraternal relations among the people.

Throughout the county there are a number of thriving towns and villages which supply splendid market conditions for their immediate section, and a review of the conditions that prevail in these communities, as maintained by the establishments whose careers are described, is an important feature of this issue of the TRANSCRIPT. In all these towns and villages there has been found without exception a most remarkable spirit of enterprise and alertness on the part of the merchants and mechanics. Their stocks bear all the evidences of experience and judgment in their selection, and no effort has been spared to provide for patrons the best advantages to be found in the cities at prices below those quoted in the cities, for the expenses to do business are really nominal, and more than offset the cost of transportation. It is safe to say that One Hundred Dollars will go farther in any of the stores of Kent county than in any of the great department stores of Philadelphia or Baltimore. Kent county's people owe it to themselves to give preference to their home merchants. For the home merchant's taxes support local schools and churches, build and repair public roads and otherwise contribute to the advantages which all share. Money spent at home remains in the community for its development, and when spent away from home it finds its way to the pockets of those that will in no way, civilly, socially or from a business standpoint, sympathize with home interests.

As an agricultural section Kent county farmers enjoy the inestimable advantage of CROP DIVERSITY. They are more fortunate than the farmers of the South who depend on cotton, than those of Illinois, Kansas, Iowa and several western States that depend on corn, and than those of the northwest who have to endure a severe climate with not over two reliable crops. Kent county can produce all of the crops, and in addition fruits and vegetables. Its rivers and the bay offer a revenue from fish and oysters, and when these sources of revenue are considered Kent substantiates the claim of its sons that it is "the garden spot of all the garden spots of the country."

THE TRADE REVIEW WRITEUPS WILL BE FOUND IN THIS ISSUE ON PAGES 5, 6, 7 AND 9.
