IV. WI

RIS. TALL, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

POFTRY.

Written for the " Eagle." My Father's Grave.

Far away, far away, where the western hills Their blue-dyed summits show; Where the king-fisher plumes at the rocky rills As rapidly they flow; By the forest wide, where the dry leaves ride,

And the hoarse winds rave, is my Father's grave No stone is there, where his form doth lie, To point to in after years;

No kindred unto the lowly spot hie, To dew it with holy tears; The whip-poor-will's song, steals sadly along, And the night-hawk cries 'round the place where

There the ever-green pine grows wider and Its branches with cedar enwound; And the broom-straw is matted with wild running briar That creeps o'er the desolate ground: It has passed away, the red mound of clay, They drew oe'r the head, of my sire long dead.

They told me, they told me, that he would die, But I knew not what they meant The tear-drop gushed for awhile in mine eye, But the torrent soon was spent: For I was a child, merry and wild, Then I did not know of our dreaded foe.

He died; and they buried him, buried him there, Near the root of an old cherry tree, Whose black ragged limbs, sing a dirge in the

As the wind rushes by in wild glee. Far tway, far away, where dry leaves play And the tempests rave, is my Father's grave.

Up in the early morning, Just as the peep of day,

Country Girls.

Straining the milk in the dairy, Turning the cows away— Speeping the floor in the kitchen, Making the bed up stairs, Washing the breakfast dishes, Dusting the parlor chairs.

Brushing the crumbs from the pantry, Hunting for eggs at the barn; Cleaning the the turnips for dinner Spinning the stocking yarn— Spreading the whitening linen, Down on the bushes below, Ransacking every meadow Where the red strawberries frow.

Starching the "fixings" for Sunday, Churning the snowy cream, Rinsing the pails and strainer Down in the running stream— Feeding the geese and turkeys, Making the pumkin pies, Jogging the little on's cradle, Driving away the flies.

Grace in every motion, Music in every tone, Beauty in form and feature, Thousands might covert to own— Cheeks that rival spring roses, Teeth the whitest of pearls; One of these country maids is worth A score of your city girls.

POLITICAL.

boast that they do not talk one way at the win the desirable result upon any combi-North any another at the South, but that De- nation of those States, even if the whole mocracy is the same everywhere. We thank slaveholding States vote for him. His now. you, heartily, gentlemen, for that word. If De- best friends here will hardly claim it—his lowing blast from the New Hampshire Patriot:

"The Nebraska bill works gloriously and so suddenly and so easily for liberty, and men of all parties will be obliged to acknowledge with the intelligent and honest National Intelliend for the sake of peace and good feeling throughout the nation. yet truth and honesty reand South should change their positions and the North go for the bill and the South oppose it."

Democracy being now entirely sold out to Popery (and in fact wearing Popery's collar around its neck) we are next to hold that party all conservative masses throughout the free suppose it will be before the bonds of the Connell addressed to Irishmen in America in 1843, in fulfilment of Pope Gregory's abolition fact that he has ever been a vascillating the halls of the National Legislature? a specimen of the whole:

tincted slaveholding, and especially slave-trading, in condemned by the Catholic Church.— That most eminent man, his Holiness, the present Pope, has by an allucation published throughout the world, condemned all trafic in slaves Nothing can be more powerful than the Pope's There are many other reasons; but suffice gone down in the contest? denunciatian of that most abominable crime.

intentions of his Holiness. Let it not be said that your feelings are made so obstuse by the air of America that you cannot feel, as Catgolics and Christians ought to feel. this truth—this plain truth—that one man cannot have property in another, Irishmen, I call on you to join in crushing slavery, and giving liberty to every man of every caste and color." of that party's sentiments on the "vital question" whom we are to call up as witnesses, and they expressed themselves as follows in their guber-naterial Convention of 1844:-Resolved, That the people of Ohio now, as they always have done, look upon slavery as an evil, and unfavorable to the developement of the all power clearly given by the terms of the igate, and finally to eradicate its evils.

one of their leaders told Col. Bention—they ne- mand their confidence and cannot attract In advance, cessarily still hold on to the following anti-sla- their support. The South, then, has the Clubs of Six, one year, very views:

York, represented in this Convention, will faith- tween Buchanan and Fremont, or of a nafully adhere to all the compromises of the Constitution, and maintain all the reserved Rights of the States—they declare since the crisis has arrived when that question must be met-that Uncompromising Hostility to the extension of slavery into Territory now free, which may hereafter be acquired by any action of the Govern- speak plainly because I feel deeply. ment of the United States."

Such, good reader, are the abolition elements in the Cincinnati Convention, and such are the in eudeavors to elect Mr. Buchanan.

From the Frankfort Commonwealth. Letter from Hon. Humphrey Marshall. Washington, Aug. 25, 1856, with your urgent request, that I should be present at the Union meeting of the citi- | sequence of the sectional contest now,zens of Ohio and Kentucky, at Cincinnati | Men may smile at such a conclusion, and and Covington, on the 27th inst. But, doubtless many good men will, but I never my duty as a representative of the people, was more earnest than I am now, and nevforbids my absence from a single vote to er was more thoroughly convinced of the be taken at this extra session of Congress, truth of my conclusions than I am now and I shall not be absent from one, if my while writing this. life is preserved, should the session last until next March.

If I were with you, I should say to my countrymen, that the safety of the republic depends upon the election of Millard Fillmore to the Presidency, and that, in my humble opinion, if they are not wise enough to determine the matter in that way, they will not be wise enough to save the Union.

I do not write thus because of mere personal admiration for Mr. Fillmore, nor because I suppose he alone has wisdom enough to administer the government through a period of difficulty, but because he is the representative of concord and harmony between the great sections of our country, while his competitors aspire to rule, each backed substantially by a sectional party, only, and each hoping to succeed by solidifiying sectional interests sor as to win by it.

holding State. He may have a ticket in one or more, but every one knows that the most sanguine of his supporters claim but a few thousand for him in the whole range of those States. On the contrary, he has become the exponent of an immense body of voters in the free States, and his friends in those States claim his election as a matter which time will render certain, and which they are determined to accomplish, States 176 votes—149 are necessary to a may be split between Buchanan and Fillmore. If he looses Ohio and New Jersey -or if he looses Pennsylvania and Cal fornia, or Indiana, Illinois and Connecticut, the same result will follow. It Coalition of Democrats and Abolionist | useless to say to you that Mr. Buchanan

If you be Catholic you should devote your it the fact is as I state it, and all candid Oh, my mind contemplates that future States, then, prefer to enter upon the sec- ment bids me look it in the face as a dantional contest with Mr. Buchanan as a ger which is imminent and approaching.leader, they will support him, and leave We have one hope. This government Mr. Fillmore's friends throughout the free was based upon the idea of the virtue and States to withdraw altogether from the vote intelligence of the people, and the people or to take care of themselves in the sec- are now the arbiters of their own fate. tional contest which is to come off; for I the idea of our forefathers was correct, the The Ohio Democracy are the next exponent say it boldly, that if nothing will do but a people will intervene to save their institusectional contest, the men of each section | tions; if it was erroneous, or we have bewill adhere to their section, and no human come too degenerate to practice upon force can prevent it. because Southern people, following the ad- ture in the book of Time." If Mr. Fill- of the day. This is a little method of dovice of Southern Democrats, choose it, and more prevails, we shall have a prospect of ing the thing which few of our readers guise. I mean to ascertain. will not avail themselves of the chance sunny skies and fair weather for our future have been aware of. that is offered to them of electing a man voyage; if he does not, my humble opinion and that, entertaining these sentiments, they of sound national character, whose former is, the storm we now dread will prove a administration of the government was pre- gentle breeze to the hurricane that will national compact to prevent it influence, to mit- servative of all their rights, yet who was overwhelm us. the favorite of all the conservative masses The sentiments of the favored division of the of the free States, and who could again New York Democracy are to be given now, and command their suffrages, if they saw any Hon, E. B. BARTLETT.

AMERICAN EAGLE as they swallowed the Cincinnati platform only corresponding effort on the part of the as they would Ipecac—to throw it up again—as slave States. Mr. Buchanan does not com- Price of subscription for "American Eagle" choice fully and fairly presented to it, of a "Resolved, That while the Democracy of New | sectional contest, by making the race betional struggle in which men of every section will act, by making the contest between Fillmore and Fremont; and as the South makes her bed so she must lie.

In the event of Mr. Buchanan's election I foresee a condition of things which will it in the slow placed ruffling of the waves—in with which Southern Democcats heartily united paralyze the energies of the government the cool and gentle breeze of heaven, that, in fluence and information has never seen it -protract the sectional disputes-involve | signal beauty, wasted me to a far off clime-in abolitionists with whom they are co-operating the country in civil, and probably in for and loud sounding bursts of thunder that aleign war, and end in the overthrow of the most shook the universe—amid alarming and Union, or in a struggle, renewed between the sections, on a lower platform of Radicalism than either of the parties-Republican or Democrat—now occupy. That is to contemplate only a protracted decline My DEAR SIR:—I wish I could comply of the republic instead of its speedy dissolution, which I believe would be the con-

If the Democratic and Republican parties have brought affeirs to that pass here. appropriations necessary for the common defence, what hope shall we entertain that when that contest is transferred to the people, and they combined under leaders who ply every effort to deepen the struggle into one purely sectional, it will be less embittered than it now has become?— We are at a point where we may save ourselves: pass it, and we shall drift into a stream whose only outlet is a sea of anarchy. Have the people, the American people, the virtue to save their country by Mr. Fremout has no party in any slaveanswer propitious of a brighter future than that I now picture to my mind's eye.

public life, and I think no record can be feet of emerald and rubies, intermixed with found where I ever traced a doubt of the pearls, each of which was as large as an ostrich's perpetuity of the government. But I tell | egg. The throughad seven steps; on each side my countrymen plainly I do now doubt it, were delineated orchards full of trees, the and I look to the future with a solicitude branches of which were of precious stones, reand anxiety my bosom has heretofore been presenting fruit ripe and unripe; on the tops of if true-story: a stranger to. The people have all in trees were to be seen figures of plumage birds, The slave States have 120 votes; the free | their own hands. If madness rules the particularly the peacock, the etaub, and the kur_ hour, the slave States will reject Mr. Fill- ger. All these birds were hallowed within artichoice by the people. If Mr Fremont more, and will precipitate the catastrophe ficially, so as to occasionally utter a thousand looses New York he will be defeated, no we shall hereafter so much deplore. If melodious sounds, such as the ear of mortals matter how the vote of the slave States | wisdom prevails, the people will rally to | never heard. his standard, and will, by his election, reestablish confidence between the sections, and place the country again on the high road to a fulfilment of her proper destiny. There is nothing I have or hope for on this earth that I would not yield to save The organs of the so called Democracy often cannot, if left to struggle alone, hope to my country; and if ever there was a time or will be a time for a patriotic mind to publish its convictions, that time has arrived mocracy be the same thing every where, then enemies laugh at the supposition in utter or this Union cannot long endure. Al- step, the birds spread forth their wings and with derision and scorn, A few kind do towards the itch—as if it were catching. Southern Lemocrats are responsible for the fol- scorn. He could not, if report be true, ready the plains of Kansas are wet with made a fluttering noise in the air. On his touch- hearted people, it is true, bestowed aid; but The only shop in a neighborhood that peocarry his own State, without the contest the blood of our countrymen shed in its ing the second step, the whole assemblage of de- these were of the poorer class, who had ple don't want to trade with, is the one were triangular, and unless it be the case matricidal war, and think you it will sink mons and fairies and men repeated the praise of hard work to procure their own daily bread; belonging to a "female widder" with a dotriumphantly for freedom. No act of any Pre- in Illinois, he could not hope to win in in the ground? Already are bands of the Deity. sident or any Congress has secured so much and any of the remainder of the combination. armed men rushing to conflict to maintain If Mr. Buchanan continues a candidate, or overthrow a system of social and do- were heard addressing him in the following gave a small pittance from their scanty Queer, isn't it? he may impair or utterly defeat Mr. Fill- mestic polity hereafter to obtain in the manner: "Son of David, be thankful for the bles- store. gencer, and on the day after the passage of the more, but if he were withdrawn or aban- State of Kansas when organized Think ing which the Almighty has bestowed upon bill, although they opposed it from beginning to doned, Mr. Fillmore's election would be you this state of things is to continue and you." The same was repeated on his reaching on _____ Beach. They were mostly afraid to ride, for fear of the horse running away triumphant and most easy of accomplish- yet the Union is to survive? Texas has the fifth step. On his touching the sixth, all the from the city. The disguised herress from quired them to confess their belief that the North | ment. He will carry New York, in all already voted men and money to sustain probability, under any circumstances; but one side of the cause. Other States may at the seventh, all the throne, birds and animals | She asked alms of some termed "upper were Mr. B. abandoned by the slave States | soon imitate her example, and when Mashe would carry it beyond any doubt, and, sachusetts and South Carolina have done in my opinion, would attract the votes of so, and others follow. how long do you responsible for that abolition letter Daniel O'- States. Mr. Buchanan cannot accomplish Union will melt in the hot furnace of exthis result. The reasons for this lie in the cited contests that will supervene here in allocution. We quote the following from it as politician, is now committed to ultra Mr, Pierce's administration cannot manschemes of policy which may and will age the people of Kansas now, when the "At all events, every Catholic knows how dis- jeopardize the peace of the country, and opposing forces do not number two thoushas taken the shoes of Gen. Pierce upon and, what are we to hope from Mr. Buchthe unfortunate state of things now exis- anan's or Mr. Fremont's administration, ting in Kansas, and touching the slavery when States shall have become partisans, agitation that now distracts the country and the flags of heavy forces shall have of Twelve, one year, of Twenty, one year, Payable in each case in advance. Persons wh et up clubs are entitled to a copy gratis.

Yours, very sincerely. HUMPHREY MARSHALL.

MISCELLANY

GLORY OF GOD.

Oft when plowing the mighty deep, I've beheld vivid flashes of lightning, which threatened to fire our bark—ay! at a time when fancy pictured to my imagination the jewelry of old ocean as my tomb, and for my dirge the eternal music of its roar. Then, again, with wonderous gaze, I have viewed it in the final abatement of the storm—in the ceasing of His anger who rules the waves; in the grand and renovated splendor of the brightening sky; in the returning brillancy of millions of stars; in the majestic and vn- | night I had a dream which caused paralleled beauty of the luminary of night; and in the lovely tranquility of the winds:

"The winds were awed, nor dared to breath

The air seem'd never to have borne a cloud." Glory of God! Reader! thinkest thou that man, a creature of insignificance, can adequately up and knock. portray the glory of his maker? Dost suppose that he can dilate on that which is beyond, ay very far beyind the ken of erring martality?that the struggle in the legislative depart- The student, in the quiet and loneliness of his Teply. ment of the government between them, little chamber, may trim and replenish his midparalyzes the government and stops the night lamp and outwatch the slow-paced eve; the poet may call in requisition his breathing thoughts, and methodically array them in soul stirring and animated garb of eloquence; the orator may summon to his aid the beauty and power of that mighty intellect which God endowed him with; the learned divine, in the hallowed temple, may extend his hands, uplift his eyes, and bend his knees in the holy attitude of prayer, and in accents of thanksgivings, and of praise; but 'tis all in vain to correctly discuss a theme so eminently sublime and so superbly magnificent; so towering and so noble.

The Throne of Solomon.

The following account (says an exchange) of saving the Union of these States? That of remarkable piece of mechanism is taken from is the question that now presses for their a Persian manuscript called "The History of answer, and I trust in God to guide your Jerusalem." It purports to be a description of meeting to such a result as to make that | the throne of King Solomon, and if the details are correctly given, it undoubtedly surpasses any piece of mechanism produced in modern I am no croaker. Look back on my times. The sides of it were of pure gold, the

On the first was delineated vine branches, having bunches of grapes, composed of various sorts let, green and red; so as to render the appear- play and magnificence, ance of real fruit.

and formed of cast gold.

The nature of this remarable throne was such | wardrobe, bade her begone. These sectional controversies must cease, that when Solomon placed his foot on the first | She entered the country—here she met | on Solomon; after which two of the kurges des- thought it "served her right." cerded and placed a golden crown upon his

Before the throne was a column of burnished gold, on the top of which was a golden dove, waich held aloft, in its beak, a volume bound in silver. In this book were written the Psalms | you want. of David, and the dove having presented the book to the king, he read aloud a portion of Israel. It is further related, that on the approach of a wicked person to the throne, the lions were wont to set up a terrible roaring and time and best exertions to working out the pious men must acknowledge it. If the slave with absolute horror! And yet my judg- to lash their tails with violence. The birds also began to bristle up their feathers, and the assembly, also, of demons and genii, to utter horrid cries; so, for fear of them, no one dared be guilty of falsehood, but all confessed their crimes Such was the throne of Solomon, the son of

A SIMPLE RULE:-To ascertain the length | ing beside him, who after thanking of the day and night, any time of the year, generous donor, walked slowly away. it, double the time of the sun's rising, which ter being laughed at for so doing by his the catastrophe will show, instead of a gives the length of the night, and double If such a contest is to occur, it will be happy and free people, the "bloodiest pic- the time of setting, which gives the length gar woman, saying:

> what he meant by an honest horse. Why, sir, thus: replied the seller, whenever I rode him he always threatened to throw me, and he certainly never deceived me,"

Ethan Allen.

A good story is told of that rare old pa-$1,50 triot, Col Ethan Allen, whose services in 7,50 the "times that tried men's souls" were only equalled by his daring assertions of the right of private opinion in theological matters. A well known divine pastor, of the viliage church, called one evening on the Colonel, and while enjoying his true New England hospitality at the supper table, the conversation turned upon church matters.

Quoth the minister, "Colonel, how does it happen that a man of your extensive ine signal beauty, watted me to a far off clime—in his duty to join our society, You know the basis of the exhibition of the "Industral ally such laborers as you are. Your ex- has never been in print, and I here may tell it. ample would tend greatly to strengthen The Sovereign of one of the German States our hands and fortify our hearts against the dire assaults of the evil one."

> often thought as you do about the busi- | menced. But soon the exhibitor became perturness, and one day I had almost made up my mind to fall into the ranks, but that Napolicon had escaped, although he was safe

Ah! exclaimed the minister, "what did you dream?"

entrance of Paradise, and saw a man go cess II— "Then" said the king, "seach shall

The door was opened, and the keeper Well, sir, to what denomination did you belong down yonder. I am an Episcopalian, replied the candidate for admission.

Go in, then, and take a seat near door, on the East side:

him to take a seat. A large number were admitted, and re-

then stepped up to the entrance. Well who are you? asked the guardian. "I am neither High Churchman, Pres-

"The same," I replied.

"All right, Ethan," said he, "just step in and sit down wherever you please!"

Romantic Love Story.

Here is quite a romantic—and strange,

so disgusted with a flattering set of soft and forms a thicker layer on the crown of the pated, pomatum-haired, moustache-lipped tooth, and at pasts where the teeth come in constrongly-perfumed suitors for her hand, that she shut herself from the fashionable world, turned all her property into money | teeth, and seem to protrude from the ivory bedeposited it in banks, donned a cheap neath, in innumerable filiform points, giving to wardrobe, put on a mask, and went, pe- penetrate and pervade, a beautiful velvety apof precious stones, fashioned in such a manner destrian-like, through the city in which pearance. It is supposed however, that the enas to represent the various colors of purple, vio- she had hitherto moved with so much dis- amel has neither blood vessels nor nerves, in its

On the second step, on each side of the throne knelt at her foet, and sued for her hand. — ture of the interior or osseous portion of the were two lions of terrible aspect, large as life, They knew her not, and casting a look of tooth, with which it communicates by pressure, scorn upon her veiled face and coarse

but they could not turn a fellow-creature | zen children, six of whom are without vic-When he arrived at the fourth step, voices hungry from their door, and therefore tuals, and the other six without breeches.

One summer day, a large company met have seen women so delicate that they were children of Israel joined them; and on his arrival | some cause or other had wandered there. became in motion, and ceased not until he had | tens." They spoke tauntingly, but gave placed himself in the royal seat, when the birds, | nothing. What they said had been heard lions, and other animals, by secret springs, dis- by quite a number of their company. charged a shower of the most precious perfumes | Most of them laugheff or looked as if they | Earl of Wiltshire's dog biting his Holiness's toe

The beggar woman turned about and | dor. was walking sadly away, when a good looking gentleman stepped forward, and catching hold of her arm, thus spoke: Stay, my good woman,-tell me what want a sixpence—only a sixpence. You shall have ten times that sum.-Here, he added, drawing from his pocket lious to say something very striking in parting an eagle, and placing it in the gloved hand from the lady of his heart, consulted his dictionof the woman, 'take this, and if it is not enough, I will give you another."

She replied in a low trembling tone:

The heiress returned the eagle exclaim-

I want a sixpence, sir, only a sixpence, Seeing that she could not be made to take the coin, the gentleman drew forth a sixpence, and gave it to the strange becomrades, he set out in pursuit of the beg-

Perhaps she's an heiress, or angel in dis-

Not that he thought this. He wished to show his indifference to what his comrades said, besides satisfying himself about tleman, observed that he was an honest horse. the strange female whom he had aided,—and secondly, hollow-hearted. After the purchase the gentleman asked him He soon overtook her, and addressed her

I would know more about you.

As the speaker ceased, the mask dronped from the face of the female, and the beautiful heiress was portrayed before the astonished gentlemen That they were afterwards married the reader has already imagined, for the heiress used this means of procuring a worthy husband, and the generous gentleman had long been looking for an angel in disguise.

The happy husband is often heard to say that he got "an heiress for a sixpence."

FLEAS.

Fleas love the dark, and their dis-like of light combined with ther great muscular power, were commanded the attendance at court of one of these exhibitions, and the performance of fleas, some harnessed like horses, and others dressed "Well, brother," replied Allen. "I have to represent celebrated human characters, combed, looked hither and thither, searched through his repository, and stopped the performers; his me to when the acting began. "Where can he begone?" said the King. The exhibitor looked uneasy, but spoke not. "Teli me," said his majesty, interrupting his increased confusion, "whatyou suspect?" "If I may be so bold, your ma-"Well, I thought I was standing at the jesty, I believe he has taken refuge with prinbe made." and the princess retired. After awhile she appeared with a captive, who was Who's that? asked a voice from within, immediately put upon the stage. "But oh, hor-"A friend wishing admittance," was the ror!" the exhibitor exclaimed "he is not my Napoleon; he is a wild one!"

Writing for Newspapers.

Some think they cannot make an effectice article without ample space. They must have room to spread themselves. But small bullets often do great execution. A paragraph. pithily expressed, is often quoted from one end of the land to the other, becoming a byword for millions. In a few piquant sentences a keen writer may hit off a folly of the day, or repel a sneer Just then another stepped up; he was a infidelity, or put in a portable form an articles Presbyterian, and the guardian directed for relegion. Such an article is not light and frivolous, because it is brief. In that small compass may be packed a tremendous thought and power of expression. It may be as solid as a ceived directions, where to seat themselves | cannon-ball, and cut down everything before it We beg, therefore those who write for us to condense what they have to say in the briefest space. They might save us inflaite trouble by a little pains to pack their thoughts close tobyterian, Lutheran, Calvinist, Catholic nor gether. If an article covers four pages, let them Jew; but I am that old Ethan Allen, that write it over and compress it into two. Ten you probably have heard of from below." 'to one it will be improved by the change. And "What! the man that took Ticonderoga?" | it will save us the disagreeable task of criticism age, speak quied, use short sentences, never stop the reader with a long with a long ambigious word, let the stream of thought flow right on, and men will drink it in like water.—Banner.

THE TEETH.

The enamel of the teeth is one of the most curious substances in the human organism. It is a virtiform compound, sufficiently hard to strike A beautiful young heiress had become fire with steel; its surface is smooth and polished tact, than toward the cervix or neck. Its crystalline fibers, as seen through a microscope are tranverse to the perpendicular surface of the the more translucent medium which they thus matured and completed state, and that its forformation and its sensitiveness to touch are She asked alms of those who had of late dependent upon the vascular and nervous strucor transferred motion.

REP People act towards poverty as they 6G-A quaint writer of sentences says: "I —afraid to sail, for fear the boat might upset afraid to walk for fear that the dew might fall -but I never saw one afraid to be married!"

THE DOG OF THE REFORMATION,-The negotiaiions with the Pope for dissolving Henry VIII's marriage, which brought in the Reforma tion, are said to have been interrupted by the when he put it out to be kissed by that ambas-

Sin is never at a stay; if we do not retreat from it, we shall advance in it; and the farther on we go, the more we have to come back.

There is a firm in New York, the name of which is Lay, Hatch and Cluck. The clerks are presumed to be all Shanghais.

WA Frenchman, learning English, and anxary, and there finding that "to pickle" meant "to preserve," bade her farewell with the emphatic exclamation, "may Heaven pickle you."

Some people think the best way to cook tomatoes is to bake them on a flat dish, as apples are baked, and butter, pepper and salt "to

& A country editor wrote that a cotemporathe ry has taken a damsal "for better or worse."—

Af- His compositor had it "for butter and rice." 7 The ancient Greeks buried their dead in earthern jars, and many of these are found in the Crimea. The most perfect, large enough to contain six persons in a sitting posture, was discovered by some bee-hunters, who traced a bee to the spot and found the jar filled with homer

Eshionable society generally has

The Clevelander, Ohio, a very spicy Pardon me, madam. for pursuing you. well edited paper heretoforo independent has hoisted the Fillmore flag.