TO BEGIN IN SOMERSET COUNTY.

Shellfish Commission Maps Out Plans For Work.

The Shellfish Commissioners, accompanied by Captain Yater, of the Geodetic Survey visited Washington Friday to map out plans for their work in the oyster region of the Chesapeake bay. It was decided not to use the steamer Fish Hawk, but to live ashore and use launches in their surveys.

The survey will be started in Somerset county, but the date when operations will begin has not been decided on, because the appropriation needed to enable the commission and the Bureau of Fisheries to co-operate has not been voted on. The appropriation was a part of the General Appropriation bill before the House in Washington yesterday.

The Coast Survey is to co-operate with the commission. Captain Yates will be in charge of the work that the Coast Survey proposes to do, such as erecting signals over the stations and doing the actual surveying of the oyster beds and crabbing grounds after the commission decides on what beds are to be laid off. The part that the Bureau of Fisheries will take will be to detail their oyster expert, Dr. H. F. Moore, and furnish the boats.

The commission is of the opinion that council can be retained for the term of two years. The appropriation will be $25,000 and the commission feels that the attorney can be paid out of that sum.

Long Distance Jane.

An old farmer was skeptical as to wether people who were miles apart could really talk to each other over a telephone.

One day his wife went to make a visit to a distant friend who had a telephone in her house. During the afternoon the farmer visited a near neighbor who also boasted a house telephone, and who persauded the farmer to call up his wife as a little surprise.

Following instructions he put the receiver to his ear, and after the usual preliminaries, he shouted:

"Hello, Jane!"

Just then a flash of lightning caused by the heat of the summer day struck the wire and he fell sprawling to the floor. The neighbor was chagrined that the old man should meet with such an accident on his first trial of a telephone, and assured him that such a thing would not happen except in case of storms. But the farmer was convinced of the possibilities of communication, however, and would not try again. He rose to his feet and shaking his head knowingly, said:

"It's wonderful! That was Jane all right."—Ladies' Home Journal.

The thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Maryland State Teachers' Association will be held at Ocean City, June 26, 27, 28 and 29. The morning sessions at 9 A. M., and the evening sessions, at 8 P. M., will be held in the Casino. Committee meetings will be held in the Ocean City Public School. The Executive Committee has made every effort to arrange an interesting and attractive programme, and believes that this meeting of the Association will prove as profitable to the members as the meetings of previous years: the Committee ventures the hope that in some respects, in which it has departed from the usuage of the past, this meeting will prove more advantageous. At each session of the Association addresses will be delivered by successful and distinguished educators, who will deal with subjects of interest to the teacher. The Committee is aware that in most, if not all, cases the speakers will give the Association the benefit of their experience at considerable personal sacrifice, and it desires in this manner to express its appreciation of this generosity. It confidently trusts, moreover, that members of the Association will show their appreciation by a large and enthusiastic attendance. The Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway Company has made a rate of $3 for the round trip from Baltimore to Ocean City. Tickets will be on sale June 26, 27 and 28, good to return until July 2.

A Great Army.

According to official statistics, as gathered by Commissioner Carroll D. Wright, of the Bureau of Labor, there are 140 cities in the country having a population of 30,000 and upwards.

In these cities there were, in 1898, 294,820 people arrested for drunkenness, almost ten times as many as now comprise our army in the Philippines.

If this great army of drundards were marshaled for a parade, marching twenty abreast, it would require four and one-half days, marching ten hours a day, for them to pass a given point. And these 295,000 drunks do not include the arrests for "disorderly conduct," "assault" and a dozen other offences which grow out of the legalized rum business. The total arrests for all causes in these cities was 915,197. Counting the moderate estimate of three-fourth of these being the victims of lawful saloons, it would require more than a week's marching twenty abreast, for the great procession to stagger past a reviewing stand—and the rum product of only 140 cities heard from.
