WHAT IS SAID BY THOSE USING THE DEERING CORN HARVESTER.

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Aug. 22, '06.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER CO.,

Sirs -I purchased of Smith & Graham, your local agents, one of your Deering Corn Harvesters. I used it in all kinds of corn, light, heavy, weedy and wet, and it handled it very satisfactorily. I found that it was decidedly the cheaper way to cut my corn.

J. FRANK LEAVERTON.

TOLCHESTER FAIR.

AWARD OF PREMIUMS.

Racing Good on Thursday and Friday.

The tenth annual fair for Kent, Queen Anne and Cecil counties opened at Tolchester Tuesday. Though it rained at times, there was a fair attendance from Baltimore, Annapolis and the counties. Large crowds were in attendance on Thursday and Friday. It is estimated that from ten to twelve thousand people were present each day. The racing on Thursday and Friday was exceptionally good notwithstanding the track was a little heavy.

One of the most interesting departments and one patronized greatly by the ladies is that for the household goods, presided over by Mrs. J. P. Nicholson and Mrs. Barkley Kilbourn. Knitting, croquet quilts, tatting, hemstitching, royal art embroidery, silk and worsted quilts, for which premiums will be given, were display in profusion, filling one large hall.

A 74-YEAR-OLD QUILT.

Another interesting exhibit in this hall was a quilt 74 years old made from an old French calico dress and white shirts, and is still perfect.

In the school department, counducted by Messrs. F. G. Usilton and T. D. Bowers, there was a display of maps, penmanship and free-hand drawing and specimens of native woods of Kent county.

The boys and girls of the Chestertown High School, Mr. Owen C. Blades instructor, made a fine showing of Venetion iron work, water-color paintings, pen-and-ink sketches and charcoal drawings.

Carl Bordley, 14 years old, sent on some drawings that display great talent for one of his age. The girls of the school had a fine display of household goods.

PICTURE IN COLORED SUGAR.

The children of the Kent county public schools showed burnt-wood work, doll clothes, charcoal and crayon drawings. Mr. Armiger, of Baltimore, had a remarkable picture of a hunting scene made out of colored sugar.

The display of preserves, jellies, pickles and catsup was tempting.

Prize pumpkins, squashes, watermelons, corn as long as your arm, tomatoes and every vegetable known in the State were there by the hundreds and all looked worthy of the blue ribbon. While the display of potted plants and cut flowers was good, the heavy rains of the season did not permit the growers to do themselves full justice.

SELF-BINDERS AND NEW PLOWS THERE.

In the machinery department there are all the latest-improved self-binders, plows, drills, harness and other appliances expected to make a farmer's life happy.

The exhibit of poultry and fancy pigeons is extensive. One Polish rooster was valued at $250 and will be shipped to New York for the show there next week.

BLOODED STOCK IN PLENTY.

In the cattle pens Mr. Vincent Lee showed a herd of graded cattle, as did Mr. Page Gale. Twenty high-grade ewes were entered in a competition by different parties.

Three standard-bred 2-year-old colts will give the judges some trouble to pick the winner. Mares, with suckling colts by their side, mules and teams of work horses filled many of the stalls. Among them was Wm. T. Nicholson's 3-year-old Belgian stallion that weighs 1,800 pounds.

THE RACES.

There were three races on the card, Two events were for harness horses and one for the runners. Continous showers caused a postponement of the start from 1.30 to 3 P. M. Then the rain was still falling, and after a heat in each harness race this line of sport had to be postponed until 1.30 P. M. Wednesday.

There was a good attendance despite the rain and Superintendent Noland gamely decided that the races should be continued as long as it was possible to carry them on, and he established a precedent by starting a valuable colt of his own in the first race. Only one horse scratched in the two harness races, but scratching was the order in the running races, there being but three out of twelve entries to go to the post.
