JEFFERSON,

THE LADIES STORE. CHESTERTOWN, MD.

Talk Here is Backed by Deeds

TWICE A YEAR almost every retail establishment has a grand clearance sale in which all odds and ends of a six months' accumulation of business must be swept away by the mighty brooms of little prices for dependable goods.

If you reflect you will recall how the wise buyers feasted on the bargains in our January sale of winter wearables, and now, as the morn of August dawns upon us we offer you the remains of our Summer goods.

The advance guard of Fall Stocks will soon be trooping in—they need the shelf and counter room taken up by the fag ends of Spring and Summer stocks—the latter must be rid of—there is one way to do it and that is by placing upon them prices so small as to induce every bargain-loving man, woman and child, within a reasonable radius of our store to visit us. The wee small figures are on 'em—they will move. Get in line.

Ladies White Shirt Waist Suits During the month of July we had a special sale of these garments at ¼ off selling price and the majority of them were closed out—there is just a few of each left—say two dozen in all—the $3.00 ones on up to $6.50 are in one bunch—well, just two dozen lucky ladies will wear these suits. First come, first served.

TRIMMED HATS of the latest summer designs are also included in this great August Clearance Sale. All you need to do is to call, look them over, try them, pick out one according to your liking, one that you look pretty in, then notice the ticket on inside, the figures are plain, cut in (½) half, and the hat is yours. Remember, we carry nothing over from one season to another, and they must go. "To grow rich means to embrace opportunities." This is your opportunity.

Peach Crop 2,000,000 Baskets Short.

Chas. E. Kingston, division freight agent of the Pennsylvania railroad, whose headquarters are in Wilmington, Thursday, announced that the peach crop this year on the Delaware and Maryland peninsula falls 2,000,000 baskets below the railroad's estimate. Mr. Kingston's district embraces the Delaware, Maryland and Central divisions. He says:

"Our movement of peaches this year has been far below that of 1904. Last year the crop was a failure, but this year we expected shipments amounting to 3,000,000 baskets. Our movements, however, show not much over a million baskets. This has been a great disappointment to us and we share losses with the fruit growers.

"After escaping everything known to be destructive, the peaches almost reached maturity when they were attacked by blight and wet weather. The same adverse weather conditions tended to decrease other crops. As a result we have not been taxed on the peninsula to the extent that we were last year."

On several days during the past fortnight, however, the shipments of agricultural products of the Delaware division have been particularly heavy.

*†*The supper and festival at Wesley Chapel on Thursday evening was attended by a large crowd and a big sum was made for church purposes. St. Paul's supper will be held next Tuesday evening. Do not forget it.

KENT A GREAT HORSE COUNTY.

Col. Robert M. Laycock, whose writing makes the Philadelphia Record the leading daily paper on horse-topics, was a daily attendant at the fair. The impressions made on Col. Laycock by the local horses were most favorable, and, because of the colonel's wide acquaintance in the horse world, are likely to be of great value to this section. From the Philadelphia Record on Monday last the following was taken:

"The Eastern Shore of Maryland, which includes the counties of Queen Annes, Kent, Talbot, Somerset, Caroline, Dorchester, Wicomico, Cecil and Worcester, is the home of a host of sturdy and prosperous farmers, who are great horse-lovers. Nearly every farmer, in addition to the usual crops, raises horses and has a roadster, usually a pacer, that is capable of stepping twelve miles an hour over any sort of a road, be they dry or muddy. The breed has great endurance and is said to have originated long ago from the Virginia saddle horses and bred back to the Black Squirrels, Montroses, St. Lawrences, Tankerville and other early imported saddle and running breeds.

"Some of them have improved in late years and show the Walker Morrill, Belton and Happy Russell blood in their make-up. These facts are known to the Eastern Shore folk, but ask them the breeding, and they will invariably claim they are Messengers or Hambletonians.

"During the past decade there has been a tendency to improve the stock all along the Shore, and the result has been highly satisfactory, especially for racing purposes, and there is no section of the country outside of Kentucky where as many fast youngsters can be picked up. Take, for example, the get of Sidney Prince, Victor Russell, Belton, Happy Russell, Marvelous, Happy Allen, Fal-Medium, Myrtleton and Lord Harford.

"At the Tolchester Fair last week farmers were on the alert for good stallions to breed to next season, but were somewhat disappointed in not having any to inspect. A prize class for stallions should be at every county fair and will be in the future at Tolchester and Timonium if the managers have an eye to business."

There is no man in the county who has done more to create a healthy sentiment among the horsemen of the county for good stock than Mr. D. B. McMenamin. Himself a lover and owner of fine horseflesh, he has by pen and deed brought into the county that character and quality of stock which has improved conditions and which has been the means of inducing others to seek thoroughbred stock from which to breed good strains of horseflesh. He is the proud owner of Belton, than whom no more aristocratic blood has ever set foot upon Kent soil. There is better and more highly bred stock in Kent to-day than ever before, and it would pay one to come here for purchases of fine horses.

Hicks' Forecasts for September

A regular storm period is central on September the 1st, beginning in August and extending to the 4th. Change to storm conditions will be advancing from western sections as we enter this month. By the 2nd, low barometer, cloudiness and rain will be developed, and during the 2nd to the 4th these disturbances will progress eastwardly to the Atlantic. They will reach their highest degree of activity and precipitation on the 3rd and 4th. by which date, rising barometer, westerly winds and change to much cooler will be following up the storms from the northwest.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 7th and 8th, but the presence of the moon on the celestial equator on the 6th will hasten the storm conditions of this period. A decided rise in temperature, falling barometer and electrical storms are very probable, to the south and west, as early as the 6th. During the 7th and 8th these storm condtions, attended by rain, bluster and thunder, will pass eastwardly across country to the Atlantic. The regular change to rising barometer and clearing, cooler weather will bring up the rear of these disturbances.

A regular storm period runs from the 10th to the 15th, having its center on the 12th. The storm period from the 10th to the 15th of this month will bring marked results in the way of storms and other phenomena. Look for the culmination of this period about Wednesday the 12th to Friday the 14th. Behind these disturbances, expect a decided change to cooler, with possible frosts along the northern sections.

A reactionary storm period centers on the 17th, 18th and 19th. This period is within the Mercury brace, is near the center of earth's autumnal equinox, with the moon in conjunction with earth and sun, on the celestial equator and near its perigee. On and touching the 18th a very menacing state of the barometer will appear to the west and south, the temperature will rise decidedly, and a series of active, if not violent storms will develop and pass over the country during the 18th to 21st.

A regular storm period is central on the 24th, covering the 22nd to the 26th. This period, in all probability, will bring the culminating storms of the present autumnal equinoctial period. The crisis of the period will fall on and touching the 24th, 25th and 26th. Be prepared for change to much cooler, with frosts in northern to central sections.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 29th, 30th and October 1st. The Mercury period is central on the 30th, reaching eight or ten days into October. Hence we may reasonably figure on the presence of storm conditions—falling barometer, rising temperature, cloudiness and rain—as we pass out of September, with conditions very favorable for a continued spell of threatening, stormy weather during the first week in October.
